FOUGHT FOR WATER METERS

Inside History of City's Recent Negotiations With the Water Supply Company.

CITY TRIED TO GET THEM

But President Bergen, of the Water Company, Absolutely Refused to Install Them If Desired—Gives Reasons Why in Letter to Councilman R. I. Tolles.

Although the fact was not brought out in the report of the committee on streets and sewers to the Common Council, concerning its negotiations with the Plainfield Water Supply Company in drawing up a new contract between the company and the city, the inside history of these negotiations shows that the subject of water meters was not forgotten. As a matter of fact, the representatives of the city did make a strong plea to the company for the use of meters by such as desired them.

The subject of meters was discussed when President Frank Bergen, of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, held a conference with the members of the Councilmanic committee, Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett and Consulting Engineer J. O. Osgood. At that time, Mr. Bergen was urged to allow consumers to have the meters if they desired them. It was pointed out that the company now had the right to and did put in meters when it so desired and the city's representatives asked that the plan might be worked the other way. Mr. Bergen positively refused, however.

Mr. Tolles, chairman of the committee, had already communicated with Mr. Bergen on the subject and, in Mr. Bergen's reply, will be found the reasons he had advanced against the use of meters. It is herewith in full:

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 29, 1902.
Ralph J. Tolles, Esq.,
Chairman Committee on Streets and Sewers,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir—I have received your letter of the 21st inst. in which you ask for an expression of the views of this company as to the terms of a contract with the city to take effect at the expiration of the contract now in force. You also state that your committee feel that some reduction should be made from the present schedule of rates, and also that the right to use meters should be allowed when demanded by consumers; but you make no suggestion as to rental for hydrants.

In reference to the rates charged by this company for supplying water for domestic use I beg to refer to my letter of the 24th of April, last, (page 4 of the printed copy enclosed), where it appears by a comparison of rates charged in neighboring cities and towns that the rates in Plainfield are now below the average, while the quality of water supplied and the efficiency of service are perhaps considerably above the average in other cities.

In regard to the use of meters, I have to say that this company has expended more than $10,000 experimenting with meters in Plainfield, and has been obliged to take many of them out. We still have about 200 in use and receive more complaints from parties who are supplied through those meters than from all the rest of our consumers. The proposition to instal meters is plausible—indeed, it would seem to be the only just way to supply water, but in practical operation small meters often fail to satisfy anybody. I do not known of any place where meters are used from choice, and not from necessity. They are installed generally in order to save water and increase revenue, and when installed, they give rise to many annoying controversies. In Newark during the past year or so about 5,000 meters have been installed, and the result, as I was recently informed, has been to increase the revenue of the city and diminish the quantity of water used, and also to cause considerable dissatisfaction among consumers. The time may come when it will be necessary to use meters generally in Plainfield, and then I am sure it will be realized that the present method of supplying water is the most satisfactory that experience has discovered.

The rental paid for hydrants in

INCIDENT AND FACT ABOUT "OLD GLORY"

Home Missionary Camp-Fire at Congregational Church by Women's Association.

HELD LAST EVENING.

JOHN M. WHITON GAVE AN INFORMAL TALK ON HISTORY OF THE FLAG.

Then There Was a Programme of Music and Recitations—Refreshments Followed—The Committee in Charge.

Under the auspices of the Women's Association, a novel entertainment was given at the Congregational church, last evening. It was entitled "A Home Missionary Camp Fire" and dealt with incident and facts relating to "Old Glory."

The feature of the camp fire was a talk by John M. Whiton, in which he gave a detailed and interesting account of the growth of the country's emblem: He began with the numerous small banners in use when the colonies were struggling for a foothold, thence by stages to the Revolution and the standards bore by the colonists and finally the present beautiful and beloved flag adopted by Congress. To assist is his story, Mr. Whiton showed most of the flags he spoke of.

One feature on the programme were violin solos by Miss Elizabeth Lamson, accompanied by Miss Margaret Tracy; selections by a quartette composed of M. C. VanArsdale, Stacy Raynolds, John D. Bailey and Dr. Frank Hallock and a recitation, "When the Flag Goes By" by Miss Annie Ellis.

Following the completion of the programme, refreshments were served and some time was spent in admiring and examining the pretty decorations which consisted mostly of flags.

In charge of the affair were the following committees: Programme, Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, Mrs. C. L. Goodrich and Miss Florella Clark; refreshments, Mrs. James Winan, Mrs. F. D. Fuller, Mrs. George S. Raynolds and Mrs. B. M. Laing. The decorations were arranged by Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, assisted by the young women of the church.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS.

Begin at the Park Avenue Baptist Church Monday Evening.

The evangelistic campaign will be opened in Plainfield at the Park Avenue Baptist church Monday night. Desiring that all might enjoy the privileges of the meetings, these have been thrown open to the public, and all are cordially invited to participate.

Monday evening Rev. C. E. Herring will preach; Tuesday and Wednesday, Rev. J. Madison Hare, of Jersey City; Thursday and Friday, Rev. G. M. Shott, of Scotch Plains. These eloquent speakers need no introduction to Plainfield. Next week, every evening, Rev. Dr. Peters, of Brooklyn, will speak. He is an original and intensely interesting preacher.

Touched Live Wire.

While climbing over a fence to which was fastened a live electric light wire, E. K. Allen, who lives near the Smalley Brothers' stone crusher, received a severe shock Thursday. His right hand was burned considerably. Allen had been cleaning the sidewalk and gutter, and in going over the fence his hand struck the wire.

Slowly Recovering.

Miss Laura Good, of Richmond street, who was taken ill with a fainting spell on Watchung avenue, Wednesday, and removed to her home in the ambulance, is just getting around. It is thought the effects of gas which a dentist had administered a short time before was responsible for her sudden illness.

Seeds From Japan.

Through the kindness of Namatora Tamioki, of this city, J. Hervey Doane, of Park avenue, has just received a package of flower seeds from Japan. Mr. Doane is looking forward with great expectations toward having some fine flowers.

Grand Lodge Officers There.

At the meeting of Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, Thursday evening, two candidates were initiated and the members enjoyed a visit from Grand Lodge officers.

Dr. Carroll to Speak.

Among the speakers at the annual M. E. church conference to be held in Salem this month, is Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue.

SMALL-POX NEAR FANWOOD

BUNKER HILL FARM PLACED UNDER STRICT QUARANTINE.

Carpenter, Brought From New York, Taken Ill While Working at the Farm Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, March 1—Bunker Hill Farm, in this township, was placed under strict quarantine yesterday afternoon by Dr. Westcott, of the Board of Health, owing to the development of a case of small-pox. Henry Hanson, a Swede, from New York, was brought to the farm three days ago as a carpenter. He soon complained of feeling ill. Yesterday afternoon County Physician Dr. Westcott was summonded to see the man and he at once pronounced it a case of small-pox. The farm was then quarantined and strict orders given not to deliver any milk until further orders.

Dr. Cooper, of Westfield, has been asked to take charge of the case, as many patrons of the dairy live near Westfield. Henry Ferris, also of Westfield, has been engaged as nurse.

The farm is owned by Henry A. Bunker, of Brooklyn, and besides being extensive, there are thirty cows, very fine stock, from which hundreds of people in the vicinity of Westfield and Plainfield are served with milk.

Dr. Westcott had the farm buildings and stock thoroughly fumigated and every person on the farm has been vaccinated. It is not believed that the disease will spread. Hanson did not have anything to do with the milk or handling of it.

The Plainfield Board of Health was notified last evening by Dr. Westcott, as a precautionary measure.

NEW QUARTERS.

Druggist Shaw Moved to 207 West Front Street Today—Ready for Business.

After conducting his business at the same stand for just exactly thirty-three years, Dr. R. J. Shaw removed this morning from East Front street to 207 West Front street. The moving occupied but very little time and within a few hours after entering the new place he was receiving his patrons.

In his present quarters, Dr. Shaw has ample room for his increasing business and with the improvements he is about to install will have one of the most up-to-date pharmacies in the city. An excellent feature will be a handsome onyx soda fountain which he will have placed in position next week.

GETTING NEW IDEAS.

Miss Waterbury, Teacher in Borough School, to Visit Yonkers Schools.

Miss Alberta E. Waterbury, one of the teachers in the North Plainfield public schools, left yesterday for Yonkers, N. Y., where she will spend a few days with friends. Monday, Miss Waterbury will visit the schools of that city, which are said to be model public institutions.

This plan of occasionally giving the teachers in the borough schools an opportunity of observing the methods of instruction in standard schools has become a feature of Superintendent Wightman's policy. The result of the teacher's observations are made known to her collegues of the teaching corps and in this wise many valuable pointers are put to a practical use.

KILLED BY LIVE WIRE.

Now Owner of Horse is Bringing Suit for Damages.

F. C. Phoebus, of East Front street, has retained William G. DeMeza to bring suit againts the Plainfield Electric Light and Gas Company for damages alleged to have been sustained. Mr. Phoebus' horse was killed on East Front street, Friday night a week ago, by coming in contact with a live wire of the company's system, which had fallen across the roadway.

Fire Department History.

During the coming week the booklet containing the history of the Plainfield fire department will be placed on sale. The publication is controlled by the Firemen's Relief Association. Wm. Addis, Wm. Newman and Wesley Dunn compose the committee having the matter in charge.

No Services at St. Stephen's.

No services will be held in St. Stepben's church tomorrow, because the edifice is being overhauled and is not yet in proper shape for purposes of worship. There will be no session of the Sunday-school either.

—Dr. O. B. Whitford, the dentist, will give up his office at 212 West Front street, today, and associate himself with Dr. Frank T. Clawson, of 517 Central avenue.

ARNOLD AND CLARK NAMED

Nominated for Borough Councilmen at Republican Primary Last Evening.

A GENERAL SURPRISE.

Robert Clark, Jr., Consented at the Last Minute to Run Again—J. K. Arnold Was the Dark Horse in the Field—No Opposition Made to the Nominations.

The disagreeable weather did not dampen the ardor of the Republicans of North Plainfield last evening, for they turned out in large numbers at the primary held in Saengerbund Hall. In all respects it was like previous primaries held by this party. That is, there was perfect harmony and no opposition to the one ticket proposed at the meeting.

Senator Charles A. Reed called the primary to order and Peter A. Emmons was chosen chairman. Francis J. Blatz was elected secretary. After the call was read nominations were made for the several offices to be filled. There was a little surprise when the Councilmanic nominations were made. Robert Clark, Jr., who is at present a member of the Borough Council, and James K. Arnold were the nominees. The former was nominated by Senator Reed, and the latter by Mayor Smalley.

It was understood by nearly everyone that Councilman Clark would refuse to take the nomination for a reelection, in fact he had so declared himself. His friends, however, presuaded him at the last minute to accept it and he allowed his name to be used. Mr. Arnold was the dark horse in the race, and few persons knew of his candidacy. He did not seek the nomination, but stood willing to serve his party and the borough if requested to.

Dr. J. H. Cooley was nominated for commissioner of appeal. When the question of nominating a justice of the peace arose, there was some hesitation for it was not known whether there is a vacancy to be filled. This nomination was laid over and will be filled, if necessary, by a committee consisting of Senator Chas. A. Reed, Mayor N. B. Smalley and J. G. McLaughlin, appointed to fill vacancies. The Board of Health appropriation was $550, the same as last yaer.

Immediately following the primary, Senator Reed introduced the matter regarding the McKinley Memorial Fund. The borough's share is $100 and it was desired to raise as much as possible. There has already been contributed a number of dollars, and last evening's effort resulted in the collection of nearly $15. It is believed that there will be no trouble in raising the balance needed.

SCHOOL PLAY.

Leal's School Boys Are Preparing to Give the Comedy "Jane" at the Casino.

Pupils of the Leal's School are actively engaged in preparing for the performance of "Jane," a comedy, which they purpose to present to the Plainfield public, Thursday evening, April 3. The affair will be held at the Casino, which has already been engaged for the purpose, for the benefit of the athletic association.

E. B. Smith, one of the corps of instructors at the school, is coaching the boys for the play and a fine performance is promised. This production attracted much attention in 1890 when Hawtrey, the celebrated actor, starred in it.

The caste is as follows: "Charles Shackleton," E. C. Hall; "Mr. Kershaw," G. W. Abbott; "William Tipson," Donald A. McGee; "Mr. Pixton," F. R. Horne; "Claude," D. H. Barrows; "Jane," E. A. Pinto; "Mrs. Chadwick," F. R. Simons; "Lucy Norton," W. M. E. Perkins; "Mrs. Pixton," N. P. Rogers, Jr. On the evening following the performance a dance will be given at the Casino by the Leal's School boys.

Honorary Members.

At the meeting of the I. T. C. Club, held Thursday evening, Robert M. Clark, Francis J. Blatz and W. N. Runyon were elected honorary members.

Back From Great Council.

The delegates to the Great Council session of the Improved Order Red Men, held at Trenton, this week, returned home last evening.

MANY HONORED HER MEMORY

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. E. E. WINCKLER.

Were Held Yesterday Afternoon From the Home on Westervelt Avenue—The Bearers.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Elmer E. Winckler were held yesterday afternoon from the home, 135 Westervelt avenue, where a very large number of sorrowing relatives and friends gathered to honor the memory of one who was dear to their hearts. The untimely death of Mrs. Winckler was a severe blow to the many friends. She was a most active Christian worker, not only in Grace M. E. church, but in several charity enterprises. Her generous nature was evidenced in the assistance she rendered, always so willingly.

The services yesterday were conducted by Rev. G. W. Gardner, pastor of Grace M. E. church. After reading appropriate Scripture selections, Mr. Gardner spoke of the life and work of Mrs Winckler. He referred impressively to her earnest work in the church, Sunday-school and choir, and of her untiring energy and zeal at all times to render whatever service she could. He also referred tenderly to her home ties, the bereaved husband and young daughter, left to mourn a loving wife and mother. At the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. Gardner offered a fervent prayer.

During the service two favorite selections, "St. Catherine" and "Nearer My God to Thee," were sung tenderly by Miss Etta Raybert, Mrs. F. M. Ward, Charles L. Lewis and E. E. Runyon.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, consisting of wreaths and bunches of roses and lilies. There were tokens from the Sunday-school class, teachers, Epworth League, Ladies' Aid Society and King's Daughters, of Grace M. E. church; also from the employes and stenographers in the office of the Steel Trust Company in New York, where Mr. Winckler is employed.

The interment took place at Hillside cemetery. The pall-bearers were John Valiant, C. E. A. Heywood, John Steiner and Charles Hardin.

DESCRIBED HIS HOME

Illustrated Lecture on "Japan," by N. Tamaoki, at Vincent Chapel, Last Evening.

Before a large and appreciative audience in Vincent chapel, last evening, Nabitaro Tamaoki, repeated his interesting lecture, "An Evening in Japan." It was, if possible, much better than when given in the Camera Club rooms a short time ago. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the First Methodist church.

The views serving to illustrate Mr. Tamaoki's talk are without doubt among the prettiest even seen in this city. They were taken by the young man himself and his uncle, who resides in Tokio. A Japanese artist was afterward engaged to execute the coloring and he succeeded beyond all expectation. Every detail is brought out plainly and they show so prettily that the audience breathlessly awaits the next.

The verbal picture of the flowery kingdom was greatly enjoyed as Mr. Tamaoki is thoroughly conversant with his subject.

NO CLUE.

Unknown Man Killed on Railroad Was Buried Yesterday.

The body of the unknown man found on the New Jersey Central tracks at Cranford, Tuesday, and thought at first to be those of William Corcoran, of this city, were interred yesterday. Nothing was found in the man's clothing which would help to identify him and it is surmissed that his name will never be known. The county authorities have taken the matter in hand and will do all possible to fix his identity.

L. T. L. Convention.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed for the annual State convention of the Loyal Temperance Legion to be held in the First Baptist church early in April.

Funeral of Michael Murphy.

Funeral services over the remains of Michael Murphy, who died at his home on Stebbins place, yesterday morning, will be held from St. Mary's church Monday morning. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Horrible.

According to the Passaic Valley News there has not been an arrest in the borough of New Providence for any breach of law during the past three years.

TEN PASSENGERS IN A TROLLEY ACCIDENT

All Were Shaken Up, But Escaped With No Injuries of Serious Nature.

BREAKING OF AN AXLE.

ACCIDENT OCCURRED AT RICHMOND AND FIFTH STREETS THIS MORNING.

Axle Came Up Through Floor While Car Jumped the Track—Some of the Passengers Were Heaped Up.

Six out of ten passengers in car No. 71 of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, had narrow escapes from serious injury through an accident which occurred to it at 8:45 this morning.

The car had just cleared the curve at Richmond and Fifth streets and was gathering momentum when the forward axle of the rear truck snapped in two. Almost immediately there was a grinding and crashing. Before the startled passengers could arise the car floor was forced up in front of them.

Counsellor George Ball, of this city, William Traynor, of Scotch Plains, Rev. J. Bergen Laine, of Westfield, and a young woman, who refused to give her name, were thrown about in football fashion, first from one side of the car and then to the other. Two others and four passengers in the smoking compartment were also badly shaken up. No one was seriously hurt, but all suffered severe nervous shocks.

The car continued to run for some distance after the break and then leaped the track. A wrecking crew was summoned from the local car barns and it was replaced and temporarily repaired after two hours work.

The car was in charge of Motorman Henry Homan and Conductor George Ryder, of this city.

BOUGHT OUT M'VEY.

Important Deal, Made by A. B. Roselle, Will Consolidate Rival Interests.

An important real estate and business deal was consummated this morning, involving the premises on North avenue from No. 117 to 127, in which McVey's restaurant and hotel and the Cafe Rosell are located. The buildings and business of the former have been purchased by Mr. Rosell who will conduct it as a first class hotel. The annex on the opposite side of the street is not included in the deal. Unless the unexpected happens the final papers will be signed this afternoon and the place will be in Mr. Rosell's charge the first of the week.

GIVEN LOVING CUP.

Clerks at Crosby & Hill's Store Gave Present to Retiring Manager.

The clerks at Crosby & Hill's store have presented to S. B. Carson, the retiring manager, a gold lined silver loving cup, as a token of esteem. Mr. Carson leaves Plainfield today for Morristown, where he will assume control of the Crosby & Hill store, in which he has an interest.

The cup is suitably inscribed as follows: "Presented to S. B. Carson by the employes of Crosby & Hill, Plainfield, N. J., as a token of esteem, February 27, 1902." On the other side of the cup the name of each clerk is engraved.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

No Fight Expected at the Meeting to be Held Tonight.

The Democrats of North Plainfield will hold their primary this evening at 8 o'clock in the basement of the Borough High School. As yet not one has been definitely decided upon to make up the ticket but it will be completed at an early hour. There is no particular fight expected.

Changes Expected.

According to the Hunterdon County Gazette it is reported that a number of changes are likely to take place among the officials of the New Jersey Central.

Entertained at Dinner.

Mrs. Dorsey Hyde, of Woodland avenue, entertained a small party of friends at dinner, last night.

—Good cleaner and laundress by the day; reference. Woman's Exchange, 508 Park avenue.

—At Neuman Brothers this week; Cairn's imported Scotch marmalade and jams at eighteen cents per jar. They are delicious.

FLOOD FROM BROKEN DAM

Marsh's Dam, Near Scotch Plans, Gave Way Late Yesterday Afternoon.

BROOKS OVERFLOWED.

Torrent of Water Divided Between Green and Cedar Brooks—The Streets Here Under Water—Cellars Flooded—Floods at Other Places.

A very heavy rainfall, assisted by the breaking of Marsh's dam, near Scotch Plains, treated Plainfield to a sprightly young flood, late yesterday afternoon, which temporarily stopped trolley traffic, flooded many cellars and accomplished more or less other damage. The water was the highest since the flood of twelve years ago when the breaking of several dams in the Scotch Plains' notch turned a mighty body of water loose in the city.

The rain came down yesterday with much energy. The brooks were already high, not having fully recovered from the rain water and melting snow earlier in the week.

In the "notch," back of Scotch Plains there are three dams, two large ones in the "notch" and Marsh's dam, a smaller one, at the entrance. Fear was entertained for their safety. The two big ones held but, at 5 o'clock, Marsh's dam went out with a roar.

The flood blocked all traffic between Scotch Plains and the settlements on the side of and over the mountain. It swept down towards this city, spreading over the water shed into the section drained by Cedar brook and dividing its force between the two streams.

This morning, the water, while higher than normal, is back within bounds and no further trouble is anticipated.

While both Green and Cedar brooks felt the effects of the high water, it was the latter stream which made the most spectacular display and incidentally did the most damage. The meadows east of Berckman street, near North avenue, were all afloat and residents in the section found boats and rafts necessary. The torrent poured under the Berckman street railroad bridge tearing up the roadway. It swept across the fields beyond South avenue, part of the flood deserting the water course to go through East Sixth street to Richmond street and southward on that thoroughfare to the brook where it passed under the road at LaGrande avenue.

On Richmond street, the high water extended from Second street to LaGrande avenue, so deep that hip boots were required to wade through it. The water in places was up to the hubs of carriages and the trolley cars could not run. Southward from LaGrande avenue, where the street was flooded for half a block, the brook had overflowed its narrow banks into the adjacent fields. There was from six inches to three feet of water in some of the neighboring cellars. The gutters on Putnam avenue were blocked and the water covered the street at the intersection of Richmond street.

Back yards of houses on Richmond street became energetic young lakes. At the lowlands near Cedar Brook Farm, the homestead of J. E. Martine, the torrent spread out and swept all before it. Prospect avenue was only visible in spots. Park and Arlington avenues also felt the effects of the high water which was over the roadway in places. Beyond Arlington avenue, the stream flooded the lowlands and continued in force on its way toward Samptown.

Green brook's friends hardly recognized it, so mightily had it grown. It swept along the eastern end of the city in mighty force, tearing out its banks and causing more or less minor destruction. Tier's dam was a fine sight, late in the afternoon, when fully two feet of water was running over it. Below that point, the brook was very high and roared in sullen fashion.

The embankment at the Park Club property was not high enough to stop the water and the torrent swept over the tennis courts of that institution doing considerable damage. The Giraud avenue bridge was not large enough to accommodate the stream and it backed up at that point. All

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

State Treasurer Frank O. Briggs is named as a candidate for the colonelcy of the Second Regiment, National Guard, to succeed Colonel Quincy O'M. Gillmore, in case of the election of the latter to the command of the Second Brigade. Treasurer Briggs is a West Pointer, and served in the regular army for several years, and he would be an acquisition for the National Guard.—Newark Advertiser.

Much surprise is expressed, and naturally so, that the Republican members of the Assembly Committee on Elections have decided to hold up indefinitely the bill introduced by Mr. Holman, of Ocean, extending the provisions of the Meeker law to all municipalities, including townships. If the merger of elections is the good thing that its champions assert it to be, why restrict its advantages and benefits to cities? Surely the inhabitants of towns, boroughs, villages and townships are as much entitled to share the blessings which follow consolidation of elections as those who, through choice or necessity, dwell within the corporate limits of cities. The Republicans of New Jersey have gone on record as opposed to separate municipal elections. Why, then, should they hesitate to show the courage of their convictions by adopting the principle to its fullest extent?

It surely cannot be that the unexpected results last fall in Camden, Trenton, New Brunswick and Elizabeth, have given the Republican leaders pause. No one who remembers with what virtuous indignation was repelled any suggestion that the Meeker bill was prompted by partisan motives, will for a moment harbor the thought that Democratic victories in four of the principal cities of the State at the first election held under the act has had any effect in weakening Republican faith in its inherent virtues. Were not these very Democratic victories the most conclusive refutation of the argument that the consolidation of elections would tend to stifle independence of choice in voting for local officials? When a test of the measure has demonstrated the fallacy of the claim that voters would not stop to discriminate between State and local candidates, what good reason can be offered for not extending the provisions of the bill to all municipalities?

Consistency demands the passage of the Holman bill, even though it should result in the election of more Democratic candidates to local offices. —Newark News.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The enemies of consolidation have started a funny story to the effect that the water company is back of the proposition. The absurd claim is made that the concern fears that municipal ownership of water works as proposed will damage it to such an extent that this is the only recourse to protect its interest. Even the statement has gained circulation that Frank Bergen drew the proposed acts submitted to the Legislature.

An effort is being made in the borough to win back the trade formerly supplied by the farmers from over the moutain. It is said that the great bulk of this trade now goes to towns on the other side of the mountain, and that this is due to the fact that the trolleys on Somerset street frighten the farmers' horses. One of the reasons for the widening of that thoroughfare was to put an end to that excuse, but thus far the country residents have failed to do their trading again in the borough.

LITERARY.

No attempt has ever been made to get together any congress representing the highest intelligence of the various nations of the world. The nearest approach to this was the Peace Conference at The Hague. The failure of that body was caused by the fact that it was selected to represent political and personal interests. It will be interesting to note the results which must come from the first World's Congress in which all nations shall be represented by men of the highest integrity and intellectual caliber. The difficulties in effecting such a gathering are almost insurmountable, but The Cosmopolitan Magazine is making the effort with a full recognition of the endless obstacles to be overcome. In the March number, The Cosmopolitan's plan is briefly outlined. Its agents in Europe and elsewhere are carefully maturing lists of the ablest men of each country considered with reference—First. To their sincerity. Second. Their earnestness. Third. Clear thinking, that is, ability to see the truth. Fourth. Broad experience in affairs.

These names are five times as great in number as the candidates to be eventually selected. Upon these the opinions of leading men in other countries will be secured, so that the final selection will represent a consensus of opinion by the leading men of the world of thought. The Cosmopolitan is also endeavoring to secure by contribution a fund of a quarter of a million dollars to provide for the expense of the first World's Congress.

"An Easter Morning in the 17th Century," the subject title of the cover of the March issue of The American Queen, makes us remember that Easter is almost with us, coming as it does on the 30th of the month, and rouses our thoughts to visions of Easter gowns hats, etc. The American Queen has taken cognizance of her readers' wants, and in well-written articles by practical and experienced dressmakers suggests to them the latest dress materials, trimmings, accessories and millinery, and pictures in large variety the latest and best styles. The fancywork lovers are remembered as well as the fashion devotees, and beautiful sofa cushions, centerpieces and traycloths are shown; perforated paper patterns of all the designs shown in The Queen are for sale at nominal prices, while those of The Queen's readers who are interested in any of the usual departments will have no cause of complaint. SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

Most attractive indeed are the embroideries and white goods at Putnam & DeGraw's. A full line of calico, percales and ginghams is offered at the lowest prices.

The correct thing in the line of stationery may be found at Harper's Bazaar, 411 Park avenue. No better quality of linen paper can be found at the price asked there.

Tidiness is surely next to cleanliness. The patrons of John G. Bantle, the Watchung avenue tailor, always appear neatly dressed. He is the tailor who knows how to make a fit.

Just a hint to shoppers is all that is necessary when they know the reputation of a business house. Here's the tip. I. H. Boehm, of West Front street, is conducting a special sale of colored dress fabrics.

An honest shoe made by a thoroughly reliable house is the Douglass shoe. A. Willett & Son, of Park avenue, are the sole agents in Plainfield for these shoes. They also handle other makes, as well as rubbers and slippers in great variety.

Nothing not worth having is ever kept at Callahan & Son's Richmond street grocery store. Everything they sell is just what is needed in the grocery line and is always of the best obtainable. Orders given by telephone will recieved careful attention.

There are other confectionery stores besides Warnock's, but none beyond it. Warnock's is the much-talked-of store because there's where you get those fresh finger rolls, delicious charlotte russe and everything that's nice in the confectionery line.

No dangerous matches with heads to fly off, no bothersome wax tapers and no inconvenience in lighting gas lamps if you use one of those handy Firefly electric lighters which J. W. Gavett is showing. They are the best thing a merchant can have in his store.

It will not be long before the spring days bringing that tired feeling will be here. In order to escape that fatigue a good spring medicine should be taken. L. W. Randolph, the west Front street druggist, sells a sarsaparilla made from roots and herbs that will insure you for good blood.

THEATRICAL.

Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon undoubtedly have made the success of their stellar career in Martha Morton's comedy of American and English life, "Her Lord and Master," now running at the Manhattan Theatre, New York. It may be said that "Her Lord and Master" gives Mr. Kelcey and Miss Shannon the best opportunities they ever have enjoyed along the lines of their well-known abilities and also discloses more legitimate values than any comedy that New York has seen this season. It is a play that would delight as a story simply, and that means a great deal in these days when the flimsiest pretexts are seized upon for dramatic writing. The dialogue of Miss Morton's play is always pleasing and often brilliant, its situations are novel and effective, and aside from the splendid occasions it gives Mr. Kelcey and Miss Shannon it presents a group of remarkably clever character studies, to all of which full justice is done by the admirable and efficient company that support these stars. It may confidently be expected that "Her Lord and Master" will draw very large audiences at the Manhattan for the rest of the season, and every theatre-lover that wishes a dramatic treat should see it.

Mrs. Mattis, of Madison avenue, has recovered from a tedious illness.

Dan S. Roberts, of Prospect place, who has been detained at home a few days by illness, has recovered.

The Misses Maggie and Julia Meaney, of this city, have been visiting their parents at High Bridge.

Thomas Lyness, of West Second street, is much improved from a severe illness and is now able to leave the house.

Miss Katharine Hoagland, of Millstone, who has been visiting friends in Plainfield for several weeks, has returned home.

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It softens and liquifies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. "One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace, J. Q. Hood, Crosby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family." L. W. Randolph.

STORMS AND FLOODS

Widespread Ruin From Canada to the Gulf.

GALES CRIPPLE TELEGRAPH LINES.

Heavy Rains and Melting Snow Swell Streams to Danger Point. Many Railway Lines Out of Business.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Storms of wind and rain are carrying havoc throughout the country from the Canada line to the gulf.

Great ice gorges in the Pennsylvania rivers are breaking up, and towns along them are threatened with disaster. Railroad bridges at many points are in great danger.

Telegraph and telephone lines have been seriously damaged already.

The storm struck New York in force and was one of the worst of the season. The wind for a short time registered a velocity of seventy miles an hour. The fog was thick on the bay, which, combined with the driving rain, made navigation difficult.

There are now no wires from here to the west, and many southern cities can get no message into New York.

A dispatch from Corning, N. Y., says that the Chemung river was rising at a rapid rate. All the rivers and creeks in this section are rising as a result of the heavy rains continuing all day and the melting of the snow on the surrounding hills. The Pennsylvania division of the New York Central railroad had practically suspended traffic operations. The Buffalo and Susquehanna railroad is tied up, and the Erie is having considerable trouble. Washouts and bridges gone are reported from every direction.

At Hoosick Falls the Hoosick river has reached high water mark in several places, and streams in the Hoosick valley generally are at high mark.

A heavy rain is falling throughout the lower Adirondacks, and freshets are feared inside of the next twenty-four hours.

A message from Watkins says Montour Falls is suffering from the worst flood in its history, and more than half of the village is under water. Bridges are gone and buildings washed from their foundations. Hundreds of families have been driven into the upper stories and boats used to navigate the streets. Railroad traffic is suspended.

The Storm in the South.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 1.—Not in many years have the southeastern gulf states experienced damage so widespread by a storm as that which has visited Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida. As far as known seven lives were lost and several persons injured. The damage is enormous, the railroads being particularly heavy sufferers. Four lives were lost in a wreck near Griffin, Ga., which was caused by a washout. The other dead were negroes, whose cabins were blown away by the storm. The rains raised the water to flood height in the Chattahoochee, Alabama, Ocmulgee, Savannah and Oconee rivers. The city of Athens, Ga., is in total darkness, with two rivers sending volumes of water through some parts of the town. No train has passed there on the Seaboard Air line from the north for Atlanta in twenty-four hours.

City Hall Struck by Lightning.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—A thunderstorm, accompanied by an unusually heavy fall of rain, burst over this city yesterday. Every section of the city suffered from floods, although no great damage was done at any one place. The pressure of water was so great that sewers in several parts of the city became choked and overflowed. Hundreds of cellars of private houses and basements and stores and establishments were flooded to more or less extent. The city hall was struck by lightning, but no damage was done beyond the breaking of several windows. In the eastern section of the state many streams have overflowed their banks, and considerable damage has been wrought. The only reported loss of life was at Doylestown, where Isaac Radcliffe, aged thirty years, with his team, was swept off a small bridge by the rushing waters of a swollen creek and drowned.

Storm In Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 1.—The storm is causing serious damage to railroads in this section. A freight train was wrecked near Redford, Va., on the Norfolk and Western railroad, in which Brakeman Floyd Preston, colored, was killed. Near Marion, Va., the same road suffered a washout which has delayed all traffic. The Virginia and Southwestern railroad bridges at Elizabethton, Butler and Cardens Bluff were washed away. The East Tennessee and Western North Carolina railroad suffered very heavy damage. All river industries are closed. Beaver creek at Bristol is higher than was ever known and is flooding part of the city.

Danger at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, March 1.—Pittsburg and vicinity is threatened with a disastrous flood. The great ice gorge in the Allegheny happily passed out without doing any serious damage, but the great volume of water behind it, which is being augmented every moment by swollen creeks and mountain streams, makes it apparent that much damage must result before the waters subside. At 10:30 p. m. Government Forecaster Ridgway issued a bulletin stating that the rivers had reached the danger point and predicted a maximum of 30 feet. This stage, if reached, will completely submerge the lower parts of Allegheny and this city and put out the fires in many mills and factories.

Floods In Pennsylvania.

READING, Pa., March 1.—Reports from Lebanon say news has arrived there that Stovers dam, near that place covering thirty acres, had burst. Lebanon is cut off by water on all sides except the north. The electric light, iron works, street cars and Cornwall and Lebanon roads are flooded. Business in the flooded districts is at a standstill. The First, Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth wards are flooded. Much damage has been done. Dispatches from Tamaqua, Pa., say that the worst flood since 1850 visited that place. The business section of the town is under water.

Almost a Cyclone.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 1.—The Wyoming valley has been visited by a terrific rain and wind storm, accompanied by heavy thunder. At times the wind blew a gale, blowing down outbuildings and fences and uprooting trees. The creeks feeding the Susquehanna river became raging torrents and, overflowing their banks, did a great deal of damage to property.

Wreck Caused by Storm.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 1.—A wreck is reported near Marshall, N. C. It is said that one man was killed and three injured. The following bulletin was issued at noon by the trainmaster of the Southern railway: "No trains today on the Murphy branch. Nothing west possible before morning. Southern trains indefinitely delayed."

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Results For February Satisfactory In Spite of Bad Weather.

NEW YORK, March 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Although the shortest month in the year was further curtailed by two holidays and handicapped by the most severe storms of the winter, industrial and trade results were most satisfactory. The closing week brought a general resumption of activity in lines that suffered from the weather, and preparation for an exceptionally heavy spring business was reported at many points, southern cities alone being backward. Voluntary advances in wages indicate the better position of many mills; while few new controversies were reported. Crop prospects are considered encouraging in so far as anything can be learned at this time.

Pressure for structural material is severe and will probably be still more so as the regular building season draws nearer. Further hardening of quotations is reported, and inquiries for delivery in 1903 are not exceptional. Recent heavy purchases of pig iron for the latter half of the year have satisfied the needs of many consumers, and there is less anxiety regarding deliveries. More foreign steel has been engaged, and domestic concerns are still bidding in the German market.

Cotton ruled fairly steady at the recent advance, which attracted more liberal marketing at the south, but supplies in first hands are reported very low. Coffee has sold within three-sixteenths of the lowest price ever recorded, which is not surprising in view of the unprecedented Brazil receipts.

Failures for the week numbered 215 in the United States against 179 last year and 35 in Canada against 31 last year.

CUBAN RAILROADS.

Sir William Van Horne Pleased With Work Accomplished.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, March 1.—Sir William Van Horne, former president of the Canadian Pacific railway and the promoter of a project for the consolidation of all the railroads in Cuba, accompanied by Mr. Dodge, has left here for New York via Havana, after having inspected the work done by the Cuba Railroad company.

Sir William expressed himself as greatly pleased with the results obtained during the last six months and said that an immense amount of railroad construction had been accomplished. He expects to run trains between Havana and Santiago, Cuba, within a year.

The company's work has recently been slightly delayed by reason of litigation with land owners, who tried to obstruct the building of the road. The majority of the land owners, however, are helping the company as much as possible.

The band of the French cruiser Tage, which arrived here Thursday, serenaded General Whitside, the commander of the department of the east, last night. General Whitside will give a ball at the palace tonight in honor of Admiral Servan, who is on board the Tage.

Snow In the Dakotas.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 1.—Journal dispatches from Minnesota and the Dakotas tell of one of the hardest snowstorms of the winter. At Pierre, S. D., the snow is drifting badly, and traffic is impeded. North Dakota has a blizzard, the rains having turned to snow, which is driven by high wind. The snow comes just in time to prevent the immediate breaking up of logging operations around Bemidji, and if cold shall follow many small contractors will be saved from bankruptcy.

Boston's Large Foreign Trade.

BOSTON, March 1.—The annual report of the Boston chamber of commerce, just issued, shows that the total foreign trade of Boston for the year 1901 was $197,005,218 and that Boston is the only port among the principal ones along the Atlantic seaboard to show an increase in its exports or in its total foreign trade during the year. The report says that while the imports were slightly below those of 1900 both the export and the total foreign trade exceeded all previous records.

PRESS WANT ADS PAY.

VICTORY AND DEFEAT

Six Hundred Boers Killed or Captured.

NEARLY 500 BRITISH ENTRAPPED.

The Events Occurred Four Days Apart—Kitchener Seized Provisions and Ammunition In Large Quantities—De Wet Escaped.

LONDON, March 1.—Following the precedent of Lord Roberts, who announced General Cronje's surrender at Paardeberg on the anniversary of the battle of Majuba Hill, Lord Kitchener apparently selected the same anniversary to achieve a big success by a combined movement, lasting two days, against the Boer forces within the Harrismith and Van Reenen line of blockhouses. The Boer losses aggregate 600 men killed or captured, and 2,000 horses, 28,000 head of cattle, 200 wagons, 60,000 sheep, 600 rifles and 50,000 rounds of ammunition. General Kitchener says:

"The prisoners include General De Wet's son and his secretary, Commandants Meyer and Truther and several field cornets. These satisfactory results are very appropriate on the anniversary of Majuba."

This news was so welcome to the British that it was read out in the house of commons by the war secretary, Mr. Brodrick, from a dispatch of Lord Kitchener, dated Harrismith, Orange River Colony, Feb. 28.

In response to an inquiry made by the government as to the fate of the escort of a convoy of empty wagons which, according to a dispatch from Lord Kitchener made public Feb. 26, was attacked and captured by the Boers southwest of Klerksdorp, Transvaal Colony, Feb. 24, Lord Kitchener has cabled the following message:

"A report has just been received that 16 officers and 451 men were taken prisoners. Of these one officer and 105 men have been released. Colonel Anderson of the Imperial yeomanry, who commanded, is still a prisoner. Major Enderby, who commanded the infantry, was wounded. Hence the delay in obtaining definite information."

A dispatch received last night from Harrismith shows that General De Wet and Mr. Steyn were within the net described by Lord Kitchener in his dispatch from Harrismith concerning the killing or capturing of 600 Boers during the last two days, but escaped before the line was completed.

Princess Radziwill's Case.

CAPE TOWN, March 1.—The case of Princess Radziwill, who was arrested here Feb. 26 on the charge of forging the signature of Cecil Rhodes to promissory notes and who was subsequently admitted to bail in £1,000, assumed a fresh aspect by the princess entering suit against Mr. Rhodes for £2,000 on account of the alleged forged note for £2,000 said to have been indorsed by Mr. Rhodes, but which the latter repudiated. On this note the princess was sued by Thomas Louw, a merchant of this city who had advanced £1,150 on the note in question and who obtained and collected judgment against the princess for the amount of his advance. As Mr. Rhodes was indisposed his evidence in the forgery case against the princess and in her counter charges against himself has been taken at Grootschaar. Mr. Rhodes in this evidence denied signing or authorizing his signature to the notes in question. Princess Radziwill's attorney has declared that the princess has a complete answer to the charge, but that he has decided to reserve his defense at this stage of the case.

Rioting Resumed In Spain.

MADRID, March 1.—The mining regions are in a ferment of agitatjon. At Albujon and Madridejos rioters have set fire to the octroi (municipal revenue) offices and burned the documents they contained. There has been another outbreak of disorder at Barcelona. Frequent meetings are being held, with the object of declaring another general strike. The metal workers are constantly assaulting their comrades who have returned to work and refuse to resume their tasks until all the imprisoned workmen are released.

Boiler Makers Blamed.

DETROIT, Mich., March 1.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the cause of the explosion of the boiler at the Penberthy Injector company's plant here Nov. 26 last, which resulted in the loss of thirty lives, has brought in a verdict that the boiler was defective, and they censured its makers.

Moscow Students Sentenced.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 1.—Two hundred and fifty of the students and others who have been arrested in Moscow for rioting have been condemned to various terms of imprisonment ranging from one week to three months.

BUSY DAY FOR PRINCE

HORSEBACK RIDE WITH ROOSEVELT.

Henry of Prussia Visits Naval Academy and Closes Visit to National Capital With Dinner at the German Embassy.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Prince Henry's visit to the national capital had a fitting culmination in a splendid official dinner given at the German embassy and later in a tremendous outburst of popular enthusiasm from the German residents of Washington as the imperial visitor was about to start for his western tour.

The dinner was given at the embassy at 8 o'clock, his royal highness being the guest of honor, while those invited to meet him were representatives of the highest official and diplomatic society. As the guests arrived they were met by Embassador von Holleben and escorted to the handsome drawing room, where they were presented to Prince Henry.

Owing to the large number present the spacious ballroom of the embassy was transformed into a banquet hall. The walls were hung with garlands of smilax and also decorated with the imperial colors and those of the various states of Germany. Tall palms and potted plants occupied the recesses, and all about was a profusion of roses, orchids and spring flowers. Beautiful garlands of ferns, lilies of the valley and sweet peas were hung about the portraits of the emperor and the empress.

The dining table was in the form of a hollow square. American Beauty roses were in abundance. A stringed orchestra from the Marine band occupied an alcove, and as the guests entered the dining room the musicians broke into the strains of "The Invincible Eagle." Prince Henry occupied the seat of honor at the table, with the German embassador sitting opposite him. To the right of the prince sat Frau von Bebeur-Paschwitz and to his left the wife of Chief Justice Fuller of the supreme court.

To the right of the embassador sat Lady Pauncefote, the wife of the British embassador, and at his left Mme. Aspiroz, wife of the Mexican embassador.

At 11 o'clock the prince, escorted by Embassador von Holleben and by a squad of police, left the embassy for the Pennsylvania railroad station, where he boarded the special train, which departed at 11:30 o'clock for the western and southwestern trip. The prince's suit accompanied him.

A HORSEBACK RIDE.

Prince Henry in the afternoon enjoyed one event not on his official itinerary, when he and President Roosevelt went in a rainstorm on a horseback ride of an hour and a quarter through Rock Creek valley and the suburbs in the northwestern section of the city. The ride was arranged personally between the two men during one of their talks at an official function.

The prince returned from Annapolis between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon and went direct to the White House to pay a farewell visit, the members of his suit accompanying him. The farewell call was entirely informal. Captain Gilmore of the artillery met the prince and his suit at the door and escorted them to the blue room, where they were received by the president and Mrs. and Miss Roosevelt, each of whom gave the prince a hearty welcome and godspeed.

The ceremony lasted only about five minutes, and then the prince drove to the German embassy and exchanged his admiral's uniform for a riding suit of dark blue with buff leggings and a fedora hat. The prince smoked several cigarettes and chatted with Embassador von Holleben in front of the embassy about fifteen minutes while awaiting the arrival of the president. Mr. Roosevelt's riding garb was similar to that of the prince save for a slouch hat of the rough rider style.

VISIT TO ANNAPOLIS.

Prince Henry Reviews Cadets In Pouring Rain.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 1.—Deluging rain that was whipped around by gusty wind marred the visit of Prince Henry to Maryland's capital and the United States Naval academy. It fell in torrents that ran through the streets in miniature rivers and converted the parade ground at the academy into a pond.

But the naval men and their brother officers of the German party scorned surrender to the storm, and with all their military finery went through the programme that had been arranged in their honor. The train carrying Prince Henry made a slow run from Washington.

The general inspection of the academy buildings was made quite brief on account of the storm, and the entire party found shelter in the house of Superintendent Wainwright, where they were guests at luncheon. Mrs. Wainwright assisted her husband in receiving and entertaining them. The prince expressed pleasure at the opportunity to visit the American naval college and thanked Commander Wainwright and his officers for the manner in which he had been received.

The cadets gave an athletic exhibition in the gymnasium, and the prince and the members of his party were greatly interested in it, as the German naval system does not embrace anything of the kind. There were boxing, wrestling and other athletic exercises. The cadets went through the sport with dash and vim, and the prince applauded spiritedly.

DID THEIR BEST.

It is consoling to know that the interests of the people were not forgotten when the members of the Councilmanic street committee and other of the city's representatives conferred with the officers of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, and that an earnest plea was made in behalf of the general use of water meters, where desired. That they were not successful is due to the obstinacy of the officials of the water company. It is a well-known fact, and no one knows it better than the water company officials, that the city is paying a low rate for its hydrants when compared with the charge made in other cities. This rate would have to be advanced, declared the water company, if any increased privileges were to be granted to the people. As the water company happens to have a monopoly on the local water business, there was nothing left for the city officials to do but to acquiesce. It was unfortunate but existing conditions prevented any other course.

As the water company reserves the right to install meters when it believes that the consumers are getting too much water for the amount they pay, it certainly seems as if the consumers ought to be accorded the same privilege. It is a poor rule that does not work both ways. The sense of fairness ought to bring the water company to the granting of the return privilege. The councilmen seen and realized the justice of the argument and presented it to President Bergen. But President Bergen has made up his mind otherwise and the question of justice to the consumers does not appear to enter into the case at all.

It is a weak excuse which Mr. Bergen gives when he declares that the company cannot get satisfactory meters. Of course it can't unless it is willing to pay for them. There are good meters on the market today which register accurately and can be obtained at a fairly moderate price. It has been hinted about town by some of the friends of the water company that The Daily Press is trying to forward the interest of some manufacturer of water meters. Such a charge is too ridiculous to be answered. It is the last resort of those who cannot bring forward logical arguments in defence of their position.

It was a surprise, but a very pleasant one, when the fact became known, last evening that Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., had reconsidered his determination and decided to accept a renomination at the hands of the borough Republicans. Mr. Clark has had a remarkably successful career in the Borough Council and his renomination was demanded by the citizens at large, regardless of party affiliations. Great pressure was brought to bear upon him and he finally consented to stand. That he will be elected there is little doubt. His record has shown him one of the most valuable men in the Borough Council and the general knowledge of that fact will bring him many votes of those of a different political faith but who are glad of the opportunity to see such a valuable man returned to the legislative body of the borough.

It is greatly to be hoped that the new school law, introduced in the State Legislature by Senator McKee, will be found to be satisfactory and passed without delay. Unless such a bill is passed, the educational affairs of many municipalities through the State will be so tied up that it will be next to impossible to straighten them out again. Thanks to a wise corporation counsel, Plainfield was not caught in that predicament but took the laborious but judicious course of conducting its school affairs under the terms of both the old and the new laws. As soon as the new law is passed and its constitutionality assured, new developments may be expected in the plan to give Plainfield the needed new High School building.

While for some unexplained reason, the news of another caes of small-pox in town did not become generally known until after the victim was dead, the reappearance of the dread disease in this city did not occasion any great surprise. The fact has been generally recognized that with so much of it on all sides, Plainfield could not hope to keep entirely free from it, especially in these days of such constant inter-communication. While this last case has given a greater opportunity for the spread of the disease than the first, the Plainfield Board of Health has acted promptly and the citizens need not fear any severe epidemic of it.

In spite of the prejudice among lawyers against straightforward advertising, several members of the Bar do advertise regularly in the newspapers, declares the Philadelphia Record. And they find that it pays. One lawyer in New York who puts $100 a week into newspaper advertising ("exclusive of the Sunday journals") tells Printers' Inks that he wouldn't stop advertising for the world. "If I should stop it," he adds, "I should expect to be forgotten. That such advertising pays I know from long experience. The ethics of the profession are largely an illusion—a bugaboo. No lawyer is ostracized because he advertises."

The championship of The Daily Press Bowling League has been decided and the Westfield Club will now hold the coveted trophy for the coming twelve-month. So close was the contest that an extra series of games had to be rolled to settle the tie between the teams of the Westfield Club and the Roselle Casino. Another win for Roselle would have had that club the permanent owner of the handsome silver cup. Westfield had the stronger team, this year, and the final ownership of the trophy is still undecided.

The Plainfield High School has lost one of its most faithful workers in Miss Alice M. Whitney, who has resigned her place in the faculty of that institution to be married. For seventeen years Miss Whitney has been an instructor there and hundreds of young people have met her daily and learned to admire her many good qualities.

Free Organ Concerts.

William C. Carl will give a series of free Lenten organ concerts on the Tuesday evenings of March, in the First Presbyterian church, Fifth avenue and Twelfth street, New York, beginning Tuesday at 8:15 o'clock. At the first concert Madame Lisa Delhaze Wickes will play the D Minor Pianoforte Concerto by Mozart, with the orchestral parts supplied on the organ. Alfred Donalson Wickes, violinist, will also appear. The concerts are free to the public. No tickets issued.

Able Speaker.

George S. Avery, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., will speak and George E. Garretson, of New York, will render handbell solos at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Avery, who is the resident manager of the New York Christian Home for intemperate men, is an able and interesting speaker.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The funeral of the late J. Fritz Randolph Clawson, whose death occurred Wednesday after a long illness, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his residence on Dunellen avenue. Rev. L. E. Livermore, of the Seventh Day Baptist church, was in charge and interment was in the old Seventh-Day burying ground at Blue's Corner. The pall-bearers were W. L. Larrabee, Lewis Dunn, Ziba Osmun, and S. T. Titsworth. The deceased was an old and well known resident in this vicinity and the funeral was attended by a large number of his old friends.

The culvert at the corner of Jackson avenue and Front street became stopped up during the rain yesterday and the water backed up and flooded the road to the depth of a foot.

A meeting of the Session of the Presbyterian church was held last evening and a large number signified their intention of becoming regular members of the church.

Prayer meeting in the Presbyterian church last evening was well attended. A short address was delivered by Rev. N. J. Sproul.

Many Dunellen people were inconvenienced by the irregular running of the Plainfield trolley cars this morning.

Frazee and Carpenter have secured the contract for papering the Apgar house on Dunellen avenue.

Green brook has been unusually high for the past few days but is gradually going down.

Kenneth Dealaman, the young son of Adam Dealaman, is able to be out after a lengthy illness.

Special services will be held Sunday morning in the Mehodist church and also in the evening.

The women of the Presbyterian church netted $28 at their recent turkey supper.

Charles Vail has secured a position in the carpenter gang on the Central Railroad.

Garretson & Gray's sawmill has been set up and is ready to start operation.

The Board of Registry will be in session from 1 to 9 o'clock on Tuesday.

A match game of pool will be played in Kretzel's pool room this evening.

J. B. Closs, who has been severely ill, is considerably improved.

Mr. Edward Brook is visiting out of town friends.

Wesley Blaine has recovered from a slight illness.

NEW MARKET.

Communion was administered at this morning's service in the Seventh-day Baptist church. A meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society will be held this afternoon at 3:30.

The pond has been unusually high for the past few days and at one time a small flood threatened.

Regular weekly prayer meeting was held in the First Baptist church last evening.

The young son of Chas. Meeker has been dangerously ill during the past week.

Mrs. Herman Millard remains in about the same condition.

A turkey raffle will be held in Hotel Nelson tonight.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

John B. Anderson has sold his hotel business and will shortly remove with his family to Jersey City. Mr. Anderson has conducted the Scotch Plains hotel during the pats year, buying out the business from Wm. S. Emery who had been refused a license by the court after a bitter struggle between the Citizen's League and the saloon element. Mr. Anderson was granted a license and during the year the old hotel has picked up its lost prestige. The purchaser is Fred Ivamy, of Plainfield, the well known steward at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club

The patrons of the trolley company who are dependent upon the company to carry them to their work at the several factories in Plainfield and Garwood, are very sore over the service rendered of late. Only once in the past eleven days has a car been run so as to enable the men to be in the shops by 7 o'clock. There is talk of calling the attention of the township committee to the matter.

Township Clerk E. L. Hand has posted the annual notice of spring election to be held Tuesday, March 11. The principal office to be filled is that of freeholder. and one township committeeman, both for a term of three yaers.

The heavy showers of yesterday raised the water of Green brook to nearly high water mark. Shortly after the rain ceased the water began to recede and no alarm was felt by those living near the stream.

Tomorrow service at the Baptist church will be Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching serivce, 10:45; Baptist Young People's Union meeting, topic, "The Joy of Service," 7; evening preaching, 7:45.

The Board of Registry will meet to revise and oorrect the registry list for the annual spring election, Tuesday from 1 to 9 o'clock.

Richard Hart, of New York, is spending a few days with his sister, Miss Katie Hart, of Washington Valley.

Rev. Mr. Beacom will have charge of the Saturday evening prayer meeting in the Methodist church tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Robin Frazee are happy over the arrival of a young daughter at their home.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

There is much complaint on the part of the residents here because of the way in which the mill pond is allowed to overflow the road, whenever an extraordinary storm comes up. There are several chasms in the road caused by this overflow, which are very dangerous to pedestrians, and, besides, while the water is flowing over the road, nothing less than a boat will take one through.

Railroad traffic was at a standstill yesterday. The flood washed away part of the tracks at Penn Haven and several bridges on the road, and that was the cause of the trouble. The Black Diamond Express went as far as Bethlehem and had to be sent back. Today only locals are running.

The showers of yesterday helped to fill the two artificial ponds on Brookside avenue so that they overflowed their banks and submerged the neighboring fields. Many muskrats were forced by the flood to vacate their holes, and the boys had a great deal of fun shooting at them.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred LaTourette will return home, Monday, from Jersey City where they have been spending the winter months.

The topic for the sermon at the Baptist church tomorrow evening will be "Conversion Illustrated."

Mr. Linaberry will resume work at the depot, in a few days.

Mrs. John Tingley has recovered from her illness.

Plainfield is less than one-half of the average rental paid throughout the country. The company that originally proposed to rent hydrants in Plainfield at $15 each per year failed. The present company undertook to furnish hydrants in Plainfield and keep them constantly supplied with water under pressure sufficient to extinguish fires without the use of engines, at $15 each per annum. It was understood at the time, though not expressed in the contract, that ten hydrants should be erected on every mile of mains in the city. The fact is, however, that there are thirty-four miles of mains in Plainfield and but 296 hydrants.

A company owning water works constructed so as to render hydrants efficient and operated by pumping so as to maintain the hydants constantly in a state of efficiency will lose money on hydrants if they are rented at $15 each per year. This company has undoubtedly lost money by performing its hydrant contract with Plaifineld, and is, therefore, not anxious to renew it on the same terms. We realize, however, the difficulty of raising the rental for hydrants that has prevailed for nearly ten years, but think at least that the company is entitled to credit for protecting property from destruction by fire in Plainfield at a continual loss.

I shall be glad to confer with you further on the subject at your convenience.

Very respectfully,
Frank Bergen,
President.

OFF FOR AFRICA.

Rev. R. D. Schoonmaker Sailed This Morning for the African Mission Field.

Rev. Robert Dalzell Schoonmaker, of Central avenue, left Plainfie l this morning on the 7:55 o'clock train for New York, from which place he sailed on the Campania for Africa, where he is to engage in mission work under the auspices of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Schoonmaker took a train a half hour earlier than he expected to, many of his friends from Warren chapel did not have an opportunity to say goodbye to him. A number of persons assembled at the station at 8:30 o'clock to say goodbye to him. However, there were many from the chapel, including the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Sunday-school teachers and pupils, who went to New York to see Mr. Schoonmaker sail.

Mr. Schoonmaker has been preparing for his mission for some time past, and a few months ago he was ordained for the work in the Crescent Avenue church by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards and other prominent divines. It is expected that Mr. Schoonmaker will arrive at the mission station by the latter part of March.

THE CHARITIES CONFERENCE

RESULTS AS DESCRIBED BY ONE OF THE ASSISTANT SECRETARIES.

Plainfield's Part in the Meeting—The Topics Which Came Up for Discussion.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The first State conference of Charities and Corrections in New Jersey was held in the Assembly room, State House, Trenton, Feb. 20 and 21. The large attendance and interest evinced promises well for future meetings. Over fifty cities and towns were represented, Plainfield holding it's own with a large delegation. Practically all private charities in the State were represented, while all the State institutions were represented through their chief officers or boards of managers.

Prof. J. H. Finley, of Princeton University, and Charlton T. Lewis, presided Thursday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. E. E. Williamson was elected president on Friday morning. Among the other officers elected were vice presidents, Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees, Rev. A. M. Bradford, Morristown; Mrs. Stewart Hartshorne, Short Hills; Right Rev. Bishop McFaul, Trenton; Charlton T. Lewis, Morristown; secretary, Wm. H. Allen, Ph.D.; assistant secretaries, A. W. McDougall, Orange, E. R. Johnstone, Vineland, Sarah Manton VanBoskerck, Plainfield. H. M. Maxson, of Plainfield, was made chairman of the committee on juvenile delinquency.

The discussion of the penal problem was the most important one during the conference. Judges Fort and Skinner, and Prosecutor Erwin all spoke most eloquently in favor of the probation system and indeterminate sentence. Their words will do much to arouse public sentiment in favor of this movement and toward the appointment of probation officers throughout the State.

The probation system just introduced in Union county, if extended to our police courts, will aid greatly to solve two of the most difficult problems in our own city: How to deal with the non-supporting husband and to prevent crime among children.

The following programme will testify to the interest and importance of this long step forward in the organized charitable and correctional work for our State.

Sarah Manton VanBoskerck,
Assistant Secretary.

Will You Sleep Well

Tonight? Not if you have a cough that begins to torment you as soon as you lie down. You can conquer the cough with Allen's Lung Balsam, which will relieve the pain in the chest, the irritation in the throat and the hard breathing. Since it contains no opium, this remedy may be given freely to children, and to the most delicate adults.

BURGLARS WORKED DUNELLEN

THEY OBTAINED ENTRANCE INTO FOUR HOMES AND SECURED SOME BOOTY.

Overcoats Seemed Popular With the Unbidden Guests—Frightened Off by Dogs.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, March 1.—Burglars made a successful haul at four homes on Prospect avenue last night.

At the home of L. B. Nelson they secured admittance through an unlocked window and ransacked several rooms on the lower floor. All the booty they secured there, however, was a valuable overcoat.

From Nelson's they crossed the street to the home of J. Burke and entered in the same way as before, but all they got was an ulster. They then went up the street and visited residence of Clayton Coon where they obtained some valuable sillerware, consisting of much-prized wedding presents, and an overcoat. They then made an attempt at the house of J. G. Burdick, but were frightened off before they secured admittance. One of the overcoats, which had been taken before, was dropped there in their hurried flight.

Although no clue has been obtained it is thought that the gang, which consisted of at least two men, was from this neighborhood as they were evidently familiar with the movements of the people. They apparently were aware that at Nelson's, L. B. Nelson and his son were both away and the only ones at home were women.

Attempts were made at several other residences in town, but the would-be burglars were frightened off by dogs.

"MY GIRL."

Musical Farce Comedy to be Given at the Casino.

The best musical farce comedy that has been offered here this season is "My Girl," which will be at the Casino Monday night. It is replete with bright talk and cleverly portrayed by a company of well-known artists, headed by the well-known comedians, George Wells and James Johnson. The musical selections are features that cannot fail to please and include the latest hits of the vaudeville stage, "The Mansion of Aching Hearts," "My Bamboo Queen" and "I Can't Help Just Loving That Man," being among the number. Reserved seats for the performance can be secured at Armstrong's and Rowley's pharmacies.

SELECTED TO SPEAK.

G. H. Richards Chosen for Oratorical Contest for TenEyck Prize.

George Huntington Richards, son of Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, has been selected as one of the speakers in the junior class oratorical contest, at Yale University, for the TenEyck prize. The paper submitted by Mr. Richards was "Montcalm and Wolfe." Its excellence lead the faculty committee to select him as one of the competing orators.

Revival Meetings.

The revival meetings which have been held at the Calvary Baptist church during the past few weeks, has resulted in 135 souls being converted. Rev. Scott Wallace was assisted in his labors by Rev. J. F. Turner, of Richmond street.

Few Tramps.

Because the Flemington authorities have decided to commit all vagrants to jail for sixty days there is a scarcity of tramps in that vicinity.

Ordination.

The ordination to the ministry of Rev. Morris F. Matthews will take place in Calvary Baptist church, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Made Commissioner of Deeds.

Justice W. E. Mattison, of the borough, was appointed a commissioner of deeds by the Legislature, this week.

DEADLY SNOWSLIDE.

Scores Buried at a Colorado Mine's Mouth.

SIXTY OR SEVENTY MEN ARE DEAD.

Rescue Party Overwhelmed by a Second Avalanche Which Came Down the Mountain, Sweeping All Before It.

TELLURIDE, Colo., March 1.—Between sixty and seventy men are reported dead beneath a snowslide which wrecked the Liberty Bell mine shafthouse. The slide came down at half past 7 o'clock in the morning.

It is reported that there were between sixty and seventy men in the bunkhouse at the time it was carried down to the gulch below.

The present storm is the worst since 1895, and slides are expected at any minute at Ophir and other places.

Another snowslide occurred on Smuggler mountain in the afternoon, burying about forty men who were engaged in rescuing the men buried in the first slide.

The mine buildings and bunkhouse of the Liberty Bell were completely buried under an avalanche of snow and swept into the gulches hundreds of feet below. It is not yet possible to ascertain the number of lives lost, but the estimate is placed at anywhere from ten to sixty or seventy. The bunkhouse, which was crushed like an eggshell by the avalanche as it slid down the steep mountain side, was crowded with miners.

A few of these by superhuman efforts managed to extricate themselves from among the broken timbers and dig their way out of the snow. Many, however, who were not killed outright were maimed into a state of helplessness and carried down into the maelstrom of debris, snow and earth and ice to a horrible death in the gulches below.

Communication with the mine is entirely cut off, and until the messengers who were hastily sent to the mine upon receipt of the first news of the accident return the full details of the awful catastrophe will not be known. The trail leading to the Liberty Bell mine is fully three miles long and is one of the most difficult to ascend in the entire San Juan country. Especially hard is the trail to climb at this season of the year, when the snow is deepest and the weather severely cold.

WISKER INDICTED.

Central Officials Cleared of Blame For Tunnel Disaster.

NEW YORK, March 1.—John M. Wisker, engine driver of the train that crashed into another in the New York Central tunnel at Fifty-sixth street and Park avenue on the morning of Jan. 8, when seventeen passengers lost their lives, has been indicted for manslaughter by the grand jury. Though a coroner's jury and the state railroad commissioners found that the railroad management was at fault, the grand jury dismissed the complaint, that of maintaining a public nuisance, against the road as a corporation.

A bench warrant was issued for Wisker and given to Detective Sergeant Cuff to serve. It is expected that Wisker will be taken into custody at once.

Thirty-six witnesses were examined by the grand jury, including Senator Depew, President Newman of the New York Central and other heads of departments.

French Premier In a Wreck.

PARIS, March 1.—As the French premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, accompanied by his nephew, was returning from a banquet last night their carriage was overturned as a result of a collision with a street car in the Rue Reaumur. Both the premier and his nephew suffered severe contusions and were cut by broken glass, but they took a cab to their home.

FIGHTERS CENSURED.

South Carolina Senators Sharply Rebuked For Conduct.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Senators McLaurin and Tillman of South Carolina were severely censured by the United States senate for the sensational personal encounter between the two senators on the floor of the senate last Saturday during the consideration of the Philippine tariff bill. The adoption of the resolution of censure probably closes the incident so far as Mr. McLaurin is concerned.

Immediately after the senate convened Mr. Burrows, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, to which the McLaurin-Tillman controversy had been referred, reported the resolution of censure framed by a majority of the committee.

Practically there was no debate on the resolution, although Mr. Gallinger and Mr. Platt (Conn.) made it evident by brief statements that the resolution was not quite satisfactory to them. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 54 to 12.

When Mr. Tillman's name was called, he added a new sensation to the proceedings by rising and saying with ill concealed emotion, "Among gentlemen an apology for an offense committed under heat of blood is usually considered sufficient."

The auditors caught their breath as Mr. Tillman thus entered his protest against the adoption of the resolution. Mr. Tillman's words induced Mr. Kean (N. J.) to rise at the conclusion of the roll and say, "Having heard the senator from South Carolina again insult the senate, I change my vote from aye to no."

At the request of Mr. Burrows the statement of Mr. Tillman was read by the clerk.

Instantly the South Carolina senator disclaimed any intention of being offensive to the senate and said that if they were so considered he would withdraw them.

The chair (Mr. Frye) said that by unanimous consent they might be withdrawn, but Mr. Dietrich (Neb.) objected. The incident was closed without further comment.

MEDALS FOR FILIPINOS.

Members of Native Constabulary Worthy of Reward.

MANILA, March 1.—The United States Philippine commission has ordered that medals of honor be bestowed on Inspector Knauber and two other members of the Filipino constabulary. The three men were going from Cavite to Magallanes, in Cavite province, when they were attacked by eight members of Ramos' band. Knauber telegraphs that he and his companions killed the eight insurgents and captured two Mauser rifles, one Remington rifle, one revolver and three bolos.

Two hundred uniformed bolomen in the island of Samar recently attacked a scouting party of friendly natives and a detachment of the First infantry. Eighty of the bolomen were killed, and one of the friendly natives was severely boloed.

The Santa Cruz bridge, which has been in course of construction for over a year, will be opened with great ceremony today. The United States armored cruiser Brooklyn sailed for home today.

Sugar Bounties Abolished.

BERLIN, March 1.—The German government will save 25,000,000 marks a year as a result of the convention abolishing bounties, agreed upon at the international sugar conference and set forth by the metropole of Antwerp. In view of the budget deficit this is no inconsiderable item. Furthermore, the government has long been wanting to get rid of the bounty system if it could do so without giving other states an advantage. The bounties began when Germany did not export sugar. They grew without design to inordinate proportions through the wording of the law, which did not anticipate the improved process of sugar production.

Testimony Against Patrick.

NEW YORK, March 1.—W. L. Jones, brother of the valet to the late William Marsh Rice, was a witness yesterday against Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer who is on trial before Recorder Goff charged with murder. He testified that he had twice sent chloroform from Texas to his brother here, once in July and again in August of 1900, previous to the alleged murder. John W. Coleman, an old classmate of Patrick in his law class at the University of Texas, also gave testimony against the lawyer.

Shot and Killed Three.

ELGIN, Ill., March 1.—Benjamin F. Ellsworth, an influential man of Woodstock and owner of extensive machine shops, shot and killed Amos Anderson, Mrs. Ellsworth and himself. Ellsworth was jealous of Anderson's attentions to Mrs. Ellsworth. Ellsworth's nineteen-year-old son has been held by the police charged with being in league with his father to kill Anderson.

The New Woman and Her Work

THAT powerful, live and progressive organization, the Methodist Episcopal church, is to be sincerely congratulated on its victory over mediæval ignorance and prejudice in giving women delegates a seat in its most important assembly, the general conference, which meets once in four years. Now let Methodist women respond to this generous action on the part of their brothers by sending as delegates only the most eloquent, discreet and wise ladies in the denomination—ladies, too, of attractive, magnetic presence—who know when to speak and when to keep silence. Methodist women owe this to themselves. They should also do it to confirm the good judgment of those who made it possible for women to sit in the seats of the mighty along with bishops and doctors of divinity and laymen who are sometimes better men than either. This is really a glorious victory for woman, and its influence will be farreaching. One step more, the regular ordination of capable women to the Methodist ministry. That achieved there will be one more Christian denomination with which a woman's rights woman can conscientiously unite. Women have ever been the pillars of support of the Methodist church in particular. For that reason it looked like a going back on his own mother when the Rev. Dr. Buckley, noted mainly for his opposition to women, set himself so bitterly against them. Happily, however, his influence was little outside of his own conference. I wonder if it was a consolation to Dr. Buckley to find that of those voting against women delegates all the conferences except his own and three others are composed of foreign immigrants who have not yet learned the ways of this free country.

All told, 120 local conferences of the Methodist church voted on the question of admitting women delegates to the quadrennial general conference. Of the 120 only twenty were against, and all of these but four were German, Danish or Swiss. If the question were asked which could vote more intelligently on all measures arising in this republic, the American Methodist women or the members of those sixteen conferences that voted against these women, what would the answer be?

An American girl, Matilda Lotz, a Californian, is declared in Paris to be the successor of Rosa Bonheur in animal painting. She was a friend and protegee of Rosa Bonheur, which fact was invaluable to her in the formative stage of her art. Miss Lotz shows the admirable drawing, the strong, free touch of the famous woman animal painter.

Few women artists, particularly American artists, know how to draw.

Director Cooley of the Cleveland commission of charities discovered in Cleveland a survival of mediævalism that can hardly be credited in this land of Bibles. In that city, as elsewhere, prisoners convicted of petty offenses work out their fines when they cannot pay them. They labor at broommaking and other tasks till they have earned enough to pay the fine; then they are released. It has been the custom to allow women prisoners only half as much pay as the men. Result in every case, a woman had to work twice as long as a man to pay for precisely the same sort of offense. Finally, after this custom had continued for generations, the thought suddenly occurred to Mr. Cooley that it was a "rank injustice," and he abolished it.

Miss Frances Keay of Philadelphia, said to be the youngest woman lawyer in America, will devote herself to politics, reform politics.

Miss Mary Emma Wooley, the new president of Mount Holyoke college, is a doctor of literature and speaks five languages.

PANELED ROOMS.

Their Possibilities In the Way of Decoration.

At least one room in the modern house should have a paneled arrangement of the walls either carried out in wood or in tapestry or in one of those artistic wall papers which so cleverly imitate tapestry and which can be bought in four rolls, each roll being a separate scene. Brown oak, green oak, Flemish oak and mahogany lend themselves well to paneling or wainscoting and make very handsome rooms when combined with a wide frieze of greenish tapestry or continuous hunting scenes of tapestry or Spanish leather.

GREEN OAK PANELED ROOM.

The room in the illustration is done in green oak, with a frieze of tapestry in green and blues. The furniture is upholstered to correspond; the chairs are noticeable for their comfortable as well as elegant lines. Paintings combining different tones of red add touches of color to the walls. There is a very artistic writing table covered with silver writing implements. The little wrought iron lamp overhead has a ruby globe. Tall mullioned windows allow the brilliant sunlight to enter and make attractive this cool scheme of color. In general the whole tone of the room is a shimmering green, relieved by occasional gleams of red.

New Summer Goods.

Among the dainty cotton dress goods for the coming summer are organdies mostly with satin stripes, dimities in every conceivable color and shade, some of them striped with embroidered and all over designs of lovely flowers, and exquisite batistes. There is also dotted swiss in white, ecru and grass color and no end of embroidered and printed muslins. These are varied, some being simply dotted and others quite lavishly embroidered, mostly in color, on a white or solid colored ground or varied by satin stripes with the daintiest and most delicate of floral designs between. Dots seem to be favorite figures in contrasting colors or in different shades of the same color. Arabesques and large figures like those in the printed liberty are seen. There are sixty-four colors and tints shown in the cotton fabrics.

"Ah, Frances! Say it all, Frances, my wife!"

"Frances, my wife!" A passionate cry burst from the girl's lips.

"Yes, Frances, your wife. The woman who loves you, who has loved you from the day she saw your picture and heard your story! Oh, he never knew—he never dreamed it. Nothing can silence those words: 'Frances, my wife.' I will look upon your face, and you shall, you shall see mine! The matches—ah, they are here!"

"Hold!" he cried, huskily. "I should be unworthy of your love and trust if I could break my sacred promise. Look upon me if you will, but the eyes that would weep tears of joy to see you will be closed while the match is burning. Look, if to carry in memory the living record of one face will help you, take mine, and with it, right or wrong, the love of Richard Somers." She struck the match and held it above his lifted face, advancing her own and gazing eagerly upon him.

"Ah, again! again! My husband, my husband," she remurmured. "It is the face of an angel!" The match grew short and the fatal red spark was showing in the flame when there came a flash of light in the window across the room, the quick, sharp report of a pistol rang out, and Richard Somers, reeling, plunged through her arms face down upon the floor.

The awful silence that followed the tragedy was broken at length by the faint whisper of the dazed and half-unconscious girl.

"Speak," she said, kneeling over the prostrate form; "why—what is the matter?—what has happened?" Her hands found his head and passed rapidly over it. "You do not answer me!" She drew slowly back from him, chilled with a great and unspeakable horror. Her hands were wet and slippery. Instinctively she knew it was blood. She could not rise nor cry out; her heart seemed paralyzed, her throat in the clutch of an invisible hand. The door opened silently, and the doctor's low voice was heard:

"Somers, Somers, the day is almost breaking." There was no response. He spoke again. Then the two figures became dimly visible. "What has happened?" he whispered, bending above them. He, too, felt the tell-tale blood upon his fingers as he touched the prostrate man, and, rising hastily, struck a match. Somers lay senseless before him, the young woman kneeling by his side staring speechlessly upon her bloody hands. His quick glance swept the room and rested upon her. The match fell to the floor and went out, leaving the scene to blacker darkness.

"Remorse!" he said, in a whisper, and was still. Rallying his faculties at length, Dr. Brodnar hurriedly lit the gas, and with his stern features contracted examined the fallen man and saw a wound back of the right temple from which the dark blood was still oozing.

"He has shot himself," he said. A moment he stood, with covered face, wavering in his tracks. Suddenly the enormity of the interests at stake flashed upon him and stupor gave way to intelligent action. Seizing a towel, he wiped the girl's hands and forced her into a chair.

"Stay there," he said, "and on your life do not cry out or leave the room before I return. Do you understand?"

"Yes," she said, simply, and fixed her gaze upon the window. He bound the towel tightly about the head of the wounded man, lifted him in his arms as if he were a child, and passed out into the night. A few moments later the rush of wheels was heard upon the street.

"Some patient of the doctor's is worse," said a policeman upon a corner two squares away as the flying vehicle passed him.

Dr. Brodnar was rescued from a bad complication by his especial treasure, Joe, the driver.

"Go and bring your mother," he said, quickly, as he lifted the unconscious Somers from the carriage in front of his office. "Don't lose one second! Keep your mouth shut." Joe was out of hearing before the doctor reached his operating-room. The doctor's assistant, half dressed, appeared quickly. Somers was stretched upon a table, and his wound critically examined. The bullet had entered over and behind the right ear, and the side of his head was clotted with blood. A second wound an inch farther back became visible as the blood was washed away, but a probe carefully inserted in the forward wound came out of the other, touching the skull in passing. There was no particle of brain-matter in the blood.

"Syncope from concussion," said Brodnar. "Watch him carefully until I return and do not permit him to speak." The sound of wheels approaching caused him to descend the steps three at a time. He pressed back the aged negro woman who was dismounting.

"To the same place, Joe! Hurry!" he said, and the door closed.

The woman so hastily secured was none other than the "mammy" who had looked after the welfare of Frances since infancy. She had been encouraged to absent herself for the night. Trained under the old regime, with a sense of proprietorship in her old mistress and daughter, with a deep and impregnable pride in the family, she needed no cautioning. Nevertheless Dr. Brodnar said as they entered silently the deserted yard:

"There has been an accident, mammy. Ask no questions and answer none. Permit nobody to see your young mistress. Do you understand?"

"De chile ain't hu't, young marster?"

"No. A friend was. Her mind has been affected deeply by her father's condition and this shock has upset her. You must know nothing more of it."

Frances sat as he had left her, in the armchair. She offered no resistance when they laid her upon the bed and administered an opiate. The stains of blood were carefully removed from her hands, and her wrapper changed, and Dr. Brodnar prepared to depart, for the day was now breaking. He remembered the pistol, and was searching the floor for it, when the reaction set in and Frances began to cry bitterly. Obeying his silent motion, mammy passed into the dressing-room and he took the girl's hand.

"The whole blame rests upon me," he said, gently. "Keep quiet; I will see you through." And then a cry burst from him: "What a fool! what a fool! And to think that Dick Somers—!" At sound of this name the girl's grief became almost uncontrollable.

"He loved me," she said, brokenly. "And it has cost him his life!"

"Loved you! Never! If he had aimed better, I could forgive him." She was silent.

"If he had aimed better!"—then she sat up with almost frantic energy.

"Yes. The wound is not fatal. Frances, Frances—back, my child—"

"Take me to him—I must, I must go to him—"

"You are simply mad!"

"He is my husband—I love him! I love him!"

Brodnar groaned and turned away his head. Suddenly the girl shivered and drew back, her gaze set fearfully on something behind him.

"Close the window," she whispered in a changed voice, "they may return."

"Why—what—what do you mean?" He was upon his feet, a strange light in his face.

"It came from that window," she whispered fearfully; "some one fired through the slats."

"God in Heaven!" he cried. "I thank you! Dick! Dick! forgive me!" He plunged out into the gray dawn and left the girl amazed and terrified.

CHAPTER III.

Richmond at the time these events were occurring was in a tumult of excitement. The quarrel between the north and south in congress had long since reached the acute stage, and preparations were forming for that titanic struggle which was to shake America for four long years. South Carolina had led off, followed by Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana and Texas. The capital of the confederacy was in the far south, and while no one expected that Richmond was to become the center of political intrigue, it had been easily foreseen that Virginia, being a slave state, would join her southern sisters, and that if war followed she would furnish the battle ground by reason of her geographical position. Few people believed in a serious conflict to come, but there were some who foretold a bloody struggle, and these were among the powerful, who gave time and direction to public sentiment.

There was much discussion in state military circles, and a confident prediction that when the crisis came the south must recall her sons from the service of the union, and enlist them under the banners of the state's rights party, leaving many vacancies difficult to fill.

Pass' Telephone Message.

There was a banquet in Chicago not long ago to which one of the guests, a lawyer, had taken his office cat, a feline being the emblem of the organization that gave the dinner. The banquet was given in the Great Northern hotel, where the cat the lawyer had taken to the dinner became lost. The next day the lawyer called up the hotel on the telephone and asked if they had his cat yet. He was told that the bell boys had hunted all around among the cats kept as rat catchers in the hotel, and that they had finally selected four cats, one of which they felt sure belonged to the lawyer. "Well," said the lawyer, "I haven't time to come over and pick my cat out. Just hold those animals one by one up to the telephone receiver, and pinch their tails and make them yowl." One of the bell boys dutifully held up the cats to the telephone, and made each one of the felines give a good, resounding wail. The lawyer dismissed each cat until the third cat was put up to the receiver. It gave one yowl, when the lawyer enthusiastically exclaimed: "Yes, all right; that's my cat. I know that voice. Send her over right away." So the cat was sent over to the lawyer's office, and turned out to be his missing pussy.—Chicago Tribune.

He Died of Plethora.

Chief Game Warden Reutinger was telling a story a few days ago about a man whose judgment was exceedingly bad, despite the fact that he was a scholar of many years' thorough training.

This man and his wife had determined on a visit to relatives in a nearby city and expected to be gone for three days. The man and wife had bought a horse not long since, but only knew in a general way how it should be cared for. The question that presented itself to them was what to do with the horse.

On the morning that they departed the husband put nine feeds—which included hay, oats and corn, in the manger. Then the scholar placed three buckets of water in the stall. He figured that the horse would regulate his eating, but he didn't. He ate it all as fast as he could. Any horseman can tell the reader the result.—Columbus Dispatch.

WAR COLLEGE PLAN.

Secretary Root's Pet Idea to Be Carried Into Effect.

Training School at Washington, D. C., to Educate Officers in the Practical Handling of Troops During a Campaign.

One of the best fruits of the Spanish-American war is the foundation of the great war college at Washington barracks. A decisive step toward the consummation of the plans of Secretary Root was taken recently when Representative Hull, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, introduced a bill providing for the establishment of such an institution and the reorganization of the general staff along modern lines.

The secretary of war, Hon. Elihu Root, in his plans for the proposed war college has taken a comprehensive grasp of the situation. At the launching of his idea he says: "It should be kept constantly in mind that the object and ultimate aim of all this preparatory work is to train officers to command men in war. Theory must not, therefore, be allowed to displace practical application."

The principal advantages which it is designed to secure are:

1. The bringing of all the different branches of military education into one system under the direct supervision of a body of officers whose business it will be to make every part of the system effective.

2. The establishment of definite required courses of instruction in the officers' schools which will be the foundation of the whole system.

3. The establishment of the general service and staff college upon the foundation of the infantry and cavalry school at Fort Leavenworth, so that every officer who displays superior qualities in the lower schools may be instructed there in every branch of military service.

4. The completion of the series of instructions by the war college, which

GEN. S. B. M. YOUNG.

will ultimately be in effect a post-graduate course for the study of the greater problems of military science and national defense.

5. The establishment of a record in the war department upon which shall appear the names of officers who have exhibited special capacity, in order that they may be known by the commander in chief and by the country whenever special service is required.

6. The throwing open of the schools to the officers of the national guard, of the former volunteers and the graduates of military colleges and schools for instruction by and with the officers of the regular army.

To accomplish this purpose Secretary Root has ordered the foundation at every military post of officers' schools for elementary instruction in theory and practice and special service schools. These latter will be located at the artillery school at Fortress Monroe, Va., the engineers' school of application, which is located at the Washington barracks, where the new war college will also be housed; the schools of submarine defense at Fort Totten, N. Y., the school of application for cavalry and field artillery at Fort Riley, Kan., and the army medical school, which is also situated at Washington. A general service and staff college is recommended at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and the war college for the most advanced instruction will be located at the Washington barracks.

It is estimated that the additional expense for the fitting of these schools with buildings and apparatus will be about $400,000 a year.

Gen. S. M. B. Young has been selected as the president of the war college. His assistants or advisory board have been tentatively selected as follows: Gen. J. F. Bell, now on service in the Philippines, as commander of the school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.; Gen. G. L. Gillespie, chief of engineers; Gen. W. F. Randolph, chief of artillery, and Col. A. L. Mills, superintendent of the military academy at West Point.

Black Farm in England.

A black farm is kept by Honorable Lilah Cavendish, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Lord Chesham. It is located in Buckinghamshire, England, and every living thing on it is black except her dairymaids. She has black cattle, black horses, black sheep, black goats, black dogs, black cats, black chickens, etc. One night a fox cleared the henroop, and since then she has kept no chickens.

Beer Drinking in Europe.

The workmen of Germany are not the greatest European beer drinkers. Their average consumption per day is two quarts per head, while in England the average among the same class is slightly larger.

SPORTING NEWS

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Invitations have been extended to the leading preparatory schools in this section of the country to participate in the first annual interscholastic meet to be held under the auspices of Lehigh University Athletic Association. Among those associations which have been invited is that of the North Plainfield High School. The affair takes place Saturday afternoon, May 3. No action has been taken in the matter by the Borough school boys as yet.

BASKET BALL.

A basket ball game between the Leal's School team and the Y. M. C. A. aggregation is scheduled for Monday evening. It will be played at the Y. M. C. A.

THREE ESCAPED.

Trio Escaped From Rahway Reformatory Yesterday Afternoon—Haven't Been Caught.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, March 1—Three long term prisoners, one of them, a "trusty" named Woods, escaped from the State Reformatory here, late yesterday afternoon. The other two were named Dressler and Fields, both of whom were from Newark.

The men were not noticed missing until roll call. They scaled a fifteen foot wall and then escaped to the woods. A general alarm has been sent out but so far no trace of the men has been discovered.

HOW TO JOIN.

Concerning the Membership of the County Bar Association.

There seems to be some misapprehension among members of the Bar of Union county as to the method of making application for membership to the association recently formed.

At a recent meeting of the trustees, Senator Cross, of Elizabeth, Wm. R. Codington, of Plainfield, and Clarence D. Ward, of Rahway, were appointed a committee on admission. Applications for membership should be addressed to the committee, or any member thereof. The committee will meet the latter part of next week to pass upon applications made prior to that time. Several applications have already been made and it is the intention of the trustees to complete the organization as soon as practicable.

the lowlands from that point to Bound Brook were flooded. The water went over the Rock avenue bridge and gullied out the road making it impassable. Reports of damage of greater or less extent have come from the farms which border the stream below that point.

The sudden rise of water in and about Richmond street blocked trolley traffic eastward for four hours. At 5 o'clock the cars were unable to get past Richmond and Fifth streets for the first, the water being even with car floors. It was after 9 o'clock before the water subsided enough to allow the trips to Westfield and Netherwood being resumed.

In other sections of the city, the tracks were under water to some extent but no delay was caused in running cars. On West Front street in the low dip near Rock avenue there was some impediment to travel but nothing of any great account.

The only damage of any consequence in North Plainfield township was the wrecking by water of Hermann's bridge in the gap. The water, while quite high, did not overflow to any considerable extent and all of the dams in the upper section of Stony brook remain standing as firm as ever.

FLOODS NEAR SOMERVILLE

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 1—The storm of yesterday was accompanied by plenty of thunder and lightning in the afternoon. The Raritan river arose very rapidly and it was not long before the meadows were covered with water. Some people were of the opinion that it was higher than it has been before this winter. Trolley cars were unable to get through Bound Brook at all. The trains on the L. and S. Division were not run, as the Central ticket agent here had a telegram at about 5 o'clock to sell no tickets for points on that line.

The Rockaway Valley train that left Whitehouse at 3 o'clock was unable to reach New Germantown because of a bridge washed away.

FLOOD IN BOUND BROOK

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, March 1—The high water mark reached by the Rairtan river has caused another memorable flood in this place. Water to the depth of three feet spread over the lower portion of the town last night and has not yet reached. People are going about in boats and improvised rafts. Hundreds of dollars worth of damage has been caused to merchants on Main street alone.

Today no trolley cars are running to New Brunswick and the tracks of both the Lehigh and Central railroads are under water.

W. H. B. Drake, of Orchard place, has so far recovered from his serious illness that he was able to be on the porch Thursday.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

CENTRAL TO RUN MORE TRAINS TO PLAINFIELD

Elizabeth Journal Declares That Change Will be Made in the Service May 1.

MORE THROUGH TRAINS.

WILL RUN EVERY HOUR BETWEEN NEW YORK AND PHILADELPHIA.

Central Has Ordered Sixty New Locomotives for This Increased Service—Additional Trains on Newark-Elizabeth Branch.

Important things are said to be doing on the New Jersey Central in the line of proposed improvements. According to the Elizabeth Journal, beginning May 1, the company will greatly improve its service by increasing the number of trains between New York and Philadelphia, and also on the suburban routes—the Newark and New York, and Newark and Elizabeth branches.

It is said that hourly trains will be run between New York and Phildelphia. These trains will run through to the Reading terminus in Philadelphia, without change at Wayne Junction. According to the Journal it is also proposed to run trains between Newark and New York every fifteen minutes, and to increase the number of local trains between New York, Elizabeth and suburban stations as far as Plainfield. Additional trains will be run on the Elizabeth and Newark branch, while Roselle and Lorraine will also be benefitted by the increased train service.

The company has placed an order for sixty new locomotives for this increased train service. Some of the locomotives are of the new suburban class, about which much has already been said.

Regarding the through trains between New York and Philadelphia, it is said that a majority of them will make Plainfield as a regular stop, while some of them will stop on flag. It is also reported that for this express service new and handsome cars, as well as new engines, will compose the trains.

The company realizes the amount of traffic being taken by the trolley company along its line, and it is believed that with frequent trains the travelling public will be more willing to ride on the New Jersey Central, where quicker time can be made, than on trolley cars, where travelling is uncertain and somewhat slow.

After Her Money.

John Addison, of West Second street, was arrested by Constable Gjetelsen, this morning, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses preferred against him by Mrs. Sarah Dickinson. He was taken before Justice Mosher and released in $100 bonds for appearance Tuesday. Mrs. Dickinson is represented by Counselor Wm. G. DeMeza and Addison by Codington & Swackhamer.

Weren't Expected.

A successful surprise party was tendered to Miss Eva Webster, of East Second street, last evening. The affair was arranged by her sister, Miss Grace Webster, and Miss Florence Symons. The young folks to the number of thirty-five met at the home of Miss Symons.

Change in Marshals.

Marshal Phillip Voorhees, of the borough, resigned his position recently and he served last night for the last time. He will engage in another business. Lawrence Fahn has been appointed to fill the position temporarily until the regular appointments are made.

POLICE RAIDED POOL ROOM IN WESTFIELD

Proprietor and Sixteen Men Arrested on the Charge of Gambling—Were Held.

WAS VERY EXCITING.

WAS LOCATED ON BROAD STREET, RUN BY E. J. SNYDER.

Number of Complaints Made—Walter Terry Claimed He Had Lost Considerable Money—Proprietor Claims Ignorance of It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 3—Under the direction of County Prosecutor English, the pool room of Emory J. Snyder, on Broad street, was raided Saturday night, with the result that the proprietor and sixteen men were arrested. The proprietor was held in $250 bail on the charge of keeping a gambling house and the others in $100 bail on the charge of gambling. They will appear at the May term of the Grand Jury. The prisoners were arraigned before Justice N. B. Toucey and in every case bail was furnished.

From time to time there has been received complaints about Snyder's pool room, some people alleging that gambling was allowed. In consequence the police have had their eye on the place. A climax was reached when Peter Terry, a young man of this place, entered a complaint to the police, claiming that he had lost considerable money in the pool room.

Saturday night it was planned to raid the place. Officers Young, Knapp, O'Neill, Toucey and Constable Peek, were selected and they surrounded the place at 9 o'clock. There was the greatest consernation and surprise. The room was filled with men and in the wild scramble several got away. The police, however, succeeded in capturing sixteen men, a number being well-known and popular in Westfield. In the raid a slot machine was attacked and put out of business by one of the officers.

The raid has caused a sensation in this place. Snyder, the proprietor, claims that its all spite work, that if there was gambling in his place he did not know it. He intimates that some one has been well paid to furnish information. The police say that there is a determination to put a stop to gambling in Westfield wherever the practice exists.

PREACHED ON "OPTIMISM."

Special Sermon by Rev. A. C. Nickson Preached Yesterday Morning.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Soul's church, delivered a sermon on "Optimism," yesterday morning. This discourse was a sequel to a recent one on "Pessimism." It was to have been given a week ago yesterday, bvt owing to the stormy weather, was not given until yesterday. The weather of yesterday morning detained many who, no doubt, were desirious of hearing the sermon.

Mr. Nickerson showed clearly that he is strongly optimistic. One of the principal thoughts of his discourse was that which illustrated the optimism of Browning, with his bright and genial nature, as compared with the pessimism of Carlyle, who possessed characteristics that were just opposite.

SPECIAL MASS.

Said in Honor of Pope's Birthday at St. Mary's R. C. Church.

In honor of Pope Leo XIII's ninety-third birthday and the beginning of his silver jubilee as the head of the Catholic church, special mass was said at St. Mary's R. C. church, yesterday morning. At the last mass the pastoral letter from Archbishop Currigan, of New York, was read and spoken on. A short sermon of the Pope's twin celebration was afterward given by Rev. Father Farley.

The anniversary services were continued in the church, this morning, by a solemn high mass which began at 8 o'clock. Rev. Father Egan was in charge.

CHANCE TO GET AN EDUCATION AT LEHIGH

Free Scholarships at That University Are Open to Plainfield Young Men.

IN VARIOUS COURSES.

THE COMPETITIVE EXAMINATIONS WILL BE HELD IN JUNE.

If Enough Applicants Are Found in Plainfield, Special Examinations Will be Held in This City —Other Details.

Announcement has been made by the registrar of Lehigh University, at South Bethlehem, Pa., of the number of conditions of the scholarships offered for the coming collegiate year. This information is of value to ambitious young men in this city, inasmuch as they are eligible to enter the various competitions.

From Plainfield this well known institution of learning has drawn a number of students in the past and it has a host of friends here. All the prizes now offered are well worth striving for and it is likely that the contests will be keen. There are two scholarships in the classical course, amounting to $150 and $100, respectively, and one in the Latin-scientific course worth $125. Single scholarships are also offered in the following courses: Civil engineering, mechanical engineering, electrical engineering, mining engineering and metallurgy and chemistry. Each of these is worth $150.

The examinations take place in June, and the scholarships will be awarded to the students having the highest general averages in all subjects required for entrance. A provision is made, however, that the competitor does not receive a mark below seventy per cent. in any subject.

To be eligible to take the examinations the applicant must announce his desire to the college authorities at least one week before the competitions are scheduled to commence, which will be June 19, 20 and 21. As there is but one prize to be awarded in the departments of mining and metallurgy, the successful competitor may choose one or other of these courses.

Members of the college faculty will conduct the examinations at the University. Should there be a sufficient number of applicants to warrant it, a petition to hold an examination in this city or any other place will be considered. It has been arranged to pay the sums named to the successful competitors in two installments during the freshman year, and the scholarships will be renewed from year to year, provided the holders are in full standing in all their studies. All the fees are remitted to those holding the scholarships, except the fees and deposits required in the various laboratories.

In this connection it should be noted that this institution has a considerable number of scholarships for free tuition in the classical and Latin-scientific courses. Scholarships through the postponement of payment of tuition are granted to worthy and needy students who give satisfactory evidence of their total inability to pay tuition while in the University. The only condition attached to this offer is that the student pass all entrance examinations creditably and maintain good scholarship throughout his college course. Plainfielders who are interested in this matter have been requested to communicate with N. M. Emery, the reigstrar of the institution.

Trolley Tracks Spread.

The heavy frost leaving the ground suddenly in the past few days, caused a perceptible spread in the trolley tracks at the Watchung avenue terminus. Cars experience some difficulty in crossing the switches and also on the side stretches. A gang of men was placed at work repairing them Saturday.

Fumigating Stores.

Many of the local stores have had their places of business thoroughly fumigated as a precautionary measure against disease germs. Considering the number of persons who go in and out of the various stores every day, it is believed by the health authorities to be a wise provision.

Lots of Breaks.

Employes of the Plainfield Water Supply Company have been busy during the past few days repairing the breaks in service pipes as a result of the recent heavy frost. There were a number of such cases in the borough.

PREACHER TALKS ABOUT LOCAL "SPEAK EASIES"

Rev. John MacMurray Again Declared That There Were 180 Illegal Places Here.

TALKED ON BILL NO. 42.

IT WAS A GENERAL DISCUSSION ON THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Referred at Some Length to Local Situation, Which, He Said, Would Not be Affected, at Present, by Senator Lee's Bill.

Possibilities which may arise from the passing of bill No. 42, introduced in the Senate by Senator Lee, of Atlantic county, formed the theme of a stirring sermon by Rev. John MacMurray at the Monroe Avenue church, last evening.

As the bill deals with the liquor traffic, the preacher's subject gave him an opportunity to refer to the illegal and other dispensaries in this city. He reiterated his statement that Plainfield harbors 180 "speak easies."

Bill No. 42 has for its object the taking away of the county court's jurisdiction over excise infractions of the law and placing them in the hands of corporation judges and Common Councils. This, Mr. MacMurray said, simply means giving the saloon keepers the privilege to sell liquor whenever they please, especially on Sundays, without any fear of the law. As Plainfield is already governed in this way, he declared it would not at present have any local effect but there is no knowing what the future will bring forth.

His reason for saying that "open" house would result from the passing of the law is that city judges and councilmen are elective offices and that in order to obtain them politicians must curry favor with the people. This brings them in contact with the saloon element, which is always a powerful one in political circles, and securing its support, they feel in duty bound to return the favor. When an excise arrest is brought about the punishment, he declared, depends upon how much the offender has helped the judge or members of the council attain their places. With the power of punishment in the county judges hands it is another thing as theirs are appointive seats and in rendering a decision the thought of whose friends it might hurt is not taken into consideration.

When the bill was introduced February 3, Mr MacMurray said, it was stated that it was only for the relief of Atlantic City. Careful scrutiny and agitation has revealed the fact that it will affect every part of New Jersey. Locally, he continued, there is no danger at present, as the city judge's stand in such matters is only too well known to cause any uneasiness among the law abiding citizens. But there is no telling when the saloon people will get power enough to place their candidate in office and the open saloon in Plainfield will be the result. The agitation, which has been started to oppose the bill, he said, has been the greatest in the State since the infamous race track legislation. If it continues, he said, the measure will meet with utter defeat if it is reported in the Assembly. It is now in the hands of a committee of which Charles A. Reed, of the borough, is a member.

After citing various theological reasons why the question concerns the church, Mr. MacMurray took occasion to speak of the subject as it exists in this city. Praise, he said, was due the council for diminishing the number of saloons by one and he hoped it would reconsider its recent vote. Fourteen saloons, he said, was enough to supply all bibulous needs and this number could be reduced annually until all are gone and none would be missed.

He also declared Chief Kiely should receive the hearty commendation of every citizen for the energy he has displayed in unearthing "speak easies." The arrest and punishment of one offender recently should be the forerunner of many others, he said, as it would not require a great deal of forethought or diligent searching to reveal four or five weekly out of the 180 in the city. By way of explanation, Mr. MacMurray said his statements were not made for the purpose of smirching the fair name of the city but to get at the root of the evil which is known to exist.

Miss Mamie Luff, of Somerset place, has returned from an extended visit with her mother at Elizabeth.

NAMED LLOYD AND WARD

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS HELD THEIR PRIMARY SATURDAY EVENING.

Considerable Interest, Although Attendance Was Small—No Trouble in Getting Men.

There were just fourteen Democrats that attended the primary held Saturday evening in the basement of the North Plainfield High School. What was lacking in numbers was made up in enthusiasm, for those present evidenced considerable interest in the meeting. It was a short primary and the work was completed in a few minutes.

Andrew E. Kenney called the meeting to order, W. J. Conroy was elected chairman and Walter C. Linbarger, secretary. The Councilmanic nominations were John Lloyd for the first district and F. M. Ward for the second district. The other nominations were left vacant to be filled by Levi Kilne and Walter C. Linbarger, committee on vacancies. The Board of Health appropriations was $550.

"VICTORY FOR AFRICA"

THOSE WERE THE LAST WORDS OF MISS RACHEL MAIR.

Story of the Death of a Devoted Missionary in the African Field Just Received.

Thomas Mair, of Leland avenue, received Thursday, a letter from Miss Arms, who was a co-worker with the late Miss Rachel Mair, prior to her death in Wissika, Africa. This letter gives something of the details concerning the latter part of Miss Mair's life. It states that she was taken ill November 18, 1901, which was about the time she intended resuming her work of teaching. She died January 18, 1902, the result of a billious fever. From the commencemet of her illness until the end she did not gain any strength.

On January 17, the day before her death, Miss Mair's people fasted and prayed. She said that she liked to be at Wissika, but it was nicer to be with Jesus. She also said that Jesus was going to give her a good place in Heaven. Miss Mair's last words were "Victory for Africa." The burial of the remains took palce at Wisiska on January 20, with appropriate services.

The people among whom Miss Mair was laboring became greatly attached to their leader. When Miss Mair came home after spending five years among them, she promised that she would return. The people were a little doubtful for other missionaries had promised the same, but had failed to return. When Miss Mair reached her mission station on the return journey she was given a most hearty welcome. The people were so glad to see their teacher. Her devotion to her work it is believed will result in the salvation of thousands of souls.

WILL RETURN.

Resignation of S. St. J. McCutchen as President of School Board is Only Temporary.

To the Editor of The Daily Press: —Your kind article in your issue of Friday evening last would indicate that Samuel St. John McCutchen had, for some reason not made known, permanently resigned as president of the Board of Education of the borough of North Plainfield, and that I was permanently selected in his stead. The fact is that Mr McCutchen is obliged to be absent from the State for about two months, and there is no provision in the school law for the payment of bills by school warrants unless signed by a president. The signature cannot be by an acting president. Consequently, the resignation and my own election is certainly considered by the board and by myself as a temporary one only. When Mr. McCutchen returns, without doubt he will be re-elected again to serve in the office which he has filled with admirable tact and sagacity, and which I trust he will continue to fill as long as he remains in the board.

A. V. D. Honeyman.

After More Pay.

A regular meeting of the Bricklayers and Masons' Union is scheduled for Wednesday night, when some important matters will be considered relative to the proposed change in the hours of work and pay therefor.

Operator Back Again.

Fred Golden, formerly night operator at the North Avenue station, has returned to his old position, which fact his many friends will be glad to learn. After he left Plainfield he was stationed at Jersey City.

TOLD PARISHIONERS OF POPE'S JUBILEE

Impressive Services Were Held at St. Joseph's R. C. Church Yesterday.

SPECIAL MUSIC GIVEN.

REV. FATHER MILLER DELIVERED ADDRESS APPROPRIATE TO THE DAY.

Referred to Papacy and Its Work Among the Nations—Achievements of the Present Pope—His Eventful Life.

Impressive and interesting services were held at St. Joseph's church, yesterday, in honor of the anniversary of the ninety-third birthday of Pope Leo XIII. Owing to the inclement weather there were not very many worshippers present at the early morning masses, but the one at 10:30 o'clock was well attended. At that mass thanksgiving was offered for the preservation of the Pope and prayers were offered that he might be spared for continued usefulness. Following this the Te Deum was sung by the entire congregation.

In the evening there was a large attendance, when the choir, composed of Miss Tiny Smith, soprano; Mrs. Reilly, alto; A. E. LaPorte, tenor, and J. E. Bailey, bass, rendered Millard's vespers. Mrs. A. E. LaPorte, the organist, presided at the organ.

Rev. Father Miller delivered a lecture appropriate to the celebration of Pope Leo XIII's birthday. The first part of his discourse referred to the Papacy as the centre of Catholic unity. That as Christ had prayed that the church might be one, the Catholic church had endeavored to maintain that unity which has ever existed in the church.

Father Miller said that while the Catholics in various parts of the country were under different forms of political government that, so far as religious matters are concerned, they all stand united under one physical head. The rector then spoke of the nations of the world and told how they are linked together. He said that there had been objections to Papacy on the grounds that favoritism had been shown to people of wealth and rulers of nations. These objections, Father Miller said, were not substantiated by facts for Henry IV, of Germany; Henry VIII, of England, and many others of prominence had been excommunicated for violations of church rules and government.

In speaking of the long life of the Pope, Father Miller said that he had lived to see the ruler of every nation go down to the grave, and every country convulsed with dissentions. He also referred to the fact that today Leo XIII celebrates his silver jubilee as a pope. He has served forty-nine years as cardinal, fifty-nine years as a bishop and sixty-five years as a priest, something never done before by a pope. If he lives until March 3, 1903, he will celebrate his silver jubilee as a pontificat, golden jubilee as cardinalate and diamond jubilee as a bishopric.

The celebration in honor of the Pope was concluded this morning with high mass, which was attended by a large number of people.

ANNUAL MEETINGS.

Women's Missionary Societies of First Presbyterian Church to Meet.

The annual meetings of the Women's Missionary Societies, of the First Presbyterian church, will be held in the chapel tomorrow. In the morning at 11 o'clock the annual reports of the Home Society will be given and there will be election of officers. Miss Josephine Petrie will tell of her recent trip to Oklahoma and the Indian Territory. At noon there will be a basket luncheon.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock the Foreign Missionary Society will hold a business meteing, at which time Mrs. Janvier, a missionary from India, will address the meeting. All interested are invited.

Celebrated His Birthday.

In honor of his seventy-first birthday, A. A. Weeks, of West Seventh street, received a number of friends at his home, Saturday evening. A number of relatives were present and joined in extending congratulations. A supper was served in the evening and Mr. Week's place at the table was a bank of flowers sent by loving friends.

Mrs. Cox, of New York, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Miller, of Orchard place.

ANXIETY OVER FLOODS ENDED FOR PLAINFIELD

Brooks Back Within Bounds Again, and High Water Has Gone Down.

COST OF LOCAL FLOOD.

CAVEINS KEPT STREET DEPARTMENT MEN BUSY YESTERDAY.

Bound Brook is Free From Water Once More—Loss to Its Merchants Will Amount to $500—Other Reports of Water.

While stories of disaster wrought by flood and high water are coming in from all sections, Plainfield and vicinity is practically free from water. The local brooks have almost resumed their normal course while reports from the Raritan and its tributaries show a decided decrease in the high water. While several stories of casualties in Somerset county have been heard, investigation has failed to prove their truth.

Yesterday's rain was evident in the neighboring streams although they did not attempt to overflow their banks. Two cave-ins, reported to Street Commissioner Gavett, kept the city men busy nearly all day. A culvert caved in at the corner of Washington and Sixth streets. It was temporarily repaired. Some deep holes appeared in Berckman street under the railroad bridge, late in the afternoon. It required several hours to fill them up and put the roadway in condition for traffic.

The damage done in Plainfield by Friday night's flood will fall chiefly on private owners, through ruined lawns and shrubbery and flooded cellars. The city's loss will be slight, the streets damaged being mostly those which the street department had already planned to repair this spring. Most of the damage was done to East Front, Richmond and Berckman streets, and Elm place. The flood will not cost the city over $50.

The flood at Bound Brook lowered Saturday until, at noon, that day, the ground was seen once more on Main street, the principal business thoroughfare. The highest water was at 4 o'clock Saturday morning when the flood was a foot deep on Main street near the railroad station.

The heaviest loss was suffered by Mundy Brothers, dealers in flour and feed. The water entered their store and damaged a large portion of their stock. The total loss to the Bound Brook merchants, as estimated by a prominent resident, is $500.

While the lowlands are still flooded, Bound Brook is high and dry today and no further trouble is anticipated from the present high water.

New Brunswick suffered severely in the lower portions of that city and considerable damage was done. The North and South branches have returned to their banks in most places after tearing out several bridges and carrying destruction in the neighboring lands.

FOR THE MACHINISTS.

Reception Which Was Given at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday Evening.

A fair sized audience of machinists from the local factories were pleasantly entertained at the Y. M. C. A., Saturday night, at another of the series of sociables which is being conducted there. The entertaining features were furnished by John Garraston, of New York, who is an expert juggler and necromancer. His tricks were very puzzling and afforded much amusement. The men afterward spent a social half hour with the officers and members of the association.

Exempts Meet Tonight.

The regular monthly meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association will be held tonight. There will be nomination of officers for the ensuing year, also an amendment to the by-laws to be acted upon, and business of interest regarding delinquents. It is requested that every member be present.

All Right Again.

Mrs. Charles Frey, of this city, states that the injuries received by her brother, Charles O'Brien, of Long Island City, were sustained by him some time ago and he is now all right.

—Neuman Brothers import their own olive oil direct from France. They fully guarantee it to be of the highest grade and excellent quality.

Y. M. C. A. ATHLETES IN SERIES OF CONTESTS

Athletic and Gymnastic Events Were Contested at the Gymnasium.

BOYS IN AFTERNOON.

RUNNING HIGH JUMP AND THREE STANDING BROAD JUMPS.

The Gymnastic Contest Consisted of Three Moves on German Horse —Record of Contestants and Points Scored.

Gymnastic and athletic contests, for the purpose of establishing the relative merits of the members, have been inaugurated at the Y. M. C. A. The first of a series of ten was held Saturday evening and much enthusiasm was manifested by the participants.

In the morning there was a boy's athletic contest, in which twenty-six competed in a ten lap race. The three best men were: Francis Anderson, 1 min. 33 and 3-5 seconds, 93 points; Howard Craig, 1 min. 33 and 4-5 seconds, 93 points; Harry Webster, 1 min. 34 and 2-5 seconds, 89 points. The winners received a Y. M. C. A. official bronze button. Next Saturday's event will be the running broad jump.

In the evening there were two events for the seniors, athletic and gymnastic. The former was in two parts, the running high jump and three standing broad jumps. There were ten entries.

The three best records in the high jump were made by W. Cahoone, 5 feet, 72 points; W. McNaughton, 4 feet 8 inches, 56 points; A. Denton, 4 feet 6 inches, 48 points. The winner received a bronze button. the Y. M. C. A. official badge. The three best records in the three standing broad jumps were made by E. Emes, 26 feet 3 inches, 55 points; W. Cahoone, 25 feet 9 inches, 52 points; A. Denton, 25 feet 1 in., 48 points. The winner in this event also receives a button.

Six men were entered in the gymnastic contest. The event consisted of three moves on the German horse. The three best records made were Arthur Denton, 29 points, Walter Cahoone 28 points, Walter McNaughton and W. E. Neal, tieing, 23 points. A bronze button is the prize in this event.

All points will be kept until the end of the season and the man securing the highest number will receive a silver medal. A unique feature of the contest is the payment of one cent for entry to each event.

AT CASINO TONIGHT.

Musical Farce Comedy "My Girl" Will be Given.

A musical farce comedy entitled "My Girl," is the offering at the Casino tonight and promises to be a very enjoyable affair. It will be interpreted by a fine case of well known Metropolitan artists, headed by the comedians, George Wills and James Johnson, who are a host in themselves. The latest songs and specialties of polite vaudeville will be heard and although scenic effects may be lacking, the brisk dialogue and happy "hits" of the play will have ample scope on the limited Casino stage. Special attention is called to prices as per advertisement.

VACCINATE THEM ALL.

Three More Hoboes Treated to the Operation This Morning.

Three wayfarers, who solicited a night's lodging at police headquarters, last evening, underwent the vaccination process this morning, having slumbered next the cell where smallpox suspects were held. This makes eight wanderers who have submitted to the arm scrapping operation and the report has been spread broadcast that everyone who visits Plainfield will be treated similarly. A detour of the city on the part of hobos is looked for in the future.

Operation at Hospital.

James Eriksen, of South avenue, underwent an operation at Muhlenberg hospital, Saturday, for the removal of a growth behind the right ear. It was performed by Dr. Ard. The patient is still at the hospital but is doing very nicely.

Date for Excursion.

Announcement was made yesterday at the First Baptist church Sunday-school of the date for the annual excursion to Asbury Park. The date set is Thursday, July 10.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Miss Williams, of Brooklyn, has been visiting Plainfield relatives for a few days.

Bert Gardiner, formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, spent Sunday in Plainfield with friends.

Robert Angleman, a former resident of this city, but now of Newark, has been spending a few days in town.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Former Assemblyman Ellis R. Meeker has announced himself as a candidate for Sheriff this fall on the Republican ticket. Mr. Meeker has many friends in this section who would be pleased to vote for him if he should secure the nomination.—Rahway Advocate.

Governor Murphy Monday reappointed Charles J. Baxter, of Plainfield, as State Superintendent of Public Instruction for a term of three years. We congratulate Mr. Baxter on this deserved recognition of his faithful and valuable services in this important office.—Rahway Advocate.

A bill has been introduced in the House of Assembly by Representative Hall, to attach North Plainfield to Union county—but Senator Reed and Surrogate "Newt." Spencer, both being residents of that important corner of Somerset, we are mistaken if they do not hold the cards to prevent the change. The consolidation of the cities of Plainfield and North Plainfield would be more feasible.—Rahway Union-Democrat.

The bill to consolidate the borough of North Plainfield, in Somerset county, with the city of Plainfield, in this county, was introduced by Assemblyman Hall, Monday night. The bill will be vigorously fought by Somerset Republicans, as North Plainfield's Republican vote is an important factor in holding Somerset county in the Republican ranks. However, Union county would have no objections to including the populous and progressive borough of North Plainfield within its limits. The two places should be under one government, as they are practically one community in everything else. Its's a good bill and should pass.—Rahway Advocate.

On behalf of the Senate Committee on Education Senator McKee has introduced a bill to take the place of the general school law, known as the Stokes act, passed at the last session of the Legislature. As will be remembered, his act was declared unconstitutional by the Court of Errors and Appeals, but was continued in force pending remedial legislation, by the action of the court in granting a reargument on application of the attorney-general. The case has never been reargued, and it is not probable that it will be, inasmuch as the new bill is believed to meet the court's objections to the method of classification of municipalities.

With the exception of the changes necessary to remedy the defects pointed out by the court, the new bill is practically a reenactment of the Stokes law, which, in its main provisions, has met with the approval of public school officials and educators. The law is justly regarded as a marked improvement over the statutes formerly governing our public school system and its nullification by the court was generally deplored. There is practically a unanimous sentiment among all interested in the public schools favorable to its reenactment with only such changes as are necessary to bring it within constitutional bounds.

Legislative action on the bill should not be long deferred. The interests of the schools will not admit of delay. The present situation is by no means satisfactory and was only saved from being chaotic by the conservative action of the court in furnishing a temporary bridge over the difficulty. This makeshift arrangement, however, cannot continue indefinitely, and the sooner the State's public school system is placed upon a firm foundation the better it will be for the schools, the pupils and the taxpayers.—Newark News.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

NO DANGER OF ICE FAMINE NEXT SUMMER

A Big Ice Harvest at Lake Hopatcong Has Just Been Completed.

AMOUNT, 315,000 TONS.

HOW THE HOPATCONG COMPANY HANDLES ITS BIG TRADE.

Bernard Brady, of This City, is the Manager, and Has Built Up a Wonderful Business in Twelve Years.

Plainfield will not suffer from an ice famine during the coming summer season. It is a long time off to be talking about ice, but the harvesting of this article, formerly considered a luxury but now a necessity, has just been completed in this region of the country. The matter of cutting and storing ice is no small task and a sigh of relief is breathed when the ice houses are all filled.

It will afford satisfaction to many to learn that the ice crop of the Lake Hopatcong company alone amounts to 315,000 tons, or in other words 630,000,000 pounds, and this is more than enough to supply the wants of its customers during the entire season. The average crop is 250,000 tons and this alone is more than enough for ordinary demands. There's one reason why the people in this vicinity may consider themselves blessed and that is that they do not have to deal, or be compelled to deal, with the ice trust—the American Ice Company—which has its customers at its mercy. Prices for the commodity are not needlessly advanced in this vicinity.

Up on the Hudson the crop has not been as good as in former years and consequently the houses are far from being filled. Here there has not been so plentiful a crop in the last twenty-seven years. Much of the harvested ice used in this city comes from Lake Hopatcong and there is none purer, unless it be that brought from down east, principally from Maine. Every year there is a million and a half tons sold in the Jersey suburbs of New York.

The Hopatcong concern exclusively controls the supply of ice along the lines of the New Jersey Central Railroad in this State and it has on hand 265,000 tons. With the exception of possibly about 75,000 tons, all this crop is stored along the Lake. The remainder has been sent to the various houses along the line for more immediate use.

When this ice is cut it varies from twelve to fifteen inches in thickness, for this is the more convenient size to handle. Ten inch ice is considered preferable to eighteen inch, for the latter is too heavy. When the commodity is shipped during the winter from five to six trains are sent out every day, and each one of these trains consists of forty cars ordinarily. Hence at least 2,500 car loads are shipped before the houses along the line are filled. Generally thirty tons is considered as a car load. In the summer time the shipments consists of two train loads a day, or rather a night for that is the time when the ice is sent out. These trains start before 10 o'clock in the evening and the ice is delivered to the agents along the line before 5 o'clock in the morning.

Having its own agents in every city, town and village in this vicinity, the Hopatcong company is able to keep the price at a level and thus saves money to the residents in many places, who would otherwise be subjected to the necessity of having to pay any price demanded by the retail ice dealers. All the houses are kept partly filled and each day the agents are supposed to telephone their orders for the next day's needs. In this way the danger of running short of ice is averted.

Bernard Brady, of Park avenue, is the man who largely controls the ice business in this part of New Jersey and he is considered an expert in the business. For twelve years he has managed the Lake Hopatcong concern and it is through his untiring efforts and business sagacity that the company has grown to its present proportions. When he took hold of the office of general manager the business only amounted to 30,000 tons per year and now it has increased ninefold. He has lived in this city for eleven years and is one of the well known men in the business in this country. Early in life he commenced to study the business and now he has spent twenty-eight years at the practical part of the work. As a man he is genial and as the business representative of the concern he is shrewd and progressive.

Miss Ida Cook, of this city, has been the guest of Mrs. Hotchkin, of Bayonne.

W. W. Myers, who a few days ago underwent a simple operation at the hospital, is improving rapidly.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The Plainfield Art Store is still making a reduction of twenty-five per cent. on all framing work. Ask for estimates, they will be furnished cheerfully. 150 styles of framing to select from.

Everything in the confectionery line, fresh and good, is always to be found at John Wirth's West Front street bakery. Nothing but the best materials used in making. Orders left at the store or 'phoned will receive prompt attention.

The household larder is an important part of a family's existence, and when it is filled with first-class goods, the kind that S. Scheuer & Son sell, there is a satisfaction that you have the best and you have only paid a reasonable price.

Dr. R. J. Shaw is now located in his new store at 207 West Front street and is ready to receive his old and new patrons. The same fair business methods which characterized his former store on East Front street for thirty-three years, will be strictly adhered to.

The sweet notes of the merry bird will soon be heard, an almost sure sign of spring. These notes can only be duplicated in a piano such as G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street, sells. During the past season many pianos have been sold and all have given entire satisfaction.

To many the spring of the year with its warm breezes, budding flowers and running streams, is the most attractive. If you would see earth's fairest flowers, not only in spring, but all the year, call at Mrs. L. J. Denton's conservatory on West Front street. She does all kinds of decorating work.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

Senate Takes Up the Shipping Bill. House at Work on Postal Matters.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—In accordance with Saturday's decision, the senate took up the ship subsidy bill today, and it will continue to hold its place as the unfinished business until disposed of. There is, however, no disposition for the present to press the matter to the exclusion of all other business, so that it probably will be laid aside temporarily at different times to permit the consideration of other matters, including Senator Hoar's bill for the protection of the president against assault. The legislative appropriation bill will be reported.

The house of representatives, which will give most of its time during the present week to postal affairs, began today with the bill placing the rural free delivery system on the contract basis and will follow later with the postoffice appropriation bill. The rural free delivery measure has aroused controversy, and there promises to be an active debate, with considerable doubt as to the passage of the bill.

A New Railroad Merger.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—President E. H. Harriman of the Southern Pacific will soon arrive in this city, and it is stated that papers providing for a new railroad corporation will be ready for his signature. It is understood that the purpose of the new corporation is to refund millions of the Southern Pacific securities and to simplify methods of bookkeeping. The Southern Pacific has three distinct companies operating its main line between San Francisco and El Paso in addition to a number of branch roads. They are the Southern Pacific railroad of California, the Southern Pacific of Arizona and the Southern Pacific of New Mexico. These companies, it is alleged, are to be merged into a new corporation. They have an aggregate bond issue of $69,000,000. The three companies have 5,062 miles of road. By putting the three lines into one corporation the services of at least fifty clerks will be dispensed with.

Rebellion In Central Arabia.

BOMBAY, March 3.—Abdul Aziz Ben Feysul, a descendant of the old Wahabi ameers, with an army of 2,000 men, has captured the city of E'Riad, in central Arabia. Abdul Aziz Ben Feysul entered the city by stratagem at night with fifty followers. These men rode to the palace and killed the governor of E'Riad and thirty of his retainers. The garrison of the city then surrendered, whereupon the army of Abdul Aziz Ben Feysul entered. It is believed that the Wahabi dynasty is endeavoring to regain its supremacy and overthrow Ibu Rashid, the ameer of Nejd, and conquer the latter city. Many tribes are flocking to the banner of Abdul Aziz Ben Feysul.

Suicide of a Millionaire.

WARREN, O., March 3.—Hon. Henry Bishop Perkins, one of Ohio's most prominent and philanthropic citizens, has killed himself by hanging in his office, adjoining his home, in this city. The body was found shortly before noon by his family, who went to call him to dinner. Illness and the suicide of a favorite son, a Yale graduate, a year ago are believed to have made Mr. Perkins temporarily insane. Mr. Perkins was born in Warren and spent his life here. He was president of the First National bank of Warren and also prominent in railroad and state affairs. He was a man of large fortune, said to be several millions of dollars.

British Loss Was Heavy.

LONDON, March 3.—An apparently incomplete list of the casualties sustained by the British when the Boers attacked and captured the convoy of a train of empty wagons at Vondonop, southwest of Klerksdorp, Feb. 24 published last evening says 5 officers and 45 men were killed and 6 officers and 116 men were wounded. A report from Lord Kitchener, made public last week, said that 16 officers and 451 men of the British forces were taken prisoners during this engagement. Of these an officer and 105 men were released.

Paris Unemployed In a Riot.

PARIS, March 3.—Following an exciting meeting of the unemployed held at the Labor Exchange, the agitators attempted to hold an outdoor meeting in the Place de la Republique. A fight with the police ensued in which eleven policemen were severely injured and a score more sustained bruises. A number of the rioters were injured, and twenty were placed under arrest.

Hugo Celebration Closed.

PARIS, March 3.—The fetes in commemoration of the centenary of Victor Hugo's birth terminated yesterday with the ceremony of handing over to the city of Paris, to serve as a Victor Hugo museum, the house in which he for some time lived in the Place des Vosges. The weather was superb.

Large Pottery Burned.

ZANESVILLE, O., March 3.—The large plant of the J. B. Owens Pottery company has been destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $300,000, with insurance about one-half. Many valuable designs, the accumulation of years, were destroyed. Four hundred employees are out of work.

Government Balance Sheet.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The monthly statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of February, 1902, the total receipts were $41,159,739 and the expenditures $39,099,290, leaving a surplus for the month of $2,060,449.

O'Donovan Rossa, Jr., Dead.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., March 3.—O'Donovan Rossa, son of the famous Fenian agitator of New York, is dead here of blood poisoning after a short illness.

PRINCE IN THE SOUTH

Flying Trip Across Kentucky and Tennessee.

A VISIT TO LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.

Henry of Prussia Greatly Pleased With His Reception at Southern Cities—Arrives at Indianapolis and Departs For St. Louis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 3.—Prince Henry of Prussia went up Lookout mountain yesterday and after viewing the ground where the Union and Confederate armies met in conflict and hearing afresh the story of the battles resumed his journey to the north and west. Leaving Chattanooga over the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, his train ran through a corner of Alabama and then, turning to the north, hurried across Tennessee, with a short stop at Nashville; through Kentucky, with brief stays at Louisville and Bowling Green, and up into Indiana to another brief halt at Indianapolis. At Indianapolis the course was changed to the westward again, and on the tracks of the Vandalia line his train started for St. Louis. His reception in the south was hospitable and demonstrative. The negroes manifested great curiosity as to the prince, and they interested and amused him.

He had an opportunity to hear them sing at Nashville and was greatly pleased at the experience. It was the glee club of Fisk university that sang, and at the close he asked the young woman who led them to come into his car. He shook her hand and congratulated her.

There was a great crowd at Chattanooga, and the people presented the prince with a handsome souvenir of his visit. Nashville also made a demonstration of friendliness, as did Louisville and Indianapolis. At every station along the route the people gathered to salute him with cheers. There was much enthusiasm over Admiral Evans as well.

Prince Henry was delighted with his southern tour, and as he was leaving Nashville he said: "The people have been very kind to me. Everywhere they have received me in the kindliest manner, and I very deeply appreciate it. I wish they might all know how thankful I am."

Fully 15,000 people greeted Prince Henry, who arrived at 11:05 o'clock. The run from Louisville was made without special incident. The prince dined at 8 o'clock, and his guests were Admiral Evans, Colonel Bingham, George W. Boyd, Carl Pollier, German consul at Cincinnati, and Lieutenant Commander von Egidy. The special left for St. Louis at 11:20 o'clock.

Severe Storm on Pacific Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—A heavy southeast storm has passed over this city and vicinity. The principal damage was sustained by telephone and telegraph wires. Communication with interior points and the east was absolutely cut off for several hours. The heavy wind blew poles down in all directions, the bay was unusually rough, and the ferry service between this city and Oakland was discontinued for several hours. Shipping interests had sufficient warning to provide against serious damage. The greatest damage to the telegraph service was near West Berkeley along the bayshore, where about two miles of wire was blown down.

A Big Snowslide.

OURAY, Colo., March 3.—News has reached here of one of the biggest snowslides that ever occurred in the Sneffels mining district, about fifteen miles north of this place. The slide passed so close to the buildings of the Governor mine that the water tank was carried into the gulch, 1,500 feet below, and the boiler torn from its foundation and turned around. So great was the slide that the gulch was entirely filled with snow and debris. There is no way of communicating with the Sneffels district by wire, and details of the slide cannot be obtained.

Porto Rican Legislature Adjourns.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 3.—The last day of the second session of the first Porto Rican legislature elapsed at midnight March 1. About seventy bills were passed and became laws during the session. These include the penal, civil and political codes. One hundred and forty-four bills were introduced. The actual time of the adjournment of the legislature was 5:17 Sunday morning. The official clocks, however, were stopped at 11:45 Saturday night. Several bills were passed and signed by the governor after midnight.

Italian Town Attacked.

ROME, March 3.—The inhabitants of Cassano, department of Calabria, have attacked and burned the municipal buildings of their town. The troops reestablished order. Several persons were wounded in the conflict.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Ten persons were hurt and five are missing in the collapse of three floors in a factory in Cleveland, O.

The village of Haflerton, in south New Jersey, a short lived colony, now deserted, is offered for sale.

Grip is making great ravages in London, the epidemic, says a special cable, overshadowing even smallpox.

Former Governor Hogg of Texas emphatically declined to wear knee breeches to attend King Edward's levee.

During the voyage of the Philadelphia from Cherbourg to New York messages were received from the Cornwall wireless telegraph station at distances ranging from 250 to 2,000 miles.

RAGING WATERS.

Damage In Many States Caused by Floods.

RIVERS BREAK RECORDS

Railroad Traffic Delayed and Factories Closed.

FIRE SWEPT PATERSON HARD HIT

Hudson River Overflows at Albany, and Southern Portion of City Is Inundated—Heavy Losses In Southern New York—Pennsylvania Rivers Receding, but Coal Mines Are Flooded—The Flood In Other States.

ALBANY, March 3.—Railroad traffic has been badly interfered with and not a wheel has turned on a street car line for twenty-four hours as a result of the Hudson river overflowing its banks. The entire southern portion of the city is under water, and residents have to use rowboats to get to and from their homes. The New York Central railway trains from New York city are from two to five hours late as a result of having to use the tracks of the Harlem branch from Hudson to Chatham and then over the Boston and Albany railway tracks to this city. The New York Central tracks west of Albany are entirely under water, and all trains are transferred to the West Shore railroad at Rotterdam Junction.

The heavy rainfall all day Sunday has caused one of the highest freshets in the history of the Hudson river at this place. It has swept away hundreds of dollars' worth of portable property and caused much suffering to the residents of the southern section of the city, whose houses are completely cut off by the water and are accessible only by means of rowboats.

The flood in Syracuse has been receding, and unless the weather becomes warmer, bringing down more melted snow from the hills, Onondaga creek will soon be in normal condition. All traffic on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western south of Cortland has been abandoned.

There is a washout on the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg at Mannsville and on the New York Central at Oriskany. Eastbound New York Central trains were compelled to run on track three through Palmyra owing to water on the passenger tracks.

In Syracuse, it is estimated, the damage to householders by the flood will amount to more than $50,000.

All traffic on the New York Central between Hudson and Albany has been blocked since Saturday night by the flooding of the tracks near Schodock. There is said to be three feet of water at that point. Through trains are being run over the Boston and Albany via Chatham from Hudson to Albany.

The Empire State express was stalled in the flood near Schodock all night, the water putting the fire in the locomotive out.

IN SOUTHERN NEW YORK.

Susquehanna, Chenango and Chemung Rivers at Danger Point.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 3.—The Susquehanna and Chenango rivers have been over their banks here for the last forty-eight hours. Rowboats are in use in a large section of the city. About a thousand families have been affected by the flood, being damaged all the way to being compelled to move out of their homes down to minor cellar losses.

The electric light plant is unable to operate. The water now stands at the highest mark in forty-six years.

The Erie and Lackawanna railroads are running their trains from here to New York, and the latter road gets through to Buffalo, but the Erie cannot get west of Waverly.

From all points in the southern tier come reports of bank high streams, impassable highways and flooded towns.

The only encouraging feature at this hour is a slight drop in the temperature.

At Upper Lisle John Richardson was carried away with a bridge and drowned. The body caught in the ironwork and has not been recovered.

A dispatch from Elmira reports that the Chemung river has risen higher than at any time since the flood of 1889. At its highest point the river was 17 feet 7 inches above low water mark. Half of the city has been submerged, and the principal downtown streets were rendered navigable by boats. Railroad traffic has been suspended, the gas mains are useless, and the city will be without gas for several days. The lower portion of the city is under water.

Central Tracks Washed Out.

LYONS, N. Y., March 3.—Sunday's hard rain, added to the melting snow, has caused much damage. The water is still rising in the Clyde river, and the New York Central and Hudson River and the West Shore tracks are washed out between here and Palmyra and between here and Clyde. The chief railroad communication is by way of Geneva over the Pennsylvania division, thence east and west over the Auburn division, the tracks running under water part of the way. houses in the bottoms are flooded, and the occupants were compelled to move to the upper floors.

PENNSYLVANIA'S LOSSES.

Factories and Collieries at a Standstill—Rivers Receding.

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—The Schuylkill river is again within its banks and close to its normal condition. The work of cleaning up was begun during the night, and the railroads which skirt the shores of the river have resumed operation.

The destruction wrought by the storm was so great that many industrial establishments along the river's banks will be unable to resume work for several days. Quite a number of buildings used for manufacturing purposes had their foundations weakened and machinery clogged with mud.

All reports from up river points carry the information that great damage was done. The various towns, now that the water has receded, are rapidly recovering their normal condition. The electric light plants, street railways and water companies are resuming work as best they can. The big iron works at Pottstown, which suffered considerably from the swollen waters, partially resumed operations today.

The flood in the Lehigh river is rapidly receding after reaching the highest mark on record. The Delaware river is still high, but no further damage is feared from that waterway. The Central Railroad of New Jersey is badly crippled hereabouts, although its trains are running regular between Phillipsburg, N. J., across the Delaware river from Easton, to New York.

A dispatch from Susquehanna says that the Susquehanna river is the highest in twenty-five years. The heavy body of ice between Binghamton and Cooperstown has passed out, but has done much damage. The tannery building at Red Rock was carried down stream and took with it a section of the county bridge connecting Great Bend and Hallstead.

A thirteen foot flood in the Susquehanna river at Sunbury threatens the town with serious damage. Back water has flooded the lower or central portion of the town to a depth of from four to six feet, and the residents were forced to seek shelter on the highlands, leaving their household effects to the mercy of the water.

The second and third piers of the famous old Camelback bridge at Harrisburg have been washed away by high water. The bridge was built in 1816 and was probably the oldest bridge across the Susquehanna river. It is owned by Harrisburg capitalists and will immediately be rebuilt. South Harrisburg is under water, and many of the families in that locality are living in the upper stories of their homes. Two hundred persons sought safety in the schoolhouse at Lochiel.

At Wilkesbarre a heavy rainfall and rush of water from its upper tributaries caused the north branch of the Susquehanna river to rise rapidly until the gauge showed 31 feet 3 inches above low water mark. This high water mark is equal to that of 1865, which has always been known as a record breaker. The city's loss is over $1,000,000.

Floods In New England.

BOSTON, March 3.—Flood reports are general from every part of New England, although the conditions are not particularly alarming, for the rainstorm has passed and the thermometer is a little lower. The remarkably heavy rainfall of Friday night and the warm temperature since then have carried away most of the snow which fell during February. The indications in eastern New England are that the freshets will not do anything like the damage the high water in the early winter did unless the thaw continues heavy and without a break over the watersheds of the Penobscot, Kennebec and Androscoggin rivers. In southern New England and especially Massachusetts the snow has gone entirely, and the thaw is thus ended. The damage done and likely to come is along the streams which turn the wheels of mills employing in the aggregate 100,000 operatives or more.

Ohio River Falling.

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 3.—The river has begun to fall, having reached a stage of 41 feet 9 inches. The Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad station buildings are flooded. Traffic on the Cleveland and Pittsburg and the Wheeling, Lake Erie and Western is suspended by the tracks being under water. At Mingo Junction fifty houses are flooded. One man is reported drowned. Four thousand steel workers at Mingo Junction are idle because of the high water.

Ohio Towns Suffer.

CLEVELAND, O., March 3.—Specials from Akron, Conneaut, Youngstown, Painesville and East Liverpool report damage to property by floods. Streams are rising rapidly, and traffic by street and steam cars is in many instances impossible.

Cost of Naval Battles.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Rear Admiral O'Neil, chief of ordnance of the navy, has compiled some interesting information relating to the ammunition expended in the naval battles at Manila and off Santiago. Judged from the standpoint of values, the fight with Cervera's squadron cost this government in ammunition expended $84,864. The ammunition expended by Dewey's vessels at Manila cost considerably less, a little more than $50,000. The total weight of ammunition expended in the fight off Santiago was 164.7 tons. The total weight of metal thrown was 114.3 tons. At Manila the total weight of ammunition expended, including powder, was 132 tons. There were 66.9 tons of metal thrown.

The Northern Central road weighted its bridges down with cars to hold them. The water here is six inches above the highest water mark ever known.

A Village Wiped Out.

FORT PLAIN, N. Y., March 3.—The hamlet of Sprakers, six miles east of here, has been almost wiped out of existence by the continued forces of water and fire. Sprakers is made up of fifty families and has been under water for two days. Great masses of ice came down the river, striking the houses, and some of them were so shaken that the stoves in them were overturned, and the dwellings were burned. In some instances people escaped from perilous positions by stepping from the second stories of their homes to a big mass of ice which became jammed and then walked in safety to the high West Shore railroad tracks. One end of the West Shore bridge was moved eighteen inches just a few minutes after a fast passenger train had dashed over it.

High Water at Ithaca.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 3.—The water which has been poured into lower Ithaca from all gorges during the past two days continues to rise steadily. The Lehigh Valley railroad tracks to the south of the city are completely submerged, and no trains have reached here from the south since Friday. Traffic over this part of the road cannot, it is thought, be resumed for several days. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western trains reach the city with great difficulty, and several trains have been unloaded on West hill, the passengers being brought in on omnibuses.

Great Flood In West Virginia.

WHEELING, W. Va., March 3.—Wheeling is in the grasp of the worst flood it has experienced since that of 1884, with but one exception. The maximum stage was reached at 6 o'clock in the evening, 43 feet 3 inches. In Wheeling, Bellaire, Benwood, Martin's Ferry and Bridgeport scores of factories have been entered by the raging waters, fires extinguished and 20,000 men placed on the list of involuntary idleness. Wheeling island is two-thirds covered by the water, and fully 700 families are occupying the upper floors of their homes.

DAMAGE IN NEW JERSEY.

Paterson Is Overwhelmed and Hundreds Are Made Homeless.

PATERSON, N. J., March 3.—This city, so recently swept by fire, is now overwhelmed by flood. Three weeks ago the greater part of its business section was burned out, and now the quarter occupied by the houses of the poorer class is inundated. Hundreds of families have been made homeless by the overflow of the Passaic river, and the country for miles around the city is under water.

So far but one death has been reported. The great peril now is that the Spruce street raceway may overflow, in which event a fearful loss of property in the manufacturing districts is sure to ensue.

The fire of three weeks ago, while causing a damage to property to the extent of nearly $8,000,000, did not create such suffering and widespread desolation as the present flood. The district for a mile along the river front from Spruce street hill to Straight street and two blocks north and five blocks south of the river, nearly half a mile in width, is covered with water, which in many instances reaches to the second story of the dwellings.

In the absence of Mayor John Hinchcliffe, who is now in Cuba recuperating from the strain of the recent fire, Thomas J. Brogan, president of the board of aldermen, is acting mayor and, with the mayor's secretary, William L. Dill, is doing his utmost to relieve all those who need assistance.

The cry of fire was heard about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and it looked as if the elements were combining to destroy the city. The fire broke out in Oates' drug store, at the corner of Hamilton avenue and Main street. The firemen, many of whom were helping to remove the people from the deluged district, jumped to their posts and were soon hard at work fighting the flames. There was a brisk wind blowing, but the blaze was confined to the drug store building, which was burned out. The loss was estimated at $5,000. During the three hours that the men were working another alarm was turned in, but the blaze was insignificant.

On Hamilton avenue near the river the foundations of two new buildings were undermined by the flood, and the structures collapsed and were swept away in the stream. The Arch street bridge collapsed in the afternoon, the abutments on both shores being swept away. All the other bridges are completely submerged, cutting off communication between the two sections of the city. The boilers and engine rooms of several of the big mills are ten feet under water.

Delaware River a Raging Torrent.

TRENTON, N. J., March 3.—The Delaware river reached its greatest height here about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. At that time it was fourteen feet above the normal level. The river is full of ice, and the water is rushing through in torrents. Very little damage is being done by the rise in the river, so far as the actual destruction of property is concerned. The lowlands on both the New Jersey and Pennsylvania sides of the river are overflown, and the tracks of the Amboy division of the Pennsylvania railroad between Bordentown and Trenton are under water, and the operation of the road has been suspended.

Passaic River Rampant.

NEWARK, N. J., March 3.—Factories along the Passaic river front are flooded, the water in the river being at the highest stage recorded. Many

CAVITE TOWN RAIDED

Friendly Filipinos Captured by Ladrone Band.

VALUABLE CORRESPONDENCE TAKEN.

Several Filipinos Implicated In the Insurrection by Letters Found With General Lukban—A Protest Against the Tariff.

MANILA, March 3.—While Governor Flores of the province of Rizal was chasing Felizardo and his band of ladrones over the hills of Cavite province Felizardo, at the head of twenty-five men armed with rifles, entered the town of Cainta, in the Morong province, and captured the presidente of Cainta, Senor Ampil, and a majority of the police of the town.

Senor Ampil has long been known as an enthusiastic American sympathizer, and it is feared that he may be killed by the enraged ladrones. A strong force of constabulary has been sent to effect his release.

The correspondence captured with General Lukban in the island of Samar is of the greatest value. It implicates several Filipinos who have heretofore not been suspected of complicity with the insurgents.

The American, Spanish, British and German merchants of Manila and the local press have held a meeting to remonstrate against the prohibitive tariff, which they declared to be crippling the industries and resources of the archipelago. Subscriptions were taken at this meeting to send a cablegram to Washington setting forth the views on this matter of the interests present.

The United States Philippine commission has received a cablegram from the governor of Cebu saying that a violent assault has been committed by the municipal police of Cebu upon the person of the Spanish consul at that port. The governor says the assault was instigated by the presidente of Cebu, Senor Reyes, who has been suspended pending an investigation, which was at once ordered. The Spanish consul was popular and well liked.

A Larger Reduction Demanded.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Governor Taft has received cable messages from officials in the Philippines saying that the 25 per cent reduction in the Philippine tariff bill is not regarded as sufficient and asking him to use his best endeavors to secure a more substantial measure of relief.

Won Carnegie Medal.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 3.—The American telegraphers' tournament concluded its contest at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The Andrew Carnegie diamond medal for the best all around telegrapher was won by F. M. McClintic of the Associated Press, Dallas, Tex. C. W. White of Richmond, Va., was second and J. G. Johnson of Louisville, Ky., third. The conditions governing this event called for a ten minute test of receiving, and the copy turned out determined the eligibility for the sending class. Mr. McClintic sent 517 words in ten minutes, a record rate.

Site For Cleveland's New Buildings.

CLEVELAND, O., March 3.—The site upon which Cleveland's several public buildings will be built has been selected. The site takes in all the land from the west side of Ontario street to the east side of Bond street, extending from Superior street to Lake. At the head will stand the new federal building, and at the other end will be the new courthouse. The other public buildings will be grouped along the sides. What is now Wood street will be transformed into a boulevard 360 feet wide, and for this purpose the legislature will be asked to authorize an appropriation of $1,500,000. The estimated cost of the group is $16,000,000.

Presents For Portuguese Sailors.

LISBON, March 3.—The gold chronometer sent by President Roosevelt to Captain Betancourt of the Portuguese steamer Peninsular, the binoculars sent by the president to the officers of the steamer and the gold medals sent to the crew for having saved the captain and crew of an American schooner last November were presented yesterday to the persons for whom they were intended by Francis B. Loomis, United States minister to Portugal.

Ex-Secretary Gage In Florida.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 3.—Hon. Lyman Gage of New York, former secretary of the treasury, has arrived here with a party of friends, including Mr. and Mrs. William Rockefeller, Miss Rockefeller, Miss Hawley, Mrs. North and James Stillman. Their stay in Florida is expected to extend through several weeks.

Colombian Rebels Routed.

COLON, Colombia, March 3.—Liberal forces under the command of General Villa appeared at Rio Frio, in the department of Magdalena, Feb. 21. After an engagement with government troops from Barranquilla which lasted four hours the rebels were routed, with fifty men killed or wounded.

Prince May Ride Behind Cresceus.

TOLEDO, O., March 3.—George H. Ketcham, owner and driver of Cresceus, has invited Prince Henry to take a drive behind Cresceus during the prince's visit here next Wednesday morning. The prince is known to be very fond of horses.

THE TIME TO ACT.

What is to be the fate of the Greater Plainfield project now before the State Legislature? That is the question to which the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield, the two municipalities affected, would like to know the answer. It is a subject of decided import to both city and borough and one deserving of serious and careful consideration by every member of the two houses of the Legislature.

A false impression prevails in many quarters concerning the provisions of the three bills relating to the subject which have been introduced by Assemblyman Hall. This is not, as has been pointed out before in these columns, an attempt to cram the consolidation scheme down the throats of the people of the two municipalities. It simply gives the people a chance to decide for themselves whether they shall continue the existing conditions, one community provided with two distinct municipal governments, or whether they shall unite under one head as common sense and economy would dictate. The referendum provision of one of the bills makes it obligatory for the measure to be approved by a majority of the voters of the two municipalities before it can go into effect.

Before, however, it is possible for the people of the two places to express themselves by ballot on the subject, it is necessary that legislation be provided to that end. Either the bills now before the Legislature must be passed or some similar legislation provided. Therefore it is up to the members of the New Jersey Legislature to deal with the subject and provide what is needed.

Are a majority of the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield in favor of consolidation? That is a subject regarding which the advocates and enemies of the movement cannot agree. Certain it is, however, that there is a strong feeling in favor of the establishment of a Greater Plainfield that grows more powerful as each year passes by. The movement has hosts of friends on both sides of the line which separates the two municipalities. Its growth has been steady and certain. It is an inevitable result of a realization of the true needs of the community. Its advance can no more be blocked than can the march of progress. It is a part of it. If this year fails to bring about the desired result, it will only delay it. It is bound to come, the only question is how long we will have to wait.

Here is a city and a borough, separated by a small brook which happens to form the dividing line between counties. Their interests are identical, they possess the same railroad station, the same postoffice, they deal at the same stores. In the social and industrial life of the community, the line was long ago blotted out. Each possesses a distinct municipal government, a complete set of officials. A consolidation means better service for both places, particularly the smaller one, and a decided reduction in the cost of administration by eliminating the necessity for one complete set of administration officials.

What legislator is there who can deny that the interests of the two municipalities would be advanced by a union of effort? Let the members of the State Legislature, therefore, provide the necessary means which will permit the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield to decide for themselves whether the mistake of our forefathers in thus dividing a community shall be remedied at the present time.

It was one of the desires of Mayor Smalley and other prominent Republicans in the borough that one, at least, of the two Councilmanic candidates nominated at Friday night's primary be a local business man. Although Robert Clark, Jr., is a commuter, he was entirely too valuable a man in the Borough Council to lose and no one thought of opposing him on the ground that his business interests called him out of town every day. The borough Republicans were only too glad to get him to stand again. As his running mate, James K. Arnold was chosen. He is a Somerset street merchant and probably one of the best informed of local municipal affairs of the Borough Council when North Plainfield was first incorporated as a borough and afterwards served faithfully as borough clerk for a long term of years There were many expressions of satisfaction heard when it was known that Mr. Arnold had consented to run.

It has been the custom for the Common Council to fix the annual tax budget at the March meeting of that body. At that time the different city departments present their estimates of the appropriations needed to carry on the city's affairs for another year. Some of the Councilmanic committees are said not to be quite ready to report to the Council concerning their appropriations at this evening's meeting. If such is the case the Common Council will probably adjourn to a day later in the month when the reports will be all ready. It is generally understood that the requirements of the different departments will be much the same as last year. There may be a few small increases but it is confidently expected that the tax rate, as far as the city itself is concerned, will be about the same with a possible increase of one or two points.

Many of Plainfield's telephone wires were underground. Thanks to that fact the local system will be back in working order in the course of a week or two. Elizabeth's wires were overhead. It will be months before its system is in operation. The lesson is too apparent to need comment.

REPAIRING 'PHONES.

Telephone Company is Gradually Recovering From Effects of Storm.

On account of recent severe storms, whereby the local telephone service was greatly damaged, the work of installing instruments for new subscribers has been slow. The employes of the company have been obliged to devote nearly all of their time to repair work and giving old subscribers service. About all of the old trouble has been cleared. Saturday there were 198 telephones out of order, but a majority of those have been repaired and will soon be in working order again.

BURNED BY ELECTRICITY.

Wm. Whitehead Injured While Working at Pond Tool Works.

William Whitehead, an employe at the Pond Machine Tool Works, burned his right hand and arm severely Saturday morning, while repairing the electric crane in the shop. He was working with a steel wrench, when that tool came in contact with a wire. Prompt assistance from fellow-workmen saved Mr. Whitehead from a more serious injury.

Attracted a Crowd.

Mrs. Mary Winton, of South Plainfield, was arrested on West Third street, Saturday night, by Patrolman Myers, for causing a disturbance which drew a crowd. She was released on her own recognizance to appear this morning, when she pleaded not guilty. The facts warranted the arrest in the judge's opinion but sentence was suspended.

DUNELLEN.

Yesterday was a momentous day in the history of the Presbyserian church. Seventeen new members were taken in at the morning service and several more were received by letter. The large number is mainly the result of the recent revival meetings and is very gratifying to the pastor. A good percentage of the number is young men.

The Dunellen Literary Circle held a very interesting address Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Hamilton. The time was taken up reading papers on England, famous English authors and places of historical note.

John Furby, a well-known resident of this vicinity, had a stroke of apoplexy, yesterday afternoon, at the home of J. G. Holland, near Lincoln, where he has been living for some time. He is in a very serious condition.

The members of Wm. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., gathered at the Methodist church in large numbers, last evening, and listened to an inspiring address appropriate to the occasion by Rev. S. K. Doolittle.

Jean Runyon made a business trip to New Brunswick, Thursday. He experienced some difficulty in getting there on account of the irregular running of the trolleys.

Notices have been posted by the borough clerk for the spring election, March 11, with a statement of the officers and appropriations to be voted on.

Mrs. Marshall Pittenger, of Knowlton, has returned home after a visit of several weeks with Mrs. Adam Dealaman.

The Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club will meet for practice at the home of Miss Emma Nelson, this evening.

Mrs. Everett Gordon has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Moore, of Elizabeth, for a few days.

Only one drill engine is working in the day time around Dunellen, engine No. 465 having been laid off.

Mrs. E. S. Jamieson, of Raritan, has returned after a several days' visit with Mrs. Firman Gise.

Miss Jessie Haynes has returned home after a visit with friends in Nyack.

Wm. G. Holton Council will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight.

Regular services were held in St. John's Catholic church yesterday.

S. G. Closs, who has been severely ill, is somewhat improved today.

John Milliken, of Belle Meade, visited relatives in town last week.

Adam Dealaman still continues to improve from his recent illness.

W. H. Terry spent Saturday with relatives in Westfield.

Communion was administered in the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday morning. A meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society was also held in the afternoon.

Regular services were held in the First Baptist church, yesterday, with the pastor in charge of both services.

Friendship Dancing Class will hold a regular practice, tomorrow evening.

William Stone, of Orange, spent Sunday with friends in town.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The subject of Rev. G. M. Shott's sermons at the Baptist church yesterday were, in the morning, "I Thirst;" in the evening, "The Duty of Confessing Christ." Considering the weather both services were well attended. Mr. Shott has just entered his fourth year as pastor of the church, the anniversary Sunday being February 23. The year has been started under most flattering auspices which are not only encouraging to the pastor but to the members as well.

Fortunately the heavy rain of Friday only tore away part of the dam on Marsh's Lake, the main part of the structure resisting the heavy body of water. Had the whole structure given away the damage would have been much greater to property along the lowlands near the brook.

Frederick Ivany, who purchased the hotel business of John B. Anderson Saturday, has taken charge of the hotel. Mr. Anderson will remain in town for several days before removing his family to Jersey City.

"The Joy of Service" was the topic discussed by the Baptist Young Peoples Union Society of the Baptist church at its weekly meeting in the church parlors, last night. Rev. Mr. Shott led the meeting.

The Board of Registry will meet in the town rooms tomorrow between the hours of 1 and 9 o'clock for the purpose of revising and correcting the registry list for the spring election, Tuesday, March 11.

The Republican voters will hold their primary for the nomination of officers for the township Thursday night at 8 o'clock in Excelsior Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Terry, of Plainfield, visited at the home of Mrs. Terry's mother, Mrs. James Buckley, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jimerson, of Westfield, were the guests yesterday of their daughter, Mrs. George W. Marsh.

The regular monthly communion was observed at the close of the morning service at the Baptist church Sunday.

Mrs. Ann Cleaver is seriously ill at her home on Park avenue. Grave fears are entertained for her recovery.

Miss Florence Darby, of Alton, has been visiting her friend, Miss Cora Miller, for a few days.

Miss Sadie Reger has returned from a pleasant visit with Miss Mira Seeber, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel MacCanley have started housekeeping on Grand street.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A delightful little birthday party was participated in by a number of guests, Saturday evening, at William Smith's home. The occasion was Earl Darlington's birthday.

A portion of the embankment under the church sheds gave way Saturday morning. The cave in was caused by the high water in the brook back of the church property.

Mrs. Robert Horn is entertaining company from New York, who will return home tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred LaTourette are back from Jersey City where they have spent the winter.

A horse owned by Morris Higgins, died of colic Saturday, at Hotel Higgins.

Mrs. R. B. Manning was reported to be better yesterday.

WATCHED CLOSELY.

Local "Speak Easies" Could Do No Business on Account of the Police.

Patrolmen of the local police force continued a close watch on all suspected "speak easies" yesterday. No arrests were made as the illegal sellers are beginning to get weary and only those on the inside were served with liquor. A number of police "stool pigeons" tried to obtain evidence but all met with rebuff. At a West End place the proprietor bitterly lamented to one of them that the activity of the police meant subsequent ruination of his business.

Promised to Reform.

Chief Marshal Campbell arrested Frank Conlin, Saturday evening, in the borough. The young man was slightly intoxicated and was also begging. This morning Recorder Doud suspended sentence, upon the young man's promise to reform.

Engagement is Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Kathryn Ransom, of the borough, and Richard Baldwin, of this city. The wedding will be performed shortly after Easter.

RECEIVED NEW MEMBERS

NUMBER OF NAMES ADDED TO MEMBERSHIP OF LOCAL CHURCHES.

Good Attendance at Communion Services Held Yesterday Morning.

There were nearly one hundred and fifty worshippers at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning, at which time the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed. Four persons were received into membership, two on confession and two by letter. Of the latter one person was from Canada and the other New Orleans.

The regular communion service was held at the First M. E. church yesterday morning. There were sixty persons in attendance. One person, Wm. Payne, was received into membership on probation.

Considering the storm there was a good attendance at the communion service at the Congregational church yesterday morning. There was received into membership, by letter, Mr. and Mrs. D. Foster Updike and Mrs. Culbertson, of 195 Crescent avenue, and on confession, John Gaub, 167 Duer street.

There was a good attendance at the communion service in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning, despite the inclement weather. Four persons were received into membership, three by letter and one on confession.

ORDAINED PREACHER.

Rev. Morris F. Matthews Ordained at Calvary Baptist Church.

Before a large number of well wishing friends, Rev. Morris F. Matthews, of Bethlehem, Pa., was ordained a minister in the Calvary Baptist church, yesterday afternoon. He will shortly take charge of a flourishing church at Rutherford.

The charge to the young clergyman was made by Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the Mount Olive Baptist church Rev. E. E. Roberts, of New Brunswick, delivered the ordination sermon. The rest of the service was made up of singing by the Fillmore Baptist church choir under the leadership of William Randolph.

JUST MISSED CAR.

Horse Ran Away on Arlington Avenue This Morning—No Damage.

A rig belonging to Smalley Brothers, the North avenue butchers, in charge of a colored man who was delivering meat on Arlington avenue, this morning, ran away from in front of Mrs. Fitzgerald's house. As the horse made a break to turn about and run toward town, a trolley car going in the opposite direction came along. Only the quick action of the motorman prevented an accident. He stopped his car and avoided a collision. The horse was caught later. There was no damage.

WOMAN IN LOCKUP.

Chief Marshal Campbell Found Her Making Disturbance on the Street.

Mrs. Martha Snedicker, a former resident of this city, returned Saturday evening and Chief Marshal Campbell, of the borough, found her making a disturbance on Chatham street, near the new silk mill. The woman was under the influence of liquor. She was locked up. This morning she was arraigned before Recorder Doud, who decided to keep her in the lockup until 7 o'clock this evening, when a decision will be reached in her case.

NEW RECTOR.

Rev. Harris C. Rush Took Charge at Heavenly Rest Yesterday.

Rev. Harris C. Rush, of Trenton, who recently accepted a call to the mission Church of the Heavenly Rest, conducted his first service, yesterday morning. Owing to the stormy weather there was not a full attendance but all were favorably impressed with Mr. Rush's delivery and personality. He will conduct a Lenten service in the church, Wednesday evening.

Firemen to Meet.

There will be a regular monthly meeting of the West End Hose Company this evening. The monthly meeting of Warren Engine Company will be held tomorrow evening

Miss Thompson, Miss Anna Kelly and J. C. Martin, of Woodhull & Martin's store, returned this morning after a week's vacation.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. BIG SQUAW AUCTION.

Annual Sale of Brides by the Comanche Indians.

Amy Parker, Daughter of Noted Chief, Sold to Wild Horse for 63 Ponies — Other Maidens Also Brought Good Prices.

A correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean writes that the annual distribution of Comanche Indian brides has just occurred at the Saddle Mountain mission, in southern Oklahoma. Fifty of the prettiest women of the tribe were sold at public auction as the wives of tribesmen who bid them in. This barbaric custom was to have been discontinued by the Comanches last year, but it went on more boldly than ever this season, being conducted under the very eyes of the white settlers.

The festival of the Comanche "pony smoke," as this ceremony is called, is of more than passing interest. Seldom are so many young squaws auctioned off as was done this year, but the surplus was great and needed thinning out, according to the head men of the tribe. Their parents, refusing to keep them any longer, the girls naturally needed homes somewhere, and it was deemed best by the medicine men to auction them off as wives, the highest bidders to take their choice. Big Bow, a monstrous fat and ugly redskin, acted as the auctioneer. He was assisted by a number of medicine men, who performed the marriage ceremonies after the sales had been made.

Five hundred Indians gathered at the Saddle Mountain mission. This mission is located 30 miles directly south of Mountain View, and on the range of the Wichita mountains. The girls who were sold had been confined in a lodge for three weeks prior to this meeting, and were well fed and extremely well groomed. They were all clad in gay colors, and their hair arranged in perfect Indian fashion. It was plain to see that their parents had prepared them to bring fancy prices. The girls were in various moods; some hysterical, others calm, and not a few delighted with the experience.

Among others was a daughter of the famous Quahnah Parker, the noted Comanche Indian chief. This daughter, whose name is Amy, had displeased him by attempting to run away and marry a white man, and a cowboy at that, so Parker decided that the best thing would be to sell her at auction. This is the first time that Parker, who is counted by his white neighbors a highly cultivated red man, has ever allowed any of his relatives to be sacrificed at the auction block. But the wrath of an Indian parent knows no bounds.

Sad and silent, Amy Parker was led to the block for sale. The first bid was 11 ponies. Jack Wild Horse, a well-known scout of the tribe, was the bidder. He was immediately raised by a rival, likewise a scout. This latter claimant bid 15. Others then cut in, and Miss Parker was run up to 50 ponies. Her face grew pale when she saw that Wild Horse was determined to get her, as he is known as the most desperate savage on the reservation when drunk and angered. It is said that he has killed three wives when drunk. Wild Horse, however, won the young squaw for 63 ponies. The stock was turned over to Parker, and a medicine man married Wild Horse and the squaw, according to the Comanche rites. The couple then went to El Reno, where a regular marriage license was issued to them and the ceremony repeated by a pale-face minister. Although the marriage took place only three days ago, a dispatch from Lawton says that she attempted to commit suicide after failing in an attempt to kill her new husband.

Other young women objected quite as strongly as Miss Parker did to being auctioned off but it did them no good whatever. Big Bow went ahead with the sale until every one of them was sold. The lowest bid made for any of them was 20 ponies. This was the price paid for a half-breed woman who had been married to a white man, but the latter having died, she reverted back to her parents again.

In all over 1,500 ponies changed hands in the three days of the big bridal auction. Not for many years have the squaws commanded such spirited bidding and big prices as in this latest event of its kind among the Comanches.

Not a Question of Brightness.

A young man may be as bright as a dollar, but some girls would rather have the dollar.—Chicago Daily News.

WHAT NEW JERSEY HAS DONE FOR FISH AND GAME

A Revolution in the Administration of the Law—Commissioner Frothingham Discusses Peculiarities in Natural History.

A sudden change came over the administration of the New Jersey statutes relative to fish and game somewhat over six years ago, and for some time there were turmoil and trouble all over the state. The Board of Fish and Game Commissioners had been a mere political machine for many years, the only apparent object of it being the reward of political workers. The lawbooks of New Jersey were crowded with enactments on fish and game, but about the only law that was put into successful and continuous operation was the statute providing for the compensation and expenses of wardens. The law gave the wardens $3 a day compensation, but limited the total to $50 for any one year, but nothing was said about expenses, excepting that these were to be paid. The result was that wardens drew their $50 annual salary and then were paid a thousand dollars or more for expenses, the latter consisting of hiring assistants, etc. The state treasury was open to the wardens, and the books in the state comptroller's office show that some of the wardens drew as much as $2,000 a year.

The first commission appointed had charge only of the fisheries of the state. It had no authority whatever for protecting or propagating game. The first appointments were made in 1871, and this commission very promptly made a report to the legislature, but this report was confined altogether to the fishing interests in the Delaware river. By subsequent legislation the powers and duties of the commissioners were broadened and better defined, but the office had drifted into politics, and no report of its doings was published until after a material change had been effected. This change took place in the summer of 1894, when George T. Werts was governor. A law passed that year providing for the appointment of four commissioners, and the governor selected George Pfeiffer, a wealthy contractor of Camden; Howard P. Frothingham, a Wall street broker; Parker W. Page, a well known patent lawyer of New York, and W. Campbell Clark, a wealthy thread manufacturer of Newark. The only one of these four who had had any experience in politics was Mr. Pfeiffer, but all four were ardent sportsmen, and all were determined that the laws for the protection of fish and game should mean exactly what they said. Their first act was revolutionary. The legislature had provided for the appointment of twenty-five wardens at an annual salary of $600 and an allowance of $200 a year for expenses. From these a fish and game protector was to be selected, who was to have charge of the wardens. Instead of appointing men who had been recommended by politicians for services rendered during campaigns the commissioners cast off the yoke of the politicians and appointed men whom they believed to be fit for the office. No inquiry was made as to the politics of the appointee. All the commissioners wanted was the enforcement of the laws. When a warden proved incompetent, he was removed, and all the political influence in the state could not save him.

What might have been expected happened. There were loud complaints all over the state, for the enforcement of the fish and game laws was something new. But the commissioners had been appointed for five years, and they could not be removed from office. They kept up with their campaign of education, and they were materially strengthened in their resolve by the election of John W. Griggs as governor. Mr. Griggs is an ardent sportsman, and he supported the commission in all its undertakings. Before the expiration of his term of office the good work of the commission had brought fruit, for the people had learned to recognize the wisdom of protecting fish and game, and today the fish and game commission is recognized as one of the most influential and powerful adjuncts of the state government. The commissioners serve without pay. The state allows them $800 a year for expenses, but the commissioners have annually turned this amount into their treasury and have paid their own expenses.

Of the original board only one remains, Mr. Frothingham. The rest either resigned or failed of reappointment on account of political influence. Mr. Frothingham has always been the most active of the commissioners; but, although he devoted more time and energy to the duties of the office, he has always met with the cordial support of his fellow commissioners and, in fact, of all sportsmen and lovers of nature in the state. The other three commissioners at present are William A. Halsey of Newark, Benjamin P. Morris of Long Branch and Richard T. Miller of Camden.

The commissioners appointed under the law of 1894 have made regular annual reports, and these show that during the incumbency of the commission there have been collected fines for violation of the law to the extent of $23,376.84, the state's share of which amounted to $7,792.28. This latter sum was turned into the treasury of the commission and expended for the furtherance of its work. The reports also show that there were distributed throughout the state 474 ringnecked pheasants and 8,626 quail. During the last year the commissioners gave heed to some few demands for rabbits and distributed 180 cottontails. In the distribution of fish the commission was among the first to recognize the fact that the distribution of grown fish proved more satisfactory than the planting of eggs or fry, for the latter were subject to too great a rate of mortality on account of their delicate condition. The commission was the first one in the country to successfully carry out the project of bringing carloads of live fish from the great lakes to the waters of the east, and annually this work has been going on for the past five years. The commission was at first at a loss to secure a supply of black bass, a fish that cannot be bought in the market like trout, but a happy solution was found in the discovery that annually thousands of these fish found their way into the Delaware and Raritan canal, through which they traveled to certain destruction. Now most of these fish are netted and placed in the waters of the state, the work all being done by the wardens. The reports show that the commission has distributed 256,300 yearling brook trout, 326 channel catfish, 13,318 black bass, 5,955 pike perch, 180 strawberry bass, 2,510 pike and pickerel, 13,688 yellow perch, 3,393 white bass and 411 white perch. These were all adult fish, and these figures do not include many thousands of fish transplanted from one pond to another and of which no record was kept. In addition to this, the waters of the state were supplied with millions of bait fish, food for the fish which had been introduced.

When the commission took office, it found on the statute books a wonderful assortment of laws, many of them contradictory and many absurd. Thus, for instance, there was a law making it an offense punishable with state prison for six months for any one to take yellow perch out of ponds, but there was no protection for the same fish in running water. One law went so far as to provide for the imprisonment of corporations for polluting waters, and justices of the peace were authorized to enforce this law. The commission promptly secured a simplification of these laws, and today there are no contradictory enactments in the general fish and game law, and the general penalty for violations of the law is a fine of $20 or double that penalty for a second offense. Through the influence of the commission the use of spears, set lines, nets of all kinds and of gang hooks has been abolished, as has also the taking of fish at night. Most of the laws were made more liberal, a few more stringent.

One of the most interesting incidents in the career of the commission was its tussle with the men and corporations engaged in netting menhaden and other fish used for making oils and compost. The legislature had some years previous passed a law prohibiting all such practices, but the law, like most other laws pertaining to fish and game, had become a dead letter, and no attempt had ever been made to enforce it. In fact, the menhaden people had been advised by the most prominent lawyers in the state and the country that the law was unconstitutional. The commission set itself to work to ascertain just what the law amounted to. A menhaden steamer was seized, and the penalty prescribed by law—a fine of $200—was imposed in the lower courts. The case was carried to the supreme court, and here the constitutionality of the law was fully sustained.

The menhaden people found themselves in a sad predicament, for the whole coast of New Jersey, perhaps the most fruitful for their operations, was closed to them. They appealed to the legislature to repeal the obnoxious law, but John W. Griggs was governor, and he would have vetoed any such measure, if indeed the menhaden men had had power enough to pass such a measure. But the commission did not desire to stand in the way of an industry which brought revenue to the state and afforded employment for many of its inhabitants. No reasonable objection could be urged to the taking of menhaden, and so a compromise resulted in the passage of the present license law, which in the first place absolutely prohibits the taking of food fish for compost or oil and in the second place requires all menhaden fishermen to take out licenses, the cost of the latter being graduated by the size of the vessel. This law went into effect, and the result was threefold—(1) no food fish are converted into compost or taken for the purpose of extracting their oil; (2) about one-half the number of menhaden vessels now ply along the New Jersey coast of the number formerly engaged there; (3) the law has yielded a revenue to the state during the five years of its operation of $18,675. This sum was turned into the treasury of the commission and materially assisted in defraying the expenses of stocking and enforcing the laws.

The foresight and the promptness with which the commission acted are perhaps best exemplified by its action in connection with the introduction of tench into the state. Despite the fact that the people had already recognized the serious mistake made by the introduction of the German carp into the waters of the state, there were still fish culturists who thought it would be well to introduce the European tench, an inferior species of carp. The United States government imported some of these fish, and some of the New Jersey congressmen offered some of them to their constituents. The commission recognized the fact that prompt action would be necessary, and within forty-eight hours after its attention had been called to the offer of tench a law was placed on the statute books of the state imposing a heavy penalty on all persons bringing either carp or tench into the state. The wisdom of this action as recognized some years later by the destruction by the federal government of all the tench in its possession and by the enactment of legislation in different states against the introduction of carp.

Just at present the commission is engaged in an attempt to secure some modification of the present laws, for new circumstances are continually arising demanding a change in the laws. A number of bills have already been introduced in the legislature, with every prospect of being enacted into laws. Commissioner Frothingham, who has a pleasant residence on the banks of Pompton lake in Passaic county, when approached on the subject of legislation, said:

"Perhaps the most important measure we shall ask the legislature to pass is a law requiring nonresidents of the state to take out a license for gunning. Such measures have been introduced before, and I have always been strongly opposed to them as altogether un-American and in violation of that hospitality which the citizens of different states should show toward each other. But with the lapse of years the potency of the arguments in favor of a license increased until I have been made a convert. In the first place, you must remember that we spend thousands of dollars every year in the propagation of game and its protection. The citizens of New Jersey pay for all this, and I think it would be only fair if nonresidents were required to contribute their share. New Jersey has taken a front rank in fish and game protection, and the result is that gunners from all over the country are attracted hither, a state of affairs which is only accentuated by the fact that New Jersey is the great highway between the populous cities of New York and Philadelphia. The residents of both these cities find it very convenient to slip across a ferry and enjoy the game which belongs to New Jersey and which New Jersey pays for. The best hunting grounds near New York and Philadelphia are in New Jersey, but the time is coming when it will be impossible to stock our covers to satisfy the demand. Nonresidents should be required to assist in defraying this annually increasing expense. Delaware and a number of other states have passed laws requiring such licenses from nonresidents. Perhaps the principle of retaliation alone would constitute a sufficient argument in favor of the passage of a license law, but there is one thing certain, and that is if Delaware and other states deem it advisable to have such a law it is rendered imperatively necessary in New Jersey. Then, again, men of wealth in New York and New Jersey have bought up large tracts of land, especially along the seacoast, for wild fowl shooting. The resident of the state is kept off these preserves. If these nonresidents want to enjoy the peculiar advantages pertaining to New Jersey, they ought to be willing to pay for them and, by affording funds to stock the fields and woods open to all, in a measure make up for what they have deprived the citizens of New Jersey of.

"The proper principle for the enactment of fish and game laws is one of restriction. With every year there is an increase of gunners, and the progress of civilization and increase of population denude large tracts of land of trees and shrubbery. The chances for the existence of game are decreasing. The chances of its being killed on account of the increase in gunners and the improvement in firearms are continually on the increase. For this reason we shall ask the legislature to pass a law limiting the number of birds and other game animals a gunner may kill in a day, and also restricting the taking of fish as far as numbers are concerned. We cannot keep up the supply without some such measure.

"By an inadvertence the last legislature passed a law permitting the killing of flickers, as the yellow winged woodpecker is known in this state. The Audubon societies all over the state are up in arms over this enactment, but I hardly consider the subject worthy of argument. The flicker is one of the most beautiful and one of the most useful of birds to the farmer, for it devotes its whole life to the killing of insects. If flickers are not to be protected and if gunners are to be permitted to kill them in the months when our game birds are mere fledgelings, we might as well let down the bars and kill off all our birds and game.

"By another inadvertence the legislature last year removed all protection from deer, but I do not presume there will be even the slightest objection to the enactment of a statute giving proper protection to the few deer that are left in the state.

"I also believe that July woodcock shooting should be abolished and that there should be protection for eagles and beavers. The latter animals have again put in an appearance in the state, having been introduced by the owners of some game preserves. But these are minor matters, and our principal insistence this year will be the nonresident license law, the limitation in the number of fish and game to be taken and the protection of deer and flickers."

"Do you think that the stocking the commission has done in the past few years has been rewarded with successful results?" inquired the reporter.

"That is a difficult question to answer definitely," replied Mr. Frothingham. "I should certainly answer it affirmatively, and that without any hesitation, but to give any definite idea as to the extent of the success would be impossible. I am free to say that as far as stocking with ringnecked pheasants is concerned it was an utter failure, but I do not think this should be ascribed to the commission. These birds and their Japanese congener have been successfully introduced in many of the western states, where they have to a great measure taken the place of the native partridge or grouse. There is no reason why the birds should not thrive in New Jersey. We tried the experiment, and from nearly every place where the birds had been put out we received encouraging letters and frequently glowing accounts of the success of the experimnt. The birds bred well, and, although the old birds, from the fact that they had been bred in confinement, were rather tame and thus became easy marks for gunners, the young birds were sufficiently wild to afford good sport and to preserve themselves. Unfortunately a measure we had introduced prohibiting their killing for a term of years failed to become a law. The next legislature was equally obdurate in this direction, and by the time the following legislature passed the present law the birds had been killed off. Want of funds has prevented us from pursuing the experiment, but the matter will in all probability be taken up again.

"That the stocking of quail has been a success cannot be denied, for, according to all the accounts we have received from all parts of the state, there are now more quail in New Jersey than there have been for many years. We were very careful to secure only western birds coming from high latitudes, calculated to withstand the rigors of our winters, for it is a well known fact that southern quail migrate in the late fall. Money expended for southern birds is wasted, but the quail we have distributed bred here and did well. What we shall do this year I do not know, for the markets have been practically closed for live quail by the enactment of strict laws in different states prohibiting their trapping and exportation. About the only state left open to us is California, which still permits the exportation of quail under restrictions from the state authorities. Whether the California quail will withstand our winters is something I cannot tell. We may try the experiment if inquiry warrants a belief that it may prove successful. The California bird would certainly be a glorious acquisition to our wild fauna, and the temptation to try to acclimate it here is certainly great. But the fact that we cannot secure any more of the common western quail affords another strong argument in favor of further restrictions and for the passage of a law limiting the number of birds that may be lawfully taken in a day's gunning.

"As to whether the introduction of the pike perch, the white bass, the channel catfish and other fish brought on from the great lakes will prove successful time alone can tell. We have had very satisfactory reports from many waters where these fish were introduced, but whether the success was merely spasmodic, whether their breeding was merely due to peculiar and fortuitous circumstances or whether it will be lasting cannot as yet be told. Hundreds of circumstances, many of which we know nothing at all about, govern the well being and the multiplication of fish. Mankind has been studying fish for centuries but what we do not know about fish would fill a far larger volume than what we do know about fish. Why fish should multiply one year and not another is something we cannot tell. This is not at all surprising. Ask a farmer why it is that one year he has abundant crops and the following year none at all, and he will simply shrug his shoulders and say he does not know. He uses the same quantity of seed, the same quantity of compost and does just as much work one year as he does the following, but the results are vastly different. How is it that an apple tree one year will be laden with fruit and the next year not produce enough to make a decent pie? And yet here you have the soil, the tree and all its surroundings under your eye. You can use the microscope, and you can make chemical analyses, but all the science in the world will never answer that simple question. With the fish you have the impenetrable veil cast over their doings by the water. Fish keep moving about continually in search of food or for some other reason. The large fish feed on the small ones, these on the small animals that live on the weeds and other subaqueous plants, these plants subsist on the food found in the soil, and this food subsists on the Lord knows what, but a single break in this chain and there is disaster. If the weed in the water dies, the small animals which obtained life from the weed also die. Then follow the small fish and in course of a short time the larger. We may know all about these things some time in the future, but that does not help us in New Jersey in this year 1902.

"Fish and a great many other animals frequently change their habits, and this has given rise to disputes as to what these habits really are. I have read with some interest recent discussions as to whether the gray squirrel hoards nuts for the winter or whether he depends on his more industrious cousin, the red squirrel. The question has been answered both ways any number of times, and that by men who were positive that they were right, for what they knew they had learned from their own observation. I believe that the gray squirrel very quickly gets out of the habit of hoarding nuts when he finds that he can depend on robbing the red squirrel. Then a year comes when the red squirrels die off or leave the country, and the result is that the gray squirrel starves, and then people wonder what has become of the gray squirrels. I know that gray squirrels hoard nuts, for I have seen them do so, and I have seen them go to their heard in winter. But in Central park in New York the squirrels must be supplied with food during the winter months, for they have long since learned to depend on man to keep up the supply of their food. Remove those gray squirrels into the wilderness, and they would quickly go back to the ways of their ancestors and put by a winter's supply of food. I only cite these facts to show how many matters must be considered when we undertake to interfere with the admirable balance nature has established in the animal kingdom, when we undertake to place animals where nature did not place them. Remove a white perch from the brackish water in which he had his home to some landlocked water, and he will spend the rest of his existence in trying to find a way out to get back to brackish water. Take a white bass a few months old and place it in the same water, and he will never worry about brackish water, but will promptly settle down and multiply. But these incidents are only a few of many hundreds. We know these, but we do not know the hundreds of others. Under these circumstances we use what knowledge we have, and then the rest is experiment. We know that certain fish will not thrive in certain waters, and these facts guide us in our work of stocking. A pond may be stocked, for example, with pike perch, and the following year there may be thousands of them and a few years after none at all. In another pond the introduced pike perch may apparently wholly disappear, only to show up some years later in large numbers. What the cause of all this is we do not know. We do the best we can, and I do not think that we have any reason to complain that our efforts have not been successful."

Early Impressions.

One of the strange traits of little children is their utter misunderstanding of many simple things and the endurance of this misunderstanding with them through years and years. Thus, there is a lawyer of this city who thought until he was twenty or twenty-one years old that there was such a word as "pard-narsens" in the language. His father, a religious man, had said grace always at the table, and the boy had heard incuriously three times a day "pard-narsens" in the grace without comprehending in the least that "pardon our sins" were the words his father actually had spoken.

This boy was always misapprehending religious things. The phrase "for what we may receive" entered his brain each Sunday as "what Mary Seeve," and he would wonder idly who Mary Seeve might be. Even the first line of his nightly prayer meant nothing to him. "Nowalaymy" he pronounced it in one swift word, and he neither knew nor cared to know what "nowalaymy" meant.—Philadelphia Record.

Persian Tombak.

Tombak is a narcotic which is known under the name of Nicotiana persica and is cultivated in Persia exclusively in the provinces of Chiraz, Kechan and Ispahan. Its quality varies with the place of production. The best tombak is that which is derived from Chiraz. The production of this province varies between 1,500 and 2,000 bales a year, which is almost entirely consumed by members of the imperial family.

Tombak of this superior quality is not very abundant, and the price paid for it is about 50 or 60 francs the oke, the oke being equivalent to 2.8 pounds avoirdupois. The province of Kechan produces the second quality of Persian tombak. With small leaves, like the Chiraz tombak, the product of Kechan is not even so abundant.

Lincoln on Joe Heiskell.

Sometimes in dealing with the most serious matters Abraham Lincoln brought into play a semifacetious, sardonic humor which was very effective for his purpose. Governor Andrew Johnson telegraphed as an interesting item of one of the Tennessee fights that the Confederate ex-congressman "Joe Heiskell walked to meet" his Union captors. Lincoln replied:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 26, 1864.
Governor Andrew Johnson, Nashville:
Thanks to General Gillem for making the news and also to you for sending it. Does Joe Heiskell's "walking to meet us" mean any more than that Joe was scared and wanted to save his skin?
A. LINCOLN.

The Derivation of "Gingerly."

To speak of a person acting in a "gingerly" fashion would certainly convey a clear enough idea, and we easily connect the word in some vague manner with the word "ginger," perhaps from the association in our minds of the sparing use made of that condiment. The word, however, is innocent of any such roundabout derivation and comes directly from the old word "gang" (to go), still preserved in the Scotch phrase, "Gang that gate," and thus originally means with cautious, faltering or "gingerly" steps.—Chambers' Journal.

Upon his couch in the rooms of Richmond's popular physician Richard Somers lay, convalescent. His wound proved easy of management and healed rapidly. But in the empty hours given to him for recovery he reviewed his late experience, and with small comfort for himself. Carried away by sentiment, he had permitted himself to involve seriously a young girl intrusted to his care. He had acted like a sentimental boy, he told himself, rather than as a man coolly transacting a piece of business to which a friend had commissioned him. Evidently the whole matter hinged upon the succession of property, and he was simply an instrument. But he had suffered himself to be swept along by sentiment, and had declared his love for a girl altogether unknown to him—indeed, unseen. In conclusion, somebody had put a bullet through his head, the only mistake being in the matter of aim. He had received no explanation from Brodnar other than that an error had cost him the wound. There was a multitude of apologies, the tenderest of care—and silence. But one day he arose and dressed himself, and, barring a slight dizziness of head, found the world about as he had left it. And then Brodnar told him of such facts as he himself had knowledge.

"You were shot from a window by some one who saw you strike a match, my dear fellow, and who didn't care whether your eyes were closed or not," he said.

"But, who was the assailant—and what was the object?"

"Under the window I found tracks, the track of a woman's number two shoes, clear cut and sufficiently deep to suggest that the wearer was in all probability a settled woman. And yet a heavy woman's foot would not have been so trim. There you have it all."

"Why should she have been there, and why should she have shot me?"

"My dear fellow, ask me who wrote Shakespeare and the letters of Junius. Frankly, I know nothing on earth about this shooting beyond the simple fact. Perhaps the shot was not aimed at you." Somers reflected for a moment.

"Possibly you are correct in the suggestion. But if you, with all the information you have and knowledge of these people, are at sea, I have no chance to unravel the mystery. Evidently my best plan is my first plan—to leave at once. Some one lives who saw me in that room. The sooner I go now the better for the good of all. Only I would have you tell me again—if I may venture that far—if my young friend is well, and understands that my recovery is accomplished."

"She is well," said Brodnar, with some constraint, "and understands."

"Look here, Francis, the truth is," said Somers, rising, "I am not fond of mystery. I proposed to keep my promise and shall, but, man, I came near being involved in a lifelong affection that night, and I ask you now if I am to leave here with no further information—"

"Yes," said Brodnar, "otherwise you would defeat the object of the whole plan. Nothing could be more unfortunate for the girl than that you should see her again or knowledge of that marriage get abroad."

"So be it," said Somers, sadly. "I keep my promise. To-night we say good-by." Brodnar sat moodily silent, drumming upon his desk, his eyes upon the floor. Suddenly he stood erect.

"Somers, I owe you something, owe you more than I may ever be able to repay; I shall tell you this much, and let you decide for the woman—"

"A telegram, doctor, for Mr. R. Somers—your care." A boy had entered hurriedly and stood waiting. Somers took the message from the doctor's hand, and, the messenger vanishing, he read aloud:

"Report in person immediately to this office. "STANTON,
"Secretary of War."

Brodnar looked steadily into the glad, bright face of his friend, who was upon his feet in an instant and full of excitement.

"Will you report there?"

"Will I? It is the dream of my life, Brodnar!—but—but—you were saying—"

"Nothing."

"I don't understand you, Frank."

"No member of the family, Dick, you have entered, ever drew sword against Virginia. You must choose between the woman and—"

"My country? Is that it? How would you choose, Frank?" Brodnar was silent, looking away. "Take this message to her for me, my friend; it is the last request, perhaps, I shall ever make to you—"

"Dick—"

"Say to her that Richard Somers passes out of her life to serve his country. His duty done, please God, and she needs his arm, he will follow her to the end of the earth. Say that for me; and then, farewell."

CHAPTER IV.

The morning sun striking through the eastern window of a hotel room shone full upon the face of a woman who lay sleeping there. She was dressed as for the street, but her hair was loose and fell about her shoulders in gleaming, golden masses. Even in the trying light upon it her face was beautiful. Perfectly oval, it possessed a combination of dark shadings rarely found in blonde types, and the even brows were as delicate as though penciled by an artist. Upon her cheeks lay long, dark lashes. Sleeping, she seemed scarcely more than a girl in age, the few lines upon her face fading out of prominence; and yet there was a womanliness in her trim, settled figure that told of years not otherwise to be suspected.

The bell of a tower clock near at hand rang out loudly the hour. The sleeper stirred uneasily, opened her eyes, and instantly, as full consciousness returned, bounded from the bed to the floor. In the quick look she gave to her surroundings terror was apparent. A moment later she had pulled the bell-cord and was waiting, her watch in hand, by the door. A negro servant knocked and was admitted. She did not notice his old-fashioned and courteous salute.

"Why was I not called for the six o'clock train?" she began in great agitation.

"We call t'ree times, ma'am—t'ree times; an' you say 'all right' ev'y time, ma'am."

"I answered?"

"Yes, ma'am. An' we t'ink, ma'am, mebby you done change yo' min'." Something like despair came to her face.

"The time now?"

"Nine o'clock, ma'am. Clock des struck, ma'am. Gem'man downstairs sen' dis cyard, ma'am, an' say—" The gentleman in question passed the speaker, stepping across the threshold.

"You may go," he said, curtly, and waited until the old servant had retired and closed the door. Then he turned coolly towards the woman. "And now, madam, what does this mean?"

"Raymond!"

"Why have you left London?" The woman did not answer. She had cried the name hysterically and started forward; then, suddenly, drawing her hair from her face, she shrank away from him, her gray eyes distended in terror or the expectation of violence. In the presence of this pantomime, the man's face lost its cynicism and sternness. He was unmistakably astonished. "Well," he said, at length, "what is it?"

"You here!" the exclamation was but a whisper. "I thought—"

"Why should I not be here? Didn't you write, requesting me to come? I was not in the city yesterday, nor last night, and have but just received your foolish letter. Are you mad, indeed—that you come to this city—that you follow me up in public!—Name of Heaven, woman, what is the matter with you?"

"Not in the city last night! Not in the city! Then—then—" She caught a chair. "Oh, I am ill—ill!" She seemed about to fall, but her companion made no movement to assist her. "There is some—mistake!" she whispered. "Some awful—mistake!"

"What are you talking about?" He stood looking curiously upon her. She turned suddenly, ran to him, and, falling upon her knees, clasped her arms about him, giving way at the same time to a paroxysm of hysteria that swayed them both with its violence. He stooped impatiently, broke her clasp with a violent effort, and half pushed, half lifted her into the chair. Burying her face in her hands, she gave way to violent weeping while he stood by.

The man was of medium height and fine figure, his faultless dress and his every motion revealing the fashionable world. His face might have been handsome at one time, but something had fled from it, and something had come to it since then. That which had come men usually call the marks of dissipation; that which had fled they had no name for.

He might have been genuinely indignant or playing a part, but he gazed sternly a few moments only upon the agitated woman, his black eyes gleaming wickedly; then, with a sneer and slight gesture of dismissal, turned away. Taking from his pocket a case, he proceeded calmly to select and light a cigarette, and walking unconcernedly to the fireplace, tossed his match into it. Standing with his back towards her, he busied himself with a hunting scene above the mantel. And thus, presently, the woman, ceasing to cry, found him. She clasped her hands upon her chair-arm convulsively and lifted her head.

With a few rapid motions she twisted the fallen hair into position and arose to her feet.

"When you have finished with the picture," she said, "listen to me." Startled, he whirled and faced her. Her figure was now erect and head lifted. The tenderness was gone from her eyes. Wide open, they seemed to measure and threaten him. He came slowly forward, the sneer upon his face.

FRIEND WORTH HAVING.

Vast Amount of Money Failed to Turn Lord Stratheona Against Chum of His Youth.

Lord Stratheona and Mount Royal, now high commissioner for Canada at the English court—and still young, though his snow white hair tells a story of more than 80 years of life—was one of the principal partners of James J. Hill when the great northwestern railroad magnate built the old St. Paul & Manitoba railroad, afterward to be a part of the Great Northern system. Lord Strathcona was plain Donald Smith then.

Upon the advice of Mr. Hill Donald Smith invested in the Northern Pacific railroad as it was built up. In time these holdings of Northern Pacific in the hands of Canadians aggregated some 20,000 shares. They were held as investments and the stock market knew little of their whereabouts.

When the strenuous fight for control of the Northern Pacific was in progress last spring, says the New York Times, the interests opposing the Hill-Morgan syndicate sent an ambassador to London to offer to Lord Strathcona $20,000,000 for the shares he held—ten times their par value. Possession of these shares would have turned the tide of battle. But Lord Strathcona in his inimitably courteous manner rejected the proposition, saying:

"When I was young and with little money James J. Hill was one of my best friends. His railroads have been my best investments since. No amount of money would tempt me to turn against him now."

CRUSADERS AT WORK.

Use Object Lesson in Cruelty to Stop the Fashion of Docking the Tails of Horses.

A novel yet vigorous war against the docking of horses' tails has been begun in Baltimore by the Maryland Society for the Protection of Animals, and the methods used to educate the people regarding the enormity of the offense has aroused the ire of every "chappy" who considers himself a whip.

On sunny afternoons, when the shopping district is crowded with women, an agent of the society leads a sorrel horse up and down the streets, and lest it shall fail to be remarked that the animal has been shorn of his tail, a blanket is strapped about him, on which is painted in big red and blue letters this inscription:

"Tail docked. Mutilated for life, for fashion's sake."

But the society, not satisfied with its efforts to arouse public sentiment, has forwarded to the general assembly a bill, which will be immediately introduced, making it unlawful in Maryland to even own a horse with a docked tail, and providing a penalty of from $100 to $500 fine, or two years in the penitentiary, for each offense.

Another bill which the society will urge is the one prohibiting live bird shoots within the state.

A Nineteenth Century Martyr.

A touching story of the early days of the mutiny is told of the Allahabad massacre. Seven cadets just out from England were murdered before they had time to join their regiments. The eighth, a boy of 16, was left for dead, but survived, in spite of horrible wounds, for four days, hiding himself in a ravine. On the fifth day he was discovered, dragged to the native lines and thrust into a hut as a prisoner. He found there a Christian catechist, who had been formerly a Mahometan, and who was being tortured by the Sepoys to make him renounce his faith. The catechist's courage had given way, but the gallant English lad—himself only 16 years of age—urged the unhappy catechist: "Don't deny Christ! Never deny Christ!" Neill reached Allahabad in time to rescue both catechist and ensign. But the ensign, Arthur Cheek, died of his wounds four days after Neill's arrival."—"The Great Mutiny."

THE WIDOW'S GOOSE.

It Made Things Lively in a Pennsylvania Village.

After Committing Various Offenses, the Bird Invaded the Schoolhouse and Put Teacher and Pupils to Rapid Flight.

The Susquehanna (Pa.) correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean is authority for the statement that there's lots of trouble in the little village of Brookdale, and that it's all on account of the disorderly conduct of a wild goose owned by the Widow Simpson. The widow bought the fowl from a hunter when it was a yearling, and has since been trying to make a pet of it, with very disastrous results. There's one thing that the people of Brookdale pride themselves on, and that is the well-kept lawns in front of their homes. Widow Simpson's goose has a taste for tender grass, and, after destroying the pretty plot at her cottage, made predatory raids on the neighbors' lots. This started the trouble, and the Widow Simpson, from being one of the best-liked women in the community, became the most hated.

The goose seemed to realize that it was heartily hated by its owner's neighbors, and that a demand had been made for its death, with which the widow refused to comply. The fowl then began a persistent series of attacks upon the people who wanted it put out of the way. It bit and seriously injured a four-year-old girl, upset a 40-gallon can of milk, tore down the family washings and dragged the clean clothes in the mud, and made raids on poultry yards, killing off the young chickens by the score. It became such a terror that the people of Brookdale organized themselves into a vigilance committee and started out to kill it. Volley after volley was fired at the goose, but it seemed to bear a charmed life and escaped unhurt, flying out of range of the buckshot fired at it, and screeching defiance to the men and boys who sought to kill it.

One result of the vigilance committee's raid was the killing of a calf by one of the men who shot at the goose. The owner of the calf presented a bill for $17, which the unlucky goose hunter had to pay.

About a quarter of a mile from the Widow Simpson's home is the village school, presided over by a young woman teacher, who has some 30 little boys and girls under her charge. One Monday morning the goose flew in at the front door of the schoolhouse and began to make things lively. Knowing the evil nature of the fowl, the teacher and her pupils were badly frightened at its appearance. It began operations by grabbing a book out of a child's hands and tearing it to pieces. The teacher, armed with a broom, and some of the bolder of the pupils, with rulers, made a combined attack on the intruder, but it scared them off and inflicted a number of severe injuries on them, including a bad cut on the teacher's face, made with a stroke of its powerful wings. Finally, seeing they were no match for the belligerent goose, teacher and pupils fled, leaving it in possession of the room.

Help was summoned, but when it arrived the goose, with a loud squawk, flew out of the doorway and winged its way to the woods, since which it has not been seen. The interior of the schoolhouse presented a scene of wild wreckage. The floor was strewn with torn books, desks were upset, ink bottles spilled, and a number of panes of glass broken. It cost nearly $20 to repair the damage, and the school trustees talk of suing the Widow Simpson for the amount if the goose comes back.

A Dime Well Invested.

It was an Odessa, Pa., youth, according to one of the Lafayette county papers, upon whom this advertisement made a deep impression: "Young man—Some woman dearly loves you. Would you know who she is? She would like to be your only sweetheart. Send ten cents in stamps to Occult Diviner, address as above, and learn her name." He sent the stamps and got his answer. What was it? "Mother."

Stature and Endurance.

The soldiers capable of the most endurance are men of short stature, from five feet to five feet seven inches in height. As a rule, tall men have bodies out of proportion to their lower limbs; that is, smaller than they ought to be. The result is they are unable to bear the fatigue which comes easier to shorter men.

ON THE DIAMOND.

There is a strong possibility that the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works employes will place a crack baseball team on the diamond this season. Among the men working there are many old players off former local teams and steps are being taken to organize them. Nearly the entire team has been selected from the material offered and the remainder will be secured without going out of the factory environs.

GOLF.

If the mild weather continues it will not be long before the work of preparing the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course for play will be started. It is said that the course is in excellent condition. The finishing work on the tennis courts will also be attended to in the near future.

ROSELL'S LICENSE.

Application for a License May be Reconsidered at Meeting of the Common Council.

Inasmuch as J. H. McVey has disposed of his hotel business to A. B. Rosell, there is a possibility that the Common Council at its regular meeting this evening, may reconsider Mr. Rosell's application for a license. There has been a feeling that if Rosell and McVey could adjust their differences, it might result in the granting of one license. Now that this has been done it is said to be possible that the Council may grant a license to Rosell.

The members of the Council do not express themselves on the question. If the applicaion is reconsidered and defeated, it will be impossible for the applicant to get a license this year, according to one of the Councilmen.

INCREASED RATES.

Local Insurance Agents Notified of a Twenty-Five Per Cent. Increase on Certain Risks.

Local insurance agents received a letter Saturday from the Underwriters' Association of the Middle Department which includes all of the State of New Jersey, except Jersey City, announcing an increase in insurance rates on certain things, dating March 1.

An advance of 25 per cent. is to be made on all manufacturing risks, and other special hazards, with the exception of stores, dwellings, private stables, churches and similar buildings. In mercantile business an advance of 25 per cent. is to be made on all stocks of goods, store furniture and fixtures, in brick buildings, and on all frame buildings and their contents.

The advance is made because of big fires in this section for the past three years.

Asked Mr. Needham.

The young men's Bible class of the First Baptist church, until recently taught by the late Col. John A. Hull, has extended a unanimous call to Henry E. Needham to teach the class. All young men interested in Sunday-school work and not members of any other Sunday-shool are cordially invited to attend this class.

Officers for Y. M. A.

The Y. M. A., of Hope chapel, will hold a business meeting tomorrow evening at which several matters of importance are to receive formal consideration. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and baseball matters in connection with the association's outdoor sports will be discussed at some length.

Lamp for Chapel.

J. W. Gavett, of West Front street, has just presented to the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel a very fine lamp to be used on the pulpit at the chapel. The lamp was received Saturday evening and the members of the chapel desire to thank Mr. Gavett most heartily for the very useful gift.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Miss Edith Clapp, of Mercer avenue, is spending a part of the Lenten season in New York.

Miss Frances Phillips, of Rockview avenue, is detained at home by an attack of pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Howland, of Rockview avenue, have gone to Florida to spend a few weeks.

Miss Jane Woolley, of Newark, spent Sunday with her cousin, Robert M. Clark, of Richmond street.

Wm. E. Ludovici, of Brooklyn, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Ellis, of Liberty street, for the past few days.

E. D. Barrett, of East Fifth street, has so far recovered from his illness with pneumonia as to be about the house.

Mrs. Will F. Williams, of Westervelt avenue, is improving from a recent illness, under the care of Dr. Boone.

Dr Louis Duncan, of West Eighth street, has returned from Ashville, N. C., where he has been for his health.

William Stahl and Brad Temple, of Boston, well-known artists and sign writers, are spending a few days in Plainfield.

Miss Leila Howard, of Brooklyn, returned home today after a pleasant stay with Miss Jeanne Dunham, of West Front street.

Miss May Rodman, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Rodman, of East Seventh street, has gone to New York to spend a few weeks.

Mrs. L. K. Prescott, of Brooklyn, is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Mary L. Force, at her home, 203 Watchung avenue.

Dr. E. W. Hedges, of Watchung avenue, spent Sunday in Washington with Mrs. Hedges, who has been stopping in the Capital City for some time.

Counsellor George Ball is still detained at his home in Scotch Plains from the result of shock sustained in the trolley accident on East Fifth street, Saturday morning.

LIGAMENTS SNAPPED.

Hudson Kitchell Hurt in Trolley Car That Jumped the Track Near Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 3—One of the large cars of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, leaped the track while rounding a curve, yesterday afternoon, near the Westfield Golf Club grounds. Twelve passengers who were in it were shaken up.

Hudson Kitchell, of Plainfield, had the ligaments in his right arm snapped. He was also badly bruised and was taken to his home in McVey's Hotel. Another Plainfielder, Patrick Marron, who was talking to Mr. Kitchell at the time the accident occurred, was juggled about but escaped with contusions.

Instituted Another Court.

With the assistance of the Worth Grand Court officers, Mrs. William J. Ford, of this city, past worthy ruler of the Order of the Golden Scepter, instituted Court Hudson, No. 26, of the Order of the Golden Scepter at Jersey City, Saturday evening. Thursday, Mrs. Ford will attend the annual session of the order to be held at Philadelphia. A new court of the order is shortly to be instituted in this city.

Made Trouble.

A gang of young men visited the vicinity of Campbell's clubhouse, Saturday afternoon, and made life miserable for the residents and passersby on the road. Each one carried a gun and the young men continually blazed away at everything in sight, frightening horses, as well as people.

Observed His Birthday.

Rev. Theodore Duensing, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church, observed the anniversary of his birthday quietly, yesterday. In honor of the event he received a number of calls from friends and congratulatory letters from his former associates in Brooklyn.

Preached for His Father.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, preached at Boonton yesterday for his father, who is ill. Mr. McKelvey's place at the chapel was taken by Rev. Daniel Rapalje, of the borough.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

COUNTY COURT IN SESSION

FURTHER TESTIMONY TAKEN IN PEARSON AND FRYER ESTATES.

Those Cases Laid Over Two Weeks—Other Business Before the Court.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 3—In the Somerset Orphans' Court Friday further testimony in the Pearson and Fryer estates (from North Plainfield) was taken and the matter laid over for two weeks.

In the matter of the exceptions to the accounts in the Edward Stevens estate Judge Schenck sustained the accounts as filed.

Two appeal cases were tried. The first was that of Annie Fracella ads. Sebastian Devito, administrator of the estate of Sebastian Tarangelo. The deceased had loaned her $100 and she claimed that she was to have six years in which to pay. The administrators said but one year. The decision was in favor of Devito.

The case of Harry and Kate Clark ads. John J. VanDeveer was a dispute over the settlement for some hay. Both parties told very conflicting stories, and the court reserved decision.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Volunteer League and missionary Bible study class of the Y. M. C. A. will meet tonight.

—The Rasores Club will meet tomorrow morning at the home of Mrs. W. D. W. Miller, of LaGrande avenue.

—Mr. Woodland and family, of Craig place, are planning the removal of their home to Roseville in a short time.

—Charles Fritz has resigned from the men's furnishing department of Crosby & Hill's and has accepted a position in Newark.

Not For Children.

Owing to the limited capacity of the hall and the popularity of the supplementary course, the Y. M. C. A. is obliged to limit the attendance. Therefore children under sixteen years of age will not be admitted to the illustrated lecture to be given by Dr. Simpson Tuesday evening.

Will Build Several Houses.

John C. Milne, of the borough, recently concluded a deal with the Taylor estate through which he secured a plot of ground 250 feet front on Harrison street. It is his intention to build a number of houses on the ground, two of which will be commenced tomorrow.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the First M. E. church, will be held in Vincent Chapel, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. It is the request of the officers that every member bring the "mite" boxes for the mite box opening.

Back to Duty.

George H. Batchelor, of West Seventh street, returned to his position as superintendent of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, yesterday, after a brief absence.

Rat-Proof Wood.

The development of new colonies depends largely upon soft wood for telegraph and railroad lines, mine timbering, buildings, and other purposes. Hard wood is too difficult to work, while in tropical climates the soft wood is quickly destroyed by ferments, worms, insects and other agencies, and M. Louis Balmes suggests that an important part of the future equipment of settling hot countries will be a portable apparatus for rendering wood antiseptic. Woods treated with creosote or sulphate of copper have proven very durable for railway sleepers. Several antiseptic processes are now known to be possible, whether economical or not, to inject the protective substance into every part of the wood.—Science.

Favorite Dish of Hunters.

Corn bread cooked with bacon is a dish that is never seen in Philadelphia, but hunters and other persons who get out into the wilds return to rave over it. They describe it thus: The corn bread in the raw state is laid in a pan about two feet square, and then a piece of bacon is chopped up into bits as small as possible, and these bits are stuck, about an inch apart, into the dough. The cooking begins, and in the process the bacon fat melts. When the bread is done it has a peculiar and delightful flavor.—Philadelphia Record.

Mistaking the Action.

Patience—Then you say they are not engaged, after all?

Patrice—No, it was all a mistake. You see, he proposed while they were out horseback riding.

"Yes, I heard that."

"Well, he thought she was jumping at his proposal, but she never can help jumping when she's on a horse."—Yonkers Statesman.

A GREAT INVENTION.

So Scientists Speak of the Hewitt Electric Lamp.

Rich Young New Yorker Has Outdone the Efforts of Edison and Tesla—Light That Is as Cheap as Kerosene.

Once in awhile it is given to the sons of the rich to ride out of the ranks and to distinguish themselves in the field of might. Quite recently it was young Vanderbilt inventing a locomotive. Just now it is Cooper Hewitt, of New York, giving the world a new light. His case is even more spectacular than that of Vanderbilt, for the effects of his invention will be more far-reaching.

It is now more than four years since Peter Hewitt Cooper began his experiments in Madison Square garden. He opened his laboratory in the tower of the garden, just one floor under the gilded statue of Diana. The very prominence of the situation lent it a certain obscurity. He wished not to be disturbed and no one would think of looking for the workshop of a scientist in the same building that harbored horse shows, cycle meets and spectacle plays. He labored with that chimera which sooner or later claims the attention of all scientific men—the production of light without heat. He studied the work of Tesla, of Edison, of Crookes. He followed their lead and having tested their experiments he soon made up his mind that they had not reached the uttermost limits of this department of electrical research. He was young and time was no object. He had abundant means, so money did not count. Occasionally the societies heard of him when he told of certain progress he had made. To his friends he was a promising young scientist, who might do something some day.

The "some day" came with the new year. On the evening of Friday, the 3d of January, passersby in front of the meeting hall of the New York Society of Mechanical Engineers saw what appeared to be a column of light extending up and own the house front. The light came from a glass tube and it made the street nearly as light as day for a hundred feet in every direction. It was the invention of young Peter Cooper Hewitt. The meeting hall of the building was lighted by four other tubes similar to the one in front and the inventor was even then within explaining to the society members the nature of his discovery. The four tubes which hung in the hall illuminated it with a brilliancy equal to 500 candle power, and photographs of the assembled members were taken with the new light.

THE HEWITT APPARATUS.
(No Special Dynamo Is Said to Be Necessary to Operate It.)

The Hewitt lamp, however, is so thoroughly adapted to present day conditions that no special wiring is required, no special dynamo is necessary to operate it. It may be attached to any incandescent light circuit now in use and it will glow as readily as an Edison lamp, only with many times the brilliancy. And yet the perfected lamp is such a simple affair that one wonders some of the brainy men of the scientific world have not hit upon the idea long ago. It is actually a fact that many of them not only experimented with this style of lamp, but even tried lamps of the very size, shape and contents of those used by Mr. Hewitt and failing to produce the desired effect, discarded the idea as impossible. The lamps used by Mr. Hewitt are in the shape of glass tubes, from one to ten feet long and from one to four inches thick. There is a small amount of mercury in each tube and the current acting on the mercury generates a gas which yields an intense white light. It is only necessary to attach a tube to an ordinary incandescent lamp circuit and it will light up. Mr. Hewitt encountered the same difficulties as the other scientists.

The tubes would not light up at first, but he thought there must be some underlying principle which, could he but discover it, would solve the difficulty. He finaly put it to the test of mathematics and worked it out algebraically, just as Prof. Pupin worked out the principle of ocean telephony. It took him four years, but the result was triumph, for the tube lighted up in the end.

Colds in the Head.

An Austrian scientist has discovered that a cold in the head is due to the presence in the membrane of a special bacillus, which he has called the micococcus catarrhalis.

NEARLY STRANGLED.

Mrs. John Manley Had to Have Bone Removed From Throat by a Specialist.

Mrs. John Manely, of Park avenue, is detained at home by illness which was brought on in a peculiar way. Thursday, while she was eating a lamb chop, a small piece of bone lodged in her throat. For a few minutes it seemed as though she would strangle to death before relief could be given. After much trouble the bone was removed slightly and temporary relief afforded.

As soon as possible, Mrs. Manley was taken to New York to a specialist and the bone was dislodged. Her throat is still very sore and Mrs. Manley is unable to eat any kind of food for the present.

NEW TIME-TABLE.

A Few Changes Made Which Will Affect Service for Plainfield.

A new time table went into effect on the Jersey Central Railroad this morning. There were but few changes which will affect Plainfield. Chief among these is the late morning express for New York, which has formerly left here at 11:10. It is now scheduled to leave at 10:40. The westbound local for Somerville, Easton and Mauch Chunk, which formerly left here every morning at 8:21, now goes at 8:18.

THE MAN NAMED AS STATE SUPERINTENDENT

Sketch of Charles J. Baxter Again Appointed State Superintendent of Schools.

SERVED FOR TWO TERMS

NOW ASSURED THAT HE WILL BE CONTINUED IN THAT OFFICE.

Began His Educational Work as a Teacher in District Schools at Frankfort Plains—A Native of Sussex County.

The re-appointment of Charles J. Baxter, as State superintendent of public instruciton by Governor Murphy, seems to meet with the hearty approval of all persons throughout the State who are at all interested in educational matters. He has filled his position with much credit to himself and the school interests of New Jersey, and in many instances has improved the general condition of the school system throughout the State. It is now assured that Mr. Baxter will be the superintendent for the next three years, the full term.

CHARLES J. BAXTER.

Charles J. Baxter was born at Glenwood, Sussex county, November 8, 1841. He attended the district school there until he was twelve years of age, after which he went to work on his father's farm, continuing his studies by himself and with the help of an uncle who had graduated from Lafayette College and then lived on the next farm. On his eighteenth birthday he started his educational work as a teacher in the district school at Frankfort Plains, N. J.

After twelve years of teaching in several district schools, Mr. Baxter was appointed principal of the Franklin Furnace district school. He gradually improved the condition of the school until it was converted into a High School, remaining in that position for thirteen years. After leaving Franklin Furnace, eleven years ago, he moved to Plainfield, where he became connected with the Provident Life and Trust Company of Philadelphia.

In 1875, Mr. Baxter was renominated as school superintendent of Sussex county by the State Board of Education, but was rejected by the Democratic Board of Freeholders because of his party affiliations. This started the agitation which resulted in that power being taken away from the Board of Freeholders and given to the Board of Education. He was appointed to his present position by Govenor Griggs on March 24, 1896, as a successor to Addison B. Poland, who had resigned. Two days later Mr. Baxter was confirmed by the Senate for a full term of three years. In 1899, he was re-appointed for another term of three years, and last week he was again re-appointed for the full term.

Mr. Baxter's annual report is now in the hands of the printer and will probably be ready by April 1. The substance of the report in condensed form will be published in The Daily Press tomorrow and will prove exceedingly interesting to those who follow the educational work of the State.

MORE FUNDS FOR BASEBALL

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION CONSIDERING HOW TO RAISE THEM.

Will Ask School for Subscriptions or Else Conduct Series of Entertainments.

The problem of raising the necessary funds to support the baseball team, this spring, confronts the board of directors of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association and still awaits a satisfactory settlement. The entertainment, recently given at the Casino for the benefit of the association, did not prove the financial success that was anticipated. The net proceeds amounted to but $20. At least $50 more is believed to be necessary.

A meeting of the board of directors was held yesterday afternoon to discuss the subject but no final action was taken. For the last two years it has been the custom to appeal to the High School for subscriptions. To the girls who subscribed, season tickets were given. The plans answered very well and all the funds necessary were contributed. It is now a question whether to continue that plan or, as some members favor, give a series of informal entertainments to raise the money.

Members of the Junior and Third classes of the High School have signified their willingness to give class entertainments and contribute the proceeds to the athletic association. It is believed that the Fourth class will also be willing to give one. The Seniors object on the ground that they are too busy.

Another meeting will be held this afternoon when, it is expected, final actiion will be taken.

ON MINERALOGY.

Talk to Borough Teachers by Superintendent Wightman.

Superintendent W. J. Wightman, of the borough public schools, gave an instructive and interesting lecture yesterday afternoon in the High School for the benefit of the teachers and others interested. His subject was "Mineralogy" one that Mr. Wightman has been making a special study of for years. The superintendent illustrated in his lecture the best way to study, read and classify the subjects.

There were a number of very valuable specimens of minerals exhibited after the lecture in which great interest was manifested. The teachers for whom especially the lecture was given were delighted with the talk.

ALMOST ANOTHER ACCIDENT.

J. D. Loizeaux Was Jolted About by a Runaway Horse.

While taking J. D. Loizeaux to his office, yesterday morning, a horse, owned and driven by George Staats, became frightened by a trolley car at East Third and Richmond streets. It spang upon the sidewalk and then fell, breaking both shafts. Mr. Loizeaux has but recently been able to leave his home after recovering from the effects of a broken leg and was unable to jump out. He was badly jolted about but escaped unharmed.

WOULD ESTABLISH FUND FOR DISABLED FIREMEN

Movement Started at Meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association Last Night.

CONFER WITH COUNCIL.

WOULD BENEFIT ONLY THOSE WHO ARE ENGAGED IN REGULAR FIRE DUTY.

Committee Appointed to Consult With Members of the Council—Nomination of Officers Was Also Made—The Nominations.

Considerable business was discussed at the regular meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association, last evening, including the nomination of officers. The officers nominated were: President, L. E. Barkalew; vice president, B. A. Mumford; treasurer, E. M. Laing; recording secretary, G. Thorn; financial secretary, George W. Clark; trustees, D. W. Littell, E. M. Laing, W. A. Woodruff, J. A. Hubbard and E. A. Vermeule; representatives to the Firemen's Relief Association, Edward Mosher and G. Thorn; delegates to the State Firemen's Convention, D. W. Littell, V. W. Nash, W. A. Woodruff, William Krousse, Joseph Blimm, Charles McGinley and E. M. Laing. Of the latter five are to be chosen.

It is the desire of the association that the people of Plainfield be given an opportunity to vote on the question of establishing a permanent fund for the relief of disabled firemen who are engaged in regular fire duty. To bring this matter before the public a committee, consisting of V. W. Nash, chairman; D. W. Littell, secretary; B. A. Mulford, W. A. Woodruff and Charles McGinley, was appointed to confer with the Common Council for the purpose of devising ways and means to bring the matter to a vote.

It is argued that in several cities of the State such funds are provided and it is believed that the Plainfield firemen are entitled to such protection.

The members discussed the delinquency question and several amendments were offered to the bylaws, which will be considered at the next regular meeting of the association.

FOR BIRD LOVERS.

Illustrated Lecture on Birds at Audubon Society Meeting.

At the postponed annual meeting of the New Jersey Audubon Society, to be held Monday evening, March 10, a free lecture is to be given to which the lovers of birds are cordially invited. The meeting will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, kindly loaned for the occasion, and invitations to be present have been sent to all the members throughout the State. The lecture will be given, after the business meeting, by A. Radcliffe Dugmore, of East Orange, N. J., and will tell how birds, old and young, protect themselves and how nests are protected. Mr. Dugmore will also speak of his wild bird friends and show pictures of these birds resting on his hands. The entire lecture is to be generously illustrated with colored slides, which are most highly spoken of and commended by William Dutcher, of the Ornithological Union, of New York.

All interested, and especially the teachers and pupils of the schools, are urged to attend at 8 o'clock that evening.

Death of C. W. Oliver.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 4—Charles W. Oliver, a brother of Lawyer Paul Q. Oliver, aged thirty-nine years, died last evening at his home, 136 Prospect avenue, following an illness of ten days with erysipelas. For some time past, Mr. Oliver was not engaged in any regular business.

New Postmaster for Mountainside.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 4—Theodore Ball has been appointed postmaster at Mountainside to succeed Charles W. Schoonover, who has held the position for some time. The latter has decided to move away, hence the change.

Prize Choristers.

Prize choristers of Grace church for February were Edwin Scheller, Stanfell Forbus, Harry Smith, and the Misses Cornelia Miller, Mildred Ulrich, Ethel Forbus and Carrie Fuller. Miss Mildred Ulrich received the prayer book and hymnal.

Death of an Infant Son.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Fawcett, of 105 Rockview avenue, died this morning after a brief illness.

REFUSED TO RECONSIDER

Common Council Was a Unit in Its Refusal to Take Up Rosell License Application.

TROLLEY IMPROVEMENT

Council Opposed "Greater Plainfield" Bills, Because It Was Not Consulted—Attempt to Sue Trolley Company Defeated—To Give It a Chance.

Considerable business of much importance was transaced by the Common Council at its regular March meeting held last evening, including several questions of more than ordinary interest. The question of granting an additional license on North avenue was settled for this year by a unanimous vote in the negative.

After a recess of thirty-five minutes, Mr. Gloak made a motion to reconsider the application of A. B. Rosell and J. H. McVey and in both instances the motion was lost. There were eight members who voted in the negative as follows: Councilmen Randolph, vanHerwerden, Mellick, Tolles, Buckle, Gloak, Lee and Murphy. Mr. Pray, the only other member present, was excused after the recess and before the vote was taken In the absence of President Coriell, Mr. vanHerwerden filled his place, while Mr. Daniel did not attend the meeting, although he was present before it was called.

Councilman Lee's patience being exhausted over the wretched condition of the trolley service, as well as the rolling stock and the apparent gross violations of the ordinance under which the road is operated, offered a resolution which provided that inasmuch as these violations do exist, the corporation counsel be authorized to bring suit against the trolley company, for the purpose of securing a betterment of the service, or if necessary to have the franchise declared null and void.

After the reading of the resolution, Mr. Lee explained that the company had paid no attention to the repeated complaints made by the Council and he believed that the line today is in worse condition than ever. He then asked Mr. Tolles to state the result of a conference between the street committee and Superintendent Ackarman, of the company, held Saturday.

Mr. Tolles stated that the committee met Mr. Ackarman Saturday and that the latter explained his absence a week ago at the committee meeting by saying that the storm made it impossible for him to be present or send any word. Mr. Tolles then added that the committee held a very satisfactory conference. Mr. Ackarman admitted that every complaint was a just one and said the company had no excuse to offer.

Mr. Ackarman assured the committee that first-class service will be given in Plainfield. Money has been appropriated for the purpose by the company and he has full power to act. Mr. Tolles said that he believed that Mr. Ackarman was sincere in what he said and would do all he agreed to. He for that reason would not support Mr. Lee's resolution.

Mr. Lee replied by saying that the Council had no assurance but Mr. Ackarman's word that conditions would be bettered. He would like to have the word of the company. He said that the company had not treated the city fair, and there was no reason why the city should give the company any more time.

Mr. Buckle said that while he agreed with much that Mr. Lee had said, he did not favor the adoption of the resolution offered by him, and for the reason that the superintendent of the company had agreed to make things right and had acknowledged the fault of the company, he would not vote for the resolution.

Mr. Mellick added that during the past season all lines had been embarrassed in getting material and equipment. He could not see the desirability of forcing the company to better the winter cars when it would only be a short time before summer cars will be in order. Inasmuch as the company promised to have the summer cars and other equipment in good order, he for one would vote against the resolution.

Mr. Tolles explained as to the difficulty the company experienced in removing snow during a recent storm.

ONLY ONE WAY TO SATISFY THE SOUL

Rev. C. E. Herring Discussed the Problem of Life and How to Solve It.

MANY HEARD HIS TALK.

GIVEN AT FIRST OF SERIES OF EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS.

Which Will be Held at Park Avenue Baptist Church During the Next Two Weeks—Rev. Madison Hare Speaks Tonight.

The series of evangelistic services, which are to be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church during the next two weeks, began auspiciously last night. The meeting was held in the lecture room of the church and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. John W. Richardson. There was a good attendance, and the atmosphere of the meeting was one of earnestness and prayer.

The meeting was opened with a service of song, led by a chorus choir composed of young people of the church. A few moments of silent prayer followed, after which prayer was offered by David I. Runyon and John Cater.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Before beginning his address, he read and explained the Sixteenth Psalm, which he said was one of the great evangelical psalms, and from which he drew some very practical lessons.

The text of Mr. Herring's address was Ecclesiastes ii:17: "I hated life." Many men since Solomon's time, he said, had used the same expression; had found life not worth living. And in many cases they were men who had all the advantages the world could offer them. Solomon himself had tried every worldly avenue to happiness and found each a failure.

Many men, Mr. Herring went on to show, have tried to satisfy the longings of their spirits with the pursuit of knowledge. But this, while a most excellent thing in itself, could not bring true happiness to the soul. The speaker read a number of quotations from the writings of some of the greatest thinkers of the world, such as Goethe, Shopenhauer, and Voltaire, showing that they had found no real heart-satisfaction in the intellectual life. Culture and brain activity could not fill the empty place in the soul.

The speaker pointed out, further, that pleasures and worldly activities were also unsatisfying, though in themselves they might be desirable and right. Those who had the best the world could offer, or who had given their time to promoting worthy objections, still found that neither enjoyment nor work was all-satisfying.

Turning then to the other side of the picture, Mr. Herring pointed out that only one thing could satisfy the heart that God had made, and that was God Himself. A firm religious belief alone can make a man happy and peaceful amid the sorrows and sufferings and discouragements of life; and only the hope of the immortal life can lift the shadow from the future toward which he is resistlessly journeying.

At the conclusion of the address a solo, "Moment by Moment," was sung by Miss Elsie Giles.

Before pronouncing the benediction, Mr. Richardson announced that the two succeeding meetings would be addressed by Rev. Madison Hare, of Jersey City.

Two Culverts Broken.

The city street department was notified yesterday that two culverts in the eastern section of the city had become broken through, being weakened by the rushing water Friday night. One on South avenue, between Leland avenue and Terrill road, will be replaced, but the other, a wooden one on Berkley avenue, will not be repaired at present.

Arlington Avenue Line Open.

The trolley cars are now running through to Hillside cemetery on the Arlington avenue line. The company was obliged to remove considerable sand from the tracks at the upper end.

Endeavorers' Annual Gathering.

The annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will be held Friday night.

—Neuman Brothers have a fine line of evaporated fruits, including the celebrated Dr. Handy prunes. They are delicious.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MET

WORKERS FOR HOME MISSIONS AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN IN SESSION.

Officers Were Elected and Then Members Listened to Talk by Miss Petrie.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church was held this morning in the chapel of the church The business was chiefly of a routine nature, including reports of the most excellent work done during the past year.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Howard H. Pope; vice president, Mrs. John Johnson; secretary, Mrs. A. E. Hoagland; treasurer, Mrs. E. M. Shotwell; secretary for literature, Miss Kate Bond; superintendent of work, Miss Kendall.

After the election a most able and interesting talk was given by Miss Josephine Petrie, who told of her recent visit among the mission stations in the Indian Territory and Oklahoma. Miss Petrie gave a graphic description of the condition of affairs and of the urgent need for greater accommodation in caring for and teaching the Indians as well as the whites. The meeting closed after the address, when all remained to enjoy the basket luncheon prepared.

This afternoon the annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society is being held, when an address was given by Mrs. Janvier, a returned missionary from India.

STOVE SAVED THEM.

Colored Family Took Refuge on Top of It to Escape the Flood—Saved Just in Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 4—The exciting experience of a colored family that lives along Peters brook has just come to light. It was during the recent high water, when the creek arose rapidly, that Aaron Johnson and his wife and children were taken unawares. The angry waters invaded the house and Johnson and his family took refuge on top of a stove. The dog that had crawled into the oven was drowned.

When the water reached the top of the stove the cries of Johnson were heard by the driver of a delivery wagon, who had ventured to the edge of the raging stream. He backed his vehicle up to the door and got the badly-frightened family in it, taking them to a haven of safety.

Johnson firmly declares he will rent another and more waterproof house in the spring.

MAY NOT BE ROBERTS.

Possibility That He May Not Take Charge of Crosby & Hill's Store.

The store at Morristown formerly known as Crosby & Hill's, is now conducted under the firm name of Carson & Hill. Mr. Carson, who is still manager at the Plainfield store, expects to go to Morristown soon. As yet it is not definitely decided that C. W. Roberts, of the Morristown store, is to come to Plainfield. It is understood that another change has been made in the proposed plans and that another person is likely to take Mr. Carson's place.

Friends Surprised Them.

A surprise party was given last evening to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mobus, of the borough. There were nearly fifty friends who called on the host and hostess unawares and joined in having a general good time. Dancing was a feature of the affair. At midnight refreshments were served.

Fist Night Sold.

Tickets for the entire seating capactiy of Hope chapel have already been sold for the first night's performance of the Y. M. A. minstrels. The second night tickets are now being disposed of and from the advance sales already made they will all be gone before the performance.

Captured Three Canines.

In making a tour of the West End, this morning, Patrolman Higgins incidentally disposed of three incautious canines which crossed his path. One of them had escaped from Patrolman McCarthy who is at present taking dog shooting lessions under Higgins' tutelage.

Going on Proctor Circuit.

Frank Shepherd, of this city, has joined forces with a comedy team now playing in Washington Hall. He will begin an engagement with them on the Proctor circuit next week.

Road Blocked.

The road leading from Avon Park to South Plainfield is now impassable owing to the washouts. The road is shut off for the present and no one is allowed to drive through.

NOT FOR COMPULSORY SCHOOL VACCINATION

City Board of Education Decided it Was Too Great An Undertaking for Officials.

SUBJECT WAS DROPPED.

SUPERINTENDENT MAXSON'S REPORT OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Some Ideas He Secured There Which Were Recommended for Trial in Plainfield—His Report Regarding Compulsory Vaccination.

Nothing of any decided import was transacted at last evening's meeting of the Board of Education. Outside of routine matters, the members did nothing beyond discussing Superintendent Maxson's observations at the Chicago National convention of superintendents and the subject of compulsory vaccination in the schools.

The medical examiners reported examing 154 pupils and also announced they had discovered a prevalence of weak eyes among the attendants of the various schools. Tax Collector Smith's report stated that a total of $1,134.18 including interest, had been collected and deposited to the credit of the board. According to the custodian of school moneys, the receipts for the month were $11,967.49 and the disbursements $6,073.43, leaving a total balance on hand of $29,718.43.

The committee on teachers reported the resignations of Miss Alice M. Whitney, of the High School, and Miss Alice Miller, of the Lincoln School. Miss Grace E. Burroughs, a graduate of Radcliff College, was appointed to succeed the former and Miss Angela Morey is filling the latter's place.

Superintendent Maxson offered a report of his visit to Chicago last week as a member of the National Association of Superintendents and gave a brief outline of the points brought up. Principal among these was the selection of teachers, their time of service and what to do with them when they become incapacitated after years of work, and the question of constantly having substitute teachers in readiness for emergencies. His observations were favorably discussed and the members seemed greatly pleased with some portions, particularly those in reference to substitutes. The impression prevailed that it would be beneficial to the local schools to have a number on hand and when not engaged in filling in, to have them devoting their time to backward pupils.

At the last meeting of the board, Superintendent Maxson was asked to get the views of other cities in regard to compulsory vaccination. He reported that he had secured answers from thirteen places and of these, eight required it and five did not. In this city, he said, about ninety per cent. of the pupils are vaccinated but the Board of Health desired that all be treated. Where the parents would not consent it is the health board's wish that it be done or the pupils dismissed. In the opinion of the board this was too great an undertaking for the school officials and after discussing it at some length, the matter was dropped.

There was no further business and the meeting adjourned at the call of the chair.

Talk on India.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Mission Circle of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Freeman, 1008 South avenue. Mrs. Taylor, of Frankford, Pa., will speak on the subject of "Pundita Ramabai, a High Caste Woman of India."

Will Take a Week.

Residents in the vicinity of Leland and South avenues estimate that it will require a week for the flooded water to subside sufficiently to allow the new culverts to be built at that point. With their installation, it is hoped the trouble will be wholly remedied.

Second Lecture.

Dr. M. A. Carman will give the second of his series of lectures on the Holy Land in Hope chapel, Friday evening. It will be fully illustrated and explained further with costumes and other things.

Started New House.

Tallamy Brothers have broken ground for the erection of a house for Thomas Eganey, on West Fourth, near John street. It will cost when completed about $3,000.

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It softens and liquifies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. "One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace, J. Q. Hood, Crosby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family." L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It doesn't seem to be in keeping with its title when the Plainfield Church of the Heavenly Rest calls a rector of the name of Rush.—Newark News.

When the Republicans of Elizabeth remember the result of last fall's municipal election, it can be imagined with how much joy they have received the official announcement from former Assemblyman Meeker that he will be a candidate for sheriff of Union county on the Republican ticket.—Newark News.

The necessity for burying the electric wires may be regarded as finally demonstrated by the recent storm. As the blizzard of 1888 made it necessary to provide for the removal of snow with a thoroughness never before attempted, so the recent storm has added the straw which makes a revolution in methods of electrical construction. It is improbable that there would be another such interference with business, but it is possible there might be several in a single season, and the loss is far too heavy to risk. Even if the companies were so short-sighted as to pay the loss of such storms without seeking a remedy, the public would not endure the inconvenience. To have such cities as Philadelphia and Trenton practically isolated means loss to all business, and it might cause disaster. The time has come, then, for putting the wires underground permanently. The financial problem is a huge one, but there was never a better opportunity for obtaining capital for improvements upon reasonable terms.—Newark Sunday Call.

The townships are speaking, now and then, with reference to the bill, now before the Legislature, abolishing spring elections. While a majority seem, so far as can be ascertained, to favor one election a year, there is a minority sentiment which objects to any change. Those who still favor two elections appear to do so on the ground that a merger would deprive them of some of their vested election rights. It must be acknowledged, however, that they no longer use the old-time argument to the effect that in a general election the average voter does not discriminate between State or National and local officers. The reason they no longer use this is because the election last November proved the contrary to be true in very nearly every large city in New Jersey. There is really less need of two elections a year in the townships than there is in large cities, and since the latter are glad to have but one, the townships will doubtless decide the same way. And when once the elections are consolidated throughout the entire State, the prospects are that the townships will be even better pleased than the cities.—Elizabeth Journal.

THEATRICAL.

"The Way of The World" continues at the Savoy Theatre, New York, Miss Elsie de Wolfe and her fine company attracting large audiences to the pretty little playhouse on Thirty-fourth street. Although the current season has been remarkable for its splendid display of stage gowns, no attraction in New York has quite reached the point of lavishness established in this respect by Miss de Wolfe in this play. Miss de Wolfe has earned much commendation for her good work as Beatric Croyden, the pretty wife of the politician who amuses herself by flirting with a fascinating and worldly man of her own set and whose thoughtless conduct nearly wrecks her home life. John Mason is absolutely convincing as Croyden, the manly, handsome politician in love with his wife but absorbed in politics. On March 13 the one hundred and fiftieth performance of "The Way of The World" will be celebrated at the Savoy Theatre by the distribution of souvenirs which it is said will be very handsome. During Miss de Wolfe's engagement in New York there will be Wednesday as well as Saturday matinees at the Savoy.

Birthday Social.

A birthday social will be held at the Crescent Avenue church Thursday evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

Harry Ellis, of West Front street, leaves tonight for Buffalo to remain several weeks as the guest of relatives.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Woodhull & Martin have on exhibition in the east window of their store an elaborate showing of birds' eye maple furniture, which will be placed on sale Thursday morning.

The specials offered by Fred H. Firstbrook, the Liberty street grocer, save his patrons many dollars in the course of a week. Double trading stamps are given with all purchases of $1 or more.

From the maker to the wearer. This is true with goods sold at the store of the Waldorf Shoe Company on North avenue. In this way a large profit is saved for the purchaser, besides a first-class shoe is obtained.

W. H. Sebring, the clothier, is now to be found in his new store in the Marsh building on Park avenue, where he will continue to serve his many patrons with stylish clothing of the best material and at reasonable prices

Select designs in laces and embroiders are to be found at Peck's on West Front street. You pay no more than for some other kinds, while there is a satisfaction in knowing that you have exclusive patterns that are not sold everywhere.

A person to enjoy the full benefits of a clear mind it is essential that the head must be clear of all diseases and dandruff. E. S. F. Randolph, the Watchung avenue pharmacist, is offering Glyco Balsam Hair Tonic as a sure cure for such troubles.

Drop in at the Rogers Sea Food Company's store and have prices quoted. Nowhere else in the city are such bargains in fish, oysters and clams to be had. Orders left on the preceding afternoon are delivered before breakfast where asked.

Expert repairing in watches and clocks is a feature of Moraller & Son's jewelry establishment on Park avenue. If you have one of either which has not been working for some time, have them examine it and perhaps it will be turned back to you good as new.

Shoes for everybody, young or old, are to be found at Flynn Brothers. There are soft patent leathers for Sunday wear, good substantial every day shoes for the mechanic and the finest of kids for the women and children. Take advantage of the special sale now in progress.

There were many bargains secured by lucky buyers in Collier's package sale, last week, but every day is bargain day at Collier's. Full value in return for money received is his constant aim and the fact that he has been thirty-three years in the business is proof that he is to be relied upon.

Too much caution cannot be exercised in the selection of the milk supply. The quart of milk left in the jug in the morning may contain germs enough to affect the entire household. No one, however, has ever found anything wrong with the milk supplied by the Plainfield Milk and Cream Company.

CITY JOTTINGS.

FUNSTON IN NEW YORK.

The General Says There Is No War in the Philippines.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Brigadier General Funston, who is in this city en route to Washington to learn if he is to go back to the Philippines when his furlough expires in April, is quoted in The Herald as saying:

"There is no more war in the Philippines than there is in Kentucky. Assassins lurk in the cane and shoot down men who are at their mercy, but there are no soldiers in the field to battle with the United States troops. Even respectable guerrilla warfare has ceased.

"There has been no fighting in any of the Philippine provinces for nearly six months. It has been said that I have opposed the reduction of our forces in the east. That is a mistake. In my opinion one-half of our troops might be brought home, and at the end of a year one-half of those remaining might be returned.

"At the same time too much latitude should not be given to the natives of the Philippines. They are not ready for self government, and they belong to that class of people who look upon kindness as a show of weakness. If we are to maintain peace in the islands, we must deal fairly, but somewhat sternly, with most of the natives for a good many years."

INSURGENTS NEAR MANILA.

Constabulary Have an Encounter Ten Miles From That City.

MANILA, March 4.—Twenty-five members of the constabulary of Morong, ten miles from Manila, encountered eighty well armed insurgents yesterday. The former, after expending all their ammunition, fled. Eleven of the constabulary were unaccounted for, and it is believed they were killed or captured. The same band of insurgents turned back a commissary wagon, but did not molest the escort, consisting of three men.

Forces of constabulary and military are scouring the country, and bands of insurgents and ladrones are flocking to the island of Leyte. The constabulary officials have been notified of the arrival of malcontents there from Bohol and other places. They are well armed and are serving under Capile. An extra force of constabulary will endeavor to handle the malcontents.

General Lukban has offered to assist in suppressing the insurgents if given a certificate that he conducted his share of the war according to civilized usages. His offer has not yet been considered favorably.

Blame For British War Office.

LONDON, March 4.—The paper on the remount department in South Africa is considered the strongest indictment of its own incapacity yet issued by the war office, and it will go far to explain to the public the reasons why the war in South Africa has been so unduly protracted. This paper shows continual conflict throughout the war between the generals at the front appealing for horses and the officials of the war office, who were endeavoring to limit the number of horses sent out. When the war broke out, the remount department in Cape Colony consisted of one officer, fifty men, one veterinary officer and 1,300 animals.

Newfoundland's Population.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 4.—In the legislature Premier Bond placed upon the table the statement of the census returns for the colony for 1901, which had only now been tabulated because of the difficulty in reaching the more remote sections of the colony. These figures show a total population of 220,249, of which Newfoundland has 216,615 and Labrador 3,634. According to the figures of 1890, Newfoundland had 197,930 inhabitants, while Labrador had 4,106. The increase shown by the last report equals about 9 per cent.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 4.—Sir Augustus Hemming, the governor of Jamaica, accompanied by Lady Hemming, will leave here March 28 next for Santiago de Cuba to repay, with the consent of Mr. Chamberlain, the British colonial secretary, the official visit made to Jamaica last November by General Leonard Wood, the governor general of Cuba. Sir Augustus and Lady Hemming will be conveyed to Santiago by the government yacht Kanawha and will stay several days in Cuba.

PRINCE IN CHICAGO.

Enthusiastic Reception by the Mayor and Citizens.

EVENING CROWDED WITH EVENTS.

Banquet With State and City Leaders, Choral Festival by Sons of Germany and a Grand Ball at the Auditorium.

CHICAGO, March 4.—A glare of red fire that could be seen for miles, the blaze of hundreds of torches, the sparkle of myriads of electric lights and the cheers of thousands of people made up the first taste of Chicago's hospitality that was given to Prince Henry of Prussia upon his arrival in this city last evening. His train arrived at the depot of the Chicago and Alton railroad at 5:30 o'clock, and from there, after he had been formally welcomed by Mayor Harrison and the members of the reception committee, Prince Henry rode through streets packed with a dense multitude, whose cheers compelled the distinguished visitor to bow continually to right and left.

No more flattering welcome could have been extended to any visitor, and it came not so much from the officials of the city as from its citizens. Every building along the line of his route, from the depot to the Auditorium hotel, was gayly decorated with bunting, the prevailing scheme being the American and German flags intertwined, with the black eagle of Prussia over all. Many of the buildings had upon their fronts elaborate devices made up of hundreds of electric lights. There were "Welcomes" by the dozen, there were eagles and flags, and there were strings of gay colored lights almost without number. No hint of the decorations in electric light was given to the prince until after his carriage had gone over Jackson boulevard bridge and was descending the gentle slope that leads toward Michigan avenue. Then almost in the same second the lights were turned on, and what had been but one second before a lane between dark towering buildings was an avenue of dazzling light.

In the same carriage with the prince were Mayor Harrison and Admiral Evans, and the drive to the hotel occupied about thirty minutes.

At the door of the hotel the prince was met by F. Willis Rice and Milward Adams of the banquet committee and escorted to the second floor of the hotel.

The prince was in his room but a few minutes when Mr. Rice and Mr. Adams called for him, and the party, followed by the members of the prince's suit, went at once to the banquet hall. The Chicagoans had all preceded them, and after the prince, escorted by Mayor Harrison, Mr. Rice and Mr. Adams, entered the hall they made the room ring with their cheers.

The prince seemed greatly pleased at the warmth of his welcome and bowed and smiled repeatedly, and after he had taken his seat he nodded right and left to his entertainers as they seated themselves.

There were nine tables at the banquet, and, including Prince Henry and his suit, 157 people were seated. There were but three toasts offered.

It was shortly after 8 o'clock when the prince and his suit entered their carriages at the Auditorium hotel for their drive to the armory where the choral festival by the German citizens was held. The drive was almost an even mile in length.

Straight up Michigan avenue and for the entire distance the sidewalks were lined as closely as the people could be packed with thousands intent upon seeing the prince. A roar of cheers greeted him as he left the hotel, and from there until he passed within the doors of the armory there was one continuous shout, which was eclipsed in volume only when he entered the armory, where 6,000 people, most of them born in the fatherland or descendants of those who had been, were gathered to meet him. Bands were playing with frantic energy, and the great chorus of hundreds of voices was singing in honor of the prince as he entered, but their efforts availed them nothing. The cheers of the multitude drowned all else, and for fully five minutes there was nothing but one great roar of voices.

The chief event of the stay of the prince in Chicago was the grand ball held in the Auditorium. It was perhaps the most magnificent social event ever witnessed in this city, surpassing even the great ball given in honor of Admiral Dewey two years ago.

The decorations of the huge hall went beyond anything attempted in the Auditorium before. In the general scheme the German and American colors were freely mingled and formed the basis of the principal designs. The black eagle of Prussia and the stars and stripes were in evidence upon all sides. Nautical effects prevailed to a great extent.

Prince Henry in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, March 4.—Prince Henry stopped in St. Louis nearly four hours in the morning, and during that time he was kept busy following out the programme laid down for his entertainment by the local committee. From the time he entered Union station until his departure for Chicago the royal visitor received a constant ovation. He made a splendid impression, and his remarks and bearing showed that he was pleased with all he saw as well as the reception accorded him. In the only address delivered here by him the prince reiterated the statement made in New York that his mission to this country was to cement the friendly bonds between Germany and the United States.

THE FLOOD SUBSIDING

Paterson, N. J., Suffers Loss of Millions.

MANY FAMILIES MADE HOMELESS.

City Stricken by Great Fire Is Swept by the Raging Waters. Flood In Hudson and Mohawk Valleys.

PATERSON, N. J., March 4.—The flood that has inundated a large part of the mill section of Paterson has subsided, and it is believed the worst is over, but the damage done is enormous. It is estimated that the loss wrought by the flood is as large as that by the great fire, while it is said there is little or no insurance to cover it. Many more families have been rendered homeless by the flood than were made so by the fire, and the relief committee, whose labors were becoming lighter daily, are now hard at work seeking to assist those who have lost everything.

The bodies of six men who were drowned by the washing away of a bridge leading from Passaic to Dundee island have not yet been recovered.

The men were at work trying to keep the floating debris from striking the bridge when the flood swept away the bridge, which had been rickety for some time.

They cried for help, but no one could reach them, and they were quickly swept away by the flood.

As far as known only two lives have been lost in the city. The victims are Henry Richards, a carpenter, and Louis Baum, an expressman. They met death while engaged in the work of rescuing persons from the flood.

The flood has divided Paterson into two sections, and communication between them is impossible at present. One of the bridges over the river is down, and the approaches to the others are deeply submerged. The bridges are for the time being unavailable as means of communication.

At the armory the scene resembles that on the day after the fire. The relief work under Mrs. Garret A. Hobart's direction is in full swing, and everything is being done for the homeless that can be. The aldermen met yesterday and considered the situation.

Not only Paterson, but Passaic and other cities and towns along the Passaic river were in total darkness at night owing to the flooding of the electric light and gas plants. Passaic is in a state bordering on panic. Many persons were rescued from their homes in boats, scores of which were sent from Newark to cities farther west to aid in the task of rescue.

The freshet in the Delaware river at South Bordentown is rapidly subsiding, the water having fallen twenty-four inches last night. Trains on the Amboy division are running between there and Camden, but the tracks are under water between Bordentown and Trenton. Passengers for Trenton continue their journey by trolley.

Dundee island is washing away, and dozens of houses have been destroyed. Wallington is all under water, and it is feared the city hall is ruined. The Garfield Pump works are submerged, and the water supply is cut off there. The river is washing a new channel through the town of Wallington, and it is feared that when the water subsides the town will be an island.

CENTRAL RAILROAD BLOCKED.

Floods Along the Hudson Cause Suspension of Traffic.

HUDSON, N. Y., March 4.—High water in the Hudson river and the forming of ice gorges above this city south of Albany has stopped railway traffic on the New York Central and Hudson River road. Great activity prevails at this station, where all trains bound north are transferred over the Boston and Albany railroad via Chatham to Albany, and trains destined for New York arrive over the same route. It requires four large "hog" engines to draw each passenger train up the steep grade through this city, causing considerable delay.

Much apprehension is felt about the situation in the vicinity of Castleton and Schodack. Four large passenger trains are stalled there in the flood, one of the trains being the Empire State express. The waters have risen so high about them that the cars are submerged to the roofs, and heavy ice is pounding them hard, threatening their demolition. A work train from Hudson which went to the assistance of the other is also caught in the flood and cannot move in either direction, the locomotive's fires being extinguished.

The rush of the waters and heavy ice over the docks and along the railway tracks swept many small buildings away, destroying them completely. Should a strong north wind spring up nothing could save the stalled passenger coaches and the two locomotives from being destroyed by the rushing ice with the immense water power behind it. At this city the ice started to move south, tearing docks and wrecking everything in its course.

Along the Mohawk.

UTICA, N. Y., March 4.—The flood situation on the Mohawk division of the New York Central railroad is the most serious in the history of that road. Near Sprakers 2,000 feet of the tracks have been washed away, and it will take several days to repair it. Between Little Falls and St. Johnsville there is another serious washout, and for several miles great quantities of ice are piled several feet deep. At Oriskany about two miles of track are covered with ice, and some of the roadbed has been washed away.

The Susquehanna's Ravages.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 4.—The Susquehanna has been at flood height longer than ever known here, and Harrisburg has suffered great damage. The waters are receding at Sunbury, Milton and Williamsport, but there is a great flood reported at Wilkesbarre. South Harrisburg below Paxton street is still flooded, and all the lower end mills and furnaces have been forced to suspend. Paxton Creek valley and part of the Tenth ward are under water. Railroad and trolley service is upset, and telegraph wires are deranged by the break of the Camelback bridge. The Pennsylvania Steel works are shut down, and the water has damaged mines in Lykens valley. The Pennsylvania railroad is still unable to run trains.

Chemung River Receding.

ELMIRA, N. Y., March 4.—The drop in the temperature has improved the flood situation here, the Chemung river having receded to ten feet in depth. The fire engines have been engaged all day in pumping out the cellars of business places in order that fires might be started in the heating apparatus, but it will take another day's pumping before this can be done. About 500 families were affected by the flood, and there is much suffering, which is being alleviated as speedily as possible. A meeting of citizens was held in the city hall and several hundred dollars subscribed to the relief fund and a committee appointed to care for the needs of the sufferers.

In the Genesee Valley.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 4.—The water in the Genesee river is very slowly falling, and if the present low temperature continues for a day or two and no more rain falls into the Genesee valley the danger of additional damage by flood is probably over. Several fire engines are at work pumping out the basements of large buildings on Main and Exchange streets. All railroads are still tied up, with the exception of the New York Central, whose passenger trains are getting through from four to nine hours late.

In the Adirondacks.

WILLSBORO, N. Y., March 4.—The rivers and creeks throughout the Adirondacks have overflowed their banks, and considerable damage has been done to nearby property. All trains on the Delaware and Hudson railroad are greatly delayed owing to high water and ice on the tracks in the lowlands north of Whitehall. The boom at the mouth of Poquet river at Willsboro has gone out, releasing a large quantity of logs owned by the International Pulp and Paper company.

Heavy Loss In North Carolina.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 4.—Reports which have reached here from the western section of North Carolina say the damage to railroads and country roads caused by the recent storm and flood is enormous, but no lives were lost. Several towns in the western part of the state have been cut off entirely from communication since last Thursday. The railway situation is slightly improving.

All Highway Bridges Gone.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 4.—The high water continues throughout this section. Damage to the large bridge of the Erie railroad, south of here, has stopped transportation over it. The highway bridges within a radius of thirty miles are nearly all gone. Many poor persons are rendered homeless by the flood in Sullivan and Delaware counties.

Deputy Sheriff Shot.

EASTON, Md., March 4.—Thomas John Thompson, a deputy sheriff, was shot and instantly killed while attempting to rearrest Lewis Green, a negro murderer, who, with five other prisoners, had escaped from the Easton jail by means of a wooden key supposed to have been made by a fellow prisoner. When the escape became known, Thompson and another deputy went to the home of Green's brother, near here, to search for the fugitive. As they approached the house the inmates opened fire, and Thompson fell, shot through the body. All the inmates, including Lewis Green and his two brothers, were arrested and brought here.

Governor and Board Cannot Agree.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 4.—Governor Odell and the members of the state board of charities failed to reach an agreement on the proposed charities bill. The board, it is learned, is opposed to the provision which gives to the state superintendent of charitable institutions the power to appoint the superintendent and steward of each institution. At the conclusion of the conference the governor said, "We reached no agreement, and I cannot say whether or not we will be able to do so." Owing to the lack of a quorum the senate did not touch its calendar last night.

Barge Burned at Sea.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—The barge Carbon, from Philadelphia for New Bedford, laden with coal, has been burned at sea and at last reports was adrift and fast sinking ten miles off Cape May, N. J. The crew was rescued by the tug Sea King and taken to New York. The barge grounded on McCries shoals, which caused a stove to overturn and set fire to the vessel.

Turkey Called to Account.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 4.—The United States minister, John G. A. Leishman, has presented a note to the porte regarding the capture of Miss Ellen M. Stone by brigands, demanding the punishment of the guilty parties. The porte in reply repudiates responsibility and denies all liability.

NOTED MERCHANT DEAD.

Charles Broadway Rouss, Though Blind, Made Many Millions.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Charles Broadway Rouss, the famous blind merchant, is dead at his residence, 632 Fifth avenue, from heart disease and dropsy. He had been ill only since last Saturday night. Mr. Rouss was sixty-two years old and a native of Maryland.

As a merchant who had built up an enormous business from a small beginning Mr. Rouss would be entitled to distinction, but it was because he was blind and still more than ordinarily successful that he achieved the greater fame.

Young Rouss began in Winchester, Va., on a salary of $1 a week, which was increased from time to time. At the end of three years, when eighteen years of age, the young man had saved $500, and with that sum he went into business for himself and succeeded so well that at the end of six years, when the civil war began, he not only had the largest business house in Winchester, but a bank account of $60,000 clean cash.

Ruined by the war, Mr. Rouss in 1855 came to New York from Winchester with $1.80 as his capital. At his death he was one of the richest merchants in America, his wealth being estimated as high as $20,000,000.

One peculiarity of Mr. Rouss was to pay his employees every night. At the close of business, at 6 o'clock, winter and summer, the clerks, porters and others on the pay roll would go to the cashier and receive their day's wages in an envelope, so that when Mr. Rouss closed his store at night he owned no man a dollar.

State Charities Aid.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The twenty-ninth annual report of the State Charities Aid association of New York to the state board of charities was issued today. The work of the association during the year ending Sept. 30, 1901, at a total expenditure of $15,565.73, is thus summarized: The association's representatives have inspected the almshouses and public hospitals in forty-seven of the sixty-one counties of the state and the numerous institutions of the department of charities in New York city. The association has found permanent free homes for seventy-two destitute children and has maintained an oversight over dependent children placed out in families in Allegany, Lewis, Nassau, Putnam, Queens, Richmond, Rockland, Suffolk, Sullivan and Wyoming counties. These results have been secured with the co-operation of about a thousand volunteer workers residing in all parts of the state.

General Lima Dead.

WILLEMSTAD, Island of Curacao, March 4.—Loreto Lima, the Mochist leader, who was recently wounded, is dead. He expired in the military hospital at Valencia, Venezuela. A dispatch from Port of Spain, Trinidad, says that the steamer Libertador, now operating in the interests of the Matos revolution against President Castro of Venezuela and whose name was recently announced to have been changed to Bolivar, bombarded the port of Guiria for the purpose of protecting the landing of insurgent forces there. Details of this action cannot be obtained, but it is believed here that the government came out second best in the affair.

Young Man Missing.

NYACK, N. Y., March 4.—Daniel B. Sippell, one of the best known young men of Nyack, has strangely disappeared. He is a son of Edward B. Sippell, one of the most prominent citizens here. Daniel left Tuesday of last week to go to Brooklyn to collect $2,000 for his stepmother, who owns much property in that borough. He received a check, but did not take it to the bank, and he has not been seen since. He had plenty of money of his own when he left home, besides valuable diamonds. Officers have been searching in the city ever since he failed to come back.

Decision In Flour Mill Case.

NEW YORK, March 4.—After hearing argument on the temporary order to prevent the foreclosure of a fifteen million dollar mortgage on the properties of the United States Flour Milling company Vice Chancellor Pitney, in Jersey City, decided that the plant and securities of the company must be sold for not less than $3,500,000. If the reorganization committee objected to the decree, the vice chancellor said they could have until Monday next to file objections.

Abolition of Colonial Slavery.

BERLIN, March 4.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes decrees providing for the gradual abolition of house slavery in the Kamerun and Togo colonies.

SHIPPING SUBSIDY UP

Senator Frye Opens In Support of Bill.

AN IMPORTANT INDUSTRY NEGLECTED

Policy of Protection, Says Gentleman From Maine, So Beneficial to American Industries, Should Extend to Merchant Marine.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The senate yesterday began consideration of what is popularly known as the shipping bill, a measure to provide for ocean mail service between the United States and foreign ports and for the common defense, to promote commerce and to encourage deep sea fisheries. Mr. Frye (Me.), chairman of the committee on commerce, made the opening statements in support of the bill. He occupied the floor for nearly two hours. The policy of protection which has been applied, he said, to American industries with such beneficent results had not been applied to the shipping industry. The result of this short sighted policy had been the decadence of the American merchant marine and the consequent humiliation of Americans engaged in the shipping industry.

Mr. Frye's address was largely technical, but his argument was listened to with close attention by senators on both sides of the chamber.

Prior to the consideration of the shipping bill many minor measures were passed.

The house began consideration of the bill to classify the rural free delivery service and to place the carriers under the contract system. Only two speeches were delivered. Mr. Loud (Cal.), chairman of the committee on post-offices and post roads, made the opening argument in favor of the bill, speaking for two and a half hours. Mr. Swanson (Va.) led the opposition. The debate was interrupted before the close of the session by the presentation of the conference report on the Philippine tariff bill. Mr. Payne, the majority leader, declined to allow the minority more than thirty minutes in which to discuss the report, and this offer was rejected. A filibuster followed, and the house adjourned after the previous question on the adoption of the report had been ordered.

The Republican members of the house who met in conference last night to consider the Cuban relief question after three hours of fruitless discussion adjourned until Thursday without action. Mr. Fordney and Mr. Morris (Minn.), who oppose a direct tariff concession and espouse the plan of giving a rebate direct to the Cuban sugar planters, held the floor throughout the evening. Much feeling was manifested.

Displeased With Census Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—In conference with members of congress President Roosevelt expressed his severe disapproval of the civil service provision of the bill creating a permanent census bill, which has passed both houses and is now before him. The bill extends the provisions of the civil service law to all the clerks at present employed in the census office, numbering about 1,700, and the president takes the position that this action is an injustice to those who have passed and who may pass the civil service examination prescribed by law. He is, however, very anxious to have a permanent census bureau, and the opinion is expressed by those who have talked with him that he will sign the bill and then seek to regulate by executive order the appointments under the bill so as to avoid the injustices of which he complains.

New Jersey Legislature.

TRENTON, N. J., March 4.—The two houses of the legislature held busy sessions last night, and a volume of routine business was handled, indicating a preparation for a final adjournment in the near future. It is thought now that the session will not continue beyond March 21. Most of the work of the two houses was the handling of bills on second reading. The senate confirmed the nominations of H. P. Reynolds and Dr. James B. Buckley as managers of the state village for epileptics. Mr. Carter reported a substitute for his bill to provide that the state money in banks shall draw at least 2 per cent interest. The bill leaves the designation of the banks entirely in the hands of the state treasurer. When interest cannot be obtained, it was made unlawful to deposit more than $100,000 in any one bank.

Congressman Belmont Better.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The condition of Representative O. H. P. Belmont of New York, who is sick with pneumonia here, is a trifle better. The primary complaint is complicated with stomach trouble, which gives the attending physicians considerable apprehension. He is very seriously ill, but one of the doctors said that a favorable outcome of the case was looked for.

Some Hope For Liberty's Torch.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—At the request of the war department the secretary of the treasury has countermanded the order for the removal of its electric light plant from Bedloe's island, New York harbor, until the war department can make its own arrangements for lighting and caring for the statue of Liberty.

Will Visit Charleston.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The president has informed a committee from Charleston, S. C., who called upon him that he will visit the exposition in that city. It was feared the Tillman incident might cause him to change his plans.

THE "SPEAK-EASIES."

There is no work which the Plainfield police have done that has met with such unqualified approval as their present campaign against the "speak-easies." There is no influence on the young men of today more baneful than that exerted by establishments of just that nature. Advocates of temperance and high license are united in their desire to see such establishments swept out of existence and, if possible, their proprietors well punished. There has been no more vicious class of "speak-easies" than the "cider-joints" against which The Daily Press has long waged warfare.

It has been the complaint of the police in the past, and there has been much truth to it, that it has been next to impossible to secure the needed evidence to convict offenders of this nature. Arrests have been made but convictions have been few and far between. The present campaign of the police seems to be conducted on new lines. If reports are to be believed, it worked so satisfactorily Sunday that the trade of the illicit establishments was practically nil. If this campaign succeeds in closing up these places, even if it fails to bring about the conviction of any of the offenders, it will have been an eminently successful one and will win for the police the approbation of the entire law-abiding population of Plainfield

There has been one incident in connection with the campaign which has been rather unfortunate for the good name of the city. Rev. John MacMurray, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, has openly stated from his pulpit that there are 180 "speak-easies" in Plainfield. While that gentleman undoubtedly made the statement in the best of faith, he has been misinformed regarding the number. Police authorities and those who are well acquainted with every part of the city are a unit in declaring that it would be difficult to find even twenty such establishments. That there are a number who thus flagrantly violate the excise laws is a recognized fact but that number is by no means as large as Mr. MacMurray believes. It is a good thing to correct the evils of the city by giving them due publicity but it is unfortunate to overstate the extent of such evils, for the outside public is likely to accept them, having no personal knowledge of the real situation.

It was welcome news which the street committee brought to the attention of the Common Council at the meeting, last evening. There is a very fair prospect that the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company is going to improve its local service in the near future. There have been many troubles in the path of J. N. Ackarman, the new superintendent, since he took command. He promises, however, that there shall be no delay in putting the trolley service in proper condition. If Mr. Ackarman succeeds in doing this, he will win a reputation in Plainfield that will make him the envied of every trolley superintendent of the land.

By bold and increasing advertising in the newspapers a New York store has grown from a little neighborhood shop to a great department concern, says the Philadelphia Record. It is miles away from the shopping scetion of the city, but it draws people from all quarters. It has been proved that people will go out of their way to deal at a place which is noted for the extent, variety, quality or prices of its goods and the courtesy and promptness of its salesmen; and which at the same time is fully and presistently advertised.

The newspapers all through the State are uniting in their demands for underground wires. The recent storm has taught its lesson. Plainfield has already provided underground conduits for part of its telephone and electric light wires. It would be an excellent thing to extend the work.

The Legislature has finally settled down to work. There are a number of important bills which should be passed. Among them is the school law. The sooner it is placed on the statute books, the sooner will Plainfield's new High School be a reality.

Of late, there appears to be a tendency to more generally observe the provisions of the hack ordinance. If its provisions are onerous, then let the local hackmen agitate the passage of a new ordinance which will work to the satisfaction of all.

There have been many methods to rid municipalities of the tramp nuisance but Plainfield has discovered one that is, as far as we know, entirely new. It also seems remarkably efficacious. Each tramp is duly vaccinated after being locked up.

No one can complain that the corporations have not had to bear their share of troubles in the damage that the elements in their different forms have wrought this winter.

The winter of 1901-02 has proved an eventful one in more ways than one. Paterson is not likely to forget it for several generations.

BURGLARS AGAIN.

Attempted to Enter Residence of Edmund Teel, of Dunellen, Sunday Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, March 4.—Burglars made another but this time unsuccessful attempt to enter a Dunellen residence Sunday night. The house, which they tried to get in, was that of Edmund Teel, of Jackson avenue.

Mr. Teel had been detained out late and did not get in until about 1 o'clock. Shortly afterwards he heard light footsteps on the front porch. He went to the window and fired off his revolver. It was found in the morning that a catch on one of the back windows had been loosened and everything apparently was ready for an entrance when the would be burglars were frightened away.

THE PASSION PLAY.

Will be Given at the Casino With Aid of Moving Pictures.

Edison's wonderful moving pictures of "The Passion Play" of Oberammergau, with other new and interesting subjects and illustrated songs, will be on exhibition at the Casino Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee. These pictures are said to be marvels of reproduction and are both impressive and instructive. Special prices are to be features for both matinee and night performances. See advertisement.

DIED AT BREAKFAST.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Augusta Woldt at Her Home in Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 4—Mrs. Augusta Woidt, formerly of this place, but late of Garwood, died suddenly at her home yesterday morning. She was busily engaged getting breakfast for her husband, when a sudden attack of heart trouble caused her death. She was the wife of William Woidt and was fifty-four years of age. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. M. B. Walker and Mrs. Harry Austin, and one son, Alexander Woidt.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

From present appearances it looks as if there would be a considerable number of empty houses in town this spring, as a number of residents contemplate moving out of town this spring.

John Turby, who had a stroke of apoplexy Sunday evening at the home of J. G. Holland, of Lincoln, has been taken to the home of friends in Plainfield.

The Democratic primary will be held Thursday evening in the borough hall. So far no candidates have been mentioned for any of the town offices.

The Republican primary will be held Saturday evening in the borough hall. No active candidates have appeared as yet.

Rockview Council, D. of L., was present with the Juniors at the special services in the Methodist church Sunday night.

Rev. Father Rudden, of Raritan, will deliver a lecture this evening in St. John's R. C. church. Admission will be free.

Miss Nettie Weiss, of North Plainfield, spent Sunday with Miss Bessie Titsworth.

Miss Mabel Giles, of Millstone, is spending some time with Mrs. Wm. Carman.

George Reusch, of Cranford, spent Sunday last with his brother. Paul Reusch.

S. G. Closs still continues to improve rapidly from his recent illness.

A number of Dunellen residents are interested in a continuous glove chain.

Wm. G. Holton Council will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight.

Edward Apgar, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday with Willard Apgar.

The banjo club met for practice at Miss Emma Nelson's last night.

The Board of Registry will meet today from 1 till 9 o'clock.

NEW MARKET.

Election matters are beginning to liven up considerably as election draws near and it is thought that spirited contests may occur in the primaries of the different parties.

Some of the members of the brass band expect to attend the meeting of the Dunellen Cornet Band tomorrow evening.

Friendship Dancing Class will hold a regular practice this evening in Friendship Hall.

Wm. Guilford, of Newark, stopped in town on business for a short time yesterday.

Friendship Social Circle will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon.

The G. E. Club will hold a regular meeting Saturday evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Today is the last chance to get registered to vote at the spring election on Tuesday, March 11. If you are not already registered you can have your name added by the Registry Board which is setting from 1 p. m. to 9 o'clock in the town rooms today.

Miss Louise Robison, who has been spending Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Freeholder and Mrs. John Robison, has returned to her duties as a teacher in one of Greater New York schools.

The Democratic voters will hold their primary, for the nomination of officers for the spring election, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Bucket and Engine Company's rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr.

Rev. G. M. Shott was in New York yesterday attending the ministers' conference, held in the Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A. Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Flannery, of New York, have been visiting at the home of Mr. Flannery's sister, Mrs. George H. Johnston.

Ferdinand Meyers has accepted a position with Huyler & Company, New York, in the wholesale candy business.

John Wade, who has been quite ill at his home for several days, is reported as improving now very nicely.

The regular monthly meeting of the trustees of the Baptist church was held in the church parlors last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter McDonough, of Plainfield, have moved into the Robert Murphy cottage on Park avenue.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

In order to get through the bad piece of road at Chamberlain's Corner, teamsters are compelled to go in twos, or more, so that one team may help another. At this place, and also at the foot of Wolfe's Hill, Plainfield avenue is almost impassable. The macadam road is upheaved by the frost as it comes out, and this makes traveling on the road anything but pleasant.

Mrs. Darlington, of New York, was in town, yesterday afternoon, on a visit to her son, Earl, who is boarding at William Smith's.

Miss E. May Higgins, principal of the local school, is back to her duties again after a week of illness at her home in Bound Brook.

The regular Tuesday evening prayer-meeting will be held in the lecture room of the church this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Guests Came Unexpectedly.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered to Miss Dolly Bolsterli, of Watchung avenue, last evening. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Theodore Martin. There were nearly thirty guests present and the evening was passed in playing parlor games and having a general social time. During the evening refreshments were served.

Legislative Manual.

The Daily Press is in receipt of the Legislative Manual for 1902 from Assemblyman William Newcorn. The book, as usual, is printed in excellent style and well arranged. It contains the customary amount of useful information concerning matters of State and is an exceedingly handy book to have.

Going to Florida.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, of West Seventh street, will leave Thursday for Florida, where they will remain for an indefinite time. During the pastor's absence the pulpit will be filled by supplies, announcement of which will be made soon.

Y. M. C. A. LITERARY SOCIETY DISCUSSED SUBJECT IN DEBATE.

Then There Was a Description Exercise—At Meeting of Literary Society Saturday.

An impromtu debate and a "description exercise" furnished entertainment for those members of the Y. M C. A. Literary Society who attended the meeting of that organization, Saturday evening.

The subject for debate was "Resolved that idleness should be forbidden by law and work provided by the State for those who cannot secure employment." R. G. Jeffrey, E. K. Hartley and C. E. Drange spoke for the affirmative while the negative was represented by H. R. Linbarger, N. D. Darke and C. M. Dolliver. A vote of the members gave the victory to the affirmative.

The participants in the "description exercise" and their topics were as follows: N. Douglass Drake, "The Plainfield Police Court;" H. R. Linbarger, "Gold Mining;" E. K. Hartley, "The Central Railroad of New Jersey," C. E. Drange, "A Modern Octuple Newspaper Web Perfecting Press;" R. G. Jeffrey, "A Fourth of July Outing."

The next meeting of the society will be held Saturday eveining, March 15. It will be a private meeting and the programme will consist of a discussion of the bills for the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield which were recently introduced in the Assembly.

POINTS OUT LESSON FROM CITY'S PLIGHT

Summit Record Comments on Plainfield's Experience With Water Company.

SITUATION IN SUMMIT.

ADVISES PROMPT ACTION TO PREVENT SIMILAR EXPERIENCE.

Plainfield Was Completely at Mercy of Corporation and Had to Accept Terms Offered—Summit Has Three Years Yet.

The situation in Summit, with reference to its water company, seems to be analagous with the one existing in this city, except that the contract in that municipality does not expire for three years yet. Already there has been some talk of building water works for Summit.

The editor of the Summit Record sees a lesson in Plainfield's experience which he points out to his readers in the editorial column of his paper. The editorial is as follows:

"The experience of Plainfield on the question of water supply should prove a lesson to Summit, if our municipal officers need any instances to point the folly of delaying a single day in beginning preparations to meet the emergency that will confront the city when the present contract with the Essex-Union Water Company expires in 1905.

"The ten-year contract for Plainfield's water supply expired recently, and for two or three years prior to that expiration the citizens indulged in much discussion and pleasing generalities about municipal ownership without taking a single step to carry out that idea. The city officers followed the example of the citizens with the result that when the Plainfield company's contract expired recently not a hand had been raised to provide for either a municipal plant or a concern of any kind that would provide competition.

"As a result the city was absolutely at the mercy of the Plainfield company, and the terms exacted were in every respect similar to those that have been criticised and opposed by the citizens there for ten years. The company refused to grant the least concession in the matter of rates, and insisted also on a ten-year contract. Nothing remained for the city but to accede to these demands, and the company also refused point blank to name any price at which the city could purchase the plant in the future.

"Summit has almost three years in which to prepare for just such an emergency as that which confronted Plainfield, but it is not a day too long. If at the expiration of the present contract the city is found in such a position that the company can absolutely dictate the terms for continuing the city's supply, the officers and citizens of the municipality can assume all the blame.

"Ample time is provided to prepare for dealing with the question of supplying the city after 1905 and arranging for a munciipal plant at that time, but if the citizens and officers who might deal intelligently with that subject intend to merely explain the beauties and advantages of municipal ownership without attempting a single practical course to obtain them, we will simply have a repetition of Plainfield's experience and a continuance of the high rentals that now prevail."

Mrs. David Bell, of Plainfield avenue, was arrested by Patrolman McCarthy, yesterday afternoon, for begging. She related a hard luck story of poverty but until this morning refused to give her right name. Her case was then reported to the Organized Aid Association and, on sentence being suspended, it promised to take care of her.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Famous Maine Hunter Chats About a Smart Creature That Was Caught When Young and Learned Strange Tricks.

Joe Francis is one of the best-known guides, hunters and trappers in the state of Maine. He lives on what is known as the Debsconeag Deadwater, on the west branch of the Penobscot river, about 23 miles from Norcross, Me. Like all hunters and trappers, he lives in a cabin of his own on the river's bank and makes many trips in all directions in his canoe. His home is the rendezvous for hunters and guides. When they assemble in Francis' house at night time and, after they have had their supper of fried bacon and bread, and cigars have been lighted, the rich stories that are told of hunting life are remembered for years by those who listen to them. It is useless to say that all of these stories contain a basis of truth, but before they are finished the imagination runs to a point somewhat higher than the limit allowed in a courtroom or other places. One night when all of the guides had told their stories of experiences, both quaint and terrible, "Old Joe" himself straightened up and said: "Now, I'll give yer a true story." Of course, everybody at once prepared to listen.

"It was some years ago," went on Joe, "when I trapped an old mother beaver and her three little ones. I secured the pelt of the mother beaver, which was a fine one, and the three little ones I took home with me. I began to try to raise them on a little gruel I made up out of flour and water. Well, they didn't thrive very much on it; at least, two of them didn't and they naturally pined away and died. I had one left and he was the brightest little fellow you ever saw. He sorter took naturally to the gruel I made for him and begun to thrive all right. I stopped feeding him with a spoon after awhile and made a bottle of the stuff each night. It was just worth anybody's money to see that little beaver take that bottle, squat on his hind legs and drink it until he had enough. When he was about five weeks old, would yer believe it he begun to build dams? Up to that time he had been sleeping in the same bed with me at night and we would keep each other warm. Early one morning before day had begun to crack I saw him creep outer the bed and begin to gather everything lying around and pull them up to the cracks of the door. He even got my shirt and the first thing I knew he had the slickest little dam made that you ever saw. He kept doing that thing every morning until he had used up all my clothes and I had to pull them away from the door every mornin' before I could dress myself. I got very fond of that little fellow and I thought he was the slickest little thing that ever lived. I got out of flour one day and went up to the nearest trading point to get it and some other things, but I forgot all about the flour and, when I got back, my little pet was very hungry, and I didn't know what to do, but I remembered that I had some self-rising flour in the house. I was kinder doubtful about giving him that, but as the little beaver was so hungry I saw that I just had to give him something. So I mixed up a little of the flour and gave him. It didn't seem to hurt him or do him any harm, so I made him up a bottle of it. Well, it wasn't many hours before that beaver began to rise and swell and I couldn't stop it. Before midnight that little beaver had swelled up until he was as big as his mother was and I had to kill him to end his pains, but I got pay for a grown beaver's pelt anyhow."

Everybody silently acknowledged that that was one of the biggest lies told that night.

Brass Band Kills Horse.

Half a dozen members of a theatrical company that was about to give a performance in Clinton, Mo., were tooting on brass instruments before the door of the theater to attract public attention. The music must have been worse than usual, for a horse that was hitched near by, after hearing the first few blasts, reared up, whinnied in agony and dropped dead on the pavement.

This Tramp Was Grateful.

A grateful tramp was befriended some years ago by George Adams, of McKeesport, Pa., who gave him a good dinner, a little money and sent him rejoicing on his way. The tramp recently died in Colorado, where he made considerable money as a miner, and left $5,000 to Mr. Adams.

THE POLITICAL POT.

Suggestion That D. H. Perry May Run for Vice President Has Set It to Boiling.

D. M. Parry, president of the Parry Manufacturing company and vice president of the National Manufacturing company, of Indianapolis, Ind., is being urged by Indiana and other friends and politicians to stand for the vice presidential nomination in 1904. The National Manufacturers will meet in May and Mr. Parry is booked for president. Senator Beveridge is supporting Mr. Parry's ambitions in the direction named and has already notified his political associates and close personal friends that under no circumstances will he allow his name to be used for the vice presidential nomination. A few weeks ago in the private executive chamber of the white house, the president jovially slapped Mr. Parry on the back and said: "Parry, how would you like to go on the national ticket with me in 1904?"

HON. D. M. PARRY.
(He May Be Roosevelt's Running Mate in Next Campaign.)

Mr. Parry was much surprised and evidently pleased, but only replied: "Mr. President, I am only here to invite you to attend the national convention of American Manufacturers, which meets at Indianapolis in May."

The president expressed regret, but said he could not see his way clear to accept the invitation then, but since Mr. Parry's return it has been learned that the president very probably will be there, especially so because he has expressed interest in the dedication of the soldier's monument, probably the most imposing and costly of the kind in the world. It cost almost $1,000,000 and will be dedicated in May when the manufacturers meet.

The Parry establishment is the largest plant of the kind in the world, employing over 2,000 persons.

The Parry movement has been in progress for several months. It began with Senator Beveridge, in conjunction with several eastern republican politicians. Beveridge may not have originated the scheme, but he was prompt to see its possibilities.

Politicians of New York and Pennsylvania who have the Roosevelt interests in charge have been in Indianapolis recently to confer with Mr. Parry concerning the scheme. What the result of the conference was is not known, but the movement continues. Parry organized a Business Men's Beveridge club during the legislative session of 1897, which resulted in Beveridge's senatorial election. Mr. Parry was asked about the vice presidential movement in his favor and replied:

"I intended that nothing be said about that matter now. I am surprised that it is known. I have had nothing to do with it."

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF.

Which is Better—Try an Experiment or Profit by a Plainfield Citizen's Experience.

Something new is an experiment.
Must be proved to be as represented.
The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.
But the endorsement of friends is.
Now supposing you had a bad back.
A lame, weak or aching one.
Would you experiment on it?
You will read of many so-called cures.
Endorsed by strangers from far-away places.
It's different when the endorsement comes from home.
Easy to prove local testimony.
Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.
Read this case:

Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of 422 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

Proposals for Furnishing Crushed Stone and Material for Culverts and Crosswalks:

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, at the regular adjourned meeting held February 24, 1902, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Streets and Sewers will meet at the office of the Committee, No. 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, on Thursday, March 13, 1902, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which time and place said Committee on Streets and Sewers will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone, and for furnishing material for culverts and crosswalks as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1902, the bids to state the price per ton of 2,000 lbs. for furnishing the following sizes, viz: Fine screenings, ½ inch clean stone, 1½ inch stone and 2½ inch stone, in such quantities, and delivered at such places in the City as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The above must be of the very best quality of trap rock, free from weathered stone, dirt, clay or other foreign matter, and in every way acceptable to the said Street Commissioner.

The stone must be weighed on such scales as the Street Commissioner may direct, and a voucher or weigh bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or his authorized representative.

Also for furnishing the following materials for culverts and crosswalks:

Cover stone for culverts not larger than 4 ft. by 3 ft by not less than 3½ inches in thickness, per square foot.

Curbing for side walls 16 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 ft. long, per lineal foot.

Curbing for side walls 20 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, flag edge, per lineal foot.

All to be of the best quality hard blue stone and subject to the approval of the Street Commissioner.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Committee on Streets and Sewers will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved

By order of the Common Council and the Committee on Streets and Sewers.

THE NEW WAISTS.

Henriette Rousseau Tells How They Are Made.

Among the newest of the thin stuffs for dresses to be made during the seclusion of Lenten days one finds crystallines, mercerized grenadines and silk striped grenadines, satin striped mousselines and mulls so soft and glossy that they might be made of spider web, warp print chiffonettes and mulls with satin bands, sheer linen batistes daintily embroidered with fancy stripes and all sorts of figures and in all colors. There are also lace mulls quite new and extremely delicate and no end of embroidered swisses.

India dimities are treated in a new way and are thus made very desirable. Brilliantines are as pretty as silk and look like brocade of small pattern. Some of the swisses are printed in colors in Dresden designs. The Scotch ginghams are always liked, and this season they are exceptionally nice. Striped madras is to be a favorite shirt waist stuff, and nothing ever yet has been found better for the purpose.

But I think the very best thing for the coming summer will be the linen and duck suitings plain, mercerized or embroidered. Linen in the natural shades is always ladylike and refined, and when well made and trimmed with something entirely suitable it is handsome. All the pineapple thin stuffs are to be seen among the daintiest of warm weather attire. Lace is especially designed to wear with the linen goods and is often in natural grass and sometimes in putty color. White is not quite so appropriate.

In the illustration is shown a Scotch gingham, a striped madras, a natural grass linen and a dark blue taffeta waist. The gingham is made with trimming of dark chambray, with a lighter shade of chambray as vest. The dark is cut into narrow bands and stitched to the front like a military vest. The front is pouched, and a pointed belt is worn made of the same materials, a fancy which has taken quite a hold on public taste just now.

The madras waist has a rounded yoke, with the edges cut in curves, but all in one piece. The white braid, laid as it is, gives the impression that it is more difficult than it really is. The fold forms the bloused or pouched effect, and the sleeves are small bishop, with deep cuffs turned up over the band. Sleeves can be any kind that suit the wearer, but the bishop is the best style for a plain wash waist.

The linen one is more ambitious and is elegantly trimmed with renaissance lace and hemstitching. The blue taffeta one is made quite plain, with tucks at the top and ribbon with herring-boning along the center. The stitching is done in yellow saddler silk. This waist fastens in the back with small round buttons. The sleeves are brought into bishop shape by means of plaits and the ribbon trimming. This is a very neat and girlish style and may well be followed when the home dressmaker is looking for something for the young daughters of the household.

Theater and opera and many other dressy affairs even during Lent call for pretty waists, and while on the subject we may as well say a few words about two or three others. One shown today was of black dotted net and cut quite low and had high shoulder straps made of a double box plaiting of the net. The sleeves drooped down from the round of the shoulder and were made so that a flounce fell just to the elbow, while the upper part was held in by a regular latticework of black Tom Thumb ribbon. The waist was bloused in and had the lattice of the ribbon down to just below the bust, where it was edged with a narrow box plaiting. Loose white mousquetaire gloves are worn with all short sleeved dresses.

Another waist for a very slender figure was of white silk mull bloused in very full in front. Around the waist from belt to the top there was a round and round trimming of white satin ribbon half an inch apart. At the neck, which was low, there were puffs of white tulle and a rosette in front. A row of the tulle encircled the neck like a high stock and was tied at the back in a double bow with short ends. The sleeves were two ruffles of the tulle, with ribbon twice around. A draped white belt finished the waist.

The Boy In the Home

WE had been discussing the Binks household. "Poor little woman," sighed The Goslip, "I saw it all from the first! Why, that man has no more love of home than a cat! Just think! They haven't been married more than six months, and he is on the hop, skip and go all the time."

"It's his wife's fault. Why doesn't she make the home attractive?" commented another woman.

"Make the home attractive?" almost screamed old Mrs. Tompkins. "That's just what she does, poor little thing! But what can you do with a great hulking brute of a man who doesn't care for books, who loathes music and who doesn't even take a decent pride in his den. I wish you could see his room. Takes all her time keeping it looking decent. You'd think it was a kennel by the way things are thrown around. What can you do with a man like that?"

"Well, isn't that his wife's fault? Why doesn't she try to change him?"

"Change fiddlesticks!" ejaculated the old lady, with more truth than politeness. "Let's get to the root of the matter. The trouble isn't with young Mrs. Binks at all. It lies in the past with Mr. Binks' mother. Yes, it's the mothers girls have to thank when they get bad husbands, and don't you forget it. I remember Dick Binks' childhood and what sort of a home he had. There wasn't any room for a boy in that house. In fact, there isn't any room for boys in most homes; that's the trouble. Anything was good enough for young Binks; he was only a boy. His sisters had charming rooms, fitted most daintily. Old Binks himself had a den where he could receive his men friends and smoke in peace. Mrs. Binks had her boudoir where she could retire and work off the blues when the world went wrong. Do you think Dick had any such place? No; he had to go out on the streets. True, he had a room, a miserable bare sleeping apartment devoid of sunshine. It did not pay to fix up Dick's room. He was a boy and did not care for such things. Besides, he was careless. Was that the way to teach him differently?

"He was not encouraged to make collections of plants, of minerals or the many things dear to a boy's heart. Oh, no; they made too much litter. If a new book was bought, it was always for the girls of the family, never for Dick. In the evening, when the family stayed at home, all gathered in the library around the great lamp, do you think Dick was made comfortable? Not a bit of it. He had the worst seat, the most drafty corner and the end of the table farthest away from the light. Do you wonder he grew to think that home was the stupidest place on earth? If his sisters had given the family a little good music instead of reserving it all for their admirers, if there had been a chance for a game of billiards or of cards with a friend, Dick would not have gone out anywhere to get away from home. Another thing—when Dick reached the susceptible age of eighteen, a great change came over him. He began to pay attention to his appearance, to be critical about what manner of tie he wore—in other words, he 'prinked.' Now, if he had been let alone this affectation would have worn off, and he would have developed into a well dressed man, careful of his appearance. On the contrary, his mother and sisters ridiculed his innocent vanity and pride in himself. They also made cutting remarks when he tried to make himself agreeable to any girl. Result, Dick turned into a boor. As you sow so shall you reap," concluded the old lady, "and little Mrs. Richard Binks today has Mrs. Binks senior to thank for her unhappy married life."

Give the boy a good room, and he will be a home boy when he is in knickerbockers and when he has a home and a wife of his own.

"You gave me your promise to remain in London until I returned," he said, "and you have broken it."

"And you! you told me that you were here to wind up some estate matters, and would return immediately. You had no idea of returning. You intended to desert me. You lied! Where is my child, sir?" The man's face flushed and grew deathly pale. He took two quick steps forward and hesitated. "It is useless, Raymond, to try to frighten me. You were born a coward—and I was not. Look to yourself!" She drew from her bosom a letter and extended it towards him. "I found this after your departure; it is from your mother." His assumed indifference vanished. Furious, he snatched the letter from her and raised his arm.

"Wretch!"

"Take care," she said, coldly, slowly withdrawing her hand. "You are dealing with a desperate woman. You are welcome to your letter. I know it by heart. In it I am called by a vile name—and you are told that a bride and fortune await you at home. You came." He was silent. "You do not deny it," she added. With a slight gesture he turned away and seated himself.

"There is no need to deny it now," he said. "Sit down, Louise." She waited a moment, and, moving a chair a few feet away, seated herself, facing him.

"We have both made mistakes," he said, coolly, preparing to light another cigarette, "and I am willing to admit that in all the matters between us I have been equally to blame, but," he added between puffs, as he smoked, "you have a full share to settle for yourself. It is, however, too late to discuss the beginning of this association. We must consider its end; for, as you evidently surmised, the time to end it has come." She made no reply, but waited for him to continue, her clear gray eyes riveted upon his. "You have not believed me, but it is true, nevertheless, that I am entirely dependent upon my mother. My little property has long since disappeared with yours; she holds the whip hand. Ever since her second marriage she has intended me for a young girl, her stepdaughter, in fact—"

FURIOUS HE SNATCHED THE LETTER FROM HER.

"You have known this all along—?"

"Yes; and while the child was growing up she has tolerated this life of mine. Now she proposes to end it. The question is, How may you and I settle it?"

"I see!"

"You are practical enough to understand that I am helpless. If I should refuse the old lady, I could not live 24 hours without work; nor could you. If I yield, as I must, you will be provided for—with little—Nanon."

The woman gasped and pressed her hand to her throat, but with a desperate effort she controlled herself.

"Where is she?"

He hesitated while he studied the blue smoke curling up from the cigarette. Shaking off the ashes, he said, at length:

"I have her in good hands." Their eyes met.

"And you mean for me to understand, I suppose, that you will retain possession of her until I assent to your plans?" Again he was silent for a moment.

"Yes, that is about the way the matter stands." There was a long and painful pause, during which the woman seemed to struggle with some powerful emotion. She arose and approached him, one hand in the bosom of her dress, the other clasped until her nails sank in the flesh.

"You told me that you—to try and get—your mother interested—in her grandchild." Her voice was strained and barely audible.

"Yes," said he, "I think I did tell you that."

"Well?"

"I lied! I took her only to control you. My mother has never seen her; and," he continued, slowly, "never will, if I can prevent it."

"Inhuman wretch!" The exclamation was little more than a gasp.

"From your standpoint—yes."

"Ah," she whispered, "the infamy! the infamy of it!" She hesitated a moment, turned, and, gliding to the door with a movement of incredible swiftness, locked it and placed the key in her pocket. "Now," she said, returning towards him, her face transfigured by the intensity of her excitement, "now, Raymond, Holbin, what is the settlement you propose?" He retained his position, a half smile upon his face.

"You will have no trouble for the future," he said; "you belong to the tragic stage."

"You trifle sir. The settlement! the settlement!"

"I propose to marry my mother's stepdaughter," he said, quietly. "Her father is on his last legs, and he will bequeath to her all of his property upon the condition that she accepts me as her husband on or before her twenty-first birthday. From this money I propose to provide liberally for you and your child, with the understanding that you are to remain abroad. The fact is, I may run over to see you occasionally, Louise—after all, you are the only woman I ever cared for. This lily bride awaiting me is out of my class entirely—high-flown, romantic and inexperienced. Imagine me with such a woman, Louise."

He laughed lightly. "Really, if you are in search of revenge for fancied injuries, you will get it when you picture me in my new role."

"And by this marriage," said the woman, standing over him, "you place it beyond your power to marry me, as you have promised during all these years—you abandon your child to a life of wretchedness." Her breath came hard and trembling.

"She need never know—no one need know. And where ignorance is bliss it is folly to be otherwise."

"Let me hear it all," she said; "let me know the alternative. If I go to this mother, or to this lily bride, as you call her, and tell her of my child and my wrongs, what then?"

"My mother would have the servants put you out of the house, and my bride would probably have me put out. But it would not avail you anything—nor her. Under the will my mother would still be the heir. The bride would lose her fortune and her bridegroom, and you—would lose your child."

"That is all?" she asked—"there is nothing more?"

"Nothing."

Her mood seemed to change. "Will you favor me with a cigarette?"

He laughed, evidently relieved. "Why, certainly! Getting into your old habits? Fact is, Louise, that is the only natural thing I have heard from you since I entered. Come, now, light up and be sensible. You know what I think of you. All will work out right, and, as the stories say, 'we may be happy yet.'"

She lit her cigarette by his, and, leaning against the center table, took one or two whiffs, letting the smoke escape slowly from between her curving lips.

"There is one fatal defect in your plan," she said, at length.

"Yes? What is that?"

"You—do not leave—the mother a chance. You forget that I am a mother as well as a woman."

"I do not understand."

"You will, though. Either way, as you put it to me, my child's life is forever blasted; there is the defect." He looked somewhat curiously up in her face. The smoke was now coming from her lips in rapid puffs; she cast aside the cigarette. "I shall not assent." The words were a mere whisper. She continued, with growing emotion: "Raymond, I have been your slave; that is ended now. From this moment, if you live, you shall obey me!"

"If I live!"

"If you live! Do you suppose that I am to stand by and see my child's life destroyed by you! I have listened to your excuses; I have temporized, hoping against hope that you would make good your promises; I have accepted your explanation for my child's sake—and to-day I know you have lived a lie through it all; that you had not then, nor ever have had, any intention to make me your wife. The time has come for me to act. Sit here by this table and address a note to the clerk of the hotel directing him to register Raymond Holbin and wife in room 28! Here is pen, ink and paper!"

"Are you insane?" he cried, rising, angry and amazed.

SURGEON GENERAL RIXEY.

Has Just Assumed Duties of Chief of Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of Navy.

Dr. Presley M. Rixey, the new surgeon general of the navy, has just entered upon the duties of chief of the bureau of medicine and surgery.

Surgeon General Rixey was born at Culpepper, Va., July 14, 1852, and is now in his fiftieth year. He was graduated as a doctor of medicine from the University of Virginia in 1873, and in January, 1874, was commissioned an assistant surgeon in the United States navy. His service covers a period of 28 years, during which time he has cruised in nearly all parts of the world. In 1874 he made a cruise to Europe in the Congress, and afterward was stationed at the naval hospitals at Philadelphia and Norfolk. After three years' service on the Tallapoosa he was stationed at Washington for two years, and then made a three years' cruise on the Lancaster in European and South American waters. From 1887 to 1893 he was on special duty in Washington, and was then attached to the dispatch boat Dolphin for three years. From 1896 to the present time he has been stationed in Washington, with the exception of a brief service on the hospital ship Solace during the Spanish-American war. For several years past he has been in charge of the navy dispensary.

DR. PRESLEY M. RIXEY.
(New Chief of the Naval Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.)

Surgeon General Rixey has the great distinction among the medical fraternity of being the family physician of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt. He attended the late Vice President Hobart last summer and was the family physician of the secretary of the navy. So close was Dr. Rixey to President and Mrs. McKinley that no trip was made by them without his attendance, and he has also acted as traveling companion and physician to the members of President Roosevelt's family whenever they have left the city. He was a constant attendant at Mrs. McKinley's bedside when she was prostrated in San Francisco, and he was also with President McKinley in his last illness at Buffalo.

SOCIALIST TEMPLE.

To Be Erected at Chicago by Mechanics Who Are Affiliated with the Organization.

Chicago socialists are to have a temple, and they expect to begin work on the construction of it within three weeks. An option has been obtained on a lot at Western avenue and West Twelfth street, 48x100 feet, and plans are being prepared. Prof. and Mrs. George D. Herron have contributed $500 each to the building fund, and smaller donations have been received from others interested.

SOCIALISTIC TEMPLE.
(To Be Erected in Chicago by Voluntary Contributions.)

The labor will be almost entirely without cost by mechanics who are affiliated with the organization. F. P. Farber, a bricklayer, who is a member of the building committee, has given assurance that the bricklaying will not cost much, while E. L. Wochosky has promised to do the plumbing. The building will contain an auditorium seating 1,000 persons, and several small lodge halls. The exterior will be of brick and terra cotta, and the interior will be finished in hardwood.

Croker in Dairy Business.

Richard Croker's plans in connection with the Moat House property are being developed, according to reports from Wantage, England. The extensive dairy plant Croker has established is for the benefit of his son Bertie, who is to be made a dairy farmer, and large profits are expected from supplying milk and butter to the London market. The land around Moat House is admirably adapted to cattle feeding and raising, and Mr. Croker intends to introduce some of the best strains of milch cows as well as fat cattle.

SMOKES AND WAITS.

Plight of Turkey's New Minister to the United States.

After Tarrying Six Months at Washington He Is Not Yet Properly Accredited to the Roosevelt Administration.

Minister Chekib Bey, the new Turkish diplomatic representative at Washington, is occupying the most unique position known in the annals of diplomacy. His official presence is still unknown to the administration of Mr. Roosevelt, although he has been in the city for six months or more. Coming to America accredited to Mr. McKinley, he reached the capital two days after the departure of the latter for his summer trip to his home at Canton. His credentials could not be presented to anyone else, and after the tragedy at Buffalo made a change in the personnel of this government they had to be sent back to Constantinople. Until the corrected papers are in his possession Chekib Bey is obliged to live in official retirement.

When the papers are received custom requires that he at once call upon the secretary of state, who will then arrange an interview with the president, to be held in the blue room of the white house. In the meantime the minister will have prepared a felicitous speech, which he submits to the state department. If approved by the officials there the address will be made to the president on the occasion of the presentation and will be replied to in the same diplomatic tone. With a farewell hand-shake the incident is closed as far as the president is concerned, as all official business is carried on through the state department.

The secretary of the legation is Sidkey Bey, who has the distinction of having remained longer at the same post than any other official representative of the sultan. As a further mark of favor he has been permitted to bring with him his family. He is serving his government in the capacity of vice consul of New York, and on occasions he is acting consul, dividing his time between that city and Washington.

MINISTER CHEBIK BEY.
(New Turkish Diplomatic Representative to the United States.)

In looks he is blond, not much over five feet above Mother Earth, and slightly inclined to embonpoint. He speaks English, French, German, Greek, Turkish and Armenian, with equal fluency and is often called upon to act as interpreter at the legation or the state department. Greatly interested in archaeological research, he has been instrumental in making satisfactory arrangements for the continuing of the work in the domains of the sultan, and be it said to the everlasting credit of that ruler that he has done more to preserve history found "in rock and run that any other monarch.

In a cozy home in the resident part of the capital lives Mme. Sidkey Bey, the only woman officially connected with and, therefore, the hostess of the Turkish legation. Unlike the average American impression of Turkish women, madame is highly educated, having been graduated from the Woman's college, at Constantinople. A linguist of no mean ability, she is also a musician, and possesses a voice, whose cultivation and sweetness of tone would attract favorable attention in any country. A demi-blonde of medium height, Mrs. Sidkey Bey is, like her husband, often mistaken for a German, whereas they are both of pure Turkish ancestry. They have made many friends in the literary and musical set as well as in the diplomatic corps.

Young Arustum Sidkey Bey, the other member of the legation coterie, is noted as being the only representative of the sultan's official family to have been born in this country. He was really born under the stars and stripes. The day of his birth being the anniversary of the declaration of American independence, the star-spangled banner was hoisted above the legation, there to wave along side the flag of the star and crescent in honor of the country to which the father is accredited.

Although little more than a baby he can speak three languages and is very popular with his American playmates. Through them he has become acquainted with Santa Claus, and so firmly does he believe in the old elf that he makes daily visits to the chimney piece hoping there to find new toys.

Vast Extent of Siberia.

Few people realize the immensity of Siberia, which extends through 120 degrees of longitude and possesses one-tenth of all the land surface of the globe. The United States, Great Britain, and all Europe, except Russia, could be put into Siberia, with land to spare.

AT THE TRAPS.

The pigeon shoot at Campbell's clubhouse last Saturday between "Puck" of this city, and Peter Reed, of Trenton, was won by the latter by a score of 20 to 19. The shoot was for a purse of $50 a side and was closely contested throughout. This was the first of a series of three matches. Dates for the other two will be announced soon.

WHIST.

Plainfield is to be represented in the New Jersey State Whist Association by the Plainfield Camera Club. The local team will at once begin the practice of the game to prepare itself for future contests. There are a number of excellent players in the club and it should have no trouble in holding its own with other teams of the State.

FOUGHT FOR CAR.

But Representatives of the Law Won the Fight and Arrested Hoboes.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 4—A gang of seven hobos are lodged in the county jail here, after having unsuccessfully fought for the possession of a box car at Rairtan. They were having a good time in the car, having punched a hole through one end, where a sentinel was posted. Agent Pastorius ordered them out, but they only guyed him.

Constable Corcoran and Detective Totten finally appeared, and, after exchanging shots, the whole gang were made prisoners.

SERVED ITS PURPOSE.

"My Girl" at the Casino Was a Very Laughable Show.

"My Girl," the musical farce company at the Casino last night, served its purpose well. Everybody laughed from start to finish. The singing numbers were tuneful and the specialties good ones. James Johnson was a show in himself as Jimmie the Bellboy and George Wills as Alphonse Neverwork, was very amusing. The others of the company acquitted themselves well. The piano accompaniment of Miss Etta Hylands was a feature in itself. Altogether it was a pleasing performance.

LIBRARY FOR FANWOOD.

Question of Establishing One Will be Put to Vote in Fanwood.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, March 4.—The question of establishing a free public library in Fanwood borough is to be submitted to the people of the borough at the coming spring election. There has been a strong feeling in favor of such an institution and the Borough Council recently passed a resolution putting the question to the vote of the people. Much interest is taken in the probable result.

Relaying Flagging.

Contractor Alex. Kane began work this morning re-flagging the sidewalk in front of the Ross building at Watchung and North avenues. He has also commenced the laying of several hundred feet of new flagging on Franklin place. Both jobs will make decided improvements.

Full Penalty Next Time.

Mrs. Martha Snedicker, who was arrested in the borough Saturday evening for being intoxicated and making a disturbance, was released last evening by Recorder Doud, with a warning that if she ever appeared before him again under similar circumstances she would get the full penalty.

Few Empty Beds.

The vacant beds in the various wards of Muhlenberg Hospital are rapidly becoming scarcer. There are now twenty-five patients being treated at the institution and more applications for admittance are being received daily.

Mr. Ackarman informed the committee that there should be a snow plough for every five miles of road, and this was not the case. The company had been sadly in need of such equipment. He promised that all complaints would be considered promptly and remedied.

When a vote was called for on the resolution, Councilmen Lee, Murphy and Randolph voted for it, while Councilmen vanHerwerden, Mellick, Tolles, Buckle and Gloak voted against it.

Mr. Mellick at this time had a word to say regarding consolidation of the city and borough. He said that he was surprised that the two gentlemen who have been taking the initiative in the project had not conferred with either the city or borough officials regarding it. He thought it was quite audacious for two men to take such a step without consultation, and furthermore that it showed bad taste to entirely ignore the heads of the two municipalities.

Mr. Mellick did not express an opinion in favor or against the scheme, but offered the following resolution which was adopted unanimously:

"Whereas, certain individuals have taken upon themselves the responsibility of having a bill prepared to be passed by the Legislature to consolidate the City of Plainfield with the Borough of North Plainfield, and have undertaken this proposition without taking into their confidence any of the members of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield or the officers of the City, as to the merit of the bill proposed, therefore be it

"Resolved, that the Senator and representatives of Union county in the Legislature be requested to use their efforts for the defeat of the present measure to consolidate the City of Plainfield with the Borough of North Plainfield, or delay action on same until the proper representation—that is, the Common Council of Plainfield and the Council of the Borough of North Plainfield—have had an opportunity of conferring upon the terms of the bill."

Mr. Mellick asked for a consideration, which was granted, of the resolution appropriating $3,000 to the Board of Health, adopted recently to cover an emergency. He then offered a resolution making the regular appropriation to the Borad of Health $3,500. Another resolution followed appropriating $2,000 as an extra fund to provide for the expense of caring for small-pox or other contagious disease.

An ordinance was offered by Mr. Mellick providing for the issuance of bonds for sewer improvements in the sum of $41,000. It provides for forty-one bonds of $1,000 denomination each, bearing date of May 1, 1902, and continuing until 1935, the same to bear 4 per cent. interest and to be paid semi-annually. The ordinance was ordered engrossed and advertised.

Mr. Buckle called up the ordinance changing the title of the head of the police from captain to chief of police, and it was adopted on its third reading.

In the early part of the meeting protests against granting licenses were received from Mrs. Mary L. Winter and others, also John Hennessey. Residents of McKinley place and East Second street petitioned for two electric lights. W. H. Douglass protested that he did not own a dog for which he had been taxed and Garrett Q. Packer, who had been assessed on stock in his furniture store in 1899, asked to have the matter adjusted as he sold out his business in June of that year as the assessment was made in May following. He is willing to pay a proportionate share.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of thirteen permits in January and seven in February.

Mr. Mellick reported back several petitions. In the case of Thomas Leacock, who protested against the payment of a dog tax, the request was refused. The request of William H. Abbott to have $1.25, the amount paid in excess in tax, returned to him, was granted providing that the petitioner produces the necessary proof of such claim. The same action was taken in the request of S. R. Struthers, who claimed exemption from tax on account of being a veteran of the Civil War.

Mr. Buckle offered a resolution calling for an expenditure of a sum not to exceed $225 with which to purchase bicycles for the police. There being no other business upon Mr. Mellick's motion the Council adjourned to meet again tomorrow evening.

REPORTED FAVORABLY.

C. J. Baxter's Appointment Will Probably be Confirmed Today.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 4—Both Assembly and Senate were in session last evening and acted upon a number of bills of minor importance. A large batch was also introduced. In the Senate, Governor Murphy's appointment of Charles J. Baxter as State superintendent of public instruction was reported favorably and probably will be approved at today's session.

Things Worth Knowing.

Those who are interested in flower culture and vegetable growing should not fail to send for Vick's Garden and Floral Guide for 1902. It consists of over 130 pages, profusely illustrated with beautiful half-tone cuts representing all that is new in the floral and vegetable world, giving full and intelligible descriptions of how to plant, when to plant and all practical information pertaining to the care and treatment of the same. The covers are a work of art, showing in rich and handsome coloring Vick's Pan-American gold medal display of asters, among them Vick's New Snowdrift, Lavender Gem, Gloria, Daybreak, Purity, Lady, etc. While it is expensive to prepare and mail this book, James Vick's Sons, of Rochester, N. Y., will send the Guide entirely free to any Daily Press readers who will mention what plants or seeds they are most interested in. c

His Own Story.

Dr. Simpson will tell of his experiences with the Macabebe scouts in Gen. Lawton's campaign after Aguinaldo in his illustrated lecture in the supplementary course of the Y. M. C. A. this evening. Children under sixteen years of age will not be admitted. Tickets of admission may be obtained at the drug stores.

Collided With Auto.

N. P. Rogers' electric automobile, operated by himself, was struck by a trolley car on East Fourth street, last evening. The vehicle was shoved along for a short distance, but the motorman reversed his car in time to avert a serious accident. Mr. Rogers retained his seat and was not hurt.

Not This Richard Baldwin.

Richard Baldwin, of 736 West Front street, desires The Daily Press to say that he is not the man by that name whose engagement was announced.

SCHOOL WORK IN THIS STATE

Annual Report of State Superintendent of Public Instruction C. J. Baxter.

IN A CONDENSED FORM.

Summary of the Work Done During the Past Year, the Present Situation in New Jersey and Some Wise Recommendations as to the Future.

The annual report of Charles J. Baxter, State superintendent of department of public institution, is now in the hands of the printer and will probably be ready by April 1. The substance of the report in condensed form is given herewith and will prove exceedingly interesting to those who follow the educational work of the State:

The first year of the new century finds New Jersey ably maintaining her educational rank among the sisterhood States. Our most liberal, intelligent and progressive citizens were never so interested in the public schools, never so deeply impressed with their importance to the commonwealth and never so helpful in the effort to establish a correct educational sentiment throughout the State. A higher standard of qualification and better salaries for teachers, more thorough and effective instruction, more advanced and rational courses of study, and more adequate and sanitary school accommodations are the demands of the times and these the people are ably and generously responding. Progress is the watchward. In confirmation of this attention is respectfully called to the following important particulars.

Teachers' Salaries.

The amount expended for teachers' salaries during the school year of 1900-1901 was $4,110,295.55 as against $3,805,482.42 for the preceding school year, an increase of $304,813.13. The number of teachers employed during the year was 7,561 at an average monthly salary of $58.02. The number employed during the preceding year was 7,012 at an average monthly salary of $54.80, making an increase of 549 in number of teachers with an average increase of $3.22 in salary. The average annual increase in salary in all schools kept open nine months is $28.98; in schools that were in session ten months $32.20; an increase of 7.8 per cent. in the number of teachers employed and at the same time an increase of nearly 6 per cent. in average salary. This is a most gratifying showing and becomes still more impressive when we take into consideration that this addition of 549 to our teaching force was made up mainly of those just entering the profession, and for this reason employed at minimum salaries. It can only mean that the well equipped, experienced and efficient teacher is receiving in many municipalities a larger measure of appreciation.

The patrons and supporters of our schools and those who administer our school interests do well to realize that teaching like all other forms of service varies in quality and can in each specific instance command its market value. Each school district will secure just the kind of service it elects to pay for and the most liberal will be the best served. Weak, spiritless and perfunctory teaching is always available on any terms and is dear at any price; that which is thoughtful and inspiring cannot be unduly appreciated or overpaid. Let us not forget that 'school days' come to each child but once and that it behooves both the municipality and the State to make the best possible provision for the training and development of its youth during such period.

Current Expenses.

During the year taxes for 'current expenses' were levied by 389 school districts, as against 302 during the previous year. The term 'current expenses' as interpreted in the law means: Salaries of principals, teachers, janitors and medical inspectors; the amounts expended for fuel, text books, school supplies, flags, transportation, school libraries and insurance; compensation of the custodian of school moneys and of the district clerk; salaries of truant officers, if employed, cost of truant schools when maintained and other incidental expenses.

A careful estimate of the amount needed for each of the items above enumerated should be made and the sum of these several amounts should be voted for 'current expenses;' otherwise Boards of Education are not permitted the discretion in the expenditure of school funds so often needed to meet emergencies. Money voted for a specific purpose cannot be transferred to another account.

As regards the statement as to the levy of taxes the past year's record is significant and means that in the fullness of time there has been 87 distinct municipalities, within which are many times 87 schools, such a strengthening of educational sentiment and such a growing consciousness of larger needs, that they have voluntarily abandoned the long cherished purpose of keeping school expenses within the inadequate apportionment received from the State, and of their own free will have voted a local school tax upon themselves to supplement it. Surely a good school is one of the many good things worth paying for and we have but few, if any, municipalities that have this discovery yet to make.

There are 395 school districts in the State and 389 voted a tax for current expenses, making six districts that failed in this particular. This number of districts was created during the year and no opportunity may have been given to vote such a tax.

District and City Tax.

The amount of district and city tax levied during the year amounts to $4,027,575.52, an increase of $249,423.87 over the preceding year.

School Buildings.

At the close of the year there were 1,828 school buildings in the State owned by the school districts, the total valuation of which was $17,494,842. An average value of $9,750. There was an increase of thirty buildings and 69 buildings were enlarged, remodeled or refurnished.

School Enrollment.

The increase in school enrollment is 13,875 against 7,520 during the preceding year, while the increase in the average number on roll is 12,624. The percentage of daily attendance on average enrollment is .89. The total enrollment during the year was 336,432, an average of 44 pupils per teacher.

School Attendance.

The attendance for the year includes 6,566 pupils who were neither absent nor tardy. The total number of day's attendance was 41,449,415 and the total number of cases of tardiness 452,517.

The Legislature of 1901 determined and authorized an appropriation for each of the ensuing two school years, which shall equal 35 per cent. of the entire State school tax for each of such school years, such tax amounting to $1,486,806.75. Each taxpayer upon property owned in the State will thus have 35 cents of each dollar of State tax paid for him. This is a benefit equitably and justly distributed and which cannot fail to receive the hearty approval of every fair-minded citizen. The credit of this popular enactment is largely due to the Hon. E. C. Stokes, who both framed and championed the measure.

Its effects has already proven most salutary and clearly indicates the complete fulfillment of the predictions of its far-seeing promoters. The more progressive municipalities are taking a commendable advantage of this general and generous assistance in providing for the opportunity of voting larger local taxes for school facilities.

School Libraries.

Unusual interest has been taken in the school libraries. More money has been raised for the purchase of books, better discounts secured nad better selections made. The increase over the preceding year in amount expended was $1,570, while $6,650 was contributed by the several school districts. The State duplicated this amount by $5,500. The chief cause for regret is that the amount appropriated by the State is so meagre. In this respect New Jersey is not as liberal as she can well afford to be, nor as progressive as other States. Books that are purest and best should be furnished in abundance as a valuable aid to the pupil. A duplication by the State of $20 to establish and an annual duplication of $10 to make additions to a library for a school of fifteen or twenty appeals to us as correct, but for larger schools is inadequate. It is respectfully recommended that the law be amended so that the State Comptroller be authorized to draw his warrant upon the order of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction for an amount not less than $20 nor greater than $100 for any public school in which a like sum shall have been raised to establish a library, and a further sum which shall not be less than $10 nor greater than $50 annually upon a like order, upon condition that there shall have been raised by special district tax, or otherwise, a like sum for the maintenance of such library for such year.

SMALL-POX EXPENSE TO CITY WAS $2,500

Additional Appropriation by Common Council Will be Necessery to Meet It.

CITY'S PRESENT HEALTH.

DISCUSSED AT MEETING OF PLAINFIELD BOARD OF HEALTH.

Was Held Yesterday—Report of Health Officer Leon Thurlow Regarding the Various Local Dairies—Other Business.

The March meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the board on North avenue, with a full representation. There were matters of importance regarding the health of the city that were discussed.

The report of Health Inspector Addis showed the number of cases of contagious disease at last report to be seventeen and five were reported during the past month. Seventeen cases were released from quarantine and there are still four cases of scarlet fever under quarantine. There are no other cases of contagion in the city. The total number of inspections and visits to contagious diseases, including those at the isolation hospital, are ninety-eight. During the past month there were three deaths from scarlet fever and one from small-pox.

Health Officer Leon Thurlow in his report gave a history of the contagious disease during the past month and also a report concerning the various dairies. All but four dairies in Sterling township and six in Finderne township were inspected, making a total of sixty-one inspections. In each dairy a marked improvement was noted as to cleanliness and the standard of milk is higher. One dairyman was told to improve his dairy or get out of business. He decided to improve.

Mr. Thurlow reported that the labratory at the board's offices is fully equipped for the analysis of milk. Of eleven samples tested all were found to be above the requirements. The Babcock method is used to determine the percentage of fats.

Is was also stated that progress is being made on the new sanitary code which will be taken up for consideration at a special meeting of the board to be held in the near future

As regards the cost of the small-pox care and treatment, it was reported that approximately about $2,500 had been expended to date. This will necessitate an additional appropriation by the Common Council, as the resolution appropriating $3,000 was rescinded and one providing for an appropriation fo $2,000 substituted at the last meeting of the Council.

BOROUGH'S HEALTH.

Considered at Annual Meeting of North Plainfield Board of Health.

At the annual meeting of the Borough Board of Health held Monday evening the following organization was effected: President, Andrew Love, Sr.; secretary and treasurer, Rev. W. E. Honeyman. Senator Charles A. Reed was reappointed counsel to the Board and W. N. Pangborn health inspector.

The various reports showed the borough to be in good condition. At present there are two cases of scarlet fever, one of diphtheria and thirteen cases of measles. Considerable attention was given during the year to cesspools and much trouble heretofore existing has been abolished.

COST OF REMOVING SNOW.

City's Work Will Amount to $500, of Which Trolley Pays $150.

A compilation of figures has shown that the cost of removing snow after the recent series of storms has reached the gross sum of $500. Of this amount from $100 to $150 is paid by the street railway. This does not include the cost of removing limbs of trees after ice storms or the clearing of culverts. These are being computed separately and, as a large number of men were engaged in the work, it will require some time before definite figures can be ascertained.

In Justice Nash's Court.

Justice V. W. Nash has issued summons in the landlord and tenant case of Rugg against Ross, returnable March 10; the contract case of Klein against Strauss, returnable March 11, and the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company against Hunter, on contract, returnable March 7.

WORKING FOR HOME MISSIONS

ANNUAL MEETING OF W. H. M. S. OF FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Held in Vincent Chapel Yesterday Afternoon—The Election of Officers Held.

A very large attendance was noticeable at the annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, of the First M. E. church, held in Vincent chapel, yesterday afternoon. Marked interest was shown in the proceedings and considerable business was transacted.

Preceding the business meeting, a mite box service was held, during which the mite boxes were emptied. A sum in the neighborhood of $15 was received. During the service a solo was rendered by Mrs. Charles Burnett.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Percy Dyer; first vice president, Mrs. E. Clark, Jr.; second vice president, Mrs. J. M. Derby; third vice president, Mrs. John McNaughton; fourth vice president, Mrs. P. M. French; recording secretary, Mrs. N. W. Pike; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Isabella Miller; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Jackson; mite box secretary, Mrs. I. L. McVoy; reading circle secretary, Mrs. John McNaughton. The business meeting was in charge of Mrs. L. M. French.

After the selection, light refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

MESSAGE TO FRIENDS.

Issued by Plainfield and Rahway Monthly Meeting of Friends—Words to Younger Members.

The Plainfield and Rahway Monthly Meeting of Friends has issued a message of loving interest to each member in the spirit of Christian fellowship, and with the earnest prayer that all may be drawn more closely together in the bonds of love, and that each one may experience a feeling of spiritual life, and be brought into closer union with God.

The younger members, who are entering active life, are urged to listen to the voice within and to hold themselves in readiness for self-devotion to that loving service to mankind. The members are urged to attend more regularly the meetings held from time to time and to take up and resume their religious obligations.

It is sincerely hoped that the Society of Friends may become stronger in numbers and in the power to advance the truth. The attendance of all members is urged at the sessions of the Sabbath-schools, Young Friends' Association and in the philanthropic work of the society. The message is signed by Margaret F. Vail and Edward D. Hutchinson, as clerks of the meeting.

Y. M. A. ELECTION.

Officers for Ensuing Year Were Chosen and Plans Made for the Coming Season.

At the annual business meeting of the Y. M. A. of Hope chapel, held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, William N. Runyon; vice president, James P. Murray; secretary, Percy Hand; treasurer, Thomas Muir.

Committees were appointed as follows: Membership committee, Walter Foster, Matthew Sweeney and John H. Cose; house committee, Frank Whitly, James Montross and Albert Grieb.

The rest of the evening was devoted to outlining plans for association work and improvements during the coming year. Reports from the various officers showed the assocition to be in a flourishing condition, financially and in membership.

NETTED $100.

Results of Valentine Social Held at First Presbyterian Church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church netted about $100 as a result of the recent valentine social held in the chapel. This amount will be placed in a fund now being established for the erection of a proposed new addition to be used as a primary class room for the Sunday-school. If this building is erected the present class room will be converted into a kitchen, something that is needed very much.

Child Consecrated.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. John B. L. Swentzel, of Belvidere avenue, was consecrated yesterday afternoon by Rev. J. W. Richardson, assisted by Rev. George M. Francis, of Westfield. There were a number of relatives and friends present at the services, which were very impressive.

PARK CLUB GOLFERS START ANOTHER YEAR

Auspicious Outlook at Annual Meeting of the Park Golf Club Last Evening.

AT PARK CLUB HOUSE.

CHARLES W. M'CUTCHEN RE-ELECTED TO THE PRESIDENCY.

The Other Officers Elected—Income Enough to Meet the Club's Obligations — Prospects for the Year to Come.

Another year has been started for the Park Golf Club under even more auspicious circumstances than the last. The season's income has been sufficient to meet all the obligations of the club and leave a small balance in the treasury. There is a large membership of enthusiastic golfers while the course promises to be in better condition than ever. These were the facts which were made public during the course of the annual meeting of the club, held at the Park Club house last evening.

Charles W. McCutchen, the president, presided over the deliberations of the club which consisted of the receipt of the reports and the election of a new board of directors. Last year the offices of secretary and treasurer were combined in one, which position was held by Meredith Dryden. As Mr. Dryden has moved away from Plainfield, it was decided to return to the old way of having two separate officers.

The directors elected were Charles W. McCutchen, S. St. John McCutchen, Henry A. McGee, Samuel Townsend, William J. Buttfield, George T. Rogers and William R. Faber. The only change from last year's board was the substitution of W. R. Faber for Meredith Dryden.

A meeting of the board of directors immediately followed the club meeting. The officers were then elected as follows: President, Charles W. McCutchen; vice president, George T. Rogers; treasurer, William R. Faber; secretary, Charles B. Morse. The standing committees will be appointed at a meeting in the near future. The meeting ended with a general discussion of the plans for the coming season.

From the reports made at the meeting and the interest shown, the coming season promises to be the most prosperous in the history of the club. The active membership now numbers ninety-three and there are a number of associate and junior associate members. Conducted on the same lines as last year, the income of the club will be sufficient to meet all obligations. A number of changes are being made to the course, as have already been described in these columns, which will make it one of the best nine hole links in this part of New Jersey. While nothing definite has yet been settled on, the season will be filled with events of interest to all classes of players.

HIGHEST STATE OFFICE.

Will be Conferred on V. W. Nash by Ancient Order United Workmen.

The annual convention of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of New Jersey will soon be held at Trenton, at which time Grand Foreman V. W. Nash, of this city, will be advanced to the highest position in the order in this State, that of grand master workman.

Mr. Nash has been a member and zealous worker in the order since 1893 and by his earnest endeavors has assisted in advancing the interests of the lodge greatly. His approaching promotion is considered to be worthy recognition of his work and interest.

Soon to Start Work.

Contractors in the employ of F. C. Lounsbury will shortly begin work on the extension to the Crescent Embossing Company's plant. It will be hurried as fast as possible in order to have it in shape before the fall rush of business commences.

Lectures on Browning.

Two lectures on the poetry of Robert Browning will be given by Edward Griggs, under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club, in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Thursday afternoons, March 6 and 20, at 3:30 o'clock.

DR. HARE NAMED TWO CAUSES OF FAILURE

Much Danger to Mankind in Merely the Lack of Positive Goodness.

GOD REQUIRES MORE.

FAILURE FOUND IN MISDIRECTED EFFORT OR NO EFFORT AT ALL.

Second of Evangelistic Meetings at Park Avenue Baptist Church Addressed by Rev. Dr. J. Madison Hare, of Jersey City.

The second of a series of evangelistic meetings was held last night at the Park Avenue Baptist church, with a larger attendance than on the preceding evening. Those present included not only a good representation of the church people, but many from other churches.

The chorus choir of young people was seated facing the congregation, and led the spirited song service which opened the meeting. Prayer was offered by the pastor of the church, Rev. J. W. Richardson, after which the Scripture lesson, a part of the twenty-fifth chapter of St. Matthew, was read by the speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. J. Madison Hare, whose present pastorate is in Jersey City, but who has just accepted a call to the Linden Baptist church, of Camden.

After prayer by Rev. John McMurray, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and David Runyon, Dr. Hare announced as his text Matthew xxv. 45; "Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye did it not."

Dr. Hare began by calling attention to the fact that all the evil in the world does not consist of positive badness; much of it is merely a lack of positive goodness. There are two causes of failure; misdirected effort, and making no effort at all; and both come to the same thing in the end. The speaker gave as a definition of sin, "Missing the Mark." The highest ideal is set before the individual, and though some may come much nearer the bull's eye than others, every man who lives without heavenly aid will find that his best marksmanship will not enable him to hit it. No man can hit the mark God has set for him without the help of the Holy Spirit.

Putting the subject in a different light, Dr. Hare went on to say that the farmer who sowed and reaped no crops would not be considered a success merely because he had carefully kept every trace of a weed out of his nicely plowed fields. In the same way it is not enough for a man to keep vices and deeds of absolute unrighteousness out of his life; God would hold him accountable not only for that, but for all the unused possibilities of good that were in his life.

The speaker also pointed out that while a man might say that his ancestors or his environment were responsible for much of his behavior, the great choices of life must be made by him alone, and if he chose wrongly the loss would be his own, and God would hold him alone responsible for it. In closing, Dr. Hare said that no man could build up a perfect life by his own power, but that God stood ready to pour men's lives the life of his Son, to take possession of and transform them.

A duet, "The Future," was sung by Mrs. T. A. Cuming and Miss Adelia Runyon, after which the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Hare. At the service to be held tonight, Dr. Hare will speak again.

CASINO ATTRACTIONS.

"Passion Play" to be Presented With Aid of Moving Pictures.

Presented with true observance of Biblical history, Edison's latest and most wonderful moving pictures of "The Passion Play" of Oberammergan, with vocal and musical accompaniment, will be seen at the Casino Friday and Saturday nights and at the Saturday matinee. These pictures are said to be startling in realism and the New York Sun, speaking of a recent exhibition, says: "The effects are wonderful." The New York Times says: "They are object lessons in true art." They are otherwise highly endorsed. Many other pleasing pictures will be shown, accompanied by descriptive songs. For the matinee, Saturday, "Red Riding Hood" and "Cinderella" will hold forth for the enjoyment of women and children.

LEGISLATORS HARD AT WORK

Set March 21 as the Day for Final Adjournment of the Legislature.

HELD ALL-DAY SESSION.

The Senate Bill Increasing the State Road Appropriation Was Passed—Committee Favorably Reported New Charter for Atlantic City—Bills Passed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 5—A concurrent resolution was adopted in the Senate and House yesterday morning fixing Friday afternoon, March 21, as the time for final adjournment of the Legislature.

In the Senate the committee on municipal corporations reported favorably the Atlantic City charter bill after eliminating the section which gave it the municipal authorities of the city control of the punishment of Sunday liquor sellers.

Senator Strong's bill to abolish boards of freeholders and substitute therefor county commissions with a much smaller membership came up on second reading. An amendment by Mr. Wakelee to strike out the referendum clause was defeated and the bill went to a third reading.

The House passed yesterday morning these bills:

Lord's bill, to suppress anarchy, the bill requiring inmates of soldiers' homes to give to the home one-half of their pension money in excess, of $8 per month; the bill providing for a woman labor instructor and the Senate bill increasing the State road appropriation from $150,000 to $250,000 a year.

Mr. Williams introduced two bills to prevent banks and trust companies from operating in more than one place in the State.

A Hudson County Park bill was introduced in the House by Mr. Bacheller. The measure provides for the election of two park commissioners in the county and the appointment of two by the court, and authorizes them to establish a system of county parks, the bill being framed on the same plan as the Essex County Park act.

Another measure presented by Mr. Bacheller was the old county speedway bill, that has gone down to defeat in each session for several years past.

Mr. Lord presented a bill authorizing the Orange Common Council to maintain a public bath to be established by private means.

In the Senate, Mr. Reed, for the president, introduced a measure designed to allow trolley lines to carry freight and run express cars over their lines, making them common carriers.

A police bill, for which Senator Hudspeth is sponsor, would compel the police commissioners of Newark and Jersey City to make promotions of chancemen to the rank of patrolmen according to seniority, and upon merit.

Mr. McCarter introduced a bill authorizing the Essex Park commissioners to transfer a strip of land off one side of Branch Brook Park to the Lackawanna Railroad, and another setting at rest some doubts as to the legality of insurance companies reinsuring their risks in other companies.

Governor Murphy sent to the Senate at the afternoon session the name of Francis Scott for law judge for Passaic county.

The Senate confirmed the nominations of David Wickham as State prison inspector and Charles L. Baxter as State school superintendent.

The Senate passed the bill prohibiting the use of trading stamps.

The House passed in the afternoon the bills permitting the appointment of assistant prosecutors; making the salary of prosecutors' detectives $1,500 a year; annexing Clinton township to the city of Newark.

Mr. Reed introduced in the Senate a bill authorizing corporations to issue preferred stock with the consent of the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding stock, the dividends on the preferred stock not to exceed 5 per cent.

The two houses adjourned until this morning.

Water Company's Officers.

The Watchung Spring Water Company has elected the following officers: President, Dr. Zeglio; vice-president, Fred Sandford; secretary, Clarence Teel; treasurer, John A. Staats.

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Frank Remsen, of Millstone, is spending a week with relatives in town.

Justice Fred Huff, of New street, has returned from a visit with friends in Newark.

Mrs. Cox, of New York, has returned home after a visit with Plainfield friends.

Bert Gardner, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a short visit with borough friends.

Frank Scheurlein, of Somerset street, is entertaining his brother from New York.

A. M. Runyon and E. E. Runyon, of Park avenue, have returned from a business trip to Philadelphia.

Mrs. D. H. Rowland, of West Seventh street, is home from a ten days' stay with out-of-town friends.

Miss Margaret Conroy, of Little Falls, N. Y., is the guest of Miss Kittie McCann, of West Third street.

Ward Stevens, formerly organist at the Crescent Avenue church, was in Plainfield yesterday calling on friends.

George Bonnell, formerly of Manning avenue, but now of New York, is spending a few days in Plainfield.

George Lindabury, who recently underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, is improving steadily.

Mrs. C. C. Cokefair, of the Park Avenue Hotel, left yesterday for South Carolina, where she will remain for a time.

Joseph Noel, formerly of this city, but of late a resident at Morris Plains, has returned to Plainfield. His health is much improved.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Grandview avenue, has returned from Boonton, where he has been visiting his father for a few days.

THEATRICAL.

General Manager J. Austin Fynes, of F. F. Proctor's enterprises, has sent out the following statement to the press of New York and vicinity:

"There will be no change in Manager Proctor's amusement plans during the current year. The policy of presenting high class stock comedies and dramas, interpreted by evenly balanced and competent companies and with interpolated vaudeville stars, will be continued at Mr. Proctor's Fifth Avenue, Fifty-eighth Street, One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and at his Albany and Montreal theatres.

"This season's results at all these houses have justified the wisdom of the present plan far beyond Mr. Proctor's anticipations. The coming months will witness the production of many of the latest Broadway successes by the Proctor Stock Company, and in the scenic details there will be a much greater degree of elaborateness than has been attempted thus far.

"Mr. Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre will still continue to give 'straight vaudeville' in continuous performance at low prices, which has scored an immediate and substantial success, will also continue to present out-and-out vaudeville bills of the higher class."

LITERARY.

The March number of the Forum opens with a statement, by Walker D. Hines, of the objections brought by the railroad companies against "The Proposals of the Interstate Commerce Commission." On another subject of immediate political interest the case of either side is simultaneously presented, Hon. Truxtum Beale arguing in favor of Chinese Exclusion and Hon. Robert Hutcheson against it. From the conclusion of an article by Hon. Charles Denby on "The Duties of a Minister to China" it appears that this former representative of the United States at Peking is to be numbered with the exclusionists. The account given by R. E. C. Long of "Some Remarkable Russian Engineering Projects" shows that the epithet he has chosen for use in his title is far from being an exaggeration Among other notable articles included in the contents of this month's issue are "Employers' Liability in the United States," by Prof. A A. Bruce; "German Industrial Corporations and the Forcing of Markets," by W. Berdrow; "The Merit System in Porto Rico," by Prof. J. H. Hollander; "The Primary Election Movement," by Albert Watkins; "The Consolidation of Schools," by C. E. Blake; "Fire and the Forest Reserves," by C. S. Newhall; and "The Educational Value of World's Fairs," by W. Ordway Partridge.

Scribner's Magazine for March begins another of its important features for the current year—the reminiscences of Daniel C. Golman, who for twenty-five yaers was president of Johns Hopkins University. President Gilman created a new type of University in America, and one which has proved its success by the great number of scholars and distinguished men which it has already produced by its exact methods of study. "The Launching of a University" tells the story of the conception of the idea, and the first steps in gathering together the remarkable group of professors who at the very start gave the University prestige among men of learning. Richard Harding Davis makes a new departure in fiction and does it with the best success. He tells the dramatic biography of a bull terrier, from the point of view of the dog. Mr. Vanderlip's articles on the "Commercial Invasion," continue to be commented on all over the country. In contrast to Mr. Vanderlip's optimism is an article by Brooks Adams entitled "War and Economic Competition." The short stores include a tale of a winter storm on the Great Lakes; an amusing Adirondack story; and a tale of sentiment entitled "A Bridal Memory." Artisically this number is very beautiful. It is led with a series of paintings by Castaigne printed in tint, showing the life along the waterfront of London. Walter Appleton Clark has another of his effective illustrations for F. Hopkinson Smith's serial. Reuterdahl illustrates the Lake story and D. U. Wilcox the Adirondack tale.

SPORTSMEN'S SHOW.

The Annual Exhibit Opens at Madison Square Garden Today.

With the opening of the Sportsmen's Show, at Madison Square Garden today, New York is entertaining delegations of Indians from Canada; guides and backwoodsmen in picturesque costume from Maine and the Adirondacks; hunters and trappers from Quebec and Newfoundland, and sportsmen from almost every State in the Union.

The great amphitheatre at Twenty-sixth street and Madison avenue has been transferred into one great composite camp of the hunter, fisherman and canoeist; an impressive section of the Adirondack mountains with an old watermill at the base and tumbling cascades of water pouring down their sides, has arisen at the eastern end of the building, and from the centre of the arena arises a great wooded island surrounded by a trout stream and covered with bison, moose, caribou, deer, antelope, and all varieties of game birds dear to the hearts of sportsmen.

The show furnished this year a spectacle of far greater impressiveness than has yet been produced at any past exhibit of the National Sportsmen's Association and the exhibit of boats, canoes and launches, as well as all other articles of sportsmen's supplies and equipment, is both complete and artistic.

Picture of F. H. Andrews.

An excellent picture of F. H. Andrews, of Central avenue, appeared in the last issue of The Christian Herald, in connection with an account of the recent State Y. M. C. A. convention, when Mr. Andrews was chairman at the various sessions of that body.

In the later stages mortal skill is unavailing. Nobody can afford to neglect a cold.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

R. H. Keenan's well stocked grocery store, at Richmond and East Fifth streets, is replete with good bargains Mr. Keenan makes it a point to sell very low for cash prices and his policy is daily bringing him added trade.

Whether you are only a trifle ill or critically so, it is highly important that the medicine taken should be the purest obtainable. T. S. Armstrong, the apothecary, corner of Park and North avenues, sells the pure kind that can be relied upon.

To be fully prepared for spring weather one should have suitable clothing. The Paris Cloak Company, of West Front street, can please you in this respect. A full line of goods of the latest pattern and best quality can be found at the store.

If interested in millinery Bonn, the West Front street milliner, can give you some valuable information. It is essential to many women to know the proper thing to wear in millinery. The latest styles in many effects are to be seen at Bonn's store.

With the pleasant spring weather comes the desire for a ride in the country, where nature is to be seen at her best. If you contemplate such a trip consult Andrew Love, Jr., at his well-equipped livery in East Second street. Only the best rigs and at reasonable prices.

Good, well selected and carefully packed canned fruits always form a nice dessert. Neuman Brothers are making a specialty of these goods this week and guarantee the brands they handle to be the best on the market. They also have a large list of evaporated fruits, including the celebrated Dr. Handy prunes.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Senator Charles A. Reed is still the boss of the borough of North Plainfield. It is hardly to be expected that he will endanger his hold on his last citadel by voting for the Greater Plainfield bill.—Newark News.

Recent experience teaches two things:

1. That all electrical wires should be underground.

2. That the underground conduits should belong to the city.

The overhead wires have been proved not only a nuisance, but an actual evil, not to be tolerated under any plea of necessary economy. When a twenty hours cold rain can paralyze half the phones in Trenton; stop all telegraphic communication between Trenton and outside points; and force the trolley and electric light services to suspend, in dread of fallen wires, it is full time to realize that overhead wires must go. Nobody could look up or down our principal streets and see the perfect maze of wires laden with ice and threatening death without feeling that every other interest in the city had been sacrificed to the cheap convenience of the wire using companies.

The city has already granted to two companies the privilege of laying underground conduits through the streets, and the result has been that private corporations have dug up streets when and where they wished and put down just enough for their own probable needs, and pay nothing. If any more wires go underground, and they should all go, it should be done upon a comprehensive plan whereby the city shall retain ownership and control of the streets, and after laying a sufficent number of conduits, require all electrical wires to be placed in them at a fair rental, which would reimburse the city for the expenditure. — Trenton True American.

By Dr. Simpson.

An interesting story of "The Water Cure," among the Macabebee scouts, from the pen of Dr. M. S. Simpson, formerly, of this city, but now of Middle Valley, appeared in last Sunday's New York Sun.

—Ground was broken yesterday for the new house which Frank McDonald will erect at the corner of Mountain and Watchung avenues.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

Senate Considers the Shipping Bill. House Discusses Free Delivery.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The ship subsidy bill was further discussed in the senate yesterday by Mr. Frye. His remarks were directed principally to the Republican senators, and he gave further expression to his views that the subsidy bill was a logical response to the demands and principles of the Republican party and that in its preparation he had obviated the objections entertained by senators friendly to the measure. No other senator desiring to speak today, the bill was laid aside and a number of other bills were passed.

The senate committee on appropriations concluded consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill for the next fiscal year. The committee added $315,525 to the expenditures provided by the bill as it passed the house, making the total $25,490,195. An amendment was also inserted providing for the transfer to the classified service of the clerks temporarily employed during the war with Spain and providing for their permanent retention in their present places.

The house spent another day in discussion of the bill to classify the rural free delivery service and place the carriers under the contract system. No vote was reached, and it is doubtful whether one will be had today, as the list of speakers is still large. The fate of the bill is in doubt, although the impression prevailing is that it will be defeated.

A CHINESE REBELLION.

The Trouble In Kwangsi Province Spreading Rapidly.

HONGKONG, March 5.—The rebellion in Kwangsi province is spreading rapidly. Signs of unrest are already apparent at Kwelin and Nanning, the newly opened river treaty ports.

The Canton viceroy has dispatched troops to the scene of the disturbances and has stationed over 1,000 men at Kwelin and Nanning for use in case of eventualities. The rebels are believed to be former soldiers of Marshal Su, who were disbanded on his promotion. Their propaganda, which has spread far and wide, includes the overthrow of the Mantchoo dynasty, the founding of a Chinese dynasty and helping the oppressed and needy Chinese. The French are said to be secretly supporting the rebels.

A Peking dispatch says that the government has ordered Marshal Su to resume command of the rebellious soldiers in Kwangsi province. It is doubtful if he will be able to control them, as it is necessary first to pay them their overdue wages.

The French legation here has received a telegram saying that the rebels have killed a French officer near the Tonquin border.

General Salazar at Panama.

PANAMA, March 5.—General Salazar, the recently appointed governor of the isthmus, has arrived here. He was given a notable and enthusiastic reception by the local authorities and his friends, who have not forgotten the general's bravery during the Liberal attack on Panama in July of 1900. General Salazar will at once begin an active campaign against the revolutionists. In an interview General Salazar said that everything was quiet in the departments of Cauca and Antioquia with the exception of Calote, which was being surrounded by the revolutionists when he left.

Three Miners Killed.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., March 5.—Three miners employed at the Standard mine were instantly killed there in a mysterious manner. The men were on the cage, which was conveying them to the top, when suddenly they were seen by their companions to fall. A miner who was on the cage at the time said that one of the men lost his holding and in an endeavor to save himself pulled the other two miners with him.

Missing Treasurer Located.

DETROIT, Mich., March 5.—A Journal special from Alpena says Fred W. Hagen, the missing city treasurer, has been located in Mexico, seventy miles from the Texas frontier. His alleged shortage amounts to $9,900. A warrant has been issued for his arrest, and suit has been brought against the company which was on his bond.

Ohio Postoffice Looted.

OXFORD, O., March 5.—Robbers looted the postoffice here of $1,500 in stamps and $100 in cash during the night. The safe was forced open and the combination knocked off. Everything of value was taken and the remaining contents scattered over the floor.

A White House Musicale.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The president and Mrs. Roosevelt last night gave a largely attended musicale at the White House. The east room and other public portions of the White House were very prettily decorated for the occasion.

CITY RULED BY MOB.

Five Thousand Strike Sympathizers Terrorize Norfolk.

TROOPS GUARD RAILWAY PROPERTY.

No Settlement In Sight Between Railway and Light Company and Employees—Martial Law Likely to Be Declared.

NORFOLK, Va., March 5.—A mob of 5,000 strike sympathizers thronged the streets of Norfolk yesterday on which the main line of the Norfolk Railway and Light company runs, and the police were unable to cope with it.

From noon until after dark, when the cars, which were guarded by detachments of militia and had run with difficulty all day, were housed in the barns, the mob had things its own way in the city. In the county where the barns are the military was in control of the situation. Cars were repeatedly derailed, wagon loads of stones were piled on the tracks and free fights between the military guards and the crowd occurred during the day at frequent intervals.

In one of these a sergeant ran a bayonet into the arm of H. Harmanson, a barber. Mrs. Harmanson was standing by her husband at the time. She knocked the sergeant to the ground with her fists and discolored the face of Lieutenant E. R. Gale, who was near her, with a well directed blow. Several soldiers were hit by bricks and other missiles thrown through the windows of the cars. A number of arrests have been made both by the police and military.

A conference was held by Mayor Beaman, Police Chief Vellines and Colonel Higgins, commanding the Seventy-first Virginia regiment, eight companies of which are in service, relative to placing the city under martial law. The police force of 100 men has been on duty for forty-eight hours and is unable to meet the emergency. It is possible that the four additional companies of the regiment and a battery of artillery will be called for today to take charge of the city. There is no settlement of the strike in sight, both sides standing by their first proposition.

McKinley's Memory Honored.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 5.—The memory of the late President William McKinley, who fell a victim to the assassin's bullet at Buffalo, was appropriately honored by the legislature of the state last night. The exercises were held in the assembly chamber and were presided over by Governor Odell. Seated on the platform were United States Senator Thomas C. Platt and the members of the legislative committee which arranged for the exercises. Senator Depew had intended to be present, but he was summoned to New York early in the morning and found it impossible to get back in time. The chamber was decorated with American flags, while royal purple draperies were hung from the various galleries. Palms and potted plants in profusion were placed about the speakers' stand. Governor Odell introduced the speaker of the evening, the Hon. Charles Emory Smith, formerly postmaster general.

The Diamond Market Flurry.

BRUSSELS, March 5.—Numerous and contradictory reports are current here as to the crisis in the diamond trade, and newspapers refer to the impending failures of several firms in the diamond business at Antwerp, Amsterdam and London. They allege that some diamond merchants have been guilty of extensive defalcations and have fled to London and New York. The crisis is said to be due to the large quantity of goods on warrant, which can only be disposed of at a loss. The Messager de Bruxelles says that the extradition of two men who fled to New York with 500,000 francs' worth of diamonds has been demanded. A telegram received here from Antwerp says the diamond market is calmer as a result of the proposals of three diamond merchants to effect an arrangement with their creditors.

Emmet Day In Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 5.—The woes of Ireland and the wrongs of the Boers were kindred subjects at a meeting of the Irish Nationalists held in this city last night. The meeting was primarily held to pay tribute to the memory of Robert Emmet, but the South African war occupied almost an equal space with the Irish patriot in the addresses that were made. The chief address of the evening was made by ex-Congressman John J. Lentz of Ohio.

Bad For German Steamship Lines.

BERLIN, March 5.—All the German steamship lines show heavy reductions in their dividends for 1901. The Hamburg-American Steam Packet company reports net earnings of 20,000,000 marks for 1901 as against net earnings of 23,800,000 marks in 1900 and has declared a dividend of 6 per cent in 1901 as against 10 per cent in 1900. The Argo Steamship company has reduced its dividends from 8 per cent in 1900 to 3 per cent in 1901.

Early Navigation Promised.

DETROIT, Mich., March 5.—According to the first report of 1902 on the condition of the ice in the great lakes, issued yesterday by the local office of the weather bureau, there is much less ice in the lakes at present than at this time last year, indicating an early opening of navigation.

PLANNING TO ATTEND CORONATION.

Japanese Government Will Send Battleships and Representative Merchants to England For That Important Occasion.

TOKYO, Japan, via Victoria, B. C., March 5.—Japan has gone wild with delight over the conclusion of the Anglo-Japanese alliance and is only considering how best to celebrate. Until the ratification everything is in embryo, but some of the communities will not be denied. There has been an elaborate torchlight procession at Tokyo, besides the formal interchange of congratulations at a joint meeting held by the two houses of the diet at which Sir Claude Macdonald, the English minister, was present.

At the various towns in Japan special celebrations have already been held or are in contemplation. The vernacular press is brimming over with cheerful forecasts of the result of the "diplomatic union," flags are flying, and altogether young Japan is patting itself on the back. But there is no sig of undue exultation over the event. Ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs Kato touched the keynote of popular sentiment the other day when in a speech touching on the proper methods of receiving the news of the alliance he said that Japan should accept her position with all dignity.

There should be no question of using the opportunity for asking England to aid in the introduction of foreign capital into Japan. Such a course would be like a bridegroom asking his father-in-law for money on the day of the wedding. It would be fitting, said Mr. Kato, that Japan should signalize the occasion by sending over to the naval review to be held at Spithead during King Edward's coronation some representative warships, which would be more effective than oratory or cheap champagne in a dark corner of the empire.

This idea of Mr. Kato's has taken hold, and it is reported that Premier Katsura has obtained the sanction of the emperor to send a first class battleship and a cruiser to take part in the Spithead naval demonstration.

The chambers of commerce throughout the country are also preparing to send two representative merchants to attend the coronation ceremonies.

A Vermont Central Wreck.

CAMBRIDGE, Vt., March 5.—An eastbound mail train on the Burlington and Lamoile division of the Central Vermont railroad was wrecked near here last evening, and several passengers were injured. One passenger coach and a combination mail and express car went down a fifteen foot embankment, rolling over. A three-year-old grandson of Henry Stevens of Johnson, Vt., was very badly hurt and may die. Other passengers who were injured received medical aid here. The locomotive remained on the iron. The flood has caused a general suspension of traffic on the road since Saturday. The train wrecked was the first sent over the line.

Floods In Nebraska.

LOUISVILLE, Neb., March 5.—An ice gorge above the Missouri Pacific bridge near this city has reached formidable proportions, and the Platte river has risen higher than for twenty years, now covering a stretch of country two miles wide. The tracks of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad are washed out for half a mile, and trains will be unable to pass for several days. Last night the tracks of the Missouri Pacific road began to wash out slowly, and no trains can run over the threatened portion.

A River In Village Streets.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., March 5.—Large fields of ice have piled up at the dam at Norfolk, changing the flow of Racket river and sending the water over the dike and into the village streets. Several dwellings, barns and the postoffice building have been swept from their foundations. Many families have had to leave their homes for fear of buildings falling. A portion of the river bank washed out, and a force of men are working to break the jam and return the water to its natural course. No lives have been lost so far.

Five Hundred Miners Idle.

TELLURIDE, Colo., March 5.—J. D. Cedarberry, who was listed among those killed in the snowslide at the Liberty Bell mine last Friday, is alive and well. He was caught by the avalanche, but managed to dig his way out and reach a place of safety. All mines and mills in the path of expected slides have been deserted, and 500 miners are out of employment.

To Repeal Garfield Law.

COLUMBUS, O., March 5.—The house of representatives has passed the Devaul bill to repeal the corrupt practice act in buying votes in elections, known as the Garfield law, by a vote of 59 to 24. There was no effort at party division. It was given as the belief of the friends of the measure that the bill will pass the senate.

Lighthouse Swept Away.

CATSKILL, N. Y., March 5.—A large ice gorge which had formed in the Hudson river near Stuyvesant gave way and, sweeping down the stream, demolished the Kinderhook lighthouse and partially wrecked the large Coxsackie lighthouse. Both of these houses were of solid masonry and the largest on the river.

OUR DEMAND ON TURKEY.

Position of This Government In the Stone Case Officially Defined.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—It is learned at the state department that the attitude of Mr. Leishman, the United States minister to Turkey, is liable to be misunderstood owing to the brevity of the cable report that he has preferred a demand upon Turkey in the case of Miss Stone. The understanding is that any action in that line that Mr. Leishman may have taken is in the line of saving all future rights rather than the submission of an unqualified demand for the punishment of the brigands and a repayment of the indemnity given to the outlaws. The same sort of a caveat either has been or will be filed with the Bulgarian government.

The legal effect of this action is simply to save all rights against either of these governments or against both of them pending the conclusion of the exhaustive inquiry which the state department is making through its minister and other agents into Miss Stone's case. When that inquiry is concluded, it is expected that the department will be in a position to squarely place the responsibility for the kidnaping, and when that has been done no time will be lost in pressing the claim both for punishment of the perpetrators of the outrage and for the repayment of the ransom.

Meanwhile, acting under instructions of the state department, Mr. Leishman will prefer no specific claim against either Turkey or Bulgaria.

Emperor Liked the Telegram.

BERLIN, March 5.—Emperor William, instead of being displeased with the telegram of Miss Alice Roosevelt concerning the launching of the Meteor, as some of the English newspapers aver, because of its familiar tone, was, on the contrary, very much pleased with it. A member of the cabinet relates that after an audience with Emperor William Feb. 26, official business having been finished, he was about to leave when the kaiser remarked, "I must show you the charming telegram I have just received from Miss Alice Roosevelt." To other members of his entourage the emperor has also expressed his pleasure over this telegram and has praised its natural and unconstrained form.

Cash For Pacific Coast.

NEW YORK, March 5.—A leading banking house, with important San Francisco connections, reports that at least $20,000,000 will be deposited at the subtreasury to meet the withdrawal of an equal amount from the subtreasury at San Francisco. It was stated that this transaction in no way concerns the deal for the financing of the San Francisco street car lines, of which Brown Bros. & Co. are the underwriting managers. A canvass of other leading banking interests failed to disclose any additional requests for transfers to San Francisco, but it was practically established that transfers to that point will aggregate at least $40,000,000.

Australia's Gold Production.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—"The probability is that Australasia will soon again head the list of the world's gold producers," says Consul General Bray at Melbourne, Australia, in a report dated Jan. 11 which was made public at the state department. The official figures of the gold production of the commonwealth for 1901, submitted by the consul general, show a total of 4,333,681 ounces as compared with 4,177,890 ounces for 1900. West Australia and New Zealand showed increased yields, bringing the total nearly up to that of 1899, which was the banner year for gold in Australia.

Opposed to Patent Medicines.

HAZLETON, Pa., March 5.—Proprietary medicines were placed under the ban by the east Pennsylvania conference of the Evangelical church in session here. The resolutions condemning the use of the patent preparations were presented by the committee on Sabbath and temperance, and their adoption was unanimous. The resolutions aver that "the government, instead of endeavoring to check the growth of the liquor evil, appears to be pandering to its interests."

WATERS SUBSIDING.

Reports Generally Show That the Danger Is Past.

PATERSON, N. J., March 5.—Conditions in the flooded section of this city are much improved, and there has been a rapid fall in the waters.

The health authorities have positively forbidden any one to move back into the flooded district and also directed that all now in it be removed as quickly as possible. The reason for this is that the authorities desire that the buildings shall be wholly cleaned and dried out before they are used again.

The police are preventing any one entering the district that was flooded except those obtaining passes from the chief. This step was taken to prevent looting and to enforce the health board's mandate.

Four hundred persons are still sheltered in the armory. They are being fed, and fresh clothing is being provided as rapidly as is possible. Donations of clothing for women and children are badly needed and are not coming in as rapidly as was hoped for. Sickness is feared.

Pennsylvania Losses.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 5.—The Susquehanna river is falling, and the waters are leaving the streets in the southern section of Harrisburg, so that the work of clearing up may soon be commenced. The railroads have resumed their regular service. The iron works and other industrial establishments probably will be able to begin operations in the next forty-eight hours. The river was at 20 feet 4 inches at dawn and fell about two inches an hour during the day. There was no further damage done to the bridges, but the "Camel Back" is reported to be in a dangerous condition, three piers having been wrecked and one span hanging by a few beams. Hazleton did not suffer so much from the flood as other towns in the Lehigh region. Only three collieries in this vicinity were operated today, but before the close of the week a majority of the others will probably be working. Half a million dollars will not, it is estimated, cover the loss in Allentown and vicinity by the recent floods. Ice floes carried away two large bridges, one at the lower end of the New Jersey Central railroad, the other a private bridge of the Lehigh Iron company.

Situation In the South.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 5.—Official reports received at the railroad headquarters here show that the situation in the flooded districts is improved. The Southern's loss between Norristown and Asheville will aggregate $250,000 to roadbed and bridges alone. The loss by delayed and annulled trains and cutting off of all passenger and freight traffic since last Thursday will be very large. About 900 men are repairing the road and bridges on the Asheville branch. There is still a gap of thirty-two miles between Marshall, N. C., and Del Rio, Tenn., without railway service. The Atlanta division has been opened between Atlanta and Macon and between Columbus and McDonough.

Ohio River Stationary.

CINCINNATI, O., March 5.—The Ohio river here has reached its crest of fifty and a half feet and become stationary. No ice has reached here, and the river is free from driftwood.

Ex-Officials Plead Guilty.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 5.—Ex-City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury and Stilson V. MacLeod have pleaded guilty in the United States circuit court to the charge of violating the United States banking law. It was charged that they obtained something more than $10,000 from the Old National bank upon fraudulent checks. The money was afterward paid back. MacLeod was formerly teller of the bank and manager of the local clearing house and was aided in the fraud by his official position. The discovery of the crime came as an outcome of the municipal water supply scandal.

Cattle Growers In Session.

DENVER, March 5.—The American Cattle Growing association, embracing all cattlemen's associations west of the Missouri river, assembled here yesterday for its second annual convention. President Lusk's annual address was devoted largely to the question of leasing the public domain. He advocates the enactment by congress of a law to regulate the matter. "Untold harm is being done to cattlemen," he said, "by the free use of the public lands for grazing purposes."

Will Not Allow Sunday Ball.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 5.—Mayor Bookwalter states that he will not permit Sunday baseball here because it would be in violation of the state law. This will disarrange the American association schedule, and Manager Watkins of the ball team says it is Sunday ball or no ball at all.

Personal Reputation Injured.

CASPER, Wy., March 5.—County Attorney Batler has sued 175 citizens of this city for amounts which aggregate $100,000 for damage to his personal reputation, which, he alleges, was caused by a petition circulated and signed by the citizens.

Edward Will Not Visit Ireland.

LONDON, March 5.—It is reported that the projected visit to Ireland of King Edward has been abandoned on account, it is understood, of the aggressive action of the United Irish league.

Carnegie Library Opened.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 5.—The Carnegie library was opened to the public yesterday for the first time. The building, with its furnishings, cost $125,000, all of which was given by Mr. Carnegie.

MILWAUKEE'S GUEST

Henry of Prussia Warmly Welcomed In Wisconsin.

A DRIVE, A RECEPTION AND A FEAST.

Two Hundred Thousand People Throng the Streets—The Prince Departs For the East After a Busy Six Hours.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 5.—Milwaukee was host to Prince Henry of Prussia for six hours last evening and gave him a reception that was highly enthusiastic and entertainment that was unique. His special train came at 4 o'clock and at 10 o'clock was away again on the long run to Niagara and New England. The intervening time was all given over to the reception and entertainment of the royal visitor. It began with a drive through business and residential districts in review before a crowd that numbered 200,000. Then there was a public reception, at which Governor Robert La Follette and Mayor David S. Rose voiced the official welcomes and the united singing societies raised their voices in mighty chorus. There was also a splendid illumination and a thrilling night run of the Milwaukee fire department. Later there was a banquet at which the prince met the leading citizens of the city and state.

The thousands of Germans resident in Milwaukee joined heartily in the welcome of the young prince to whose house they once owed allegiance, and veterans of the German wars gathered from throughout the state to assist in the reception.

The special train bearing the prince and his party ran up from Chicago over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, and there was an enormous crowd at the depot awaiting its coming.

SOUVENIR FIENDS SOLD.

Visitors to Kaiser's Yacht Bought "Fake" Keepsakes.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Yankee has found more than his equal in shrewdness in the German. Visitors to the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, awaiting the return of its owner's brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, have been buying "fake" souvenirs from some of the jackies who man the kaiser's pleasure craft, thinking all the while they were getting pieces of crockery and bits of the vessel's furnishings.

Thousands of visitors to the yacht could not get aboard because of the crush, and when the closing hour came it was estimated that more than 2,000 went away disappointed.

It was while talking with one of the officers of the yacht about the trouble had with visitors, who cut and tore away portions of curtains and linen, that the deception practiced on the souvenir crazed visitors was learned.

Plates and beer steins bearing the name "Hohenzollern" had been bought eagerly and at high prices from the sailors. It was learned that the enterprising tars had obtained these from the passenger steamer of that name that was lying at the pier at Hoboken when the yacht first arrived.

The Prince Sees Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 5.—The Chicago which Prince Henry of Prussia saw at night by the glare of many lights was presented to him when he awoke by the clearer light of the sun. The welcome which he received at night was repeated and emphasized, and he was given further opportunity to enjoy his expressed desire to meet American citizens at close range. During the day he listened to an address from the Central Bund of St. Paul, placed a wreath on the Lincoln monument in Lincoln park and enjoyed a luncheon and reception at the Germania club. The prince left the Germania club at 1:30 and was driven directly to the Union depot. Crowds as usual lined both sides of the streets. At the depot he thanked Mayor Harrison for the pleasure his reception in Chicago had given him. At 2 p. m. the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul special train reserved for his highness and suit left the station.

To Provide Fire Escapes.

UTICA, N. Y., March 5.—Myron W. Van Auken, attorney for the Commercial Travelers' Mutual Accident Association of America, has drafted and sent to Assemblyman McQuade a bill providing for fire escapes in hotels. It provides for a noncombustible escape from every room above the first floor of a hotel and is aimed to reach the hotels in New York which have circumvented the fire escape law of 1887. The law is indorsed by an association having 28,000 commercial travelers.

Cruiser Goes to Ecuador.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The navy department has been informed of the departure yesterday of the cruiser Philadelphia from Panama for Guayaquil, Ecuador, where she will show the United States flag for the first time in several years, an event which resident Americans have recommended as likely to have a beneficial effect upon their status in Ecuador.

A Case of Plague.

MELBOURNE, Victoria, March 5.—A single case of the plague has been reported here. It was traced to a steamer from Sydney, N. S. W. There have been forty-six plague cases at Sydney since the outbreak there, of which fourteen have proved fatal.

New York Assemblyman Dead.

HUDSON, N. Y., March 5.—Assemblyman Payne of Columbia county is dead here. He was about thirty years old and was serving his first term in the legislature.

SPRING ELECTION.

DEMOCRATIC.	REPUBLICAN.
Members of Borough Council,
John Lloyd,	Robert Clark, Jr.,
F. M. Ward.	J. K. Arnold.
Commissioner of Appeal,
	J. H. Cooley.

THE COUNCIL'S ACTION.

After the action taken by the Common Council at its meeting, Monday evening, regarding the "Greater Plainfield" bills, there can be no doubt but those bills will be held up for some time, at least. The Common Council preferred a direct request to the members of the Legislature from Union county that they vote against those measures or hold them up until the Common Council should have an opportunity of conferring upon the terms of the bills. While this action may not sound the death knell to the consolidation scheme this winter, it will certainly prevent any immediate action of a favorable nature on the part of the Legislature.

The trouble was that the promoters of the bills did not consult the wishes or desires of the members of the Common Council in preparing the bills or in introducing them. In plain words, the Common Council was ignored. Considering themselves the legal representatives of the people of Plainfield and therefore entitled to be heard in any movement which might affect the city, the Councilmen raised objection to this action and put an obstacle in the path of the scheme which was entirely unexpected.

At first thought, the Common Council seems perfectly justified in objecting to any legislation concerning the city on which it has not been first consulted. The promoters of the present measures claim, however, that they are perfectly within their rights and are simply carrying out the work of the joint committee which was formally brought into existence by the Common and Borough Councils. A full statement of their position will appear in The Daily Press, tomorrow, the press of other news not permitting its use today. It will be worthy of careful consideration.

Ii is probable that there will still be a question of opinion as to whether or not the bills should have been introduced without consulting the Common Council, even granting the contention that the work was simply a completion of the instructions of the joint committee. Such mimor details should be forgotten, however, in the desire to bring about the formation of the greater municipality. If the friends of the scheme insist on quarreling, the measures are surely doomed.

Let, therefore, the Common Council consider the matter without delay and work hereafter in co-operation with the promoters of measures which are intended to bring about a much-desired state of affairs. No offense was intended and the members of the Common Council should not harbor any ill-feeling toward those who unintentionally overlooked them.

The Common Council of Elizabeth has started an active campaign against the trolley companies in that city, among which is the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company. The Council has even gone so far as to set a date for a hearing when the trolley companies are asked to show cause why their franchises should not be rescinded. A somewhat similar course was planned for Plainfield by Councilman Lee but his ideas did not meet the approval of the other Councilmen and so his resolution did not pass. A majority of the Common Council was in favor of giving Superintendent Ackarman a chance to keep his promise. If he fails, however, then Councilman Lee's plan is likely to go through with flying colors.

The two men, who have been selected by the Democrats of North Plainfield as candidates for the Borough Council are not as well known, perhaps, as their Republican rivals but both are men of reputation and good standing in the community. John Lloyd has never appeared as a candidate before but has been an active adherent of the Democratic party. F. M. Ward has a large circle of friends where he is expected to draw some strength. Both of these men have a normal Republican majority, combined with powerful rival candidates, to buck against and they will have to make a wonderfully strong uphill fight if they expect to come out ahead in the battle of the ballots.

It is reasonable that the advertiser should expect immediate returns from his announcements, comments the Philadelphia Record. In the case of a permanent business, however, the future also is worth considering. An establishment which is expected to grow can well afford to bear the cost of advertising which will give to it an enduring place in the public memory. The small merchant who is ambitious to become a large merchant must begin his growth in the advertising department.

All sorts of ulterior motives have been attributed to the members of the Common Council for their refusal to grant the license for the saloon on North avenue after two contesting interests had agreed to a setlement. The action of the Councilmen is, however, very easy to explain. One of the Councilmen expressed the situation very well. "We failed to see any more reason Monday evening why a license should be granted than we did a week ago."

The Plainfield Board of Education has sided with the minority of cities and decided not to attempt compulsory vaccination in the public schools, for the present, at least. In case of an epidemic here, the school board would probably take more strenuous measures in that direction. For the present, however, the board decided not to refuse the city educational privileges to those who had not or would not be vaccinated.

Councilman Lee has shown himself a champion of the interests of an active. Let him next turn his attention to the people. fence between the tracks at the North Avenue station and see if he cannot persuade the Jersey Central Railroad to give it a coat of colored paint.

The resident of Paterson, who has spent the last month in that unfortunate city, will have a fund of reminiscences to relate to his grandchildren which will be listened to for many years to come.

READY FOR WORK.

Men's Club of the Congregational Church Met and Adopted Constitution and By-Laws.

The Men's Club, of the Congregational church, met last evening, to get in running order. The recently-elected president, W. B. Wadsworth, was in charge.

In the early part of the evening, a constitution and by-laws was adopted and twenty-six names were placed on the charter roll. Afterward an informal discussion on the plans and objects of the organization took place. It proved beneficial to all and gave a more comprehensive view of the work.

After the regular business had been transacted, the members enjoyed a social period. A feature was a number of excellent violin solos by John A. Trossbach, of Jersey City, accompanied by Walter Raynolds.

Pulpit Supplies.

Those in charge of securing supplies for the First Baptist church pulpit during the absence of Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, announce the following: March 9, Rev. Dr. James M. Stiffler, of Crozier Theological Seminary; March 16, Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhodes, of New York; March 23, Rev. Rush Rhees, L. L. D., president of Rochester University.

To Care for Future Floods.

Among the things which the Union County Board of Freeholders will be asked to grant this year are two new bridges over Cedar brook, one at Jackson avenue and the other at Berckman street. These are considered by Street Commissioner Gavett as a necessity and they will assist materially in caring for future floods in that district.

Epworth League Business Meeting.

The Epworth League, of the First Methodist church, will hold a business meeting Friday evening. Several important matters are to be considered and it is requested that all members be in attendance.

STRENUOUS TIMES IN THE PASSAIC VALLEY

Sterling and Its Neighbors Just Recovering From Effects of the Flood.

STREETS WERE FLOODED

NEW ROADWAY SERVED AS A DAM FOR THE HIGH WATER.

One Horse Drowned and Lots of Thrilling Experiences Have So Far Been Reported—Some of Them.

After being penned up for several days by raging waters, the people of Sterling and the other little settlements in the upper Passaic valley are beginning to recover their breath and return to the every day duties. They are once more able to cross the two ridges of the Watchung Mountains and reach Plainfield with many exciting tales of experiences in the flood.

As soon as the water in the Passaic began to rise, the people of Sterling discovered that something was the matter. The new county road, which crosses the valley from Sterling to Berkley Heights, acted as a dam and served to back up the water right into the streets of the village. Boats navigated the streets and served to carry people from one house to another. The employes of the silk mill were gathered up in a wagon, the horses to which were up to their bodies in the water.

Some thrilling experiences were reported by those who tried to follow the road from Gilette to Union Village. In places, the water was five feet deep on the roadway. Where it crossed the river, travelers were compelled to stand on the wagon seats. Superintendent Perrigot, of the silk mill, drove along until only his horse's head was visible. He had extreme difficulty in getting out.

Sol. Sayles, the well-known New York butcher, has a handsome residence at Long Hill. In company with his wife and coachman, he attempted to reach the Murray Hill station on the Lackawanna Railroad. Near Potters bridge the horse was carried off its feet by the force of the current and the coach dumped into the neighboring field. The three escaped with difficulty. The horse was drowned.

Edward Burnett drove from Sterling to Plainfield with a light gig. His horse had to swim in order to get through the high water.

The water has now returned to its proper place and no further trouble is experienced. The roads are all badly cut up, however, and it will cost the various townships a considerable sum to restore them to their former condition. The county road built through the Passaic valley also suffered to some extent.

ONCE TOO OFTEN.

This Time City Judge Runyon Refused to be Lenient and Sent Woman to Jail.

For the second time within two days, Mrs. Mary Winton, of South Plainfield, was a prisoner in the city court, this morning. She appeared before City Judge Runyon at Monday's session on a charge of disorderly conduct but made such an earnest plea and seemed so humiliated that sentence was suspended.

This morning it was a similar charge with an added one of drunkenness preferred by Patrolman Higgins. She was taken last evening from the home of Edward Washington, colored, of Plainfield avenue, who was also arrested. Mrs. Winton's plea for leniency met with no response and she was fined $20 and twenty days. Sentence on Washington was suspended.

Miss Catharine Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wood, of Franklin place, is stopping for a time in Washington, D. C.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

LISTENED TO A WORKER

MRS. JANVIER, RETURNED MISSIONARY, MADE INTERESTING ADDRESS.

At Annual Meeting of Women's Foreign Missionary Society of First Presbyterian Church.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church held its annual meeting in the chapel of the church yesterday afternoon, following that of the Home Missionary Society, which was held during the morning. There was a large attendance of members and friends and the meeting proved an instructive and helpful one.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss Julia Noll; vice president, Mrs. James Petrie; secretary, Mrs. Russell Bond; treasurer, Miss Addie Deitrich; secretary for literature, Mrs. Harry Williams.

After the transaction of routine business, those present listened with considerable interest to a talk by Mrs. Janvier, a returned missionary from India. She has been in India for a long time and only recently returned to her home in Philadelphia, where she will stay for a few years, while her children grow to years that will allow their being left alone

Mrs. Janvier, who has been indentified with the medical work in her mission station, told something of the difficulty experienced in reaching certain classes of women in India, especially the Mohammedans. She eventually succeeded and now has many warm friends among this class of women. She has been invited into their homes and in this way has been given an opportunity to teach Christ to them. Since her return home she has been in correspondence with some of these women, thus keeping in touch with them.

Mrs. Janvier had a pleasing manner, was very earnest and at once engaged the undivided attention of her hearers. She asked for the earnest prayers of all that her work may be successful and that many souls may be saved.

WANT THE JOB.

Lively Contest for Freeholder in Bridgewater Township—Logan Against Wyckoff.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 5—From now on until the polls close March 11, there is the hottest kind of a fight on for freeholder in this (Bridgewater) township.

Wm. J. Logan, who has been director of the board for so many years, is the Democratic candidate for reelection. Logan has hosts of friends, although there are a few people lurking about who think he wants a "life job." His supporters are confident, however, he will win in a gallop.

The Republicans have placed an unusually strong candidate in the field in the person of Former Sheriff W. H. H. Wyckoff, of Raritan. He is an old soldier, who has had various offices, having once been a freeholder. The friends of Wyckoff predict for him an easy victory.

As it is, it is a toss-up who the next freeholder will be and the candidates and their backers are on the anxious seat. There is a great hustling for votes.

TWO CAPTURED.

Local Police Looking for Other Man Who Escaped From Reformatory.

Two of the three men who escaped from the Rahway Reformatory, last Friday, were captured in Newark, Monday. They were found in the vicinity of their old haunts in that place. The other man is still at large. Pictures of all three were received by Chief Kiely yesterday and the local police are watching for the third member of the trio.

Teachers to Elect.

The annual meeting of the teachers of the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school will be held tomorrow evening, when there will be election of officers.

MISSION EFFORT IN INDIA

DESCRIBED BY MRS. TAYLOR AT MISSIONARY MEETING.

Helpful Meeting of Women's Foreign Missionary Circle of Park Avenue Baptist Church.

A hepful meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Circle, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Freeman, South avenue, at which time Mrs. Taylor, formerly of North Plainfield, but now of Philadelphia, was present and gave a talk on the work of Pundita Ramabi, and the "High Caste Women of India."

Mrs Taylor has for years been interested in this work and was at one time the president of the Ramabai Circle, in this city. She related an interesting story of Ramabai's work in India, telling of her noble, self-sacrificing efforts. Mrs. Taylor also told of the progress of the work in India, how many native women, especially those of the high caste, are being won for Chirst, and how they in turn are led to join in the good work of helping to rescue their sisters.

Mrs. Taylor also referred to the work among the children in India and how very gratifying this part of the work is to those identified with it. It is believed that if the children can be won the future work will be greatly lessened. After the talk by Mrs. Taylor a social time was had, during which light refreshments were served. During the social hour, there was an informal discussion of the subject introduced by the speaker.

GONE TO CUBA.

S. St. John McCutchen Accompanied Mr. Day Who Needs Sea Voyage.

S. St. John McCutchen, of Washington Park, who went to Cuba recently, is now with Benjamin Day, also of Washington Park, enjoying a sea voyage. They will not return home for several weeks. Mr. Day, who has been quite ill, went away on the advice of his physician for his health. He is now much improved and it is believed that the sea trip he is taking will restore him to perfect health.

Contract for Alterations.

Tallamy Brothers have secured the contract for the masonry work on the alteration of Schwed Brothers' buildings on East Front street. They will commence work within a few days. The partitions now dividing the store occupied by the firm and the one recently vacated by Dr. Shaw will be removed, throwing them into one large compartment.

First in His Class.

David H. Storm, a brother of John Storm, of Liberty street, who is a student at the New York School of Art, is now the leader of his class. He has natural talent for art and his work has attracted widespread attention from artists.

Derailed Car Blocked Traffic.

One of the large cars on the through trolley line was derailed at Richmond and East Second streets, yesterday afternoon. Traffic was blocked for nearly two hours while it was being replaced.

Found Dead in Bed.

Mrs. George Totten, a well-known resident of Watchung, was found dead in bed yesterday at her home. Heart trouble is the cause given for the death. A husband and three children are left.

WILLIAM B. LEEDS.

New President of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific.

Story of His Rise from Poverty to Affluence and Power Reads Like a Romance—His Matrimonial Tangles.

William B. Leeds, of New York, the new president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway company, was elected by the Moore interests in the road. Mr. Leeds formerly lived in Chicago, and went to New York when the American Tin Plate company, of which he is president, was merged into the trust. He has been in railroad work before, having been connected with the Pennsylvania road. He has a fortune estimated at several million dollars. Mr. Leeds has had a limited experience as a practical railroad man. His time, however, during the past ten years has been devoted to financial matters. He did not toil long at his $50 clerkship on the Southern Indiana division of the Panhandle line of the Pennsylvania railroad. He was rapidly advanced until he was appointed a division superintendent.

The tin plate industry was then beginning to assume importance. Mr. Leeds became interested in the tin plate factory in Elwood, Ind. Later came a combination in tin plate. A short opposition to the trust on Mr. Leeds' part and the latter sold, with several millions of dollars' profit. Then he became interested in the greater company and later in the steel corporation that absorbed the tin plate trust.

While connected with the Pennsylvania railroad, with office in Richmond, Ind., he met Jeannie Gaar. They were married and lived together for 12 years. The little Indiana town became too small for Leeds and his newly acquired wealth and the couple moved to Indianapolis. More millions were added to his bank account and then he came to Chicago. In Chicago the couple occupied 12 rooms in the Metropole hotel and entertained lavishly.

In the meantime Mr. Leeds' interest in steel caused him to spend considerable time in Cleveland, O. There he met Minnie May Stewart Worthington, daughter of a wealthy resident of that city. An attachment that sprung up between Mr. Leeds and Mrs. Worthington led her to secure a divorce from her husband.

WILLIAM B. LEEDS.
(New President of Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Road.)

Leeds then started to loosen the bonds that bound him to his wife, says the Chicago Chronicle. The latter at first would not listen to a legal separation; she still believed her husband would return to her.

Finally convinced that he had been lost, she allowed his petition for a divorce to come to a hearing, but not, it is said, until Leeds had signed $1,000,000 over to her as the price of a decree. The prayer for a divorce was granted in just 30 minutes by Judge Bishop, of Chicago. In the bill for divorce Leeds' age was given at 45 and his wife's at 23. That was three years ago.

Then the two divorcees were married and started on a honeymoon on Leeds' palatial yacht, the Cetoah. This bridal trip was a seven days' wonder. He showered his wife with money and presents. He gave her a pearl necklace valued at $65,000, a wedding ring at $1,000, a diamond necklace at $5,000, an ermine wrap at $10,000, several paintings in Europe at $75,000 and a trousseau at $6,000. Her yachting cap was made with diamond buttons.

Mr. Leeds took with him to Europe a trunk full of choice Havana cigars. He failed to pay duty on them to the French government and they were promptly confiscated. He was fined and narrowly escaped a jail sentence.

When the bride and groom returned from Europe Leeds paid $700,000 for a piece of land 100 feet square in Fifth avenue, New York. On this he erected a $1,000,000 house.

To conduct the affairs of office of president of the Rock Island properly Mr. Leeds' official residence, say railroad men, should be in Chicago. It is not believed that he will move there, however, but will follow the precedent of President Fish, of the Illinois Central, of being the active head of the property, residing in New York and trusting the operating details of the corporation to officers on the ground.

As in all changes of the head of a railway there is much speculation on the policy of the new president. That Mr. Leeds will effect changes in the official staff of the company is generally expected.

DOOR BELL FOR THE DEAF.

Efforts of New York Couple to Arrange an Indicator to Notify Them of Callers at the Door.

A young deaf-and-dumb couple who were married recently, and began housekeeping in a flat, have found their greatest difficulty in providing some substitute for a door-bell, says the New York Post. The door-bell already in the building they found, of course, to be entirely useless. They consulted all their married friends and acquaintances among deaf mutes as to what to do, but it appeared that all of them had either married persons who could hear, so their experience counted for nothing. Obviously, in the absence of the sense of hearing, either sight, smell, taste or touch had to be relied on to show when a visitor was at the door.

The first idea that occurred to the couple was to remove the bell and hang to the clapper ribbons that would wave whenever any one pressed the button, but this would do no good unless some one were looking at the ribbons, and it scarcely seemed worth while to mount guard over it at all hours. Then some one suggested fastening a phial of oil of peppermint or attar of roses to the "buzzer," so that it would spill a few drops when it moved. The sense of taste, so far as they could devise, could not be made available in any way. Just at present, a carpenter is making for the flat a sort of sounding box, in which the vibration of the old bell will be so multiplied as to be perceptible by the sense of feeling to the delicate nerves of the deaf. At least, they hope this will prove a solution.

ALMANAC OF CRIME.

Singular Publication of a Foreign Criminologist and Its Interesting Contents.

Very curious is the almanac which has been published by a foreign criminologist. It is entitled the "Almanac of Crime," and its object is to indicate those periods in each year when the various crimes are most likely to be committed.

Here are some extracts:

"Murder—Many cases of this crime occur in August, January and June; few in February, November and December.

"Infanticide—Dangerous periods are February and May; very few cases occur in September and December.

"Poisoning—May is the favorite month for criminals of this type; during September as a rule they remain absolutely idle.

"Threats of death — Many such threats are made in August and few in February, May and November.

"Forgery—During April, October and December forgers are most busy, and also during the first days of every quarter and the last days of every year.

"Theft—More crimes of this kind are committed in December and January than during any other months of the year."

MADRID AN UNHEALTY CITY.

High Mortality Rate Caused by Neglect of Sanitary Conditions and Food Adulterations.

The unenviable distinction of being in every way the most unhealthy capital in Europe is enjoyed by Madrid. According to statistics published by the municipality there have been 79,374 deaths during the past five years among a population only slightly exceeding half a million. In 1901, the deaths numbered 17,242, and of these 4,064 were of children under 4 years old. This gives a rate of about 33 per 1,000. In the five years' period, consumption carried off nearly 10,000 inhabitants, and smallpox and measles 5,000 more. The municipality is just beginning to realize the bearing of these figures, and various decrees have been published for the better enforcement of sanitation. Among other things, it is to be a punishable offense to let an apartment or dwelling before it has been disinfected by the municipal laboratory department. But two of the greatest evils in Madrid are food adulteration, which is virtually unchecked, and overcrowding. The 528,000 inhabitants are herded in 17,000 houses, which gives an average of 31 persons per house.

Indians Must Not Paint.

Close-cropped hair, faces destitute of paint, and the abandonment of the blanket" are the twentieth century styles prescribed for the red men by the commissioner of Indian affairs. It is believed that the order against painting the faces is made because the paint melts and runs into the eyes, producing disease. Something, too, may be said for the "boiled shirt;" it is hygienic if ugly. But why not leave the way of wearing the hair to individual taste? To be sure, it may be said in defense of the order that the Indians themselves have made several attempts to set the fashion for short hair—only it was designed for other heads than their own, and has sometimes been enforced by a process which removed something more than the hair.

The Price of Pearls.

A jeweler says: "Since 1890 the price of pearls has doubled. In the past three years it has increased fully 33 per cent. The number of oysters brought to the surface of the waters of the world averages 36,000 daily, more than were ever taken out before, and still the supply of pearls decreases. When I say supply, I mean the pearls offered for sale to the public. Personally, I believe the jewels are being bought up by investors, and that the bulk of them never get into the market."

SHEER MATERIALS.

These Are the Rule For House and Evening Gowns.

Tucks, cordings and gaugings are so popular on evening gowns that satin is rather out of favor, since it is only the limp, soft fabrics which admit of this treatment. The silk and wool crape comes under this description and is quite inexpensive. Eolienne is soft, artistic and, like all the crape goods, dyed in soft pastel tones. Lace is the chief trimming employed on house and evening gowns, but tucks and silk strappings are general.

All semitransparent or clear materials are made quite distinct from the skirt or foundation, and in place of the darts on the hips there are groups of tucks. This same finish is employed at the back.

Mousseline brilliante, which is one of the new materials, is a slightly thicker type of chiffon, with a glistening surface and quite ideal for ruches, frills or trimmings, but it is not sufficiently soft and limp for draperies or gowns.

A very pretty model for a house gown is shown in the sketch. It is made of soft Persian silk and dotted mull. The waist has a Louis XV. effect, which is also carried out in the form of a long panel reaching to the bottom of the skirt in the back. The sleeves reach only to the elbow, where they terminate in two narrow cuffs and a fall of rich lace. The dress is made in one piece and gives the effect of a full mull underrobe with a Louis XV. upper garment belted over it. The belt is composed of two narrow velvet ribbons. Two ruffles of lace finish the bottom of the mull underrobe.

OF SPOTTED NET.

empire tea gowns and dinner frocks for quiet occasions can be made out of inexpensive velveteen, with deep lace collar.

The craze for white continues. It is nearly always trimmed with black, which is, after all, most becoming near the face.

In vivid contrast are the white gowns heavily incrusted with black lace and decorated with flowers and berries of brilliant hue. Berries and their foliage are not only popular on millinery, but evening gowns are adorned in the same fashion, and a recent example was a gown of black lace over white satin, the lace being decorated with trails and bouquets of bright red berries.

White ring spotted net is the material of the evening gown illustrated. The waist has a bolero made of tiny ruffles, and the short sleeve puffs are also finished with these same tiny ruffles. The skirt is plain around the hips, but lower down it is trimmed with two bands of ruffling. The dress is made up first over a plain net, then over a silk foundation.

"Yes; totally so! Insane enough to kill you." Then she deliberately leveled a pistol at him. "Sit down and write! I leave this room with an acknowledgment from you in the hands of a witness, a wife—or a murderess. I did it once, Raymond; I can do it again. I killed a man for you last night!" As she uttered this confession her face grew pale as death, the pistol was lowered, and she stood shivering in abject terror. "You have not heard of it?" she whispered. "Are not the papers full of it?" Her form, which had been erect, seemed to shrink; she looked over her shoulder towards the door, listening. The man strode forward and wrenched the weapon from her cold hand. Then he forced her into a chair.

"Louise! Louise!" he groaned; and then in awe he said: "Insane!" She made no resistance. A tide of memories had swept over the new issues.

"No," she moaned, "not yet. Would to God I were! You do not believe me, Raymond. Listen. I found out where you were stopping in the city. I found the street and number. I had determined to go in and bring the horrid uncertainty to an end, for you had not answered my letter—you had not come!"

"But you did not go in!" he said, terrified. "Surely, you did not—"

"No. I walked by again and again. I went around to the side street and looked into the garden; but I said: 'I will see him first; Raymond cannot mean to be so base!' Still you did not come. Will you believe it, I went back at night, hoping to see you? I could not stay here alone in this room—I slipped out! Two men entered that gate, and one of them I would have sworn was you. I followed and saw them enter the wing room. While I waited there, wondering if you would appear again—it was but a few minutes, I think—one of the men came from the wing-room, passed me, and, going out, locked the gate. I was a prisoner, for the fence was tall with spikes of iron. Then I went and stood under the window, thinking the room was yours, and I might attract your attention; and I heard your voice and a woman's in there—"

"It is a lie—a lie! the room belongs to Frances. I was not in the city."

"Frances? Who is Frances? But no matter, they were there all night; and I, crazed and abandoned, wept and raged outside."

"You are simply daft, Louise; you don't know what you are saying."

"They were there, I tell you. Once a match was struck, and I could hear a woman pleading; and—there I was, lying upon the ground, the window just out of my reach. Then I found myself climbing the ivy and clinging to the shutters; and I saw you sitting there, this woman with curly golden hair kneeling in her night dress before you, her hand upon your shoulder, saying good-by to her lover, while she held a lighted match above his face—"

"Louise, this is unbearable!" Holbin was beside himself.

"I thrust your pistol between the shutters, took aim at you and fired; my aim was true; the man fell forward into the darkness, and I back upon the wet grass. Look! See the stains of the crushed ivy! see the soil upon the gown! see the blistered hands! look at your pistol! The hammer is upon an empty shell! I got up and ran for the gate, but a man was entering and his carriage stood opposite. Crouching in the shrubbery, I saw him come back"—her voice sank to a whisper—"with a dead man in his arms. I got here—how, I do not know—and locked myself in. When you came I thought it was your spirit. What will they do with me? Will they lock me in gaol? Will they hang me? Why don't you speak to me, Raymond? Why do you look at me that way? Raymond! Raymond!—I did not know what I was doing! I was insane, jealous! I had lost my child—oh, they ought to know that, Raymond, before they judge me too harshly. Raymond, Raymond, answer me—answer!" He mastered his emotion by a powerful effort.

"You have had your revenge!" he said, hoarsely, his lips parting in a soundless laugh. "The shot went to the mark!" He sank in his chair by the table and gazed helplessly upon her agitated face, his thoughts elsewhere.

"But I do not understand," she said. "My revenge, if you were not the man—"

"Why, it is incredible!" he cried, angrily. "Give me the key! the key! the key! Quick! the clock is striking ten—the key!"

"You will not give me up, Raymond—the mother of your child!—you will not—"

"Ah—no, no, Louise. You are safe while I live. Quick! the key!" She gave it to him, and, passing out, he said, sternly: "Stay here! Don't let your face be seen outside this door. Change your dress, remove every stain upon it, and be ready to leave the city at a moment's notice. Courage! I will save you if I can." As he stepped into the hallway he muttered to himself: "Now for the will! Long live the nightmare! and yet—" He added, pausing in doubt: "Suppose it were true?" He unbreached the pistol. "One cartridge is gone! the muzzle stains my finger! Louise! Louise—" He turned, locked the door and vanished.

"The woman in 28," he said to the clerk, "has escaped from an asylum. Keep a watch in her hall until I return, and let no one enter."

"We thought so," said the functionary behind the desk.

CHAPTER V.

Facing the sun on the same morning which broke through the lengthened slumbers of Louise in the Richmond hotel, an old man sat in an invalid chair. Everything that wealth could provide for his comfort, everything demanded by convention, surrounded him. No one would ever say, looking in upon the appointments of his house, that the sick man lacked anything that loving sympathy and tender solicitude could suggest. The deep velvet carpet gave back no sound under the feet of those who moved around him; curtains of damask and lace softened the too direct rays of light which entered the long windows across the balcony; bits of landscape and color relieved the wide expanse of wall; and flowers lent freshness and fragrance to the soft spring air sparingly admitted.

The old man was haggard from loss of rest and from apprehension. His once florid face was pallid and the cheeks sunken. His eyes shone with an unnatural brilliancy. One need not have been a skilled physician to have detected the fact that death's seal was upon that pale face and shrunken frame. The tiny spark of life might glimmer in its socket for days, weeks, even months; it would never again send up a clear and steady blaze.

Within the same room several people had gathered, controlled by varied sentiments. Dr. Brodnar was there, his massive frame bent above the sick man, his eyes everywhere. Pulse, respiration, temperature, were patiently ascertained, and with unsatisfactory results, evidently, for the doctor's face was a tell-tale. Once or twice his eyes rested upon a tall woman in black who moved slowly about the invalid, touching his hands and forehead, admonishing him gently, and keeping watch upon the physician's actions with a singular intentness.

This woman was of marked personality. Her iron-gray hair was brushed back smoothly from a broad, low forehead, her black eyes were well sunk under dark brows and lashes, but flashed indolently from time to time when she was speaking. The small, straight, relentless mouth and aquiline nose gave a note of severity to her face. Her charm, it is likely, had existed in the contour and coloring of that face, and in a certain easy self-reliance, or consciousness of power. Just now her face was inscrutably placid. She spoke only in tones so low as to be audible but a short distance.

"I AM AT LOSS, MADAM, TO ACCOUNT FOR HIS LACK OF IMPROVEMENT."

Across the room a girl stood looking idly, dreamily, from a casement window into the trees. She was slender, with a mass of reddish, golden curls gathered back and fallen over her shoulders. The profile revealed birth and refinement, and suggested nobility, high purpose and innate purity. There was a wistful tenderness about her mouth and a soft radiance in her blue-gray eyes when from time to time she turned towards the group gathered about the sick man.

"I am at a loss, madam," the doctor was saying, "to account for his lack of improvement. There seems to be nothing organically wrong, and yet the nerve centers are totally inactive." He picked up several medicine bottles and examined them, testing their contents by smell and sight. The tall woman's eyes met his.

IN Chancery of New Jersey. To Edward Riordan. By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Thomas Malay died and wife are complainants, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the complainants' bill on or before the twenty-first day of April next or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you. The said bill is filed for partition of certain lands in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union, of which Thomas Malay died seized, and you, Edward Riordan, are made defendant because as the husband of Joanna Riordan, deceased, who was one of the tenants in common therein, you may have some interest in said lands.

IN SEARCH OF A MOTIVE.

Justice Could Not Be Meted Out Until the Difficult Problem Was Solved.

There were seven men seated in a circle and an eighth standing up with a rope around his neck when the colonel rode up, relates an exchange. As he drew rein the leader of the seven arose and said:

"Glad to see you, stranger. Perhaps you'd like to assist in this necktie party?"

"Are you going to hang that man?" asked the colonel.

"For sure."

"What's he done?"

"Stole that cayuse over thar. Yep, we'll hang him when we git around to it. We've been discussin' the thing for the last two hours."

"But what's the discussion?"

"As to his motive in stealin' the cayuse. I contend that no man does anything without a motive, but just what that cuss' motive was he won't tell, and we can't figger out. Mebbe you kin help us a bit."

"Why," replied the colonel, "I should say that his motive in stealing the cayuse was to have a horse to ride."

"By John, but listen to that!" exclaimed the man as he turned to his companions. "That was his motive, of course, and we've fooled away a good two hours over it. Yes, he wanted a hoss to ride, of course, and now, as thar is no other bizness before the meetin', we'll purceed to pull the rope and execute jestice."

CHASTISED THE BULLY.

Slab-Sided Capt. Hunker Took All the Badness Out of the Terror of the Ship.

The officer commanding the naval station at Newport, Capt. J. J. Hunker, is long, slab-sided and lanky, and his chest looks caved in, but he is the strongest man in the navy and can whip his weight in wildcats, says an exchange. In a wardroom mess with Hunker once was one of the worst bullies who ever disgraced the American navy. He was six feet tall, a Hercules in build, and could put a longboat on his back and pack it ashore. For the first week that he joined the ship he made it hot for everybody on her. On the seventh day, when breakfast was over and he got up to go out of the wardroom, Hunker asked him to sit down again. He requested all the other officers of the mess to go on deck and stay there till he sent for them. They could see in his eye what he intended to do, and it was a pity; he was thin as a rail and stoop-shouldered—bent as if with a cough. But they went out and left him with the giant. Ten minutes later Hunker invited them in again. The bully looked as if he had been through a meat chopper. He went to bed and stayed there for three weeks. To this day he is an angel of grace and courtesy.

HAVANA STREET CARS.

The Natives Derive Much Pleasure from Riding on the New Electric Railway.

One of the principal features of the Americanizing of Havana has been the intoduction of electric cars. There were formerly about six miles of track in the capital, but the equipment, consisting of little, bob-tailed cars and scrawny, under-sized mules, did not combine to make a service worthy of enthusiastic mention. When the track was lengthened out to 24 miles and Wizard Edison's big electric flyers put on, all of Havana's 250,000 inhabitants wanted to ride at once. One of the peculiarities of the service is the tendency of the motormen to run ahead of the schedule. They tear through the narrow, crooked streets at a rate that is exceedingly dangerous. The frequency of fatalities does not seem to have the desired effect. These yellow fellows are strangers to the automatic brake. They have been so accustomed to driving steeds that have to be urged by the constant application to whip and spur, that they seem to have no fear of one that will run away. As a consequence, the Havana street cars put the island express trains to shame.

THE SOLITAIRE HABIT.

According to This Testimony It Is One to Be Avoided by Married Men.

"Take my advice," said a married man to a friend who is engaged, "and never contract the solitaire habit. It is fatal to domestic happiness. You seem surprised, but it is the truth. Apparently nothing could be so innocent and harmless as sitting in one's own home, with a pack of cards playing solitaire. But the habit grows on one so," says the Philadelphia Record. "The victim eventually finds that he is losing his will power. He becomes an unsociable fiend. He cannot concentrate his mind on anything else. He loses his taste for reading and conversation bores him. His wife cannot get him to go out with her, and she regards him as a disagreeable old bear. He may make up his mind to leave the cards alone, but his will is gone. He is restless and irritable, like a toper without his drink. I know what I'm talking about, because I'm a slave to the habit. That's why I warn you."

Study of the Great Lakes.

The biological survey of the great lakes, which has been in progress several years, is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. Half a dozen scientists are spending much of their time in careful study of the various forms of animal life in which the waters of the great lakes abound.

HAS UNIQUE RECORD.

Congressional Career of Galusha A. Grow Is Wonderful.

Only Man Now Living Who Entered the House of Representatives Fifty Years Ago—Author of Homestead Law.

Pennsylvania, which has long been noted for the number of "fathers of the house of representatives" which it has furnished, has now another claim to distinction. It has a man in the house who entered that body 50 years ago. This is Galusha A. Grow. Mr. Grow became a member of that chamber in 1851, succeeding David Wilmot, the man whose exclusion-of-slavery-from-the-territories proviso of 1846 became the cardinal tenet in the creed of the republican party, which was founded in 1854, of which organization Grow as well as Wilmot was among the pioneers. Grow was also speaker of the first congress of the civil war, the one called in extra session by President Lincoln on July 4, 1861, and which transacted more business of vital consequence to the country in the 33 days of that session than any other congress did before or since in the same length of time.

Mr. Grow, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, has not served continuously in congress since his first entrance half a century ago. He was in constantly from 1851 to 1863, and then he dropped out till 1894, since which time his name has been continuously on the rolls of the house. But the time which has elapsed since his first appearance in congress covers a broader stretch of time than has extended between the congressional entrance and exit of any other American. Morrill and Sherman were in congress more years than Grow, but he was in four years earlier than they. Men are in each branch to-day who have served through more congressional terms than has the Pennsylvanian, but he holds the "long-distance record," as Senator Isham G. Harris did at one time. Harris entered congress two years earlier than

HON. GALUSHA A. GROW.
(He Began His Service as Congressman Fifty Years Aago.)

Grow, or in 1849, and, like Grow, his service was not continuous, but the time between that date and his death in 1897 was two years shorter than the half century which the Pennsylvanian has rounded out. Clay's career, which was notably long, covered, from his entrance into the senate in 1806 to his death in 1852 while a member of that body, four years less than half a century, and his service, too, was not continuous.

The eminent Pennsylvanian has still other claims to distinction. He was one of the most powerful and persistent of the champions in congress of the Pacific railroad. He was the author of the homestead bill, which had bad fortune for several years having, after repeated failures, got as far as one president (Buchanan) only to be vetoed by him, but was, when passed subsequently, approved by another president (Lincoln). Grow had the honor of putting his own signature to it on the latter occasion as speaker of the house. That act has done more to people the west than has any other single law ever placed on the national statute book. This man, who was in congress with Clay, Benton, Cass, Douglas, Seward, Chase, Jefferson Davis and Sam Houston, has witnessed stupendous changes in his country's condition and history.

Mexico's Liliputian Navy.

Mexico has the smallest navy in the world in proportion to her population. Twelve million people are protected by a fleet of two dispatch vessels, two unarmored gunboats, each carrying one four-ton muzzle-loading gun and four small breech-loaders, and five second-class torpedo boats. This fleet is manned by 90 officers and 590 men.

Got More Than He Wanted.

The 12-year-old son of John Willis, a farmer of Winamac, Ind., left a team he was driving while he chased a squirrel. The horses backed the wagon into some beehives, and the insects so stung them that they died. The boy also was seriously stung, and is likely to lose his eyesight.

Hard on Shiftless Husbands.

Shiftless husbands, who are too lazy or too intemperate to support their wives, will find very little comfort in Minnesota. A new law in that state punishes these idle rascals with imprisonment at hard labor for terms ranging from 90 days to three years.

Big Sheet of Plate Glass.

A sheet of plate glass 149x217 inches was recently cast in Kokomo, Ind. This is the largest sheet of glass ever made, it being one inch wider than the famous one exhibited at the Chicago world's fair.

STORM BLOCKS TROLLEY CARS

Another Snow Storm, Accompanied by High Winds, Visits This Section.

TEN INCHES OF SNOW.

Began Early This Morning—Weather Bureau Says It Will Change to Rain This Afternoon—Railroad Trains Delayed—Trolley Trying to Break the Blockade.

Just because a couple of balmy, spring-like days lost their way and wandered into Jersey at the opening of March, the good folk of this section gazed with surprise on the energetic young snow storm which swept over the land early this morning. It was another of the "old fashioned kind" which have already made the present winter one of exceptional severity. While the mercury hangs close to the freezing point, a high wind has developed during the course of the morning and promises to provide abundant drifts. The weather bureau man declares that the snow will change to rain during the afternoon and provide a new batch of slush in which Plainfielders can wade.

This brisk young visitor appeared at an early hour this morning. By 7 o'clock, four inches of snow had fallen. At noon, it had increased to ten inches. As the morning progressed the snow came in larger flakes and showed some signs of changing into rain. It is predicted that the storm will not blow away until tomorrow morning. Already a number of sleighs have appeared on the streets.

Of course, the trolley cars went out of business, early this morning. They straggled along through the snow until they could make no further progress. During the course of the morning, however, the trolley company made unexpected efforts to break the snow blockade and managed to get some of the cars running in half hearted fashion. The snow plough was used and managed to keep on the rails part of the time.

Most of the cars that were started out are now stalled at different points along the road. One of them, belonging to the through line, is derailed at a point near Coles's hill. It is doubtful if it will be replaced today.

Street Commissioner Gavett rented the city scraper to the street railway company to be used on the business streets and another one was secured from a private owner. Teams began working at 1 o'clock this afternoon removing the snow from Front street and gangs of men are also clearing the cross walks.

Trains on the New Jersey Central have been running from ten minutes to an hour late.

Mayor Smalley, of the borough, assisted by Chief Marshal Campbell and Street Commissioner Emmons, have been busy most of the day cleaning off trolley tracks in the borough. The trolley company will pay for the work. The Mayor is determined to have trolley service.

Whist Club Met.

The Fortnightly Whist Club was entertained, last evening, by Miss Mary Griswold, of Madison avenue. The first prizes were secured by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh. Following the playing the usual social time was enjoyed. The club will be entertained in two weeks by Miss Lillian A. Force, of Duer street.

Small Attendance.

Owing to the severity of the storm, but one session was held in the city schools. At the High school, the attendance was very much out down, while in the lower grades but very few pupils appeared.

Date Changed.

The monthly meeting of the Children's Home Association will be held Monday, March 13, on account of the lecture that is to be given tomorrow afternoon by Dr. Griggs before the Monday Afternoon Club.

ALL THERE BUT LECTURER

DELAYED TRAIN KEPT DR. SIMPSON FROM DELIVERING LECTURE.

So the Audience in Y. M. C. A. Hall Was Dismissed and the Lecture Postponed.

The large audience that assembled at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening, to enjoy Dr. M. S. Simpson's lecture, "With the Macabebe Scouts in Gen. Lawton's Campaign after Aguinaldo," was very much disappointed. Everything was in readiness, except Dr. Simpson, who could not be present. He lives at Middle Valley, Hunterdon county.

After the audience was seated, President Cahoone announced that the train carrying Dr. Simpson to Plainfield was over two hours late, and he could not reach this city before 9:30 o'clock and possibly not then. Mr. Cahoone said that he would not think of asking the audience to wait, and then announced that the lecture would be given on a future date. Those present had the tickets returned to them.

A very commendable feature introduced last evening was that of having a policeman at the hall. Patrolman Charles Flynn was stationed there for the purpose of preventing an over-crowding of the hall, which occurred a week ago, when there was danger in case of fire or accident. The hallway and every available space was occupied. This condition did not exist last evening.

JUST MISSED EXPRESS.

Accident in Freight Train Occurred Near Westfield Station Yesterday Noon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 5—An east bound Baltimore and Ohio express on the New Jersey Central had a narrow escape from being wrecked opposite the Westfield station, yesterday noon. It was running alongside an east bound coal train when a drawhead pulled out of one of the cars on the latter and four large gondolas were derailed.

They were thrown in all directions, but escaped the speeding express by barely a foot. It was necessary to summon the wrecker to remove the wreckage. The tracks were not opened to traffic until 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

JUSTICE TAKEN ILL.

So the Hearing of John Addison Had to be Postponed.

The case of Mrs. Anna Dickinson against John Addison, for obtaining money under false pretense, came to an unexpected halt yesterday afternoon through the sudden illness of Justice Mosher. He was taken with a weak spell and was forced to lay the matter over until tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Dickinssn was the only witness placed on the stand, and she had occupied it for an hour and twenty minutes when the interruption came. Her testimony was a reiteration of the statements she made a few days ago when the complaint was entered.

CULVERT COLLAPSED.

Is Parallel to Plainfield Avenue Near City Line, Guarded Now.

A large section of the stone culvert, running parallel to Plainfield avenue, near the city line, collapsed yesterday. Nearly fifteen feet gave way entirely and the remainder was left sagging.

Street Commissioner Gavett was notified and had the spot guarded immediately. The culvert is flush with the road, and it would have been an easy matter for a team to fall into the opening.

Owner Will Foot Bill.

After a search of several days, Frank Hedden located, yesterday, the dog which recently destroyed thirty-eight of his choice fowls. It belonged to a Madison avenue man who was unaware of its foraging expeditions. He killed the animal at once and told Mr. Hedden that he would pay for the damage done.

Arrived at Manila.

Mrs. Sarah Vermeule, of Watchung avenue, has received word of the safe arrival at Manila of her daughter, Mrs. Samuel B. Pierson, who left SanFrancisco on the U. S. Transport Sheridan Jan. 1, to join her husband, Lieut. Pierson, of the Ninth United States Cavalry, now in the Philippines.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The regular business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. It is important that all members be present.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Westfield baseball club management has booked the following excellent teams for games during the month of May: Opening game, May 3, Genuine Cuban Giants; May 10, Clark O. N. T. team, of Newark; May 17, St. Francis Xavier College, of New York; May 24, New York A. C., of New York; May 30 (morning) Cartaret A. C., afternoon, Mauger A. C., of Brooklyn; May 31, Knickerbocker A. C., of New York. For the remainder of the season other fine games have been arranged and the complete schedule will be announced in a short time.

IT ALL CAME RENSTROM'S WAY

NOW HE CHARGES OSCAR F. PEARSON WITH ASSAULTING HIM.

August Renstrom Tried to Collect a Bill—It is Said Strenuous Times Followed.

August Renstrom, of West Second street, appeared before Justice Hand, this morning, and preferred a charge of atrocious assault against Oscar F. Pearson, of East Front street. A warrant was issued and Pearson will be given a hearing some time today.

According to Renstrom, he and Gustav Anderson, went to Pearson's home last evening, to collect from him some back wages. Pearson became angered when the bills were presented and, according to Renstrom, picked up a sugar bowl from a table and hurled it at the latter. It struck him beneath the eye, inflicting a painful bruise. Pearson, he says, then seized a small rifle and, using it as a club, battered him over the head. Renstrom was badly cut and bruised before the weapon was taken from the infuriated man and even then, both he and Anderson claim, Pearson continued the assault by hurling at them every household article within reach.

The bill collectors finally made exit and going to Dr. Jenkins had Renstrom's hurts attended to. Anderson was uninjured, having dodged all flying utensils that came his way.

Annual Meeting Postponed.

Because of the severe storm there was not a quorum at the annual meeting of the McAll Auxiliary this morning. Therefore the reports were not read but postponed until April. The treasurer gave an informal but encouraging statement of results of the twelve months work. She has forwarded over $1,000 for the work in Limoges.

Fire Department's History.

The histories of the Plainfield fire department have been received by the members of the Firemen's Relief Association and the work of selling them will be started at once. These books contain information about the department which can be found in no other place. They are to be sold for the benefit of the Relief Associatiiion.

Had No License.

Elmer Staats, a local expressman, was arrested by Patrolman McCarthy, this morning, for carrying on his business without a license. The police say he boasted he would not take one out. He was locked up at headquarters and will be tried before City Judge Runyon this afternoon. His horse and wagon were placed in a livery.

Out After Accident.

Counsellor George Ball was at his office for the first yesterday since meeting with injuries in a trolley car Saturday, through the breaking of an axle. He is still unable to attend to his practice but his physician, Dr. Berg, hopes to give him permission before the end of the week.

One Session.

One session was held in each of the public schools in the borough today. At the High School two-thirds of the regular attendance was recorded. At the Watchung School the attendance was good, excepting in the kindergarten and first grade departments.

Signed the Pledge.

Thomas Dow, of West Third street, was arrested by Patrolman Meyers for disorderly conduct, last evening. Before City Judge Runyon, this morning, he signed the pledge, and on condition that he keep it faithfully, sentence was suspended.

Lost One Finger.

Thomas Generan, of Prescott place, had a finger cut off through an accident at the Pond Tool Works, yesterday. A large gear fell on it and the digit was so badly crushed that a physician had to remove it.

Card Party.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dalrymple Percival, of 517 Belvidere avenue, entertained a number of friends at a card party last evening. After the game, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

SWEENEY OUT.

Young Law Student Released in Care of City Judge Wm. N. Runyon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, March 5—Judge Vail released William Sweeney, the former Plainfield law student, this morning, in the custody of the court probationary officer. The latter afterward placed him in the care of City Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, who will be responsible for him for the next three years, the probationary term.

Previous to the Judge making known his decision a strong plea and a petition in Sweeney's behalf was presented by his counsel, R. M. Clark. The young man has already been offered a position on a steamer plying between New York and Hong Kong, which he expects to accept.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A small bull dog belonging to Fred Wendell, of South Second street, gave an exhibition of vitality and tenacity, Saturday, such as is seldom seen, even in this breed of canine. It was struck by a New Jersey Central train at Grant avenue and badly mangled. A gaping hole was torn in its side, and one leg was cut off but despite these injuries it crawled down the railroad as far as Dunellen. There it was discovered by some humane person who despatched it.

A prosperous young farmer, who resides in the borough limits, has contracted the camera fad and he is having his troubles as a novice snapshotter. First he took a picture of a fellow with his feet resting on a chair in front of him, and he was puzzled to understand why the result was all shoes and no man. After some explanation he realized his mistake in making the pose. After a while he abandoned the task of snapping human subjects and took landscape scenes, particularly garden views. So satisfied was he with the work that he determined to take a picture of a friend's house as a surprise. When the negatve was developed, the subject showed well but the plate appeared a little odd. On printing a proof of the picture he found that the porch to the right of the dwelling appeared on the left. Thinking the camera was at fault he took it all to pieces to ascertain the difficulty and then like the famous egg he couldn't get it together again. For some days he racked his brain to discover the cause of the freak picture and finally he asked a photographer, who explained to him in a few moments that he must necessarily have put the plate in the holder wrongly, the film side not being exposed. "Oh, shucks," he exclamed, "why didn't I think of that before." He has lost heart as a photographer now and confines himself to farming.

Borough School Meeting.

The annual borough school meeting will be held Tuesday evening, March 18, in the borough High School, at which time many matters of importance will be discussed, besides the election of trustees.

Suspended Five.

The Senate, of the Plainfield High School, met yesterday afternoon and suspended five pupils from chapel for two weeks for disorderly conduct.

Death of His Sister.

James Smith, of Elmwood place, has received word of the death of his sister, which occurred at Asbury Park early this week.

John McInerney, of South Second street, was discharged cured from the hospital, today, and returned to his home.

There Are Some Simple Remedies indispensable in any family. Among these, the experience of years assures us, should be recorded Painkiller. For both internal and external applications we have found it of great value; especially can we recommend it for colds, rheumatism, or fresh wounds and bruises.—Christia Era. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c. and 50c.

NOMINATIONS BY WARREN

PROPOSED OFFICERS NAMED AT MEETING OF BOROUGH FIREMEN.

Company Also Decided to Contribute to the McKinley Memorial Fund.

A meeting of Warren Engine Company was held last evening when business of a routine nature, together with nomination of officers, engaged the attention of many members who were present.

The following nominations were made: Foreman, Lafayette Rosenstiehl; first assistant, L. B. Bodine; second assistant, Frank Kesselring; financial secretary, William Debele; recording secretary, L. B. Bodine; treasurer, J. Higgins; engineer, John Schenck; first assistant, Louis Feiring; second assistant, James Walker; stoker, William Doud and W. S. Conover; representative to Firemen's Relief Association, George H. Fairchild and Edward Smith. These nominations are subject to change before the time of election.

The name of Elwood Smalley was proposed for membership in the company, and he will probably be elected. There was a report from the ball committee, showing that the net profits therefrom will be about $40. The members decided unanimously to make a donation to the McKinley Memorial Fund. The matter was left to a committee to decide how much to contribute.

TRAINS TAKEN OFF.

Changes Made on Account of Inability of Jersey Central to Run Trains Beyond Easton.

The recent heavy floods in Pennsylvania, along the line of the New Jersey Central, has greatly interfered with traffic on the road. The steel bridge crossing the Delaware at Easton gave away Monday and Central trains are crossing over the Lehigh's structure. Most of the Scranton trains have been taken off.

Among the trains, which have been temporarily removed, are those scheduled to leave this city for Bethlehem, Pa., at 8:18 and 9:54 in the morning. The 5:27 in the afternoon, the Scranton train, goes as far as Somerville. Eastbound, the 8:34 in the morning, which is supposed to start at Manch Chunk, is made up at Somerville. The 9:54 morning express from Manch Chunk makes local stops as far as Somerville.

Miss Baldwin to Teach.

Miss Baldwin, a well-known primary teacher and worker in the Sunday-school, of Newark, will teach the lesson at the meeting of the Plainfield Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union next week Monday. W. D. Murray will also be present and take part in the meeting.

HUGE BLAZE.

Babcock Building Destroyed in Monster Conflagration This Morning.

QUARTER MILLION LOSS.

Postoffice, Woodhull & Martin, and Two Score Other Tenants Burned Out.

Most Disastrous Fire in History of City—Seen in Top Floor at 4:20 This Morning—Spread to All Parts of Plainfield's Finest Business Block—Fire Department Powerless to Check It Until Building was a Ruin—Sebring Building Crushed by Falling Walls—No One Killed—Countless Narrow Escapes—Details of the Fire.

The Babcock building, Plainfield's largest and most pretentious business block, was destroyed early this morning in the most disastrous fire ever known in the history of Plainfield. In a few hours one of the finest business structures in the State, located at the corner of West Front street and Madison avenue, was converted into a mass of blazing ruins, while property to the amount of over $250,000 went up in smoke. While there were several injured by falling walls and countless narrow escapes, there was no casualty to add to the horror of the scene. While the loss on the building and to the principal occupants is largely covered by insurance, some of the smaller losses were not thus protected.

While the Babcock building itself was doomed from the start, the heroic efforts of the firemen prevented the spread of the flames to any of the adjoining buildings, the Sebring building, a two story frame building on the east, was crushed by a falling wall. All the occupants were dragged out to safety, some by very narrow margins, and considerable valuable property was removed before the flames took entire possession.

The heaviest loss will fall upon the Babcock estate, which holds the building in trust for the son, George L. Babcock, of West Eighth street, who will soon be of age. The building cost $200,000, and a rough estimate places the damage to the structure alone at $160,000.

The magnificent department store of Woodhull & Martin occupied three stores on the ground floor and the basement. A new stock of spring goods had just been received. Woodhull & Martin were the next heaviest losers, the loss being placed at over $50,000. The Rogers Corporation, manufacturers of plated silver ware, occupied rooms in the building. Their loss was third in the list and will reach $18,000.

Fifteen families were rendered homeless while over a score of business and professional men and women found themselves without office room and nearly all their office property destroyed. Many of these had no insurance.

While the fire department worked hard and had all the available apparatus on hand, the conflagration was beyond their power to check. The fire wall in the rear, separating the main building from the annex, did its work and the annex was not destroyed, although badly flooded and filled with smoke. The flames were kept in the one building, destroying everything to the ground floor, which was not entirely consumed although wrecked by water and falling debris. At the time of going to press, there still remained some fire but it was under complete control. Although the trustees of the Babcock estate have not yet had a chance to confer there is no doubt but the building will be rebuilt at once. Meanwhile the tenants are preparing to seek temporary quarters.

HOW THE FLAMES SPREAD

The fire department was first made aware of the conflagration through an alarm from box 41, at Madison avenue and Third street, sent in at 4:20 o'clock by Walter Bennett, assistant enigneer at the electric light station. An instant later another was sent in from the keyless box on West Front street by Roundsman John Flynn and a third from box 12 by Roundsman Mattox. A fourth alarm was turned in from box 42. Nobody knows by whom.

When the apparatus reached the scene, the entire fifth and top floors of the main building were a seething mass of flame. The elevator shaft was a veritable furnace by means of which the blaze was conducted from floor to floor. It needed but a minute to distribute the different companies about the structure but in that brief time the flames had made rapid progress, seemingly rushing about with the speed of a race horse.

With the assistance of volunteers, the firemen removed a great deal of valuable property, one of their first acts being to secure the greater portion of the postoffice contents. This work was soon stopped through the danger of falling walls and the report that many safes in the upper offices were likely to crash through the floors at any time.

The wisdom of this caution was made apparent at 5 o'clock, forty minutes after the first alarm, when the iron stone and brick on the east side of the building composing the three upper stories, tottered an instant and then fell with a crash on the unpretentious Sebring building next to it. The latter structure, a two story frame, collapsed like the proverbial house of cards. A few moments earlier and it would undoubtedly have added death to the destruction, as the inmates had just made their exit.

The remaining portion of the wall prevented the flames from getting to the debris and there is a probability that some of the property may be found intact when the timbers and bricks are removed.

The flames continued to spread despite the tons of water poured in from hose and automatic sprinklers with which the building is equipped. A fire proof wall erected between the main building and the annex stood firm and the blaze was unable to get through, although at times it seemed as if nothing would save it.

When the first streams were turned on, the water pressure was somewhat weak. Afterward it increased in volume but the heroic work of the firemen had no more effect than the efforts of a puny child. Fed by the resinous pine boards which formed the flooring, the hungry flames crept about from story to story, licking up everything in their path. Only when the gaunt granite walls and part of the first floor remained was their appetite satisfied. Then the Babcock building was practically no more.

The firemen worked under extreme difficulty, constantly running the risk of being injured. Falling bricks and huge blocks of stone, rained about them constantly and not a few narrow escapes were recorded. Added to this was the danger of being struck by streams of water, as they were playing in every direction.

One member of the North Plainfield West End Company, Lewis Bimble, Jr., was knocked from a ladder and painfully bruised. The members of both the borough companies responded early after the alarms and rendered valuable assistance. They remained until late this morning when they were dismissed by Chief Doane.

At 7 o'clock Chief Doane had the flames under control, but the entire city department is still pouring water upon the ruins. As the building was constructed on slow burning principles, they will smoulder for some time. In Woodhull & Martin's store and the postoffice there is still great quantities of merchandise and valuables which have not been touched by the flames. As soon as possible these will be removed and the department will then make an effort to lower the dangerous walls which are threatening to fall any moment.

POLICE EARLY ON THE SCENE

When the first few puffs of smoke made their appearance on Front street, B. R. Waldron, a milkman, discerned them as he reached the corner of Somerset street. He rushed to the police station where a number of roundsmen and patrolmen were just preparing to answer roll call. He informed them of his suspicions of a blaze and it was then that the alarm was turned in by Mattox.

All of the available patrolmen were hurried to the scene and did heroic work in rousing the sleeping inmates. They rushed from floor to floor amid blinding and choking smoke breaking in doors and in some cases carrying people out.

On the third floor Roundsman John Flynn found a woman boarder in Gile's place who had succumbed to smoke. He carried her out to safety. Rushing back through the seemingly impassable hallways he located Christian M. Fine, an aged man who rooms on the third floor. Blinded by the smoke and temporarily deranged through fright, he was rushing about his room and refused to leave. While the roundsman was using his efforts to get him out, he succumbed to smoke and fell unconscious. With the assistance of Fireman Frazee, Flynn then carried him to the home of P. J. Kreitling, directly opposite, where he was revived. He is still weak and suffering greatly from shock.

Harry Bogert, a young man, escaped from his room on the third floor, leaving behind all his belongings. They were entirely destroyed as were those of other boarders.

Patrolmen Gamo, Meyers, Vanderweg and Overbaugh devoted their attention to the annex and roused all of the tenants. They afterward did excellent work in removing and guarding valuables, until they could be taken to permanent storage rooms.

As soon as possible fire lines were stretched in every direction and by keeping back the curious thousands who gathered to watch the progress of the flames, the police helped the firemen work unhampered. A large force of patrolmen is still guarding the ruins to prevent vandalism.

TENANTS IN THE BUILDING

The Babcock building was the finest and most commodious of any of Plainfield's buildings. It was started by the late George L. Babcock, of West Eighth street, but was not completed at the time of his death. It was one of his ambitions to see the finest building in Plainfield rise at the corner of West Front street and Madison avenue. It was completed in 1894, by his executors and belongs to the Babcock estate and is held in charge by the trustees until the son, George L. Babcock, is of age. The building cost over $200,000, and was the most valuable single property in the city.

The ground floor was occupied by the postoffice, which had one store on Front street next to the corner one, extending the entire depth of the

WHO WILL CHRISTEN WARSHIP NEW JERSEY?

President Roosevelt Will Conform With Wishes of Governor Murphy in the Matter.

THE NAMES SUGGESTED.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SILVER SERVICE TO BE GIVEN THE BATTLESHIP.

Commission Selected It With the Aid of Captain Sigsbee—One Central Piece of Suitable Design—The Other Pieces.

While it will be for President Roosevelt to say who shall christen the new battleship New Jersey, his selection will undoubtedly conform with the wishes of New Jersey's chief executive, Franklin Murphy. The question as to who will be the Governor's choice to name the battleship has naturally given rise to considerable speculation among the society people of the State.

If the Governor had an unmarried daughter, she would be invited to fill the post of honor, but Gov. Murphy has no unmarried daughter. Some think that the honor will go to Miss Kean, a sister of the senior United States Senator from Jersey. Miss Griggs, daughter of the former Attorney-General and Governor, has been suggested as a possibility. There is plenty of time, however, for Governor Murphy to make his choice, which will be awaited with much interest on all sides.

The silver service for the battleship, as designed, consists of one central movable piece, which consists of punch bowl and decorative piece combined, which has for its principal decoration the seal of the State in the centre and the seals of East and West Jersey as companion escutcheons. On its base will be the inscription which tells the story of the generosity of the people of New Jersey, ornamented with a colonial seal. This magnificent piece alone will carry 450 ounces of silver.

The other pieces in the set will be a candelabra, with eighteen lights; a small punch bowl having a capacity of fourteen pints, two entree dishes, four double vegetable dishes, three meat dishes of various sizes, the smallest sixteen inches; one fish dish, twenty-six inches; four compotiers; four bonbon dishes; six pepper and salts, with spoons; asparagus dish and server; salad bowl, spoon and fork; tea set, five pieces; kettle for hot milk; waiter, twenty-six inches; two small vases; two serving trays and grape scissors.

The commission, in reaching about for suggestions as to what would be the proper thing to give the battleship, took into their confidence Captain Charles Sigsbee, who commanded the battleship Maine when it was destroyed in the harbor of Havana. Captain Sigsbee is a personal friend of Adjutant-General Oliphant, of Trenton, and cheerfully gave many suggestions as to the appropriateness of the State's gift.

He gave the special committee the benefit of his experience, and agreed that nothing would be so acceptable as a silver dinner service, because the United States government makes no allowances to its officers for special entertainments. A silver service set is always a great boon to the officers and even the men on a warship. Captain Sigsbee made a number of specific suggestios as to the character of the dinner set, particularly urging a plain set, so that it may always be kept bright, which is impossible with fancy ware.

INTERESTING EXHIBITION.

Moving Pictures Will Illustrate "The Passion Play" at Casino.

The exhibition of moving pictures of "The Passion Play" of Oberammergan and illustrated songs, which will be given at the Casino tomorrow and Saturday nights and at the Saturday matinee, will be one of great interest and pleasure to all who attend. The pictures are said to be the best product of the Edison Company and are highly endorsed by press and clergy throughout the country. Other pictures to be shown will be battle scenes of the Boer War in South Africa and grand spectacular pantomimes of "Red Riding Hood" and "Cinderella," the latter being special features for the children's matinee Saturday.

COUNCILMAN LEE IS AFTER TROLLEY CO.

He Believes City Should Take Heroic Measures to Get Good Trolley Service.

ONLY WAY TO GET IT.

HIS RESOLUTION AT LAST MEETING WAS IN ACCORDANCE WITH ORDINANCE.

Councilman Lee Says That as Long as Council is Easy With Company, the Latter Will Continue to Impose on the City.

One of the strongest opponents to the present method of operating the trolley cars in this city is Councilman Robert L. Lee. This was shown at the regualr meeting of the Council Monday evening. Mr. Lee spoke in no uncertain tones on the subject, showing that he has acquainted himself with facts that now exist.

Mr. Lee's resolution was drawn by Corporation Counsel Marsh, after the latter had consulted the ordinance on the subject. This gave it much weight and showed that it would be a perfectly proper thing to take heroic measures to bring the trolley company to its senses.

This resolution specified the irregular schedule, the worn-out and dirty cars used, the flat wheels that are always a source of annoyance to persons living along the line upon which they are run. In speaking on the subject, Mr. Lee said that only that very day Mayor Smalley had prohibited the running of a certain car in the borough. The car was taken off and afterward operated in this city. He said that as long as the Council was easy with the company it would continue to impose on the city and take all the time wanted to make improvements.

It was for these reasons that Mr. Lee said he would rather have the word of the trolley company than its superintendent that improvements are to be made. This councilman asserts that the rolling stock of the company is in worse condition today than ever with no great amount of assurance that it will be any better for the present.

Mr. Lee has traveled a great deal on the local trolley cars and has made a personal study of the system and matters pertaining to it. He favors holding the trolley company to the letter of the ordinance under which the road is operated and, in case of failure, to have the franchise declared null and void.

DR. SIMPSON'S DELAY.

Freshets and Floods Have Furnished Him With a Lot of New Experiences.

Dr. M. S. Simpson, of Middle Valley, who was to have lectured in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Tuesday evening, experienced considerable difficulty in reaching this city. The train on the High Bridge branch of the New Jersey Central had to proceed slowly on account of washouts, and on reaching High Bridge it was impossible to get away. Floods prevented the trains running on the main line, but by a circuitous route, he arrived in Plainfieln at 10 o'clock, four hours behind time.

His home in Middle Valley was also badly flooded by high water. He reached there Monday afternoon, after attending to professional duties, to find water in the cellar to a depth of five feet. The boiler had burst and many articles stored about were ruined.

NO MEAT FAMINE.

Local Beef Companies Had Laid in the Necessary Supply.

The local beef companies have not as yet suffered any great inconvenience as a result of recent storms. Plans were made to have a good stock of meats on hand and this has prevented a shortage which otherwise would have resulted. There has been a slight shortage on small stuff, such as sheep and lamb, but in other respects the supply is sufficient. Two cars of meat were received yesterday and this will add much to the already ample supply on hand.

Committees of Reform Club.

At the regular meeting of the Reform Club Tuesday evening two new members were elected and President John Goodwin announced the following committees: Executive, B. W. Hand, W. R. Codington, A. D. Spicer, William Richards and David Bush; finance, Wm. C. Smith, Jr., B. W. Hand and Fred Goodwin.

WHY COUNCIL WASN'T ASKED

Former Mayor W. L. Saunders and P. V. R. VanWyck Explain Their Position.

REVIEW THE MOVEMENT

They Were Simply Figureheads as Required by Law to Sign Their Names to Published Notice of Bills—The Measures Were Part of Old Movement.

The sudden and unexpected opposition on the part of the Common Council to the "Greater Plainfield" bills now before the State Legislature naturally caused some talk. While it was the opinion of many that Councilman Mellick was perfectly justified in introducing the resolution asking the Union county representatives to hold up the bills until the Common Council could consider them, the feeling was general that Former Mayor W. L. Saunders and P. V. D. VanWyck had intended no discourtesy in following the course they did.

The following statement, presented by the promoters of the measure now before the Legislature, explains their conduct and tends to straighten out any misunderstanding which may have previously existed:

The movement for consolidation began in 1897, when the following paper was circulated in the borough and signed:

"The undersigned citizens of North Plainfield favor the consolidation of city and borough, and its union under one government. It is understood that a society is to be formed to effect this result and that questions of ways and means are to be decided by the united action of that society.

(Signed)—

"Newton B. Smalley, Leonard B. Woolston, James McGee, Frank A. Church, John P. Emmons, Richard E. Coriell, A. E. Kenney, Walter F. Hamilton, John Valiant, Henry B. Wells, S. St. J. McCutchen, Benjamin M. Day, W. J. Buttfield, F. H. Howell, H. K. Carroll, Edwin S. Hooley, Walter M. McGee, Frank Curtis, Samuel Townsend, J. P. Northrop, George P. Dupee, Joseph C. Peck, Martin I. Cooley, George T. Rogers, W. L. Saunders, W. O. Worth, Elston M. French, A. E. Faber, Jr., H. A. McGee."

Later on the Board of Trade took hold of the matter and a committee was appointed, from the minutes of which the following minutes are taken:

"The meeting of the several committees at the suggestion of the Board of Trade was the subject of the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield, met at the Board of Trade rooms on Thursday, February 17, 1898.

"There were present of the committee appointed by the president of the Board of Trade the following: Charles A. Reed, chairman; F. W. Runyon, L. B. Woolston; absent, J. M. Hetfield.

"Of the committee apponted by the Mayor of Plainfield there were present the following: Hon. Alexander Gilbert, chairman; S. A. Ginna, J. A. Smith.

"Of the committee appointed by the Mayor of North Plainfield there were present the following: W. L. Saunders, chairman; H K. Carroll; absent, E. S. Hooley. F. C. Lounsbury, president of the Board of Trade, and H. C. Runyon, secretary, were also present.

"On motion the several committees organized by electing Mr. Gilbert, chairman, and Mr. Saunders, secretary, of a joint committee on consolidation.

"Mr. Reed stated that in order to get the subject of consolidation before the committee, he would offer the following resolution:

"'Resolved—That consolidation is desirable.' The resolution was seconded and adopted, Mr. Reed alone voting in the negative. Mr. Saunders laid before the committee the printed minutes and other archives of a society which has been organized in the borough for the purpose of bringing about consolidation.

"Mr. Ginna moved that the chairman be authorized to appoint a committee of three who shall consider the feasibility of consolidating Plainfield and North Plainfield without changing the county line; said committee to consider what legal or other obstacles may be in the way of such con-

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Now that the Court of Errors and Appeals has refused to grant a reargument as to the constitutionality of the Stokes School law, the State will, in ten days, be left without a statute governing the conduct of educational affairs. The invalidating of the act, however, can do no harm if the members of the Legislature do their duty, and at once pass the bill which, in nearly all its provisions, with the exception of the feature which the court of last resort declared unconstitutional, is similar to the Stokes law. It is important that there shall be no delay in this matter, as there is imminent danger of complications, when the decision of the Court of Errors becomes effective, that would result in chaotic conditions in the schools.

The Stokes law has given general satisfaction, though there was a feeling that certain of its features might have been amended. But in the emergency which now confronts the Legislature, there should be no time lost in tinkering with the bill as long as it is in shape to stand the test of the courts. It should be allowed, by unanimous consent, to reach final passage before the ten days expire, and any imperfections which may be discovered when it is in operation can be remedied at the next session.—Newark News.

THEATRICAL.

Inclement weather has had no appreciable effect on the business at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, where William Collier is presenting Augustus Thomas' phenomenally successful comedy, "On the Quiet." It is, as a rule, an extremely dangerous thing from the cold standpoint of the box-office to bring back a play, especially a comedy, to a New York theatre for a revival which is to be at all extended. This is really the end of the seventh month that "On the Quiet" has been presented at this same theatre, and to all appearances it is as popular as during the first month of the original run. Of Collier's part in the success of the comedy, it is only fair to say that many of the bright laughter-provoking lines and some of the best of the situations are his own. Scarcely a day goes by that there is not some change made by him for the betterment of the play. Mr. Collier is preparing to present new comedy from the pen of Martha Morton which will be produced in the near future for him by Jacob Litt at the same theatre. The cast has already been selected and includes some of the best known people in the profession.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The advantages in widening Somerset street are strongly evidenced at present. Before the street was widened it was a veritable mudhole at times. Now the street is scarcely ever in that condition owing to a good macadam and the quickness in which it drys after a rain.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Orders left at Stanley's flower store for floral designs will receive prompt attention. He is now showing dozens of fine designs, suitable for parties, weddings or funerals. Two 'phones, 1311 and 673.

Chapped hands caused by March winds soon resume their proper appearance and cease paining if Powers' Witch Hazel cream is used. It is prepared only at Powers' pharmacy, Somerset street and Craig place. Try a bottle and be convinced.

Beyond a doubt this is still overcoat weather. Why not purchase a good one at Harry Werner's mid-winter sale of serviceable coats? There are some excellent bargains left. If a suit is your requirement, have Mr. Werner make you an estimate.

Sweets are always an acceptable gift. They never fail to make an impression on a young woman, that is if they are good. They always are if they are bought at Fowler's candy kitchen. Nothing but the best materials used in making his confections.

This has been an exceedingly hard season on footwear, but the kind sold by John H. Doane, of West Front street, is true to the test and stands the wear all right. All his stock is new and up-to-date. The Sorosis and "Try Me" shoes are great sellers.

In furnishing a home china and bric-a-brac form an important part and when you can get such bargains as are being offered by Crosby & Hill, it is an easy matter to secure such furnishings. The firm also offers bargains in many other departments.

Forty of the newest designs in baby carriages and go-carts are now being exhibited at Powlison & Jones' furniture emporium. They are being disposed of at very moderate prices. The remainder of the firm's exhibition in furniture is attracting a great deal of attention.

To further introduce his system of trade discount stamps, William W. Wilson will give double stamps on all cash purchases over $1 made at his store on Saturday. He has a full line of vegetables and fruits in the grocery store and in his meat department an extra large stock of small Jersey pork and pork sausage.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

NEW JERSEY'S GOOD ROADS

Substance of State Commissioner Budd's Annual Report Now Being Printed.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

Upward of 144 Miles of Good Roads Built During Last Year—Nearly Double Expected This Year With Increased Appropriation—Review of the Work.

Few people realize that it is possible to travel on improved roads from Jersey City to Atlantic City, or to just what extent New Jersey is gridironed with stone roads. No movement in the State of recent years has been more steadily progressing than that for the improvement of the public highways. The Legislature has increased the appropriation for State aid from $150,000 to $250,000.

There are 20,000 miles of roads in the State, independent of city streets, and while the work of road improvement has been marching on for some few years past, it is estimated that but little more than one-twentieth of the highways of the State have been macadamized or gravelled. Under the State aid law, the total mileage of roads built is 642, and the total amount expended $1,015,168.

Last year alone upward of 144 miles of roads were built, and, with the increased appropriation this year, it is expected that twice that amount will be built under the direction of State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker, of this city. The number of miles built in the counties availing themselves of the State aid last year was as follows: Atlantic, 19; Burlington, 25; Camden, 8; Cape May, 7; Essex, 9; Gloucester, 17; Mercer, 12; Middlesex, 8; Monmouth, 6; Morris, 4; Passaic, 7; Somerset, 8; Sussex, 1; Warren, 9.

Petitions are now on file with State Road Commissioner Budd, asking State aid for 424 miles of roads during the present year. The cost of the roads built with State aid last year was $450,000, one-third of which was paid by the State. Commissioner Budd is of the opinion that the increase of $27,000,000 in the taxable value of the State's property for the past year is in no small measure due to the rapid strides being made by New Jersey in the matter of road building.

"In no way," he declares in his annual report just from the hands of the printer, "can the State add to its wealth more rapidly than by giving of its surplus to the hardening of its roadbeds. By this process so many millions of dollars would be added to the wealth of the State that, if the present means of State revenue should by any means cease and the State thereby be forced to impose a direct tax, property values would be so increased that the taxes would rest lightly upon its inhabitants. Much of the immense wealth in the cities near us is rapidly moving into our State and permanently remaining wherever the roads present similar conditions to the streets of our cities.

"In no State in the Union," continues Mr. Budd, "can road improvement add so largely to the population as in New Jersey, for the largest part of our territory is situated within short distances of the gratest cities in the country. Our State, in all parts, has frequent and rapid communication with them by steam roads, while trolley lines are being projected and built in all directions. Now, if our common roads are rapidly improved, our popualtion will be increased beyond the calculation of the most optimistic, and much wealth will be added to our State."

There can be no denying the fact that the improvement of the roads in the counties adjacent to New York and Philadelphia has served as one of the greatest attractions to residents of those cities to come to New Jersey. This improvement has been extended into the neighboring counties, until the two ends of the State are fairly covered with good roads. The interior sections now have the fever, too, and are rapidly building macadam and gravel turnpikes to replace the old sand and clay affairs that made travel at any desirable rate of speed impossible.

The greatest volume of good roads is in the counties bordering on Hudson and Essex, Bergen, Morris, Essex and Hudson, together with Union and Passaic counties have done much in the way of road improvement, independent of State aid, and have the finest system of highways in the State. The county of Burlington, which has always been a progressive one in the matter of improving its roads, has the largest number of miles constructed under the State aid law. In that county alone close to 140 miles of stone roads have been improved under the State aid law. No other county has more than one-half this mileage, under the Road act; but then no other county has the State road commissioner which may in a measure account for Burlington county's good fortune.

A short resume of the progress of the road building in each county during the last year is given in the report of Commissioner Budd. Sussex county seems to have entered the race in only a mild way. One short township road alone was improved. It is called the Lakeside boulevard, three-quarters of a mile in length and extending from Brooklyn, on the Morris county line, to the Hopatcong House, Lake Hopatcong.

Warren county made its first move in building hard roads, having macadamized the Allamuchy road, extending from Hackettstown to the Sussex county boundary line and being about five and a half miles in length. Another mile and a half of improvement was done in the borough of Washington. Morris county attempted to improve thirteen miles, but failed to complete more than five, owing to the extremely wet weather. The county asked for State aid for fifty miles. Somerset county pursues a conservative policy, improving only seven or eight miles a year. She now boasts of thirty-five miles of State roads.

Essex county, having been stoning her highways for twenty-five years, has to her credit nearly 300 miles of hard roads. At the present rate of progress she will in a short time have all her roads macadamized. Passaic county, with about 200 miles of leading thoroughfare improved under township, county and State acts, claimed her share of State aid for seven miles. During the previous year Essex exceeded the State appropriation, and last year was consumed in finishing and paying for nine and a half miles. Already Essex county has under way six miles, to be paid for out of the appropriation for 1902.

Hudson county is a candidate for State aid this year for another boulevard. In 1900 she built her handsome boulevard with the State aid, and last year put in an application for assistance for this year's work. Bergen county has about 170 miles of roads improved under the old township bonding act, and has never applied under the State aid law for assistance. Union county likewise improved more than forty miles of her roads under the county act, and has not been a heavy claimant for State aid.

From the Raritan river southward, have come the greatest demands for State aid. Middlesex, the first county to embrace State aid, and every year since a liberal claimant for the same, still has fifty miles petitioned for. Having overbuilt in 1900 she constructed but one short road last year and presents a large mileage for construction this year. Monmouth county reserved her energy last year for buying up her toll pikes and constructed but one short gravel road, that leading north out of Lakewood, and about five miles in length. She expended $40,000 in placing upon the free list twenty miles of what have been for over thirty years toll roads, thus making all her improved roads free.

Mercer county, in 1900, performed the most wonderful feat in road building in the hsitory of road improvement in the State, macadamizing eighteen miles in less than six months. Last year she built but two and one-quarter miles, but this year she is a candidate for all the State aid she can obtain. Burlington county, as has already been told, has the largest mileage in the State and has applied for aid for 125 miles in addition. Unless she is allowed by law, however, to increase to one-half of one per cent. the amount she may raise upon her ratables, for road improvement, her future progress will necessarily be very slow.

Camden county built last year about nine miles of road and is a large claimant for bounty this year. Gloucester is coming to the front in wonderful fashion, having macadamized seventeen and one-half miles last year.

Cumberland county came forward with ten miles of improved road, through the whole length of Landis township, making another link in the through line between Camden and Cape May. Cape May inaugurated a system of road improvement last year by starting a beautiful boulevard of gravel, twelve miles long, from the seaside resort of Cape May to Cape May Courthouse, and about two miles of an avenue through the growing resort of Ocean City. Atlantic county, with thirty miles of gravel road and three miles of stone roads built by State aid, built much additional road with gravel of an incomparable quality and is rapidly forging to the front with her roads.

—The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. will meet tonight.

—The twenty-nine patients at Muhlenberg Hospital are all improving with excellent chances for ultimate recovery.

—The Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the First Baptist church tomorrow evening will be conducted by W. D. Murray, of this city.

IN GRIP OF A STORM.

Snow, Sleet and Gale Sweep Many States.

DISTRESS IN FLOODED DISTRICTS.

Railroads Again Blocked and Country Roads Piled With Huge Drifts—City Trolley Lines Suffer Generally.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The sleet-storm that raged yesterday afternoon was succeeded at night, after a brief intermission, by another fall of snow which is sadly hampering the efforts of the street cleaning department to clean the main thoroughfares, made almost impassable by means of slush. The snow is dry and threatens to drift badly. A force of about 5,000 men is at work on the streets.

As a result of the heavy mist which hung over the river during the rush hours to an extent that made the navigation of the ferries dangerous there was a terrific crush on the Brooklyn bridge, which was fortunately not attended by any accident.

"The "Trip to the Moon" building, brought from the Buffalo exposition and erected at Coney Island, was blown down, causing a loss of $10,000.

From all parts of this state come reports of heavy snow and delayed train service.

The entire Chemung valley is covered with snow to the depth of eight to twelve inches. Telegraph and telephone service is crippled, and the railroads are experiencing difficulty in running trains. The snowstorm is a great hardship to the poor people of the flooded sections.

A heavy snowstorm prevailed throughout Tompkins county, and the Ithaca Street Railway company is no longer able to run its cars.

The worst blizzard of the season has struck northern New York. Reports from Westport, Port Henry, Crown Point, Fort Ticonderoga and other lake points state that a fierce gale is raging, with a heavy snowfall.

Just as the railroads in central New York were recovering from the effects of the floods hereabouts they are confronted by a blizzard which is raging fiercely. It promises to equal any of the storms of the winter. All trains are more or less delayed.

At Saratoga the storm is the worst since 1888.

Dispatches from various points in Connecticut say that an average of about twelve inches of snow has fallen throughout the state, and street car traffic is delayed in all sections. Western Connecticut is suffering the most. Trains on the Central New England and New York, New Haven and Hartford railroads are about two hours late. In the eastern part of the state, however, they are running fairly close to schedule time.

Owing to the high wind the snow is drifting badly, and many of the country roads are becoming blocked.

A STATE STORMBOUND.

Pennsylvania Suffering From the Worst Storm of the Winter.

PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—With the exception of the extreme southeastern section of the state the entire commonwealth of Pennsylvania is in the grasp of the heaviest snowstorm of the winter. Railroad travel is practically tied up in many places, and the indications are not encouraging.

Easton, Hazleton, Wilkesbarre and other points north of Philadelphia report that snow fell all day yesterday and still continues. There are from twenty-two to twenty-four inches of snow on the ground at these points. Heavy drifts have closed up mountain passes, blocked railroads and closed down coal mines. In the northern central section Williamsport reports sixteen inches of snow.

The storm is particularly severe from Harrisburg west to beyond the Alleghany mountains. At Harrisburg, Altoona and Bedford twenty-four inches of snow have fallen, with the prospects that it will continue all night. From all points in that territory serious delay to steam railroads is reported. The main line of the Pennsylvania railroad is practically tied up at Altoona, all passenger trains being hours behind schedule time.

Business Demoralized.

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 6.—The storm has completely demoralized business in Elizabeth, and the central Jersey trolley lines are not in operation. The North Jersey Traction company is operating its lines here, but with great difficulty. All of the factories were closed or short handed. The three big western packing house branches have not a pound of fresh meat in their storage houses here. They have been unable to get any since Friday, and a meat famine is imminent. Their agents say they have plenty en route, but are utterly unable to locate the cars. The coal dealers have also run short of coal.

The Storm In Maryland.

BALTIMORE, March 6.—Reports from all parts of the state show that the storm which has been raging here is equally bad in the mountains on the west and the lowlands on the east. No loss results are as yet reported, the damage thus far being confined to telegraph and telephone wires, trees and trolley lines. Railway traffic has been impeded, but not seriously. The Baltimore and Ohio officials in this city say that all trains on their line are running fairly near schedule time.

Snow Succeeds Flood.

PATERSON, N. J., March 6.—The water is steadily receding, and in many parts of the flooded section the streets are clear. If there is no rapid melting of the snow the river will soon be in its normal condition. The receding of the flood reveals that the damage to streets and sidewalks will be very heavy. The snowstorm tied up the trolley lines for several hours, but the succeeding rain enabled the companies to get most of the lines clear by nightfall.

Business Tied Up.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., March 6.—This place is completely tied up as a result of the storm, no cars being run and the streets being blocked. The Peapack stage which left here at 3 p. m. was stalled in a drift an hour later, and the passengers were compelled to take refuge for the night in nearby farmhouses.

Deep Snow In West Virginia.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 6.—The snowstorm in West Virginia continues. Eighteen inches has fallen here, 24 at Logan, 20 at Point Pleasant, 30 at Dingess, 3 feet at Wyoming, and 5 feet is reported in the Cheat mountains. The rivers are all rising rapidly.

The Storm In Virginia.

ROANOKE, Va., March 6.—A heavy snow has fallen throughout southwest Virginia. Reports received here show the fall to be from three to fifteen inches deep, the greatest fall being in the Shenandoah valley. Railroad traffic is being delayed.

Tennessee Has an All Day Storm.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 6.—Snow fell here all yesterday. It is expected this snow, together with a hard rain previously, will cause another rise in the river.

THE CHINESE PROBLEM.

Governor Taft Thinks Immigration to Philippines Should Be Stopped.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Governor Taft was before the senate committee on immigration yesterday and gave his views on the subject of Chinese immigration to the Philippine Islands. He said the general conviction of the commission was that the Chinese ought not to be allowed to enter the islands. He said there were 50,000 Chinese in Manila and, in his judgment, not more than 150,000 in the whole archipelago.

Governor Taft said the Filipino-Chinese half breeds should not be kept out of the United States, "because they are Filipinos, pure and simple."

The best way for congress to meet this problem, said Governor Taft, is to establish its policy with respect to the United States and then treat the Philippine Islands, so far as the introduction of Chinese into the United States is concerned, as if it were a foreign country and then to give the commission or the legislative body in the islands some power and authority in its discretion and to admit skilled labor.

Prospectors Have Perilous Trip.

BOISE, Ida., March 6.—A party of prospectors has reached here after a terrible fourteen days' journey through the snow from the Thunder mountain district, bringing the bodies of Bert Tullis, formerly a resident of Telluride, Colo., who was killed in a snowslide at Thunder mountain about a month ago, and two men named Campbell and Sykes, who were also victims of a snowslide. The bodies, frozen and wrapped in hides, were drawn over the snow of the mountain passes, the prospectors undergoing almost incredible hardships to bring out the bodies of their dead friends.

Smallpox In Jail.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The discovery that a prisoner in the Westchester county jail at White Plains had been attacked by smallpox in virulent form has caused the immediate quarantining of the jail, which is a portion of the courthouse. There are 120 prisoners in it, and the principal keeper, his assistant and the matron are quarantined with them. As the sick prisoner had been in court Monday Justice Keogh and County Judge Platt adjourned court for a week, and the other county officials abandoned their offices.

A Lucky Miner.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 6.—A special dispatch from Dawson City tells of one of the richest finds reported for a year in the Klondike. Richard Butler, owner of a claim on Bear creek, was about to abandon his property when he discovered an old bedrock, many feet below the first one, from which he took out $15,000 in one day. One pan of earth alone washed out $900 in gold.

Struck by a Mail Crane.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., March 6.—A. B. Potter, engineer on an Erie eastbound express train, was probably fatally injured at Columbus, Pa. He leaned out of his engine and his head struck a mail crane. He was taken to the hospital at Corry. Potter lives at Meadville, is about sixty years old and has been running on the Erie lines for a quarter of a century.

Ohio Postoffice Robbed.

WESTERVILLE, O., March 6.—The postoffice safe was blown open by robbers, who secured from $900 to $1,200 worth of stamps and several hundred dollars in money. The safe door was blown across the office and embedded in the walls. Bloodhounds have been put on the trail. There is no clew.

Cashier Kills Himself.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 6.—Another scene in the drama of the closing of the State Bank of Elkhart was enacted yesterday afternoon, when Frank W. Cottle, cashier, whose alleged shortage of $32,000 caused the closing of the bank, blew out his brains at his house.

Diamond Robbers Arrested.

ANTWERP, March 6.—Three arrests have been made here in connection with the large diamond robberies. The men arrested have confessed as to the whereabouts of the missing stones.

PRESIDENT AMPIL RETURNS.

Captured by Insurgents, He Escapes, Bringing Disquieting News.

MANILA, March 6.—Senor Ampil, presidente of the town of Cainta, province of Morong, Luzon, who is well known as an American sympathizer and who was recently captured by the insurgents, together with some of the native constabulary, who disappeared March 3 after an engagement with the rebels, has escaped from his captors and returned to Cainta.

Senor Ampil says that the insurgent force which took him prisoner is an entirely new organization commanded by Colonel Simmetee of Pasay and was organized in the province of Rizal. It consists of fifty-five uniformed men armed with rifles, all of whom wear police badges.

Since the capture of Senor Ampil and the engagement of the constabulary March 3 the province of Morong has been in a ferment. The unrest has grown with Senor Ampil's return and the spreading of his reports of new organizations. The excitement is now intense, and many of the inhabitants of the province who have been friendly to the United States authorities are leaving their houses and crops and emigrating in the hope of saving their lives.

General Chaffee will leave Manila March 6 for Aparri, northern Luzon, on a tour of inspection.

A Harrowing Tale.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—A mail just in from the Philippines shows that the insurgent leaders are resorting to all kinds of deceptions and subterfuges to retain control. One insurgent commander recently issued a proclamation, saying, "Now is the time to strike a decisive blow for Filipino independence," and adding: "The United States is in the midst of a bloody civil war. The coal miners in Pennsylvania have risen against the government, and at Chicago a great battle was fought, in which 1,600 regular soldiers were killed. An army of anti-imperialists is besieging Washington. Roosevelt will be deposed and Dr. Bryan proclaimed president by the Democrats."

Redmond's Fiery Utterances.

LONDON, March 6.—John Redmond, chairman of the Irish parliamentary party, speaking at a United Irish league demonstration at Finsbury, Middlesex, said the Irish party was apparently the only party in parliament today which knew its own mind and was not torn by internal dissensions. Every reference made by Mr. Redmond to Lord Salisbury, the premier; Mr. Wyndham, the chief secretary for Ireland; Lord Rosebery and Mr. H. H. Asquith, M. P., was greeted with groans and hisses by his hearers. Continuing, Mr. Redmond said that the demands of those in favor of home rule were moderate and reasonable. Far from English legislators being able to pigeonhole home rule or wipe it off the slate, it would remain, the speaker said, to confound, confuse and divide English parties, to wreck English governments, to ruin English statesmen, to paralyze English parliaments and to blast the moral influence of England before the world until it was settled by the concession of the just, moderate and constitutional demands of the Irish people.

Admiral Howell's Retirement.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Rear Admiral J. A. Howell will be retired on March 16. Next to Admiral Dewey he is the ranking officer of the navy. His retirement will result in the promotion of Captain A. S. Crowninshield, chief of the bureau of navigation, to the grade of rear admiral and permit the execution of the plan to place that officer in command of the European station.

Seal Fishing Season.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 6.—The annual seal fishery opens next Monday. Reports received here from the northern seaboard indicate that the seals are already appearing in the coast waters. It is also reported that along the Labrador and north Atlantic coast the fisher folk are killing hundreds of seals on the ice floes. The sealing fleet, composed of twenty steamers, will sail for the icefields next Monday at daybreak.

CUBAN RECIPROCITY.

President and Members of Congress Discuss Plans.

THIRD CAUCUS TO BE HELD TONIGHT

There Seems to Be a Majority Against Chairman Payne's Twenty Per Cent Scheme—Rebate Proposition Gains Supporters.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Speaker Henderson and Representative Cannon of Illinois called at the White House yesterday and discussed with President Roosevelt the subject of Cuban reciprocity and the sentiment thereon in the house.

Active canvassing continued among Republican members preliminary to the third caucus on Cuban reciprocity to be held tonight. The most positive claims were made by those opposed to Representative Payne's 20 per cent reciprocity plan that there was a clear majority against it.

Mr. Payne and his associates did not concede this, however, and expressed the belief that a concession to Cuba ultimately will be granted. It was said in this connection that Speaker Henderson is now favorable to the position taken by the majority on the ways and means committee and that this would exert much influence in shaping the final outcome.

During the day several members of the cabinet were called on by Messrs. Tawney of the ways and means committee, who has proposed the rebate plan as a substitute for Chairman Payne's 20 per cent reciprocity plan, and Morris of Minnesota, who also has proposed a plan differing from that of Mr. Payne. As an outcome of these calls it was asserted that three members of the cabinet—namely, Postmaster General Payne, Secretary Shaw and Secretary Wilson—were hopeful of seeing a solution of the problem which would not endanger any American industry. This was construed in some quarters to show a division in the cabinet, but it was stated by those conversant with the situation that the attitude of cabinet members did not warrant any such construction.

Later in the day Representative Tawney called at the White House and had a conference lasting nearly an hour and a half with the president. At its conclusion Mr. Tawney joined several of his associates who are opposed to the Payne resolution. It developed that Mr. Tawney had told the president there was little or no possibility of the adoption of the Payne plan by the Republican conference and that if it was adopted some forty Republican members would not consider themselves bound and would carry the question to the floor of the house, where there would be additional complications owing to the attitude of Democratic members.

The president is understood to have made his proposition quite clear and in so doing is said to have removed several misapprehensions which have been afloat of late. He said he had no intention at present of sending a special message to congress on the subject.

The president expressed the most earnest solicitude that a satisfactory adjustment be reached by congress, saying that this was an "inherited problem," meaning that it had come to him from the McKinley administration. Furthermore, the president, it is asserted, indicated no positive determination in favor of any particular idea, but rather a desire that congress should deal with the subject according to its best lights.

After hearing from Mr. Tawney his associates expressed the belief that the president would accept the rebate proposition if congress sent it to him. They were also considerably encouraged to hear from Mr. Tawney that the president was not laying down any emphatic ultimatum in favor of the plan as presented by Mr. Payne.

While these conferences were going on at the White House Chairman Payne and members of the ways and means committee supporting him were in conference. Later one of the members said that he was confident the Payne reciprocity proposition commanded a majority of the Republican members, but that the minority was so large and was so disposed to carry the contest into the house that Mr. Payne and his friends recognized the seriousness of the situation. However, there was no disposition, he said, to accept the rebate plan, as it was stated that this was merely a repetition of the plan proposed by the head of the beet sugar organization two months ago.

The house continued the debate on the bill to classify the rural free delivery service, but, without action, adjourned out of respect to the memory of Representative Polk (Pa.), whose death occurred suddenly at Philadelphia on Tuesday.

It now appears likely that the senate will reach a vote on the pending shipping bill a week from next Monday.

Patrick's Prosecution Closed.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The prosecution in the trial of Albert T. Patrick for the murder of the aged millionaire, William M. Rice, has rested after six weeks of testimony taking. From now on the real battle of the prisoner for his life against the forces of the state will be waged. The court adjourned for the day after the recorder had announced that the state had reserved the right to call later two witnesses.

To Save the Big Trees.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The house committee on public lands has ordered a favorable report on the bill to acquire the giant tree tract of California. The secretary of the interior is authorized to purchase it for not over $200,000 or to resort to condemnation proceedings.

PLAINFIELD'S GREATEST FIRE.

The most destructive fire in the annals of the city visited Plainfield this morning carrying ruin to the Babcock building, the finest business block in the city. But for the fact that the neighboring roofs were covered with snow, the business section of the town would have been swept by fire.

It was a plucky fight that the firemen made against the flames but it was far too big for them to attempt to handle. They did well in keeping the fire within bounds. It was a serious misfortune to the city but there is every reason to believe that the city will rise superior to it and that it will not check the present prosperity of Plainfield.

ORGANIZED AID ASSOCIATION.

No one interested in the charities of Plainfield and North Plainfield can fail to read with interest the year book of 1900-1901 just published by this beneficent organization. The report of the former president, Col. Mason W. Tyler, who served in that capicity for eight years, does credit to the kindness of his heart and the clearness of his thought in its advocacy of intelligent distribution of charity. Promising that "if a man can work he has the coin of the realm and he ought to buy with his labor what he needs," he argues that the man or woman out of employment should be aided in search for work, and relief should only be given temporarily and in emergency, when there is ability to work.

The minute prepared by Alexander Gilbert and David P. Hall and adopted upon the resignation of Col. Tyler, Dec. 11, 1900, fully expressed the esteem and appreciation of his colaborers and the gratitude felt toward him by all who have at heart the best interests of the poor and unfortunate.

The reports of the treasurer, district committee, committees on co-operation, employment, finance and membership, the executive and alms committee are all evidences of practical work and painstaking consideration at variance with the slothful charity that would bid the applicant, "Be ye warmed and filled" irrespective of worth, cause or effect.

The work of the agent, Miss Sarah Manton Van Boskerck, cannot be too highly praised. Her whole time is devoted to finding out the history and needs of every applicant for relief within our city's limits. That needless distress may not arise while investigation is pending, she has the privilege of giving emergency orders on the Relief Association, with which it co-operates most effectively. Some instances of distress relieved give but a faint idea of the time, thought and tact required in dealing with the problems always coming up for consideration.

The hint of the agent that this associtaion does not exist to relieve Plainfielders of their responsbility in charitable work is well put, and her appeal for earnest workers who will be real friends at the cost of personal sacrifice, heart interest and true sympathy is a call not to be disregarded by those who have the will to do the highest good to the poor, whom we always have with us.

There is much to encourage the advocate of "good roads" in New Jersey this year. The State appropriation to assist the counties in that work has been increased this year almost double. Last year, 144 miles of macadam, gravel and shell roads were built with State aid. This increase in the appropriation will almost double this mileage. Hunterdon is the only county in the State which has failed to recognize the great advantages to be derived from hard roads. Many of the others now contain miles of beautiful roadways which add noticeably to the value of the surrounding country. The legislators appear to realize the good which is being done so effectively under the direction of Commissioner Budd. The supervision of the construction now falls directly on State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker, of this city, who has already proved hmself a very valuable State officer.

It will be noticed that the North Plainfield Board of Education has asked for over $2,000 more than last year's figures to run the borough schools for the next fiscal year. The explanation is very simple. The borough schools have been growing, and growing very rapidly. The present corps of teachers is not large enough to give the required instruction. Two more have been engaged this year and an additional two will be placed at work in the fall. No reasonable person would injure the efficiency of the public schools and so, in order to meet the demands upon it, the board has been compelled to ask for more money.

Plainfield's prominence in the fraternal orders of the State may be noted from the fact that one of its citizens has just retired from a term as the highest State officer in the Improved Order of Red Men while another is just about to be similarly honored by the Ancient Order of United Workmen. In those two men, William Newcorn and Vincent W. Nash, the fraternal orders of the State have valuable workers who have done much for the advancement of their respective fraternities.

It nows falls to the lot of Governor Murphy to select some woman who shall christian the new battleship, New Jersey. It is an honor which many covet and it will require some fine discrimination on the part of New Jersey's chief executive to select one whose choice will not offend the others. It may not be so important but it certainly is one of the most difficult problems that Mr. Murphy has had to face.

Now that the Court of Errors and Appeals has refused to hear a reargument of the Stokes school law, it is time that the Legislature provided a substitute. There is a bill now before the Legislature, which is practically the same as the other with the unconstitutional provisions eliminated. There should be no delay in passing it.

The Trenton True American is making a strong fight to put the wires underground in that city. It is a good work and worthy of the support of every thoughtful citizen. Plainfield is partially equipped in that direction but an extension of the system would be of decided advantage.

All the patronage the Plainfield, Elizabeth and Jersey Central Street Railway lost through the blockade of its tracks by snow would have more than paid for several ploughs and scrapers and kept them on duty throughout the recent snow storms.

The annual report of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company gives a faint idea of what an enormous corporation it is. It employs more men than there are people in the State of Vermont.

Storm Prevented.

The work of digging a cellar for Frank McDonald's new home at the corner of Mountain and Watchung avenues, was to have been started yesterday by William Emmons, but the storm prevented. George Hummer has the contract for the house.

Spring Vacations.

It has been announced by the Plainfield Board of Education that the spring vacation at the city public schools will begin Friday, March 28, instead of the time set in the annual report.

—The Lord's Supper will be observed at Bethel chapel next Sunday evening. Preparatory services will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

solidation, and to consider and report upon what additional burden would be involved in having dual officers and such other questions as may be involved by consolidation without changing county lines.

"A meeting of the committee on consolidation was held at the Board of Trade rooms, Plainfield, on Friday, December 9, 1898. Present, Mr. Gilbert, Mr. Reed, Mr. Runyon, Mr. Ginna and Mr. Saunders. The minutes of the meeting held February 17, were read and approved. Mr. Reed, as chairman of the special committee, appointed to consider and report upon the question of consolidation without changing the county lines, presented his report, which was accepted and placed on file. It was moved by Mr. Saunders that a committee, consisting of the chairman and two other members, be appointed by the chair for the purpose of preparing and presenting to the Legislature of New Jersey a bill which shall provide for the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield under one government, when such consolidation has been approved by a majority vote of the people of the city and borough. Adopted; Mr. Reed alone voting 'No.' Whereupon the chairman appointed Messrs. McCutchen and Saunders as this committee."

It was afterwards decided to first present the question to the voters of the borough. This was done three years ago and consolidation was defeated.

The bills now before the Legislature have been published in full in all the papers. They are open to criticism. We provide for a consultation and vote by all the people. Many citizens in the city and borough have been consulted and have approved the measure. In order to conform to the laws one or two citizens in the territories were requested to put their names to the public advertisement and this is why Mr. VanWyck's name and mine appeared.

We have put in some hard work in a measure which we believe to be for the public good. We do not pretend that the bills are perfect, but we do claim that they present for the first time a plain practical plan of consolidation which should either be accepted, amended or rejected. If either the City or the Borough Councils desire to take hold of this subject, we will most gladly unload the whole matter on their hands, but they must not let it slumber, for the only way to consolidate is to consolidate.

ENROUTE FOR WINDOW.

Frightened Horse Upset Wagon and Dragged Driver.

A horse was frightened yesterday morning by a trolley car in front of L. W. Randolph's drug store on West Front street. The young man who was in charge of the rig was thrown out and dragged about the street for several minutes before the horse was gotten under control by Albert Utzinger and Adam Angerbauer.

The animal was hitched to a one-seat surrey, and it made several circles in the street in a wild and dangerous fashion. At one time it was thought the rig would go through one of the store windows. The young man in charge of the rig was not known, evidently being a stranger in this vicinity.

Plainfielders in Signal Corps.

At the recent review of the First Signal Corps, N. G. N. Y., held at the Central Park Riding Academy, New York, when Major-General Roe inspected the corps, Plainfield had three of its young men who participated in the manoeuvres and events. They were Godwin Beard, of Hillside avenue; Homer Smith, of Prospeat avenue, and Walter L. Long, of Park avenue. Norman Kieb, of Fanwood, is also a member of the corps.

Ping-Pong at Park Club.

The members of the Park Club have a new form of amusement in the "ping-pong" set which the house committee has provided. The game, which is really nothing more than miniature indoor tennis, is played on a large table in the main reading room of the clubhouse. Every evening some of the members try their hand at it.

Getting 'Phones in Order.

In the course of a few days the telephone company hopes to have all local trouble cleared up, provided the present storm does not result in more damage. Manager Runyon and his men have been working night and day since the last storm to repair the damage wrought at that time.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The Borough Council held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening and several discussions resulted from some bills being presented. One bill was presented for some work in scraping snow from the street without the consent of the street commissioner. One of the members of the street committee attempted to hold up payment, but was finally brought to terms. Most of the business consisted in payment of bills.

At the meeting of the Board of Education, Tuesday night, the annual report, prepared by the district clerk, was presented before the board and approved. It will be presented at the annual meeting March 18.

The dance by the Dunellan dancing class, in Apgar's Hall Friday night, promises to be the most enjoyable of the season. A large number of out-of-town guests are expected to be present.

The walks about town were cleaned off in unusually quick time after the storm yesterday. The warning ordinance in regard to the cleaning of sidewalks had a good effect.

The Bound Brook trolley cars were obliged to stop running yesterday because of the storm, but resumed the regular schedule this morning.

All the eastbound mails were late yesterday and the Easton mail, which is supposed to come shortly after 6 o'clock, did not arrive at all.

Dunellen was practically deserted this morning. Everybody went to see the fire in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maier are rejoicing over the arrival of a fine, healthy young son.

Mrs. James Martin, of Front street, is seriously ill with heart trouble.

The cornet band met for the regular weekly practice last night.

Prayer meeting was held in the Methodist church last night.

The local W. C. T. U. will hold a regular meeting today.

NEW MARKET.

The Republican primary was held last night in Friendship Hall. Everything passed off peaceably and the nominations were made without any contests. They were as follows: Town clerk, Chas. S. Day; freeholder, Ziba P. Osmun; town committeeman, Calvin Boice; constable, Robert LeRoy Pierce; justice of peace, P. VonMinden.

Letters are advertised at the post-office this month for William A Judson and Mr. Liben.

The band will meet for practice in Recreation Hall this evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The young blizzard of yesterday tied the trolley up again so that it was out of service all day. Township Committeeman Bruchman had the snow plough out as soon as the storm abated and opened up the sidewalks through the village.

Both primaries for the nomination of officers for the election on Tuesday next will be held tonight. The Republicans will meet in Excelsior Hall and the Democrats in Becket and Engine Company's rooms.

The condition of Mrs. Ann Cleaver, who has been seriously ill for the past week, remains about the same. Very little hopes are entertained of her recovery.

Owing to the storm last night no meeting of the Young People's Literary Society was held in the Methodist church.

Harold Marsh, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marsh, is quite ill with a severe attack of bronchitis.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held in the school parlors last night.

Mrs. Barbara Huff, of New York, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Stiliger.

The Township Committee will meet in the township rooms Friday evening.

AMATEUR PLAY.

"His Excellency, The Governor" Will be Produced in April by Local Talent.

The play for the month of April, which Lemuel W. Serrell is arranging, is "His Excellency, the Governor," which was given two seasons ago at the Empire Theatre, New York, with such success. The play will be given for the benefit of the Woman's Exchange. The cast includes Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren, Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell, Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, William R. Cock, Frederick W. Goddard, George S. Ring, Laurens H. VanBuren, A. Willis West, Harry L. McGee and Howard Huntington.

Rehearsals are now being held under the direction of Douglas S. Houghton, who has coached the former amateur productions arranged by Mr. Serrell.

FIVE YEARS AGO.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosenteihl Celebrated Their Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Rosenteihl, of Somerset street, celebrated the fifth anniversary of their wedding Tuesday. In the evening a pleasant surprise was given to them by a number of friends. The party met at the home of Mrs. John Schorb, and then proceeded to the home of the celebrants.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosenteihl were not at home at the time, but an entrance was effected to the house, and when they did arrive the greeting was a jolly one. Dancing was the feature of the evening and at midnight refreshments were served. Mrs. John Schorb and Miss Cora Schorb favored those present with selections on the piano. The affair was arranged by Miss Anna Kirch, assisted by Charles L. Smith.

MASONS TO MEET.

Will Assemble Tonight to Select a New Place of Meeting.

The members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., and Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., are requested to meet this evening at 8 o'clock at H. W. Marshall's place of business on East Front street, when matters pertaining to the loss by fire of the property of the several lodges will be discussed and a new place of meeting selected.

W. D. Murray to Lead.

W. D. Murray will conduct the service in the lecture room of the First Baptist church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. A portion of the Bible will be selected which is unfamiliar to many Bible students, with a view to making it helpful. Everybody will be welcome.

Surprised on Birthday.

A very pleasant birthday surprise was tendered to Mrs. Levi C. Kline, of Somerset street, last evening. The guests enjoyed games and music and during the evening refreshments were served. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Kline's daughter, Miss Reba Kline.

Will Tell of India.

Mrs. J. W. Conklin, a missionary in India, will speak to the members of the Young Women's Mission Band in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Visitors will be heartily welcome.

Continuation of Evangelistic Services Last Night—A Good Attendance.

Despite blizzard conditions, there was a fair company in the chapel of the Park Avenue Baptist church last night. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Hand, Roland Treadwell and George Watts.

After the reading of the Scriptures Dr. Hare spoke on the topic "The Everlasting Christ." The speaker said in part, "The incarnation did not change Jesus Christ. Some people entertain the idea that His life began with the manger, and ended on the cross. But Christ was on earth before coming to the manger; through the Spirit He is on earth today. The Christ of the Incarnation, was the creater of the universe. When we deal with Jesus, we deal with God. He is the reality upon which we must lean. Henry Grady, the eloquent orator of the south, asked his mother to come to his bedside when he came to die and take him in his arms, as she used when a child. She did so, and Henry Grady said, 'O how sure a man is when he rests on Christ.'

"Things are not true because Jesus Christ said them; but He said them because they were true. Therefore His word gives us a sure lasting foundation for the soul."

These meetings are growing in power and interest. Tonight, Rev. G. M. Shott, of Scotch Plains, will be the speaker. He is known as a very direct and powerful preacher. There will also be good singing tonight.

GOOD WISHES.

The Congregation of First Baptist Church Passed Resolutions Endorsing Vacation Given Pastor.

At the regular prayer-meeting in the First Baptist church, last evening, action was taken by the church regarding the leave of absence granted to Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, who is to go to Florida this week.

In connection with it the following was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the pastor of this church, according to the advice of some of the brethren, is about to take a trip to the south for a season of needed rest from his pastoral duties, and

"Whereas this action meets with the full approval of the deacons and trustees of the church, it is hereby

"Resolved by the members present at a regular prayer meeting of the church, Wednesday evening, March 5, 1902, that they heartily endorse the action referred to, and express their prayerful wish that the vacation may prove a beneficial and pleasant one both to Pastor Yerkes and his wife, who accompanies him."

JUDGMENT REVERSED.

Court of Errors and Appeals Gave Verdict for Mrs. Feller.

The case of Kinsey and the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company against Margaret Feller and George Feller was reversed by the Court of Errors and Appeals Monday. It was a great victory for Mrs. Feller and saves to her her property which otherwise would have been taken to satisfy the judgments against her husband. Codington & Swackhamer rrpresented Mrs. Feller and Senator Reed and Hon. A. A Clark represented Kinsey and the Cold Storage Company.

Hasn't Any Name.

Mrs. A. A. Cannon, of Somerset street, acted as hostess for the Nameless Card Club, at its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon. Euchre was the feature in which Mrs. Cannon and Mrs. Harry Coddington excelled, being awarded first prizes. The usual social time was held after the playing.

At His Tongue's End.

Commander Wadhams is said to have at his tongue's end a goodly supply of first-class tales of the sea. He will give his fascinating lecture, entitled "Yarns About Jack and Others," in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course Monday evening.

Prayer and Praise Service.

Next week Friday the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold a prayer and praise service in preparation for the missionary conference to be held in New York within a few weeks.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. NEW SERVICE FOR CENTRAL

ELIZABETH JOURNAL COMMENTS ON WHAT IS TO COME.

The Hourly Trains Between New York and Philadelphia and Improved Local Service.

The Central Railroad Company of New Jersey and the Philadelphia and Reading company are, according to authorative anouncements already made, about to begin a series of experiments eclipsing anything hitherto accomplished in the management of these roads.

On or about May 1 next trains are to be run hourly, from morning until night, between New York and Philadelphia, and these trains will go direct to the Reading terminal in Philadelphia, and passengers will not be obliged to change at Wayne Junction as at present. As the greater number of these new trains will stop at Elizabeth, they will increase the facilities of travel between this city and New York.

In addition, the company hopes to be able to run trains every fifteen minutes between New York and Newark, and to materially increase the number of trains between Elizabeth and Newark. Sixty new locomotives will be put into service, the order for them having been given a long time ago.

The news of this great improvements will certainly be received with great satisfaction, for, it must be admitted, the service on the Central road has not been satisfactory to either the company or to the traveling public for a considerable time past. There has been great room for improvement. This unsatisfactory condition of service was not, so far as can be ascertained, the fault of the management entirely. New ferryboats to take the place of the old ones were ordered over a year ago, and but two of them have been delivered; the others are yet to come, but may not be received for several months.

As already suggested, sixty new locomotives were ordered, but, as everyone knows, every locomotive factory in the world has been gorged with orders, ever since the era of prosperity set in, and deliveries have been delayed for months not only, but for years.

Meantime the business of the company, particularly in the freight departments, has increased enormously, while the equipment remained stationary or even depreciated under the excessive work put upon every locomotive or car belonging to the company.

The Central has ever been a popular road especially well patronized by people of Somerville, Plainfield, Elizabeth and all intervening places, and the Royal Blue line grew in favor until the conditions above outlined obtained. The patrons of the roads will be glad to know that the new managers have determined upon such a radical and thorough plan to accommodate the traveling public and to handle its increasing business.—Elizabeth Journal.

Will Return to Mission Field.

Miss Josephine Petrie, of this city, who has been working in Oklahoma and the Indian Territory under the auspices of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, will return to that part of the country in the near future for the purpose of continuing her work.

To Pay by Age.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church will hold a birthday sociable this evening at 8:15 o'clock. There will be received from each member, at the door, a sum of money equal to their age.

To Speak at High School.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, will speak at the morning exercises at the Plainfield High School in the near future.

Dance at Casino.

Arrangements are being made for a dance to be given in the Casino the latter part of this month.

CLUNG TO HIS BIRTHRIGHT.

There Are Limitations Even Upon a Man's Gratitude to His Preserver.

It was at the junction of two streets. An oldish man was about to step in front of an electric car going at full speed, when a hand seized him and flung him back. It was a close shave, says the Chicago Chronicle, and as soon as the old man realized it he extended his hand to his rescuer and exclaimed:

"You have saved my life and I can never repay the debt."

"I desire no thanks," was the modest reply.

"But you deserve more than thanks. I am a rich man and I want to give you some substantial token of my gratitude. Here—let me write you a check for—"

"I couldn't accept anything—really, I couldn't," protested the other, "but there is something you might do for me, all the same."

"Speak and it shall be done."

"You are a rich man and I know you by name. I am secretary of the gas company. Every month when you come in to pay your bill you raise a row for half an hour and swear that we are highway robbers. If you will only agree—"

"Not to raise a row over my gas bill? Never, sir—never! You saved my life and I stand ready to draw you a check for $10,000, but as for foregoing a privilege granted only to freeborn Americans, I can't surrender it—couldn't do it if you had saved my life a dozen times over."

AN AUTHOR'S MISHAP.

His Work of Inspiration Performed Under Disadvantage Goes Up in Curling Smoke.

While camping in the Adirondacks last summer, Percie W. Hart, author of "The Abracadabra Affair," in Lippincott's Magazine, had an inspiration regarding a unique short story, but found himself apparently helpless to utilize the fleeting thought. The camp was ten miles from civilization and, while creature comforts were abundant, the supply of paper was limited to bundle wrappers, and one stump of a lead pencil was the only literary tool in the outfit. But where there's a will there's a way. The happy thought came to strip off sheets of bark from the graceful birch tree (even as another Hiawatha) and utilize this romantic material. This was done, and all went well for a number of noontide hours and moonlit minutes snatched from sleep. The story grew until the pile of scribbled bark sheets upon the mantel shelf was as thick as a ponderous dictionary. Another pile of virgin sheets lay beside, all ready for the fast waning stub of a pencil. Returning late at night from a day's fishing, a cheery log fire in the hearth greeted the sportsmen. But, what's this? The bark screeds gone and only the virgin heap remaining! "Make fire," explained the French-Canadian guide. "Bark good make fire, an' only use dirty piece." And his manner and explanation were both so open and sincere that no man could have the heart to cavil.

IRISH CHURCHYARDS.

Walls and Head-Stones Ivy-Grown and Crumbling Mute Witnesses of Neglect.

How old they look, those Irish graveyards! Their walls are ivy-grown and crumbling. The trees that encircle them bear all the evidences of age, whilst those that stand here and there within are stunted and bare and well-nigh sapless, says a writer in Donohue's Magazine. The head stones are, for the most part, simple in design and uniform in character. On many of them, time in its wearing and corroding passage has effaced the epitaph; the stone has become discolored, and a coating as of withered moss adheres tenaciously to its surface. Most of them stand with a fair degree of erectness; but there are many that are slanting, as if too old or weary to do further duty above the graves. The surface of the churchyard is uneven, so many lie buried there and so crowded and unequal are the mounds above them. Strange to say, although a tender and endearing remembrance of their departed is characteristic of the Irish peasantry, they very rarely embellish the silent, sacred cities of their dead.

THEY DRANK ICICLES.

Recent Cold Spell Reminded Truthful Tourist of a Montana Winter Experience.

"Talk about this being cold weather," said the man with no overcoat to a Chicago Tribune reporter, "why, it's positively balmy compared with some of the weather I've met with out west. Last month, for instance, I was out in northern Montana and I had a lot of riding across country to do. One night my partner and I got caught out on the hills in a terrific storm, with the thermometer so far below zero that we lost all track of it. We rode for hours without getting in sight of a building of any kind. Finally my partner, who knows the country well, saw the chimney of a little shack off from the road and we turned towards it.

UP AGAINST IT.

"'Lizard Snyder lives there,' he said, 'and he always has some good liquor on tap. I reckon a good stiff horn of whisky is about what we need.'

"Certainly, if there ever was a time when it was justifiable to drink whisky it was then, for the cold was in our bones and we were almost overcome with exhaustion. We knocked up old 'Lizard,' and he let us in without much grumbling.

"'We're almost frozen,' my partner said, 'and we want a drink of whisky.'

"'Lizard' went down behind his little bar and brought up his keg of whisky, but even it was frozen solid. The keg itself was cracked and long icicles of whisky hung down about it.

"'There you are,' said 'Lizard,' 'now what are you going to do about it?'

"For a moment we were 'up against it.' Then my partner had a bright idea.

"'Just break us off a ten-cent icicle apiece,' he said.

"I haven't heard of anybody in this neck of the woods who has run against anything in the line of weather as tough as that, have you?"

TALE TO TOUCH HEARTS.

Trained Nurse Relates Experience Which Defies Both Munchausen and Joe Mulhatton.

"I will tell you what it is for," said the demure little New York nurse who had just asked for a contribution, "and I believe you will agree that it is a sad case and well deserving any aid you may care to give.

"Near my old home, down south in Alabama, is a lake which until last winter had never been frozen, when for the first time a solid sheet of ice covered the surface of the water. On the shore of this lake was a little cabin, the home of a happy family of negroes.

"One evening a large flock of wild geese alighted on the ice and settled down for the night. When darkness came the whole family armed themselves with clubs, went out on the ice and started in to kill the geese, which they thought were asleep. But here they mistook the situation.

"The poor geese were wide awake, but could not get away because they were all frozen tight to the ice. Still, they made one mighty combined effort to escape, and in doing so carried away with them the layer of ice which had covered the lake, and with it the negroes, and flew straight up until finally they disappeared from view and were never seen again.

"None of this unhappy family was left behind except the aged blind grandfather, who had remained in the cabin, and it is for his benefit I am taking up the collection."

Americans as Frog Eaters.

It is estimated that the people of the United States eat 2,000,000 frogs yearly. These frogs are sought for in all parts of the country, furnishing a paying industry not only for the hunters of them in their natural haunts, but for scores of persons who have frog farms.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF.

Which is Better—Try an Experiment or Profit by a Plainfield Citizen's Experience.

Something new is an experiment.
Must be proved to be as represented.
The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.
But the endorsement of friends is.
Now supposing you had a bad back.
A lame, weak or aching one.
Would you experiment on it?
You will read of many so-called cures.
Endorsed by strangers from far-away places.
It's different when the endorsement comes from home.
Easy to prove local testimony.
Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.
Read this case:

Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of 422 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

HEPBURN & CO.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—

BRIDAL GOWNS.

They Are Trimmed Much More Fancifully Than Formerly.

The accepted material for a wedding gown has long been plain white satin or peau de soie. It has been the custom also to make the gown in a rather severe and splendid style. As a result of this many women have looked their worst in their wedding dress. The latest gowns of this description, however, show that this mode is changing and that all the frivolities of fashion are being called into requisition. The waists are laid in fine tucks and the skirts covered with beautiful feathery ruffllings and embroideries. At one of the most fashionable weddings recently the bride wore a gown of white chiffon embroidered in satin true lovers' knots, and the waist and train were masses of lace.

The materials have grown sheerer and comprise chiffon, lace, point d'esprit, crepe de chine and even soft china silk. When satin is used, it is of the softer and more pliable varieties.

The cut shows one of the latest designs in bridal gowns. The dress is made of white chiffon and cream lace over white satin. The waist has a tucked yoke, with a full front and a short bolero of the lace. The sleeves, which are also of the lace, only reach to the elbow, where they are finished off with triple frills. The skirt has a front panel of the lace, and the full overskirt of chiffon is decorated with soft puffings around the bottom. The train, which is of lace and satin, starts from between the shoulders.

FASHIONS OF THE MOMENT

The Tricorne Hat—The Latest In Tailor Mades and Skirts.

At the present moment cloth frieze and zibeline gowns are chiefly worn, and these are most attractive when corded and strapped, the bodice being decorated with fancy panne. The Russian blouse and the Eton jacket are still popular, but little additions in the way of coattails are beginning to appear on the latter. In general the indications are coats are to be longer. Revers of lace and panne are popular on smooth cloths, and strappings of black moire are the latest thing.

The tricorne hat is extremely fashionable and is to be worn extensively this summer. The flat toque with layers of felt or cloth forming the crown is still a favorite, and very bright colorings are affected.

A great deal of lace is being used on everything, including hats and coats.

SATIN WAIST.

The smartest lace is colored coffee brown and is of the heavy Irish or Arabian weave.

Many of the newest skirts have separate flounces of the godet order, but so arranged that the separate flounce is not detected.

The shirt blouse waist in the illustration is made of satin marveilleux. It has a finely tucked front, and the plain sleeves are tucked into pretty cuffs of embroidery. The waist fastens in front with three fancy buttons. The chemisette is also of the tucked satin trimmed with a pointed collar of Persian embroidery and two bands of the same.

"He passed a restless night," she said, laying her hands upon the sick man's forehead. "There was considerable confusion in the city, and some one just before daylight fired a pistol near the house. This gave him a fearful shock."

"There is much excitement in Richmond over the secession movement," said Brodnar, "and the police are far too few for these times. What have you given him during the night?"

"I want my daughter to be present," said the sick man, fretfully; "I want her to hear the will read before I sign it, doctor."

"I am here, papa," said the girl, coming slowly forward and standing quietly near him. He looked into her face long and intently, his own softening.

"I would suggest," said the doctor, rising and addressing the elder woman, "that we leave them alone for a few moments; he seems a trifle brighter just now." She fixed her black eyes upon him steadily, and a slight smile moved the hard lines of her mouth.

"It would not do. Frances is excitable, and excitement is contagious."

"But I am sure, madam—!"

"It is useless, sir. He relies upon me, and is nervous if I leave him for even a minute." Her white hand fell in rhythmic monotony upon the invalid's forehead. Presently he reached up impatiently and pushed it away; but, waiting a moment, she resumed her caressings, and he made no further resistance.

"I want my daughter to hear it read," he said, querulously, reverting to a thought unspoken.

"Oh, I would not let her do that, sir," said Brodnar. "You will not permit that, madam!"

"She shall hear it," said the woman. "It pleases him; and he has a good object in it, I am sure."

A professional man who had been writing at a side table now came forward and read the dying man's will, a notary standing near. The latter exchanged glances with Brodnar and looked away, a half smile upon his lips. The document, after the usual recitations and the naming of numerous small legacies for family servants and others, proceeded as follows:

"And the residue of my property, my wife, Annette, having been amply provided for by deed of gift during my life, I bequeath to my daughter, Frances Brockin, upon condition that she shall, on or before attaining the age of 21 years, accept as her lawful husband Raymond Holbin, who has asked her hand of me, my object being to provide for the future of a wayward girl by giving her a guardian who is in all respects a gentleman and worthy of every confidence. But if my said daughter, Frances, fails or declines to marry the said Raymond Holbin within the limit of her minority, or immediately after attaining her majority, then I will and declare that all the property named and described as the residue of my estate, after legacies specified have been paid, shall vest in my wife Annette, the said Frances to become a charge upon my estate during her life for sustenance and clothing only, unless it happens that she enters into a marriage contract with some one other than the said Raymond Holbin, in which event the charge shall cease and the estate be acquitted of all demands from her, her heirs or assigns."

Absolute silence followed the reading of the document, except that an exclamation, half an oath, half a groan, burst from the doctor's lips. He strode to the table and picked up his hat, but paused when his gaze fell upon the figure of the slender girl. She stood erect, proudly looking at the group, her calm white face outlined against the damask curtains as the face of a statue. He laid his hat on the table, and, moving a little nearer to her, waited. The sick man grasped the pen with feverish energy and signed, the witnesses immediately attesting. The tall, grave woman took the legal instrument and applied a blotter. Then, folding it, she placed it in her bosom. To the lawyer's embarrassed protest she said:

"I am the executrix of this will, and I prefer to be its custodian. That is your desire, dear, is it not—you wish to keep the will here in the house?" The exhausted invalid nodded feebly. At this moment the door opened and Raymond entered the room. The elder woman, with an angry flush upon her face, walked rapidly towards him, and the lawyer passed out with the notary.

"Fool!" she whispered, "you endanger it all!" She drew him into a bay window, where they began an animated discussion. Brodnar had but one free moment but in that moment he acted. The girl had been left standing by her father's side. She alone caught the sentence whispered to her by the physician; her eyes followed him as he walked slowly away and then returned to rest upon the sick man. Gazing into his wan face, all her tenderness came back. Suddenly she sank by his side and clasped her hands upon his knees.

"Father!" she said, gently, "one word! Will you let me speak now? We may be parting for all eternity." He opened his eyes and looked steadily upon her.

"It is for eternity," he said. And then, somehow, his hand found her head and rested there reptly. "You are proud, Frances, and hurt, but the time will come when you will know that—I have acted for the best—"

"Oh, you think so," she said, shaking with half-suppressed emotion and hiding her face. "I know you think so. But—"

"Listen, Frances! You have a cousin whose name has long since ceased to be spoken in my family. She was proud—and wayward—and headstrong, too. You are very like her as she was—when her father's will made her my ward—as she was when she passed—away—"

"She is dead?"

"Yes, to us!" he waited for breath and strength to proceed. "A husband—would have saved her. She had a right under the will—to choose—her residence. A foolish aunt received her. She followed her own fancy!"

"I would not talk of it, father. It excites you."

"I must! She was always—heedless—of advice—self willed—jealous—And then she—disappeared — leaving — a note—and disgrace! I let her go. She is dead to me!" After a pause he continued: "I have seen you drifting away—Frances! disobedient—unloving—I would save you—if I could. Weep no more—I have forgiven; I have forgiven—!" The girl lifted her face quickly, indignant and agonized.

"You have been deceived, father; oh, so basely deceived. I am not wayward—I have never yet disobeyed you. If you had permitted I should have been with you night and day."

"If I had permitted!"

"Yes. It was you, they told me," she brokenly said—"it was you who sent me among strangers to school—you wished me never to come into your room—"

"Frances!"

"It is too late now," she said in anguish, "but I cannot part from you without telling you the truth. I love you, father. I would have been your dear daughter if you had not put it beyond my power."

"Child! What is it you are saying?"

"Do you not understand, father?" she said, passionately, "do you not know that that woman has for years deprived you of your independence—of your freedom? Now she has taken your property! Can't you see it? You have been robbed of everything—and I—! Oh, she has preyed upon your holiest feelings; she has turned you against your own child—the child to whose mother you promised to guard and guide!"

He raised himself in his chair. A look of fright was upon his face.

"See!" she cried, "there is the woman with her son dividing your property before you are dead. Oh, they think I am harmless, now; I am not to be feared! the die is cast, the will is signed, and you, father, have betrayed your only child into the hands of her bitterest enemy."

He was speechless and pale. His dull eyes were fixed on the girl's.

"But no," he said faintly, "this cannot be, it cannot be! My child, you are wronging a good woman—and Raymond—he has been very kind, so very kind!"

"You are blinded, father; you are unsuspecting. Tell me, have they ever said that for months I have been eager to be with you; that?"

"You, Frances! Why, you refused over and over—" She sank her head upon her chair.

"And you believed that of me? It was untrue—a cruel, cruel invention."

Mother and son caught the sound of her agitated voice and would have come over from the bay window, but Dr. Brodnar, drawing the sofa around as though to sit with them, stood with his hand resting upon it, completely blocking their way.

"To-day and to-night," he said, "he must have absolute quiet. Continue the powders I have left, and see that he does not attempt, under any circumstances, to walk about the room." He continued rapidly to give directions concerning the treatment of the patient, and disregarded the woman's efforts to pass him. Frances lowered her voice and continued earnestly:

"You do not believe me, father, you do not realize what you have done. You do not know the man to whom you have consigned me, nor the woman to whom you gave your name years ago. You knew nothing then! You know nothing now! You took her from Washington because she fascinated you as she had fascinated all those other men. You believed in her, because she knew intimately the great politicians. She was smart, too smart for an honest, honorable Virginia gentleman. Oh, my eyes have been opened to-day; the son is worthy of his mother. I do not know who Louise is, but a friend has just told me to say to you this: 'Ask Raymond Holbin what he has done with Louise; for he is the man who betrayed her by a mock marriage and took her abroad.'"

Motionless, but with straining eyes, the old man sat gazing at his daughter.

RETURN OF PRINCE.

A Flying Trip From Milwaukee to Niagara.

HEARTY GREETINGS ALONG ROUTE.

At the Falls Prince Henry Visits Canadian Soil and is Welcomed by Government Officials—Brief Stop at Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 6.—Prince Henry of Prussia traveled from Chicago to Niagara Falls yesterday, crossed the Canadian frontier for a brief stay, to which he was officially welcomed by the Dominion, and last night resumed his journey to Boston over the New York Central line. His longest stop in almost thirty hours of continuous traveling was at Niagara falls, which he saw bridged in with the ice of winter. He viewed the Horseshoe falls from Table Rock, the American falls from the ledge over the whirlpool on the Canadian shore, rode down the gorge to a point below the lower whirlpool and then inspected the plant of the Niagara Power company, which converts the force of nature to the purpose of commerce. He was much impressed by the falls and as he stood on Table Rock looking across at the Horseshoe said: "It is magnificent. It is grand." He was greatly impressed by the swirling rapids down in the gorge, and when he left his car at the whirlpool he stood for several minutes watching the play on the water.

The special train had covered the distance between Milwaukee and Chicago, crossed Indiana and was well on its way over Ohio before Prince Henry arose. He was worn out when he left Milwaukee and did not respond to the demonstrations made by the people of Toledo and Sandusky.

At Cleveland there was a friendly demonstration, and Peter Karpp, formerly a bugler in the German army, climbed into the car for a reunion that was pleasant on both sides. Peter Karpp had been a sailor with Prince Henry back in 1877, and they were shipmates for more than two years.

At Erie, Pa., there was a crowd that made the most dangerous jam of the entire journey. Women and children were wedged in against the train, and the effort to check the swirling crowd that pressed in from the rear was useless. Several women fainted, and anybody anywhere near the center of the crowd was submitted to dangerous pressure. Mrs. Harriet Gridley and Miss Gridley, widow and daughter of Captain C. V. Gridley, the man who fought on the Olympia at Manila Bay, were received on the train by Admiral Evans, who went to the Naval academy with the dead captain, and were presented to the prince.

All through the morning as the train ran through a corner of Pennsylvania and out into the state of New York there were crowds at the stations anxious to see the prince and tender assurances of friendship. Dunkirk had its band out and at Buffalo Mayor Knight welcomed the prince and the local German singing societies sang. It was 2:45 o'clock when the special arrived at Buffalo, and fifteen minutes later it was steaming out to Niagara Falls. At Niagara Falls station the prince was met by Mayor Butler and a large reception committee and formally welcomed to the city.

When Mayor Butler concluded, Dr. William Snyder spoke in behalf of the Germans of the city.

The prince did not make a speech in response, but thanked both of them for their greeting. The prince was then driven to the Canadian side, accompanied by a mounted escort made up of local militia officers. Midway on the bridge that spans the rapids the prince was met by the man who spoke for the Canadian government and people. Major P. S. Maude, military secretary for Lord Minto, governor general of Canada, presented the formal greeting of his chief, and the Hon. R. Harcourt, minister of education for Ontario, delivered the addresses passed by the legislature of Ontario.

At 6 o'clock the prince was back aboard his train and fifteen minutes later departed for Boston. George H. Daniels, general passenger agent of the New York Central, joined the special at Buffalo and will go through with it to Boston and New York. He was presented to the prince.

Fully 20,000 people crowded the train shed and depot of the New York Central and additional thousands lined the tracks for blocks east and west of the station or took up positions of vantage on roofs and in windows of tall buildings when, at 8:25, the arrival of Prince Henry's special train in this city was announced by the firing of a bomb at the end of the trainhouse.

Immediately red fire on the tops of hundreds of buildings burst forth, searchlights pointed out the American and German flags suspended from kites in midair, and five minutes later amidst a grand pyrotechnic display the train bearing the royal visitor drew slowly into the crowded train shed.

As the train pulled into the station the Fifty-fourth regiment band played "Die Wacht am Rhein," and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired, but the balance of the programme was not carried out as had been planned.

Welcomed at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 6.—The snowstorm which visited Syracuse Tuesday evening cleared before the arrival of the Prince Henry train at 10:55. The home city of Ambassador Andrew D. White prepared a rousing welcome for the kaiser's brother. An immense throng of enthusiastic people cheered him lustily. The train was stopped at City Hall square, where soldier boys and police surrounded it, permitting inside the lines only the city officers and the citizens' committee in charge of the ceremonies. Mayor Jay B. Kline greeted the prince and presented him with a gold seal of the city in a solid silver box. Former Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals Charles Andrews presented the engrossed address, and Mrs. Johannes Schaefer and Mrs. G. F. E. Weisterling, for the German women, presented two albums, one for the kaiserin and the other for Princess Irene. The prince responded gracefully and then from the platform bowed his thanks and appreciation to the cheering thousands. Syracuse university students, with torches and a band, enlivened the occasion and gave the prince a yell prepared for the occasion. At 11:07 the train departed for the east.

CALDWIN HEARD FROM.

Pole Seeker Wintering at Franz Josef Land.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 6.—Letters dated from Franz Josef Land, Aug. 17, have been received here from the Danes who accompanied the Baldwin-Ziegler arctic expedition, which left Tromso, Norway, July 16, last year, on the steamers America and Belgica.

The vessels arrived at Franz Josef Land, after trying experiences, with all on board well. The America intended to winter at Franz Josef Land and then proceed northward until stopped by the ice, when the party on board of her was to start toward the north pole.

Mr. Baldwin wrote that he hoped the America would reach 83 degrees north.

A Pure Beer Hearing.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 6.—The public health committee of the senate gave a hearing yesterday afternoon on Senator Maltby's bill, entitled an act to prevent deception in the manufacture and sale of beer, ale and porter. The measure is commonly known as the pure beer bill, and, while it does not prohibit the use of glucose in the manufacture of beer, it prohibits the label of "pure beer" when glucose is used. A large delegation of brewers was present at the hearing and made strong protest against the enactment of the measure, claiming that the use of glucose did not harm beer drinkers, and in fact less than 10 per cent of glucose was used.

New Jersey Legislature.

TRENTON, N. J., March 6.—The senate has passed the senate bill requiring the state treasurer to deposit the state money in banks that will pay at least 2 per cent interest. The house passed the house bill appropriating $50,000 for a state sanitarium for consumptives. A large number of bills were given a second reading, and the two houses adjourned until next Monday night. It is now considered doubtful that the legislature will finally adjourn on March 21. The Sewell memorial exercises are expected to be held on March 24, and it is probable that the session of the legislature will be continued until Friday, March 28.

New Governor Sworn In.

PANAMA, March 6.—The president of the supreme court here, Senor Guizado, administered the oath of office to General Salazar, the new governor of the isthmus, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The installation in office of General Salazar was witnessed by a large crowd. News has been received here that the government general Rodriguez, with 500 men, defeated 400 revolutionists at Sevilla, department of Magdalena, on the 22d of last month.

Troops Hold Norfolk.

NORFOLK, Va., March 6.—Street cars guarded by troops are running at long intervals here, but no passengers are being carried. All is quiet as this dispatch is sent, and Mayor Beamon states that there is no necessity yet for declaring martial law. Four additional companies of the Seventy-first infantry have been ordered out, and this will place the entire command in the field, two battalions being already in service.

Strikers Discharged.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 6.—Local linemen belonging to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers failed to reach an agreement in a conference with the Pennsylvania Telephone company officers. They went on strike and were promptly paid off. The linemen held out for 29 cents an hour, the company offering 25 cents as a compromise.

Three Killed by Coal Gas.

OCONOMOWOC, Wis., March 6.—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McLaughlin and Mrs. Margaret McDermott, all old people, were found in the McLaughlin home here. A hard coal stove door was open, showing that death was by asphyxiation. The bodies were badly bloated.

Two New Cunarders.

LIVERPOOL, March 6.—The Daily Post understands that the Cunard line is to build two passenger steamers to eclipse in size anything afloat. They are to be over 700 feet long and of 48,000 horsepower each.

building. The next two stores on Front street were occupied by Woodhull & Martin's big department store. Their carpet store was located at the corner. They also had the basement. The W. C. T. U. and the Plymouth Brethren each occupied a store on Madison avenue. The printing establishment of the Sabbath Recorder occupied the first floor of the anex.

On the second floor Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, had estabilshed temporary editorial rooms in room 203. Rooms 204 and 205 were occupied by Frank J. Hubbard, civil engineer. H. C. Suydam, a lawyer whose home is in Bound Brook, had room 210. Tapscott & Hardingham, insurance brokers, occupied room 211. Harry C. Runyon and the Board of Trade made their headquarters in room 212. Mr. Runyon is secretary of the board. There were a number of empty offices on the floor including those recently occupied by Reed & Coddington, lawyers.

Thomas B. Titsworth, janitor of the building, and Charles H. Schermerhorn, manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company's local office, both occupied flats on that floor.

On the third floor, Miss J. Price, dressmaker, has rooms 304 and 305. The headquarters of the Colonial Life Insurance Company was in rooms 306 and 307. Rogers Corporation, manufacturers of plated silver ware, had a large stock of goods in its offices in rooms 312, 316 and 318. George H. Fountain had his photographic establishment in rooms 313 and 314. Room 315 was used for storage by Mrs. A. R. Sheppard. H. O. Bogert, a clerk in Woodhull & Martin's kept batchelors hall in room 315.

On the same floor, A. V. Giles lived with his family and conducted dining parlors. He had a few boarders. C. M. Fine, a clerk at Love Brothers' grocery, and W. J. Morgan also had rooms there.

The tenants on the fourth floor included William Holmes, whose musical studio was at rooms 404 and 405; the offices of George D. Herring, the osteopath, at rooms 406 and 407; the Young Women's Club at rooms 412 and 413. William A. MacClymont's musical studio was located on that floor. In the annex on the same floor was W. B. Gilbert's artist studio, Miss May Vincent Whitney's musical studio. Edward C. Woodward, maker of rubber stamps, had a room there. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Macnab and Mrs. A. P. Tomlinson occupied another flat. Mr. Macnab is instructor in the commercial department at the Plainfield High School.

On the fifth floor were flats occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey A. Bodine, Horace A. Woodward, E. S. Brokaw, the carpenter and builder, and Wesley Brokaw, the piano tuner.

The front part of the fifth floor was divided into Masonic Hall on the south-western corner, Odd Fellows hall in the central part and the rooms of Plainfield Camera Club on the entire eastern end.

ESCAPED FALLING WALLS

The Sebring building, a three-story frame structure, to the east of the Babcock building, was crushed by falling walls five minutes after the inmates had deserted it. The loss to the building itself is estimated at $6,500, which is partially covered by insurance. It is part of the Squire Sebring estate. The widow had rooms on the second floor. Wm. Nelson and family occupied the rear of the first floor. The two stores were occupied, one by O. M. Dunham, dealer in men's furnishings, and the other jointly by B. W. Hand, stationer, and H. D. Thompson, agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Company. Mr. Thompson puts his personal loss at $250, no insurance. His company's loss is not known. Mrs. Thomas Lawson had some goods stored on the third floor.

Mrs. Sebring was awakened by Elwood Sebring and James A. Stafford. She was finally persuaded to dress and leave the building. She was ill at the time. Five minutes after they left the building the wall fell.

FIRE'S PROBABLE ORIGIN

As to the origin of the fire, there is one theory generally advanced by those who are concerned. It is believed that it started from a cigar or cigarette stump. Most people agree that the fire was first seen in the Odd Fellows' room on the top floor front. From that point the fire spread rapidly throughout the upper floor.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., which meets in the Odd Fellows' room, held a regular meeting last evening. Robert Rushton, a member of the lodge, was one of the last to leave the room and he says that he detected a peculiar odor. It did not impress him sufficiently to lead him to investigate.

Another opinion seems to be that the fire smoldered for several hours before it burst through the roof and windows. It is the opinion of the firemen that the fire had at least twenty minutes' start of them before an alarm was sent in.

SOME IDEA OF THE LOSSES

The entire loss is estimated at $250,000 but it will be weeks before anything like accurate figures can be secured. The loss on the building itself is placed at $160,000, covered by insurance, Woodhull & Martin's at $50,000, covered by insurance, Rogers Corporation, $18,000, covered by insurance.

Among the other losses are Frank J. Hubbard, civil engineer, $1,500, fully insured; Tapscott & Hardingham, $500, $250 insurance; A. E. Faber, of the Union Tire Company, $250; Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, $200, no insurance; William E. MacClymont, $600, no insurance; Masonic Hall Association, $10,000, partially insured; paraphernalia of members, $2,000, not insured; other lodges on fifth floor, $1,000, partly insured; H. C. Suydam, $1,000, partly insured; Harry Runyon, $500; Board of Trade, $100, no insurance; William Holmes, $3,000, no insurance; Young Woman's Club, $500, no insurance; George DeW. Herring, $300, no insurance; Camera Club, $1,500, insured for $300, individual loss of members, $500 no insurance; Sabbath Recorder, $200, insured; A. V. Giles, $400, insured; and the following tenants in the annex: Joseph Longhead $150, no insurance; E. S. Brokaw $100, insured; Wesley Brokaw $50, insured; Miss J. Price, $500 not insured; Harry Bogert, H. A. Bodine, C. M. Fine, William Morgan, Mrs. A. R. Shepard, William Gilbert, Miss May Whitney, Edward Woodward, J. D. Macnab, Mrs. A. B. Tomlinson, and George H. Fountain from $50 to $200 each, partly insured.

SNEAK THIEVES REPORTED

Early this morning, sneak thieves began removing valuable goods from the building. Patrolman Higgins stopped a number of men from removing silk from Woodhull & Martin's place. Patrolman Lunger took into custody Fred Kohler, of the borough, who he alleges was taking silverware from the Rogers' Corporation rooms. Patrolman Lunger also arrested Edward Wolf, of the borough, who insisted on driving through the fire lines with a load of telegraph poles.

ABOUT THE WATER PRESSURE

Amos Andrews, superintendent of the water company, told a Press representative, this morning, that he found several hydrants only partly turned on, accounting for the poor pressure. Mr. Andrews says that when the department first began drawing water the pipe was filled within ten inches of the top.

POSTOFFICE'S NEW QUARTERS

Postmaster E. H. Bird and his faithful assistants, assisted by the police, rescued all the mail at the postoffice. It was taken to Mrs. L. J. Denton's store, and the letter-carriers made one regular delivery this morning before 9 o'clock.

A temporary office has been established in the store on East Front street, formerly used by the Union Furniture Company. Postmaster Bird early this morning wired the Postmaster-General about the fire. Postmaster W. B. R. Mason, of Bound Brook, wired Mr. Bird this morning his personal sympathy, and offered any assistance possible.

PLAN TO REBUILD AT ONCE

It is stated on good authority that work will be started at once to rebuild the Babcock building. It will not be rebuilt, however, on the same lines as before. It will be but four stories high, and the general design will be changed. It is also stated that a temporary roof will be put over the first floor so that Woodhull & Martin may resume operations at the first possible moment.

OPENED TEMPORARY QUARTERS

While the building was still blazing fiercely, Woodhull & Martin promptly prepared to resume business in temporary quarters. No time was lost in securing the store, 324 West Front street, Schepflin building, for their carpet department and they will continue to fill all orders there. As soon as a stock can be secured, business will be resumed in the other departments. Further details will be announced later.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—George Muir, of Essex street, has accepted a position at the Pond Tool Works.

—Several propositions will be received and one candidate initiated at the meeting of Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, Royal Arcanum, this evening.

CITY COURT.

Elwood Staats Will Get a License—Two Vagrants Up.

Elwood Staats, the expressman who was arrested yesterday for not taking out a license, promised to do so before City Judge Runyon in the afternoon and was released. A similar charge preferred against Julius Levy was dismissed.

Two vagrants, Frank Williams and George Taylor, were arrested yesterday afternoon by Chief Kiely and Patrolman Lunger. They will be tried this afternoon.

BENNER'S BURNED.

Cottage Hotel Was Completely Destroyed by Fire This Morning.

"The Cottage Hotel," located on South avenue and owned by John Benner, who ran the place as a roadhouse, was totally destroyed by fire betwen 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, entailing a loss of between $6,000 and $7,000. How the fire started Mr. Benner does not know. The occupants barely escaped with their lives.

Fed the Firemen.

Kind-hearted citizens who wished to help in the work did so by distributing coffee and sandwiches to the firemen. Among those who established stations were L. W. Randolph, who opened his pharmacy at 5:30 for the purpose and Mrs. W. W. Hart, of Duer street.

Temporary Quarters.

B. W. Hand, whose stationery store in the Sebring building was destroyed, has established temporary quarters in Frank Rowley's drug store, where The Daily Press and other papers will be sold. His Sunday deliveries will be made from M. Abrams' store.

Death of Wm. Nelson.

William Nelson, of New York, a brother of Edward Nelson, of West Front street, died at his home February 24, after a three weeks' illness with the grip. He lived in Plainfield twenty years ago. He leaves a son and a daughter.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

CLEARING UP AFTER CITY'S MOST DISASTROUS BLAZE

Fire Was Officially Declared Out at 3:50 o'Clock Yesterday Afternoon When Recall Was Sounded.

THE LOSS STILL PLACED AT $250,000.

BABCOCK BUILDING WILL BE REBUILT AS SOON AS SETTLEMENT IS MADE.

Detailed Description of the Extent of the Fire and How It Was Checked at the Wall Separating Main Building From the L Known as the Annex—Chief's Story of the Fire and the Probable Cause—Other Details of the Fire.

It was not until yesterday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock that Plainfield's most disastrous fire, which left the main part of the Babcock building in ruins and destroyed property valued at a quarter of a million dollars, was officially declared out. Even before that time, the work of clearing away the debris from the street and sidewalk was in progress. This morning, initial steps were taken to prepare the building for occupancy once more.

Twenty-four hours has given the various tenants of the building a chance to see where they are. Those who occupied rooms in the annex did not suffer at all from fire. The occupants of the rooms nearest the main building had their rooms partially flooded and met with more or less loss in that way. The tenants in the northern end of the L, which forms the annex, did not suffer any loss.

While the actual loss will not be known for some time until the insurance appraisers get to work, a more careful consideration of the estimated losses shows very few changes from the figures made public yesterday. It is believed that the losses will total up to $250,000, of which $150,000 is on the building itself.

The postoffice is in new quarters on East Front street and its business is going on as usual. Deliveries are made as usual and the second class matter, rescued from the fire, has all been distributed.

As the damage in Woodhull and Martin's big department store was almost entirely by water, it will not be so difficult to put that store in condition for business. A temporary roof has been planned so that business may be resumed there at the earliest possible moment. The carpet department of that firm is doing well in its new quarters in the Schepflin block, West Front street.

HOW IT LOOKED AFTER FIRE

Hundreds of people lined West Front street and Madison avenue, all yesterday afternoon, to view the ruin of the once handsome Babcock building.

The firemen were completing their work early in the afternoon while the city street department employes were busy all day clearing away the debris from the streets and sidewalks.

As it stands today, the main portion of the building which fronts on West Front street and extends along Madison avenue for nearly a hundred feet, is completely gutted. The L, which runs along Madison avenue and then follows the brook, commonly known as the annex is perfectly intact and shows no signs of the fierce blaze so near at hand.

Towering above all in the very centre of the ruins the elevator shaft. The metal gates are still in position as are portions of the iron stairway which winds around it. The walls of the main portion still stand as high as the fourth floor. The balconies on the Front street side are in various stages of collapse. Only one of the gables, which rise above the fourth floor, remains. The others fell during the course of the fire. The side wall, above the fourth floor, was the one which toppled over and crushed the Sebring building.

The large attic and the fifth floor have disappeared entirely. Below that point, some of the iron girders and braces, which supported the Third and fourth floors, still remain in position or are twisted about by the intense heat. The stairway is intact as far up as the third story where a few square feet of flooring is still in position. Some of the floor beams of the third floor, badly charred, are still there.

Little remains of the second story except the floor at the eastern end. The offices on this floor on the Madison avenue side are still distinguishable but partially filled with debris. The rooms at the corner on this floor, occupied until a few months ago by the law firm of Reed & Coddington, show but little sign of fire, the ceiling only being broken through in a few places, while the walls still stand and the floor is unhurt. They have all been completely flooded and the water carried with it much of the smaller debris of the fire.

It was the second floor that caught the bulk of the falling timbers and charred remains of the upper floors. Safes, radiators and iron work had crashed down as well. The floor beams here were on fire but the work of the fire department began to tell when the fire reached that point and they were not burned through, except in a few instances, and so the great mass of debris did not reach the ground floor.

In two places, the second floor was burned completely through in the store of Woodhull & Martin and set fire to the woodwork there but the fire did not last long. Another hole was burned through in the back part of the postoffice.

The damage on the first floor was, therefore, almost entirely done by water. The sprinklers were at work from 6 o'clock until the middle of the afternoon while the tons of water thrown into the building by the dozen streams found its way down. Everything of a perishable nature was ruined by the flood and the smoke which was very thick there for a time.

There is a single story extension in the rear of the main part of the building which extends back for another hundred feet. Woodhull & Martin's store occupies it. It was from the top of it that the North Plainfield firemen used one stream with much effect. The city department also ran a line there and was thus able to protect the eastern side of the annex and all of the northern end of the L. They also were able to prevent the fire from spreading to the single story extension. There are several skylights in its roof and through these the firemen added to the flood in the store below.

Woodhull & Martin also occupied the basement. While the fire didn't get there, the water did. Last evening, soundings reported the water there to the depth of four feet. The destruction of the stock in the basement will therefore be general, except as to the crockery and glass ware.

The elevator shaft was cleaned out by the fire which early made its way down it. The cables holding the car were released by the fire and the car tumbled to the bottom with a horrid crash The wreck of it now remains at the bottom of the shaft.

While the walls still stand, and appear to be perfectly firm, it is probable that they will have to be torn down as far as the second story at least. While they are perfectly safe at present, a high wind might cause the remains of the eastern wall to join the rest of it on top of the ruins of the Sebring building. This wall is cracked at the northen end. If it fell, a portion of the front wall would probably do likewise.

The so-called annex now towers high above the ruins of the main structure. A wall separated the two parts, broken only by doorways on the second, third and fourth floors. These were filled by iron sheathed doors. The wall did not extend above the roof, after the fashion of the modern fire wall, but was topped by the rafters.

From the street, the doorway on the fourth floor is visible, the door having been removed. The third floor doorway is hidden by the walls which are partially standing at that point. The fire did not reach the doorway on the second story.

It was at this wall that the firemen made their stand and by heroic efforts prevented the spread of the flames to the L. The defence was made at three points, the roof where the fire started to creep along the rafters and at the third and fourth floor doorways. The iron plates on the doors became almost red hot but they were extinguished before the surrounding woodwork north of the wall caught fire.

In connection with this defence, there was one exciting incident. Chief Doane found the fire coming around the door on the fourth floor. Giving Janitor T. B. Titsworth a line of the small hose belonging to the building, he told him to keep the doorway. Doane and Titsworth fought side by side during the Civil War and were old comrades.

"Hold that door till I can get another line of hose here," shouted the Chief. "It means the safety of this part of the building."

"I'll stay as long as any white man can" came back the answer. Titsworth remained pluckily at his post playing the little stream of water on the door despite the smoke and flame that rushed out into his face. Then a line of hose, manned by members of the Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield, relieved him. But it was his pluck that saved the annex.

A confused mass of blackened knives, forks and spoons on the second floor of the main structure is all that remains of the large stock of silver plated ware of the Rogers Corporation, which had rooms on the floor above. The sight-seers, who wandered through the remains of the building, yesterday, found several cart loads of them half buried in the debris.

Anxious members of the Masonic Order unearthed all that remained of the equipment of Masonic Hall on the small remaining portion of the third floor. The lodge Bible, with its leaves partially burned, was found as were the aprons in a similar condition. Part of the equipment of the Knights Templar was discovered in the rubbish, most of it damaged beyond repair.

The ruins of the Sebring building, just east of the Babcock building, presented a strange sight. While the fire had been at work there, most of the damage was due to the falling of the wall above. The three story building had been crushed like an egg-shell. Several broken portions of the partition walls projected above the mass of ruins. On one hung a mirror which had not been touched by the falling bricks. The tenants returned during the afternoon and unearthed portions of their wardrobe and a quantity of canned fruit and preserves which had escaped destruction.

CHIEF'S STORY OF THE FIRE

When a Daily Press reporter called on Chief T. O. Doane at his home last evening, he found a tired and weary individual, but one ready to go out at a second's call if necessary. He was physically tired, but the fire spirit was evident and ready to answer any alarm that might come in.

"Well, Chief, it was a great fire, was it not?" was the question put to the head of the fire department.

"Indeed it was and in many respects it was the most disastrous blaze Plainfield has seen in many a day," was the reply. "I have often been asked by insurance agents, as well as others, what the department would do in case of a fire in the Babcock building. My reply has always been that it would do the best it could. Some of the agents who have made a close study of fires were willing to wager that we could not stop such a fire short of Compton's alley, but I have told them that I believed the department could do far better.

"In a great many respects," continued Chief Doane. "we had the greatest kind of luck. That is many things were in our favor and helped us to save adjoining property. The snow-capped roofs on other buildings, the direction of wind all combined to help us in keeping the fire within the confines of the walls of stone and brick.

The Chief asked the reporter if he would like to hear his story of the fire, and when assured that he would, a most graphic and thrilling account was given.

"I was awake on the first sound of the tapper and in five minutes afterward I was at the Babcock building. Assistant Chiefs Murray and Jennings had preceded me by a brief space of time. When I reached the scene of the fire the whole top floor of the immense structure was ablaze I found my assistants in the main entrance to the building with a line of hose and trying to pour water into the elevator shaft. I saw at once that it would be useless to do this and called them from the building.

"We then laid as many lengths of hose as possible and our main efforts were turned to saving the adjoining property, while we decided to save as much of the Babcock building as possible. From the start and for some time afterward we were handicapped by the low pressure of water. This I learned later was due to the fact that the hydrants were not fully opened. Why this was not done puzzles me. There should have been no trouble along this line.

"Another delay was caused in getting the hook and ladder truck and engine to the fire. They were stuck in the snow and had to be assisted out. This, together with the time consumed in getting the several lines of hose laid, all combined to delay our work somewhat. Lines of hose were laid through Madison avenue and along Front street and the buildings opposite were soaked, while as far as possible water was thrown into the burning building.

"I was not long in deciding that our point of vantage was in the rear of the building, where we had a good chance to save that portion which was divided from the main part by a wall. We succeeded in stretching several lengths of hose in that section, and let me tell you that the North Plainfield boys did great work at that point in staying the progress of the fire. Warren engine was taken to the brook, but it was soon found impossible to get any water from there. The steamer was then taken to the corner of Lincoln place and Duer street, where a connection was made with a hydrant.

"In the meantime I got Thomas B. Titsworth, janitor of the building, to accompany me to a point on the third floor, where the main building is divided from the rear part. Here Titsworth remained with a small hose staying the progress of the flames, while I succeeded in getting a regular line of hose there. When this was done we were able to keep the fire forward and eventually put it out, assisted by the lines of hose playing in the front."

"What do you think as to the origin of the fire, Chief?" was asked.

"That is a difficult question to answer," replied the Chief. "There is some very bad electric wiring in the upper part of the building, and as I have always said the building was a fire trap. This is substantiated by the rates of insurance on the structure which were very high. I am told and believe that there was enough lumber in the roof and upper part of the building to build forty houses. There as nothing but an ordinary tin roof on the top of it. If the building is rebuilt it will be done in accordance with the building ordinance and on

BENNER'S HOTEL WAS BURNED TO GROUND

Only Proprietor and Neighbors Were on Hand to Fight the Destroying Flames.

IN FANWOOD TOWNSHIP.

FIRE WAS DISCOVERED BY EDWARD KING, A HIRED MAN.

Housekeeper Escaped in Only Her Night Garments—The Loss Will Amount to Nearly $7,000—Insurance Was $1,200.

The fire, which destroyed "The Cottage Hotel," on South avenue, yesterday morning between 12 and 1 o'cock, was a most peculiar one. John Benner, the proprietor, had been spending the previous evening with a neighbor, Mr. Pierson, whose boy is ill with pneumonia. He left Pierson's house a few minutes after 12 o'clock and when he reached home he found his brothers, Henry and Fred Benner, sitting by a stove in the kitchen.

After the horses were attended to for the night, all retired about 12:30. A few minutes later, Edward King, a hired man, called to Mr. Benner and asked him if he detected the odor of something burning. He replied no, but a few minutes after that he did smell something burning and called to his housekeeper. She agreed with him and King then went down stairs to investigate.

Upon reaching the barroom, King discovered the room to be in a blaze. His next thought was to get the people out of the hotel. After much trouble everyone succeeded in getting out. The men were able to get some clothes, but the housekeeper escaped in her night garments.

As soon as possible she was taken to a neighbor's house, while the men remained and did the best they could. The hotel is out of the city limits so Plainfield did not lend any assistance. It is believed that the Fanwood fire department did not know of the fire. Mr. Benner says that, with the exception of Harry Pierson, his neighbor, no other help was about.

The hotel and contents are a total loss, which Mr. Benner places at nearly $7,000. He will get $1,200 in insurance. The hotel contained fifteen rooms, all nicely furnished throughout. Fortunately, the barns and several valuable horses and wagons were not destroyed. As yet Mr. Benner does not know just what he will do.

Birthday Social Followed Endeavor Meeting at the Crescent Avenue Church Last Evening.

After the regular meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church, last evening, the members enjoyed a birthday social. Entertainment was furnished by contributions of vocal and instrumental music and shadowgraph pictures, the latter given by Mrs. Stephen Voorhees. Refreshments were served at the close.

The social was arranged by the social committee of the society which consists of Mrs. Stephen Voorhees, chcirman, assisted by Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Fred G. Smith and Arthur Smith.

ANNOUNCED WEDDING.

Councilman L. M. Daniel Was Married in Brooklyn Wednesday—Bride Was Miss Hiler.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Councilman Leslie M. Daniel, of West Eighth street, and Miss Anna J. Hiler, daughter of the late Lewis B. Hiler, of Brooklyn, which took place Wednesday at the residence of the bride in Brooklyn. The marriage was performed by Rev. J. A. Van Neste, of Brooklyn. The bride and groom will take up their residence in this city.

Named As Executors.

B. R. Force and Miss Emma Force are named as the executors of the last will of their father, George W. Force. Surrogate Parrot will issue the necessary papers for settling the estate in a few days.

—Members of Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet in the rooms of Benevolent Council, Washington Hall this evening.

Tomorrow's Daily Press will contain illustrations of the big fire.

PROMPT ACTION SAVED PROPERTY AT FIRE

The Police Gathered in Those Found at Work Among the Valuables at Babcock Fire.

HALED TO CITY COURT.

TWO WERE GIVEN HEARINGS BEFORE CITY JUDGE RUNYON YESTERDAY.

One Was An Employe and Was Gathering Souvenirs—The Other Didn't Want to See Valuables Destroyed—Both Released.

Prompt action on the part of Chief Kiely in placing a cordon of policemen about the ruins of the building, yesterday, undoubtedly prevented hundreds of dollars worth of property from being removed. Dozens of people who escaped observation and got in the fire lines, were stopped taking away small articles of more or less value which they had picked up. Reputable business men and even one fireman, the latter with a costly roll of velvet, were held up and made to return what they had taken.

Two arrests were made at noon for stealing by Patrolman Lunger. The men were Fred Kohler and Edward Cuff, the latter colored, who were caught taking silverware from the rooms of the Rogers Corporation on the second floor. Kohler was employed as shipping clerk for the concern, while Cuff was engaged in removing the debris.

Both were locked up and later arraigned before City Judge Runyon. Kohler claimed he was picking up small articles for souvenirs to give to friends. He disclaimed any intention of wrongdoing. A member of the concern, J. P. Mosher, vouched for his previous good record and on the strength of this sentence was suspended.

Cuff admitted taking the silverware but said he had done so because he knew it would be destroyed and he thought he might as well have it. Cuff has served terms in prison for stealing but for the past six years has conducted himself very well, as Chief Kiely attested. Sentence in his case was suspended.

In lowering a safe from the second story this morning, it crashed through the plate glass window to the old postoffice. Damage, $200.

MARTIN ACT AMENDMENTS

BILL ON SUBJECT INTRODUCED IN THE LEGISLATURE.

Assemblyman Gnichtel, of Essex, Wants Limit to Rate of Interest.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 7 — A proposed amendment to the Martin act limiting the interest to be paid by owners in redeeming property that has been sold for tax arrearages has been introduced in the House by Mr. Gnichtel, of Essex.

Under the present law there is no limit to the purchase price at tax sales, and in redeeming the land the original owner must pay the purchaser ten per cent. interest upon the entire purchase price. Speculators allow this interest to increase by waiting, sometimes for years, before giving the necessary six months' notice that they intend to take title to the property.

The proposed amendment offered by Mr. Gnichtel provides that when the purchaser at a tax sale has paid for any property a sum in excess of the amount actually due the city for taxes, assessments, water rents or water rates, he shall give the owner notice within six months of his intention to take title, and in case of his failure to give such notice in six months, the interest on the amount paid by the purchaser in excess of the tax liens shall cease.

Painting Contract Awarded.

At a meeting ot the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church, last evening, the contract for painting the church edifice was awarded to Woolston & Buckle.

Gave Fakir Sixty Days.

Geo. Taylor, a fake "deafmute," was given sixty days by City Judge Runyon this morning. Sentence was suspended on Frank Williams, a fellow tramp.

—Special at Neuman Brothers; extra sweet, Telephone peas, two cans for twenty-five cents. They have been reduced from sixteen cents each.

COUNCIL HAS RECONSIDERED

Common Council Reversed Its Action and Withdrew All Opposition to the Bills.

AT MEETING LAST NIGHT

W. L. Saunders and P. V. R. VanWyck Were Present and Spoke, So Were President L. B. Woolston and C. W. Runyon, of Board of Trade—Two Opposed It.

The chief and only business considered by the Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last evening, was attended to behind closed doors. The session was called to order after 8 o'clock and after electing Mr. Wean clerk pro tem, Mr. Mellick moved that the Council take recess. The regular order of business was suspended on Mr. Buckle's motion after which the members retired to the ante-room, where they remained until after 10 o'clock.

The topic for discussion was the consolidation of city and borough, as proposed by a recent measure introduced at Trenton at the request of W. L. Saunders, of the borough, and Phillip V. R. VanWyck, of this city. Both of these men were present and, together with President L. B. Woolston and Charles W. Runyon, of the Board of Trade, were invited into the executive session, where an animated discussion followed regarding the proposed annexation.

Mr. Mellick and Mr. vanHerwerden, while not opposed to annexation, stood alone in opposition to the measure as proposed until Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh should be given an opportunity of examining it and reporting on it to the Council. There were certain features about the measure that the two members wanted to know more about. For instance they wanted to know how much the tax rate would be increased, if any, and what the borough's representation would be in the Council. In general, they wanted to know if the realization of the measure would be a benefit to Plainfield or a disadvantage.

In addition to the arguments put forth by the other members of the Council, Mr. Saunders and Mr. VanWyck, as well as the Board of Trade representatives, endeavored to explain so far as possible the advantages that would accrue to both city and borough. It was stated that it would be simply impossible to give any idea at present what the tax rate would be or exactly what representation the borough would have, or what share of expense would be attached to the Greater Plainfield for sewers, new schools, etc.

The idea held and set forth by those favoring the measure was that, if it should be adopted by the Legislature, it would simply mean that it would be up to the two municipalities to say yes or no as to whether it would become effective.

A majority of the Council present seemed to believe that a mistake had been made in adopting a resolution instructing the legislative representatives of Union county to use their efforts for the defeat of the bill, and these members said that if they had fully understood the matter Monday evening they would have voted differently.

After the matter had been discussed at great length, the Council returned ot regular session, when Mr. Buckle moved that the Council reconsider the action on consolidation.

Mr. Mellick stated that he did not favor reconsideration as the last clause provided that the measure be delayed until such time as the Corporation Counsel has an opportunity to examine it and ascertain whether it is drawn for the best interest of Plainfield.

Mr. Buckle explained his position by saying that after the adoption of the measure it would then be for the city to say whether it wanted annexation or not. Mr. Coriell expressed himself likewise and said that the measure would not be binding unless the city wanted to take advantage of it.

A vote was then taken to reconsider the action of Monday. Councilmen Mellick and vanHerwerden voted in the negative, while Councilmen Randolph, Pray, Tolles, Buckle, Gloak, Lee, Murphy and Coriell voted in the affirmative.

John Hull, of the borough, was taken to the hospital yesterday to be treated for pneumonia.

Charles H. Herring, of New York, is visiting his son. Rev. Charles E. Herring, of Watchung avenue.

Miss Eleanor Schutt, of New York, formerly of this city, is spending a few days with Plainfield friends.

W. W. Hart, of 30 Dner street, returned home yesterday after an eight-weeks' business trip in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hay, of New York, have returned home after a visit with friends in the borough.

Captain Peter Stewart, of Orange place, returned home yesterday after a six months' voyage to South American points.

Mrs. Frank T. Clawson, of West Seventh street, has gone to New York to have an operation performed for appendicitis.

Mrs. Charles Kelly, of New Market, has been spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Doeringer, of the borough.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, of West Seventh street, left this afternoon for St. Augustine, Fla., where they will spend Sunday. Next week they will go to Daytona, where they will remain for a time.

PICTURES TONIGHT.

An Excellent Performance at the Casino This Evening.

Edison's latest moving pictures of the famous "Passion Play" of Oberammergan and illustrated songs will be the attraction at the Casino tonight. The same is announced for tomorrow night and tomorrow matinee. In addition to these pictures there will be views of the races between the yachts Columbia and Shamrock, the late President McKinley's funeral at Canton, great battle scenes of the Boer War in south Africa, and a host of new subjects never before exhibited here. The children and women will be particularly entertained at the matinee tomorrow afternoon, when the grand spectacular pantomines of "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Cinderella" will be given. Note the prices in advertisement.

To Erect Auto-Plate.

William Leach, of Manchester, England, an expert machinist who has been superintending the erection of several auto-plate machines at the Potter Press Works for the past five months, sailed for London on the Oceanic, Wednesday. He will erect one of the machines in the office of the London Daily Express and will instruct the paper's employes in its workings.

Unusual Views.

The blizzard, the sleet storm, the subsequent flood and yesterday's fire gave the local amateur photographers numerous opportunities to obtain unusual views of the city. Some of the snow and ice picturers taken are very pretty while the pictures of the flood show conditions which are seldom to be found in Plainfield.

Heard at Somerville.

At Somerville the fire gong in this city was heard distinctly and a large number of people came to Plainfield yesterday morning to see the fire.

For Foreign Missions.

The offering at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday will be for foreign missions.

—The regular meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church was postponed this week on account of the storm.

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It softens and liquifies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. "One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace, J. Q. Hood, Crosby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family." L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Possibly as the Ingersoll-Sargeant Drill Company reads the news and misses the name of Perth Amboy from the towns that suffered from the floods, freshets and rains, it may regret not having moved to this city when it talked of leaving Easton, Pa., a few months ago. Newspaper dispatches say that the Ingersoll Company lost $150,000 by the pranks of the raging Lehigh last week.—Perth Amboy Chronicle.

LITERARY.

The March issue of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly appears as the Charleston Exposition number, and includes some thirty pages of admirable photographs of the great fair, together with an intelligent running commentary by Cuyler Smith. This March number of Leslie's might have been called the Timely Number. It contains two well illustrated articles upon Marconi. One, upon the personality of the twenty-seven year old inventor, is quite different from anything seen in print, and leaves a vivid impression of an extraordinary man; the other which concerns the marvellous experiments at St. Johns, written by C. R. Watson, a correspondent of the New York Herald. Timely, also, is a good account of the American built imperial yacht Meteor, by her builder, Wallace Downey. He knows whereof he speaks. A feature of the number is a critical study, by Norman Hapgood, of Mrs. Fiske, whom most people on the stage and many off it, consider the first of American actresses. This paper is accompanied by a portrait, drawn from life for Leslie's Monthly, and printed in colors, as a supplement. The fiction in this number is notable. It includes half a dozen good stories, one or two of them illustrated in tint.

THEATRICAL.

Next week at Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, a programme of tremendous magnitude, owing to the unusual number of European stars, is announced. The premiere position will be sustained by the world famous Sandow, pronounced by experts the greatest athlete and strong man in the world. This is his third week at Keith's and his performance has caused the greatest sensation of the present season. The novelty act will be the Three Dumonds, French Musical Grotesques; and the comedy element supplied by Felix and Barry; Genaro and Baily; DeCoursey Bros., in acrobatics, and a score of others—making in all, one of the grandest programmes even seen in America. Noon till 11 p. m.; 50 cents.

MAN MISSING.

Disappeared in Elizabeth a Week Ago—Family Fears Foul Play.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, March 7.—Mrs. James Mahon, of 64 Elizabeth avenue, has reported to the police that her brother, John Delaney, has been missing a week and she fears he has been robbed and thrown overboard. Her home, where he boarded, is only a short distance from Staten Island Sound, and the neighborhood has a very bad reputation, several holdups and robberies having occurred in the vicinity. Delaney, so his sister says, carried quite some money in his pockets.

NEW QUARTERS.

S. Scheuer & Sons Have Moved to Larger Store in New Brunswick.

Samuel Scheuer & Sons, grocers, who have branch stores in various cities in this State, are going to move into new quarters in New Brunswick. They have leased from Henry P. Staats the property owned by him and located at the corner of Dennis and Church streets. The firm will have a continuous store front on the Dennis street side, and an entrance also on Church street. The improvement it is said will cost probably $3,000. The lease is for ten years from May 1 next.

GROWING WORSE.

Hudson Kitchell's Injuries Received on Trolley Are Proving Serious.

Hudson Kitchell, of North avenue, who was injured in a trolley car derailment near Westfield, Sunday, has seemingly grown worse since the accident. The broken ligaments in his arm give him great pain and he has been afflicted with frequent fainting spells. He is well advanced in years and from this fact it is doubtful if he will be about in some time.

Sunday's Meeting.

Joseph W. Gavett will speak and the male quartette of the First Presbyterian church will sing at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will also be a pleasing violin solo.

Extensive Alterations.

The total cost of altering the Schwed buildings, on East Front street, will amount to about $5,000. Architect A. L. C. Marsh will superintend the work.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Valuable pointers on spring goods for men at Cashin's, the Park avenue tailor. He is exhibiting an exceptional line of goods for suitings and trousers; also men's furnishing goods.

The choicest flowers that are grown are sold by W. H. Brower's Sons, of New York, and they will serve you promptly. Orders can be left with John L. Brower, 127 East Fifth street.

There is nourishment in the wholesome candies manufactured by Campbell, of West Front street. Only the purest material used and the stock of confection will equal any to be found in the State.

At this season of the year it is often difficult to decide on what to eat. If you have such trouble call on R. W. Barnes in Park avenue and from his complete line of delicacies, you will surely find something very palatable.

A reliable corn cure is worth every cent asked for it, and this is why C. E. Hepburn & Co., druggists, corner of Park avenue and Second street, have no trouble in selling their famous corn cure. Its effect is marvelous as many can testify.

A few days ago the Board of Health reported a majority of the dairies in this city and vicintiy as being above the standard in point of cleanliness and purity of product. One of these dairies is that of Wm. Lindsay & Son, Mountain avenue. No question as to the pure quality of milk sold by this firm.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" but if you haven't prevented an illness from gaining a foothold, consult Nagle, the prescription pharmacist, for the cure. He has it for every ill and you may incidentally get a preventative for something else. Prescription compounding a specialty.

TWO SUGGESTIONS.

Will be Made by the State Teachers' Association to the Legislature.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 7—The legislative committee of the State Teachers' Association has decided upon two recommendations to be made to the State Legislature.

One urges that the salary of the State superintendent, which is now $3,000 a year, be raised to $5,000 and that the term be for five years instead of three years.

The other asks that the committee on approval of library purchases, in municipalties where such committees exist, shall consist of five persons, namely, two teachers, two private citizens and the city superrintendent. This is a return to the old law.

Under the existing law the committee on approval of library purchases consists of the principal of a school, the city superintendent and the president of the Board of Education.

The libraries in question are school libraries.

WANTS MONEY BACK.

Wm. Statton Brings Suit Over Store Fixtures He Purchased.

Summons in tort have been issued from Justice Hand's court in the matter of William Stratton against L. S. Pocock, the demand being for $200. The summons are returnable Tuesday afternoon.

In his complaint Stratton alleges that Pocock represented owning the equipment of a fish market located at 230 Park avenue. Stratton purchased them. He afterward learned, he claims, that the goods did not belong to Pocock. His interests in the matter are being attended by Counsellor Robert M. Clark.

Crow Shoot.

The crow shoot, scheduled to take place between Albert Calloway and "Spiel" Walsh, will be held next Thursday. It will take place on the Independent grounds in North Plainfield.

Men to Give Supper.

The men of the First Baptist church are planning to give a supper in the church. The date has not yet been fixed, but it will be given either the last of March or the first of April.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

IMMENSE IRON ORE BEDS.

Northern New York Discovery a Very Important One.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., March 7.—The Chateaugay Ore and Iron company has recently discovered that the vein of iron ore at their mines near Lyon Mountain, N. Y., which was supposed to be thirty feet in thickness, is in reality over seventy feet and extends for six miles in a northeasterly and southwesterly direction from Lyon Mountain, making it one of the largest deposits of iron ore in the world. The company has increased its capital stock from $1,500,000 to $2,750,000, of which amount the Delaware and Hudson company owns $1,400,000, a controlling interest.

The company has hurried a force of several hundred men into its forests to get out a supply of wood for charcoal. The charcoal blast furnace at Standish will be rebuilt, with an annual capacity of 25,000 tons of charcoal pig iron. Fifty new brick charcoal kilns will be built. The company is now mining about 300 tons of ore per day, and this output will be doubled under the new arrangement.

The officers of the company are: Smith M. Weed, president; Talbot Olyphant, vice president and treasurer; James N. Stower, general manager.

PENSIONS FOR TROLLEY MEN.

Metropolitan System of New York the First to Do This.

NEW YORK, March 7.—President Vreeland of the Metropolitan Street Railway company has caused to be posted in the barns, stables and power houses of the system in Manhattan a notice to all employees announcing the establishment of a pension system for the superannuated employees of the company. This, says Mr. Vreeland, is the first pension system ever established for street railway employees and is the final step in the plan inaugurated by him when he took charge of the Metropolitan for steadying and elevating the status of its 15,000 employees.

The pension system will go into effect on or before July 1 and is for the benefit of the superannuated employees whose annual maximum wages have not exceeded $1,200 a year, and it provides for voluntary and involuntary retirement of all employees so included, between the ages of sixty-five and seventy, after twenty-five years' service in the company or any of its constituent companies.

The fund from which payments will be made will be appropriated each year by the company, and employees will not be required to contribute to it.

The Singer Strike Still On.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 7.—There are signs of a settlement of the strike at the Singer Sewing Machine works, where 1,800 men have been on strike for fifteen days. Through the intercession of State Labor Commissioners McCormack and Schmidt the strikers have modified one of their demands. The company has agreed to recognize union labor in its plant and will agree to hear appeals of various grades of complaints, the state commissioners to be the final arbitrators in unsettled differences. The wage question now seems to be the chief contention.

Growing Unrest In Russia.

LONDON, March 7.—A correspondent of The Daily News, wiring from Copenhagen, says authentic reports have reached there from St. Petersburg saying that the revolutionary movement is spreading in all directions and assuming serious proportions. The unrest has reached many parts of Siberia. The governor of Tomsk has issued an order prohibiting meetings of citizens in the towns and villages throughout the province. Troubles are reported at many places in Siberia, including Novonikolaievsk, Bisk, Marinsk and Barnaoul.

Excise Legislation Unlikely.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 7.—Governor Odell when asked if he believed there would be any excise legislation during the present session of the legislature said: "I think from what I have heard during the last day or two there is little prospect of any. As a matter of fact I don't know any person that is very anxious for any change in the existing law. The only time I hear of any special agitation along this line is when I read the newspapers and see articles about New York city."

A Flood Swept Village.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 7.—The village of Cochecton, Sullivan county, is slowly recovering from the devastation caused by the flood which swept away the Presbyterian church, the schoolhouse and seven dwellings. The ice is still piled many feet high in the principal streets. Only one tree remains standing in the village. It is the tree in which a family of the name of Parr took refuge until they were rescued.

Coal Famine Threatened.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 7.—Rochester is threatened with a coal famine of considerable magnitude, and conditions, it is asserted, are at present worse than they have ever been in the city. The bituminous coal supply on hand will last not over four days. Three of the largest coal carrying roads furnishing the supply in this city are tied up as a result of the flood, and no relief is in sight.

United Kingdom Fogbound.

LONDON, March 7.—The fog is general all over the United Kingdom and is a great hindrance to all traffic. In London it is unusually dense, and when the people left the theaters vehicular traffic was found to be next to impossible. In many cases pedestrians were obliged to proceed with the aid of link boys.

THE CUBAN PROBLEM

Chairman Payne Makes Plain Statement of Facts.

CABINET UNITED ON THE SUBJECT.

The Proposition of a Twenty Per Cent Reduction on Sugar Likely to Delay Annexation of Island For Many Years.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee has given out the following authorized statement in connection with the discussion over Cuban reciprocity:

"I think the large majority of the Republicans have made up their minds that we must do something for Cuba. There are three propositions presented which have this professed end in view. The proposition of Mr. Morris (Minn.) provides for an increase in the tariff on sugar to the outside world and a rebate on sugar imported from Cuba. It does not seem to me that many Republicans are willing to increase the duty on sugar. Then there is the proposition of Mr. Tawney to vote between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 directly into the Cuban treasury and to ask the Cuban government to distribute about $1,000,000, according to his figures, to native Cuban planters. This first payment is to be paid without any compensation from Cuba in any way or manner, a pure gift to the Cuban government. It hardly needs the opinion of a lawyer to say that such a procedure would be unconstitutional. His proposition further is to pay a like sum yearly on the granting of reciprocal concessions and the passage of our immigration and exclusion laws.

"Of course no bounty of this kind could be distributed without a scandal and a fraud. In the next place, seven-eighths of the Cuban laborers would still remain without work. It would be just as easy for the sugar trust to obtain a concession on the sugar they bought on account of the bounty as to obtain a concession where the planter knew he was to have a 20 per cent concession in duty, so that Mr. Tawney's proposition has no advantages over that for a 20 per cent reduction, and it has the disadvantages named.

"The third proposition is that for a 20 per cent reduction of duties. This would injure no home industry. Coupled with the provision to extend our exclusion laws to Cuba, no one appearing before the committee on ways and means contended that it would so injure home industries. All agreed that the price of sugar to the American consumer would remain the same. Nor would it inure to the benefit of the sugar trust. The witnesses before the committee united in testifying and the statistics prove that the trust has received no benefit in buying sugar, either in Hawaii or Porto Rico, since the duty was reduced or removed. The entire benefits have been reaped by the planters in these islands. We have every reason to believe the same would prove true as to Cuba. Many misleading statements as to the attitude of the president, the cabinet and the house Republicans are appearing in the newspapers. I cannot speak of conferences with the president.

"But I have every assurance that the cabinet is not divided on this question, nor has a majority of the house Republicans committed themselves either to the Morris, the Tawney or the do nothing policy. The proposition of a 20 per cent reduction, if adopted, will put off, in my judgment, the annexation of Cuba for many years. She will not come in until her population is Americanized. It will settle the question for generations to come and give rest and tranquillity to the sugar business. If the reduction is made, no further change will be made until we have annexation and free trade. To refuse to do anything would put the house in a position hostile to the president, would cause uncertainty and a feeling of apprehension to the producers of sugar in the United States and would be utterly demoralizing."

Another Fruitless Conference.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The third conference of Republican members of the house of representatives to consider the question of Cuban tariff concessions was held last night in the hall of the house. About 125 members were present, and great interest was manifested owing to the sharp division which has occurred between the supporters of the ways and means proposition for 20 per cent reciprocity as put forward by Chairman Payne and the rebate plan proposed by Representative Tawney of Minnesota. Prior to the meeting Speaker Henderson and Representative Cannon (Ill.), the latter chairman of the caucus, called at the White House and were understood to have held a further conference with the president on the situation. Several speeches were made, but no action taken.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; warmer; fresh south winds.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Four steamers were fast in the ice in Newburg bay.

Two fishing schooners were wrecked off the New Hampshire coast. No lives were lost.

The steamer Alexandria, Hamburg-American line, is to convoy the kaiser's new yacht to Hamburg.

Osman Pasha has been condemned to death. It is said the sentence will be commuted to life imprisonment.

One thousand men and boys went on strike at the Natalie colliery, operated by the Shamokin (Pa.) Coal company, because of the bimonthly payment law not being strictly observed.

HONORS FOR PRINCE.

Warmly Welcomed at Empire State's Capital.

HE IS GIVEN A DEGREE AT HARVARD

A Day Full of Incident at Boston and Cambridge Closes With a Banquet and Reception In the Evening.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 7.—The special train for Boston bearing Prince Henry of Prussia arrived in this city shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. An immense crowd of people anxious to catch a glimpse of the royal visitor had gathered and gave him a hearty and noisy greeting as he emerged from his private car.

The prince was welcomed at the station by Governor Odell, Adjutant General Henry and the senate and assembly committees. After they had paid their respects to the prince they returned to the capitol, and the royal visitor was escorted to his carriage by the mayor and the committee representing the city. The party was then driven to the city hall, where Mayor Charles H. Gaus formally greeted the prince. Troop B had been assigned as the personal escort of the prince, while the Tenth battalion and three separate companies from Troy were assigned to do guard duty at the station, the city hall and the capitol.

After a brief and formal stay at the city hall Prince Henry and party were driven to the capitol, where they were met at the east entrance by the committees representing the senate and assembly, Adjutant General Henry and the governor's military secretary, Major Harrison K. Bird. The prince and his escort first proceeded to the executive chamber and were formally welcomed by Governor Odell, who was in waiting to receive them on behalf of the state. At the conclusion of the formal exercises the entire party passed up stairs to the senate chamber, where the prince was presented to that body. The senate had convened at 9 o'clock, two hours earlier than usual, to be in readiness. The judges of the court of appeals also occupied seats in the senate.

After leaving the senate chamber the prince was escorted to the assembly and presented to that body. Afterward he devoted a short time to inspecting the capitol, and then he was driven to the Union station and left for West Point, where he is due at 2 p. m.

THE PRINCE IN BOSTON.

Governor Crane and Mayor Collins Welcome Royal Guest.

BOSTON, March 7.—Prince Henry of Prussia was the guest of Boston yesterday, and his welcome to the city was stately and cordial. Governor Winthrop Murray Crane and Mayor P. A. Collins, acting for state and city, extended the official courtesies, and when the prince had ceremoniously returned their calls he went to Cambridge to deliver to the Germanic museum the gifts of his brother, the Kaiser Wilhelm, and to receive from Harvard the honorary degree of doctor of laws. Harvard's honor to the prince is a precedent, for never before was a degree conferred under like circumstances.

A significant passage in the speech of President Eliot, who conferred the degree, was a reference to the prince as the grandson of Queen Victoria.

Prince Henry's first act as a Harvard man, at the Harvard union shortly after he received the degree, was to propose and lead three cheers for President Roosevelt, who is a Harvard alumnus. The prince received a cablegram from his brother, the emperor, offering congratulations on the new honor bestowed.

At night the prince was given a dinner by the city of Boston and sat at a table with more than 200 of the representative citizens of the commonwealth.

Bright sunlight favored the day after the storm had dressed the city in snow, and the entry of the prince to the decorated city, the call of the governor at Hotel Somerset, the visits to the statehouse and the public library and the drive through Cambridge, with crowds, made a series of spectacles strong in life and color. The entire reception was dignified rather than demonstrative, but it lacked none of the cordiality that has characterized the tour of the prince.

The special train which carried the prince across the country was not delayed by flood or storm and crossed the line between New York and Massachusetts on the time planned for it by the railroad men. It halted for a few moments at Springfield, but passed through Worcester, where the plan to hold a reception was abandoned, owing to the earliness of the hour. Boston was reached at 9:35 o'clock.

The prince wore his naval uniform and acknowledged the greetings with his characteristic salute. When the carriage reached the common, a battery sounded the royal salute. The gun sky horses jumped into a quicker pace, and at a sharp trot the procession rounded the common.

At the Somerset the prince, surrounded by his staff in full uniform, received Governor Crane, who came with an equally brilliant staff, and when the call ended the prince started at once for the statehouse to return the courtesy. He drove to the capitol by way of Beacon street, and there was another demonstration along that avenue. Naval reserves formed in two lines that extended from the street to the portals made way for the entrance of the prince. After he had paid his respects to Governor Crane he entered the house of representatives, where the legislature was in session, and was presented from the forum by President Soule of the senate. Leaving the chamber, he was shown the battleflags carried by the regiments of the state in the civil war. After that he re-entered his carriage and was driven to the public library, where he returned the call of Mayor Collins.

Thirty-five veterans who fought with the grandfather of the prince in the Franco-Prussian war were presented at the library, and the prince shook hands with them all and asked as to their old regiments and the character of their service.

The ceremony at the library over, the prince returned to the Somerset and after a short wait there started for Cambridge. Mayor McNamee gave him the freedom of the city of Cambridge, and the school children sang for him at the city hall.

At the university he was first taken to Memorial hall, where he met the corporation of the college, and then to Sander's theater, where the degree was conferred. He was next escorted to the faculty room, where he met the faculty and, with his staff, lunched with them.

The heartiest part of Boston's formal welcome to Prince Henry was concentrated in the sumptuous banquet at the Somerset last evening. From his seat at the table at one end of the banquet room the prince faced the most representative men of the city and state. The speeches made were from men known for their oratory, and to their sentiments his royal highness made a formal response.

The hall, in which over 200 guests sat, was lavishly decorated, yellow being the predominating floral color.

At the royal guest's table, slightly raised from the floor, Mayor Patrick A. Collins had Prince Henry at his right hand. On the paneling behind and over them were crossed a United States flag and the royal standard.

When the banquet came to an end, the prince and his suit retired to their apartments, reappearing a few minutes later on their departure for the residence of Mr. J. Montgomery Sears, on Arlington street, where a reception was tendered the prince by the Thursday Evening club. At this reception, which was entirely informal, his royal highness had the opportunity of meeting the representative literary people of Boston.

Many New Banks.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—A report issued by the treasury department shows that since the passage of the act of March 14, 1900, there have been organized 878 national banking associations, with an aggregate capital stock of $48,519,000 and bond deposits of $12,872,400. During last month there was an average of one bank organized daily. At the close of business on Feb. 28 there were in active operation 4,385 national banking associations, with authorized capital stock of $673,279,195.

A Big Railroad Mortgage.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 7.—A mortgage for $75,000,000, given by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has been admitted for record in the office of the county clerk here. It was in favor of the Union Trust company of New York. The purpose of the mortgage is to liquidate all outstanding mortgages previously given on all lines operated by the Baltimore and Ohio system in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Andree Story Denied.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 7.—The Hudson Bay company's officials here deny emphatically that they have received any confirmation from their agents in the far north of the story that Andree was shot by Eskimos on the shore of Hudson bay. A story to this effect was published about two years ago and was traced by the Hudson Bay officials, but no confirmation of the report could be secured.

A Car Famine.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., March 7.—Despite the two foot snowfall fifteen collieries in this region would have been operated had the railroad company furnished cars. The past two weeks there has been a car famine in this field owing to floods and storms, and the recent storm will prolong the period of scarcity of cars.

River Bank Gave Way.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 7.—Four hundred feet of the river bank above McKinney street has caved in, carrying with it over 300 feet of the Charleston and Western Carolina railroad track. The warehouse of Rogers & Co. also was undermined as a result of the freshet in the Savannah river.

Railroad Blocked Five Days.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 7.—Traffic has been resumed on the Bloomsburg division of the Lackawanna after being blocked since last Saturday by the flood.

SENATOR HANNA SPEAKS.

A Notable Utterance on the Shipping Subsidy Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—A notable speech was made in the senate yesterday by Mr. Hanna (O.) on the pending shipping bill, which he discussed from the standpoint of an American business man. His arguments were carefully arranged. He was always forceful and earnest and at times became eloquent. He commanded the undivided attention of the senate and of the galleries, and when he closed he received congratulations from many of his colleagues.

Early in the session Mr. Frye, in charge of the pending shipping bill, obtained an agreement that the senate should vote on the measure and all pending amendments at 3 p. m. Monday, March 17, that time being entirely satisfactory to those opposed to the bill.

Before consideration of the shipping bill was resumed an extended debate occurred on the measure providing for the protection of the president of the United States. Mr. Bacon (Ga.) took the ground that in its present shape the bill was an invasion of the jurisdiction of the states and that it ought to be amended radically. Mr. Patterson (Colo.), while he agreed to the general propositions of the bill, urged that it ought not to pass in its present form. No action on the bill was taken.

The house devoted another day to debate on the bill to classify the rural free delivery service and to place the carriers under contract. Little interest was manifested in the discussion. A vote is expected today.

Rice Died of Old Age.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Dr. Walker Curry late yesterday afternoon was called as the first witness for the defense at the trial of Albert T. Patrick for the murder of William Marsh Rice. Dr. Curry was the old millionaire's physician, and he testified that Rice was not murdered. He identified his death certificate, which stated that Rice died from old age, weak heart, diarrhea and mental worry. The first was stated as the indirect, the latter two as the direct cause of death. Dr. Curry swore he detected no traces of chloroform. Counsel for Patrick had previously moved for dismissal of the case and been denied.

The Austro-Hungarian Mission.

VIENNA, March 7.—The Austro-Hungarian government organs this morning announce and comment editorially on the decision to raise the Washington mission of Austria-Hungary to an embassy in 1903, the news of which was first given in these dispatches. They all approve of the step, regretting only that Austria-Hungary was the last of the great powers to thus show its appreciation of the United States. The papers express a hope for the continuance of unclouded relations between Austria-Hungary and the United States.

Marines Charged With Cruelty.

MANILA, March 7.—A court martial has been ordered to meet March 17 to try Major Littleton W. T. Waller and Lieutenant H. A. Day of the marine corps on the charge of executing natives of the island of Samar without a trial. One native was tied to a tree and shot in the thigh. The next day he was shot in the arms, the third day he was shot in the body, and the fourth day he was killed. Friends of the officers attribute their action to the loss of mind due to the privations which they suffered in Samar.

Scalded to Death.

ANSONIA, Conn., March 7.—James Coleman, employed in one of the mills of the American Brass company in this city, met a horrible death by falling into a vat of boiling water. He was quickly pulled out, but his injuries were so severe that he fell in a swoon and remained unconscious until his death. His father was a witness of the accident.

End of War Not Yet.

AN INDEMNITY HITCH

Division of Chinese Payment Still Unsettled.

OFFICIALS OF POWERS CANNOT AGREE

Actions of General Tung Fu Hsiang Causing Excitement at the Court. He Has Refused to Disband His Troops.

PEKING, March 7.—Chinese officials fear that the refusal of the bankers' commission to accept the February installment of the indemnity will render the collection of future installments more difficult. Sir Robert Hart, director of the imperial maritime customs, used every argument of persuasion to impress the viceroys of the various provinces with the importance of promptly contributing their shares of the indemnity. When it becomes known that the 1,820,000 taels of the February installment is lying in the Chinese bank because the foreign governments are unable to agree to terms concerning its division, the Chinese will possibly relax their efforts.

The actions of General Tung Fu Hsiang are causing excitement and apprehension at the imperial court. Tung Fu Hsiang has a considerable body of troops. The dowager empress, through Yung Lu, the first grand secretary, recently wrote to the general offering to maintain him comfortably if he would disband his followers. This Tung Fu Hsiang refused to do, intimating that he felt safer with his army around him.

The court fears that when his resources fail Tung Fu Hsiang may be compelled to resort to pillage in order to support his followers and that this would eventually lead to rebellion.

The French legation here resents the dispatches blaming the French for the disorders of Marshal Su's troops in Kwangsi province. The legation declares it protested against the transfer of Marshal Su and predicted that the present disorders would result. The reinstatement of Marshal Su in his old command is due to the request of the French legation.

Five Miners Killed.

MONONGAHELA, Pa., March 7.—An explosion in the Catsburg mine of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company resulted in the death of five men and serious injury of several others, two fatally. On Monday a premature explosion of dynamite caused gas to ignite, and since that time the mine has been burning. All the air channels were closed, and it was hoped that the flames could be smothered. In the morning twenty men entered the mine to investigate. It is not explained what caused the explosion, but it is thought that the turning on of the air, which had been shut off by the fan, caused the gas which had accumulated to ignite.

Gun Works Closed by Sheriff.

DERBY, Conn., March 7.—The Driggs-Seabury Gun and Ammunition company has had its plant closed up by the sheriff, and 100 men were thrown out of work. Some time ago Laflin & Rand, powder manufacturers of New York, attached the plant for $30,000 to satisfy a claim of $22,000. The company has not settled the account, and this action resulted. The Driggs-Seabury company had been working night and day on government contracts, and a large portion of the work had been left unfinished.

The Sugar Convention.

LONDON, March 7.—According to the text of the international sugar convention, issued last night by the foreign office, Great Britain agrees during the continuance of the convention to refrain from paying bounties directly or indirectly on sugar grown in crown colonies and not to give preferential treatment to colonial sugar against sugar imported from foreign countries. The international sugar convention was signed at Brussels Wednesday.

American Liner Sunk.

LONDON, March 7.—The American line steamer Waesland, Captain Atfeld, from Liverpool March 5 for Philadelphia, and the British steamship Harmonides, Captain Pantin, from Para Feb. 13 for Liverpool, met in collision last night off Holyhead, Wales. The Waesland sank. Her passengers and crew were saved. The loss of the Waesland was due to the dense fog which enveloped the Irish channel, seriously delaying all vessels.

Universal Suffrage Demanded.

BRUSSELS, March 7.—A big demonstration occurred here yesterday in favor of universal suffrage. The assemblage sent a telegram to King Leopold, urging him to use his power to hasten a solution of the electoral problem. After the meeting a serious collision between Liberal and Catholic students occurred. The police dispersed the students with their swords. Three of the latter were wounded.

A Sweet Smelling Trust

DETROIT, Mich., March 7.—The News says that the American Perfume company, with a capital of $5,000,000, is a combination which will be effected in a few days by about fifteen of the largest perfume manufacturers and handlers of the United States. Headquarters will be established in New York, where the movement emanates, and there will be distributing centers in Detroit and Chicago.

MEETING THE EMERGENCY.

Following close on the heels of great conflagrations that have carried ruin to thousands of dollars of valuable proprety in the eastern cities, a blaze started in Plainfield, yesterday morning, which threatened the business centre of the city with destruction. Before it was checked, the greater part of the Babcock building was gutted and property to the value of a quarter of a million had gone up in flame and smoke. It was the most disastrous fire that Plainfield has ever known, although the burned area was not as large, perhaps, as that of some of the others.

The largest mercantile establishment in the city, the postoffice, the homes of many of the prominent fraternal orders including the Masons and Odd Fellows, the offices of more than a score of business and professional men and women are gone, and the homes of fifteen families partially flooded or wiped out of existence, all in a few hours. It was a terrible thing but luckily was not attended with any loss of life.

Such an event as this is bound to affect the material prosperity of the city to some extent, at least. It has destroyed the greater part of the handsomest business block in the city and left smouldering ruins in its place. It has temporarily thrown out of work a number of people. The losses, not covered by insurance, have fallen on those who are generally least prepared to meet them.

It spoke well for the enterprise of the city, however, when plans for a new building and temporary quarters for the tenants were under way while the flames were still leaping from the blazing pile that marked the site of the Babcock building. There is a disposition on the part of those who suffered the fire to meet their loss with fortitude and to start over again without delay. Instead of mourning over what is past, everything points toward immediate action to meet whatever the future may bring forth. It was the same spirit which prevailed in Paterson when its heart was eaten out by the flames and it shows that the people of Plainfield and the people of Paterson are ready to meet any emergency that may occur with calmness and fortitude and work to remedy it as best they can.

The friends of Greater Plainfield both in the Common Council and out of it are now lined up side by side, working for the advancement of the scheme. After considering the matter, the members of the Common Council decided to reconsider their action of Monday evening and the resolution, calling upon the Union county representatives in the Legislature to defeat or hold up the measure, was recalled and then defeated. The Union county Senator and Assemblymen were notified by resolution that there was no objection to the bills on the part of the Council. Thus has an incident, which threatened to accomplish the untimely defeat of the Greater Plainfield bills, reached a satisfactory conclusion.

The interview with Chief T. O. Doane, of the Plainfield fire department, published in these columns shortly after the big Paterson fire, was prophetic. The chief said that should a big conflagration once get under way, the present department would be powerless to check it. The location of the fire, on the top of that huge building, made it extremely difficult for the firemen to reach it. They worked well, however, and did all that could be expected of them with the facilities at their command. The snow and ice proved a serious handicap but the snow on the neighboring roofs proved a valuable ally for it extinguished the showers of sparks as soon as they fell.

Copies of yesterday's Daily Press were in great demand. While the regular edition was increased by five hundred, the entire issue was sold long before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and it was necessary to print five hundred more. These, too, found ready sale for the people were anxious to secure accurate and authentic accounts of the great fire. The story of the conflagration was well told by Daily Press reporters and a careful list of the tenants and losses prepared. It was just what the people wanted to read. Fuller details are obtainable today and furnish much interesting reading in this issue.

The trolley company went out of business again. First, it was the snow, then the ice and slush combined against it, finally the floods came and stopped the cars. A new obstacle appeared yesterday in the shape of fire. In order to remove all danger from fallen live wires, the power was shut off and the cars were again stalled. Certainly the elements seem to combine against that corporation.

WANT MORE MONEY.

North Plainfield School Board Will Ask for $18,000 for Next Year, $2,300 More Than Last.

The annual meeting for the election of three members of the Borough Board of Education, will be held at the borough High School, Tuesday evening, March 18, at 8 o'clock. The polls will remain open one hour and as much longer as may be necessary to enable all the legal voters present to cast their ballots.

At the meeting will be submitted the question of voting a tax for the following purposes: To pay teachers' salaries and the current expenses of the schools for the ensuing year, $14,900, an increase of $2,000 over last year; to purchase text books and other necessary school supplies, $1,400, the same as last year; for the maintenance and support of the Manual Training School, $1,700, an increase of $300 over last year. The total amount thought to be necessary is $18,000.

CLUB LIFE.

I. C. T. Club is Preparing to Have Its Share This Winter.

The I. C. T. Club, the city's newest social organization, is rapidly arranging matters to pass the remainder of the winter season in an enjoyable way. Its new rooms in Central Hall are being fitted up for the first reception to be given Tuesday evening. A new piano has been ordered and will be installed this week.

A social time was enjoyed by the members, Tuesday evening, during which Frank Fram, a prominent New York club man, addressed them on club fealty and the proper lines on which to conduct one. Entertaining features were furnished by Howard Drake and George Morton after which supper was served. The committee in charge consisted of Joseph Robinson, Lewis Drake and Irving Mills.

Were Looking for New Quarters.

Just previous to the Babcock building fire the trustees of the building notified the Plainfield Camera Club that no more dancing would be allowed in the club's rooms as it was considered dangerous to the building. There were several social organizations which met regularly there and they were preparing to seek new quarters when the news came that the Camera Club rooms were no more.

Audubon Society Meets.

The postponed annual meeting of the Audobon Society will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Monday evening. There will be an illustrated lecture on birds.

Temporary Offices.

Frank J. Hubbard, the civil engineer, is temporarily located in the Marsh building on Park avenue. All of his belongings in the Babcock building were destroyed.

PROF. GRIGGS' LECTURE ON BROWNING'S POEM

Talked On "Audreadel Sarto" Before The Monday Afternoon Club.

WAS GIVEN YESTERDAY.

READ THE POEM AND THEN SPOKE CRITICALLY ON IT.

Lecture Given in Chapel of Crescent Avenue Church — Sympathetic Reading of the Poem—The Preliminary Remarks.

Robert Browning's poem, "Andrea del Sarto," was the subject of the lecture, given yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, by Edward Howard Griggs under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club. Mr. Griggs' reading of the poem was remarkably sympathetic and enjoyable, and both his account of the Italian painter's life and his critical remarks concerning Mr. Browning's work were full of interest.

Before beginning his reading Mr. Griggs said that this poem was of interest in three ways: From a dramatic point of view; as an interpretation of an important historical character; and because it shows in its underlying background Browning's own views of life. Although Andrea del Sarto was a negative character and one who considered life scarcely worth the living, the way in which Browning writes of him shows his own forcefulness and wholesome view of life.

Andrea del Sarto lived from 1487 to 1541, during the most important period of the Renaissance. He began his artistic career at an early age, and just missed being one of the greatest painters in the world. But he destroyed his peace and spoiled his life by marrying Lucrezia di Baccio del Fede, whose will became his law, dragging him down from the heights he might have reached.

Browning's poem is a monologue, in which the speaker is Andrea himself, his mood darker and more hopeless than despair, as he realizes how his life has been wasted, and how absolutely his wife is lacking in comprehension of the aims and ambitions that might have brought his work to the level of that of Raphael and Michael Angelo. Mr. Griggs' reading showed with wonderful realism the dead gray level which life had become to the painter, the sordid, worldly selfishness of the wife, and beneath all, the wordless but plainly felt protest of the optimistic and healthy-minded Browning against wrongdoing and acceptance of defeat.

DOBBS TEA.

Plainfielders Interested in Benefit for Worthy Charity.

A very interetsing entertainment will be given on Saturday, March 15, at the Waldorf Astoria, New York. It is called the "Dobbs Tea," and is under the management of some of the graduates of Miss Masters's school, who are depely interested in the "Baby Fold" for the benefit of which the "tea" is to be given.

The "Fold," which is situated at 353 West Twentieth street, New York, is entirely supported by the graduates of the school, and it is a worthy and most deserving charity. The object is to take care of children under two and a half years old whose parents are not able to support them. Among those who are very much interested are Mrs. Osborn Bright, nee Daisy Shepard, Miss Edith Hyde and Miss Edith Smalley, the last two named of this city.

Free Organ Concert.

Wm. C. Carl will celebrate the tenth anniversary of his occupancy of the position of organist and director of the music in the First Presbyterian church, New York city, with a concert Tuesday evening, at 8:15 o'clock, in the church, Fifth avenue and Twelfth street. The assisting artists will be: Madame Emilie Grey, the distinguished harpist, from London; E. Ellsworth Giles, tenor; and Louis Blumenberg, 'cello. The concert will be free to the public. Admission without ticket.

Little Blaze at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 7.—Fire broke out in a house owned by Philip Ryan early Wednesday morning. An alarm was turned in, but the gong was not heard by many of the firemen, only about half of them turning out. Lincoln Chemical Engine Company put out the blaze, which originated in some rags in the cellar, with its chemicals. Very little damage was done.

No Dancing.

Those who arranged the surprise party given a few evenings ago to Miss Dolly Bolsterli, of Watchung avenue, desires The Daily Press to say that there was no dancing as reported in another paper.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The Democratic primary was held last evening in the borough hall and a ticket nominated to be supported at the election March 11. The only vacant offices are councilmen. The following nominations were made for three years: William J. Winges and Charles D. Boice; for two years, Willard Apgar; for one year, P. C. Irving. In addition, an appropriation of $2,500 for town purposes was approved.

The primary of the Republican party will be held Saturday night in the borough hall. The names of the candidates have not been made public but some surprises are promised.

The Mandolin, Banjo and Guitar Club is preparing to give a musicale in the near future. Practice has already been commenced for the event.

Garretson & Gray's sawmill has been started working and a large amount of lumber has already been sawed and stored up.

Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer and Mrs. Wilson Fredericks have returned home after a visit with Mrs. DeWitt Smith, of Somerville.

The dance by the dancing class will be held this evening in Apgar Hall. Music will be furnished by Weston, of Elizabeth.

The Bound Brook trolley line ran cars every hour yesterday instead of on the half hour. The storm caused the change.

The large van belonging to George Huff, the expressman, has been painted and presents a fine appearance.

Mrs. Emily Apgar has returned after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Sherman Cooley, of Flemington.

Communion will be administered in Holy Innocents Episcopal church, Sunday morning at 8:30.

Sleighing has been excellent for the last few days, and many sleighs were out last night.

Mrs. Maurice Rarick is spending the week with her parents in Freehold.

The checker club will meet this evening in its North avenue clubroom.

Exercises in speaking and singing was held in the local schools today.

The local W. C. T. U. held a regular weekly meeting yesterday.

Mrs. Alvah Gray has been entertaining friends from Newark.

Prayer meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church tonight.

William Gulick made a business trip to Plainfield yesterday.

Rev. A. S. Phelps, of Bound Brook, was in town yesterday.

Mr. Pierson is visiting relatives in Plainfield.

NEW MARKET.

A business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society, of the First Baptist church, will be held this evening. Officers will be elected for the semi-annual term.

The regular monthly meeting of the Farther Light Society will be held in the lecture room of the First Baptist church at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

A large number from here went to Plainfield yesterday to see the remains of the Babcock building.

The G. E. Club will meet with Mrs. George Caskey March 15.

Alfred Osmun has taken up his residence in New York.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Rev. G. M. Shott, of the Baptist church, will have charge of the prayer meeting in the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield, again tonight. In his absence Chas. H. Vincent, superintendent of the Sunday-school, will lead the Friday evening meeting in the church.

The blockade on the trolley caused by the young blizzard of Tuesday was finally raised last night and trolley cars began making their appearance in town once again. The schedule was very uncertain but it beat nothing.

Strange to say, no fire alarm was given in the borough Wednesday evening for the Benner fire, notwithstanding the fire was not over a quarter of a mile from the fire headquarters.

The borough Republican primary for the nomination of borough officers for the coming year will be held in the fire house Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

The Farther Light Society, of the Baptist church, held one of its interesting monthly meetings in the parlors of the church this afternoon.

Prof. White, of the public school, has been entertaining his sister, Miss White, of Carlisle, Pa., for a short visit.

A regular meeting of the Borough Council was held in the Council chambers Wednesday night.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held an interesting weekly meeting in its rooms last night.

Scotch Plains was well represented among the sight seers at Plainfield's big fire yesterday.

The Township Committee will meet in the town town rooms tonight.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The two linemen from the south, who have been busy for the past week climbing telepraph poles in Piscataway, have left town. They boarded, while here, at Randolph's. The telegraph poles are those which have just been put up to replace the ones broken off during the blizzard.

Mrs. Reune B. Manning has shown a decided improvement since yesterday. Typhoid fever did not set in, as was feared, at first, from the symptoms which developed.

The dance scheduled to take place tonight by the Washington Social Club has been posponed indefinitely on account of bad roads.

Miss Georgia Brantingham has secured a position as inspector in the skirt factory in Plainfield.

Henry Arrowsmith has returned to Easton, after a short visit with local relatives.

Mrs. John Tingley is spending a few days with Mrs. David Blackford.

Mrs. George Arrowsmith is visiting in Easton, Penn.

David Blackford, of Samptown, is sick.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—For this week Neuman Brothers have reduced the price of their extra sweet Telephone peas from sixteen cents per can, to two for a quarter.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, of Elmwood place, will give up their residence on that street April 1. They are building a home on Grant avenue, which they will occupy when completed.

Disposing of His Stock.

The horses, cows, wagons and harness belonging to John B. Anderson, recent proprietor of the Scotch Plains hotel, will be sold at public auction tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 1 o'clock. H. K. Hand will conduct the sale.

Leak in Water Main.

The water main on Dner street, opposite the residence of C. K. Compton, has sprung a leak and the water boils up out of the ground like a spring.

Gave a Reception.

John Carl, of Manson place, gave a reception Wednesday evening to a number of his friends. The feature of the evening was dancing.

Kindly take notice that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is of great benefit to those sufferers from nasal catarrh who cannot inhale freely through the nose, but must treat themselves by spraying. Liquid Cream Balm differs in form, but not medicinally from the Cream Balm that has stood for years at the head of remedies for catarrh. It may be used in any nasal atomizer. The price, including a spraying tube, is 75 cts. Sold by druggists and mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Mr. Buckle then moved that the representatives in the Legislature from Union county be notified that all objections to the proposed measure have been withdrawn on the part of the Common Council. This was adopted.

Mr. vanHerwerden offered a resolution appropriating an extra $500 to the Board of Health on account of the small-pox contagion. This was granted, and Mr. Buckle said by way of explanation that the board had already expended $2,400 and the extra $500 is needed to see the board through. After the adoption of the resolution the Council adjourned.

FANWOOD NAMES CANDIDATES

BOTH PARTIES HELD PRIMARIES IN THE TOWNSHIP LAST EVENING.

Fight Will be for Freeholder—John Robison Against William R. Stanbery.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, March 7—The Republican voters of the township and borough held their joint primary for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the office of chosen freeholder, in Excelsior Hall, last night.

The primary was called to order by George Ball, of the county committee. Wm. E. Collins, of the borough, was made chairman and Wm. B. Noble filled the position of secretary. Only one candidate was nominated, the honor falling to the present efficient freeholder, John Robison.

Immediately at the close of the joint meeting of the primary to nominate officers for the towshhip was held. John Robison was made chairman and W. E. Noble secretary. Edward L. Hand was nominated for township clerk without opposition.

The nomination for two committeeman found two candidates in the field, Wm. H. Terry, the present member, and Edwin V. Goodman. Both candidates were from the lower end of the township, it being entitled to representation. Seventy-one votes were cast, Goodman receiving 44 and Terry 27. Mr. Goodman was declared nominated. No other contests were had and the balance of the ticket was made up as follows: Justice of peace, Louis B. Coddington; surveyors of highway, Thomas S. Whitenack and Andrew Schaffer; commissioners of appeals, W. H. Lake; pound keeper, Henry O. Little and Henry Cook.

The Democratic primary proved to be a very harmonious one. Thomas J. Nicholl was chairman and Chas. French acted as secretary. Wm. R. Stanbery received the unanimous nomination for freeholder and Clarence Lambert received the nomination for township committeeman. Elias Southard was named for justice of the peace. The Democrats endorsed the nomination of Edward L. Hand for township clerk.

Favorably Remembered.

Rev. Dr. James M. Stiffler, of Crozier Theological Seminary, who will preach at the First Baptist church Sunday, will be favorably remembered as one of the pulpit supplies of last summer. He is an excellent preacher and is considered to be one of the strongest divines in the Baptist denomination.

Hall Was Gone.

It is hardly necessary to say that the lecture on "A Trip to the Holy Land," which Miss Julia A. Carman was to have delivered in the rooms of the Plainfield Camera Club last evening, did not take place. A most careful search failed to reveal any trace of the Camera Club rooms.

Five New Names Added.

The Borough Boards of Registry met this week and revised the registry list. In all five new names were added to the list in both districts. The first district now has 639 registered voters, while the second district has 661.

In Justice Nash's Court.

The landlord and tenant case of E. M. Laing against H. V. Nelson will be tried in Justice Nash's court March 11.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. MORE CHRISTIAN EXPANSION

THAT IS WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS SAYS REV. MR. SHOTT.

Evangelistic Meetings at the Park Avenue Baptist Church Continued Last Evening.

The evangelistic services continued at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening. After a service of song and prayer by Rev. Mr. Phelps and T. A. Cuming, Rev. G. M. Shott took for his text I Kings xxii :3 and preached a very strong sermon.

He said in part: "The Christian has money possessions which ought to be utilized in the work of Christ. In times like this the church ought to be more practical. It must make forced marches to secure what it has failed to conquer.

"Dominion over self, time, and talents; a renunciation of the things which have hindered; an anxious intense interest in all things that help to make the church helpful, is demanded of the Christian. This is the day of expansion and annexation in the territory of our country. This must be applied to the work of the church.

Mamby pamby Christians are at a discount. We are convinced of many things, but not convicted; we need the leverage of a controlling conviction. Christians must meet infidelity with fidelity. The church today needs members with empire on the brain."

After a brief session of prayer by Rev. J. W. Richardson the benediction was pronounced.

Mr. Schott, who is one of the best extemporaneous preachers, speaks again tonight.

Missionary Meeting.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will hold its annual meeting in the church parlor, this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. There will be an address by Miss Hayes, a teacher from New Mexico. A special offering for the work among the Freedmen and in Alaska, will be received. Tea will be served at 5 o'clock.

Damaged by Flood.

Among the sufferers from the recent overflowing of Cedar brook was the Cedar Brook Tennis Club. Its courts on LaGrande avenue were covered over with water and a quantity of debris deposited on it. One court was considerably gullied by water. Falling branches tore down some of the wire back-stops.

No Decision Yet.

No meeting of the board of directors of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association has yet been held to decide which method shall be followed to raise the necessary funds for the association's baseball team. A meeting was called for several afternoons ago, but circumstances required its postponement.

School Meeting Postponed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 7—The meeting of citizens to consider the matter of a new school building for this place has been postsponed until further notice. This is due to the decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals that the Stokes school law is unconstitutional.

Mr. Roberts in Charge.

Charles W. Roberts, formerly of Crosby & Hill's store at Morristown, is now manager at the Plainfield store, having taken charge this week. Yesterday former Manager Carson left Plainfield to engage in business in Morristown under the firm name of Carson & Hill.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

The contract case of Schaeffer against Moskowitz will be tried before Justice Mattison March 12, and the contract case of Mackey against Dunning has been adjourned to the same date.

—At Neuman Brothers tomorrow: Fresh cauliflower, celery, lettuce, spinach, cucumbers, fresh tomatoes, new potatoes, egg plant and rhubarb.

—Greenbrook Council, No. 1725, initiated one candidate and elected several new members last evening.

As Mrs. Leslie Carter Plays "Du Barry"

Mr. Belasco's Production Is Not One of Which the World Need Be Proud.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER is called the leading American actress of to-day. With memory of recent enjoyment of Mrs. Fiske in mind we are slow to concur in this judgment, but agree that Mrs. Carter is very wonderful in the portrayal of emotional roles.

In her new play, "Du Barry," she is given full swing for the exhibition of her peculiar talents. "Du Barry" is what is called by followers after modern catch phrases a "strong play." If we remember rightly one definition of "strong" is "rank," and if that meaning is the one intended, we shall not quarrel with it.

The story opens with a view of a milliner's shop in the Rue St. Honore. The women are grandly gowned, the men in richest of uniforms. We see Jeanette, the pretty, sprightly milliner's assistant, flitting about among the laces, ribbons and other vanities, but not too engrossed in her work to neglect a handsome young officer that is present, Cosse-Brissac, of the king's guard. After some preliminaries, she gives her promise to Cosse to go with him into the country the following day.

At this juncture enter the villains, Marquise de Quesnoy and Comte Jean du Barry. The marquise is a vulture, the keeper of a gambling house, and is in search of a young beauty to attract trade to her place. The comte assists her occasionally, and comes to her aid in entrapping Jeannette. They invite her to occupy a balcony with them, from which they can get a good view of the passing of the king. Jeannette, her head quite turned, accepts the invitation.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER

In act two Jeannette is shown as an inmate of the marquise's gambling house, which is furnished with most extravagant richness. This is an artistic touch of Mr. Belasco, the author of the play, emphasizing, as it does, the wanton luxury of that age where nobles reveled and peasants lived like beasts.

But Jeannette is weary of the luxury, finds it palls. She longs for Cosse and the freedom of her old life. This moment being propitious, in steps Cosse and pleads with her to fly with him from wicked Paris, to go with him to a certain rustic cottage he knows of, a cottage surrounded by pure country air and beautiful flowers. Jeannette needs not much coaxing, the picture appeals to her, and she consents.

Just as she is about to escape, Louis XV., disguised as his own secret agent, enters. He has come to see the beauty that has set so many talking, thinking in her perhaps he shall find a successor for the favorite that has ruled him so long. La Pompadour, the butcher's daughter, who rose to become the most distinguished lady in Europe. Louis looks upon Jeannette and at once decides she must become a member of his court.

A year is supposed to have elapsed between the closing events of the first act and the opening ones of the second. In this act Jeannette's boudoir at Versailles, as rich and luxurious as only such a rich, luxurious period could have accomplished, is shown, with its occupant again weary of luxury, again longing for her old simple, free life. To give her place at court, she has been married to Guillame du Barry, who lends her his name and rank but is not to bother her with his presence. She has servants to answer at the raising of an eyebrow, treasure-chests of gold to draw from, a lover who sits upon the throne of France. But they do not suffice. Cosse still has place in her mind and heart.

Cosse escapes from prison, and thirsting for vengeance, makes for the palace at Versailles, intent on the murder of Louis. He reaches the balcony of Du Barry's room, which adjoins the king's cabinet, and there is discovered by Jean du Barry and there shot by him.

Fainting, Cosse enters Du Barry's room. They recognize each other and meet again as lovers. The king, who has been told that a man has been seen climbing to Du Barry's balcony, knocks and demands admittance. When Cosse is told who it is beyond the door, his hatred for Louis overcomes whatever prudence he may possess, and he vows to kill the king. Du Barry, realizing she must employ desperate means to prevent his rash act, with all her force deals a blow upon his wound, and he falls upon the bed unconscious. She looks about for a place of concealment, and knowing that it is hazardous to keep the king waiting longer, she throws a heavy quilt over Cosse's body, unlocks the private panel and allows the king to enter. He storms about, swearing some man is in her room. Du Barry, who has herself gone back to bed, scornfully bids him search the room. Not finding the object of the king's wrath, the guards leave.

Then Du Barry fondles the man she has been forced to treat so cruelly, and while engaged in this touching performance is discovered by the ubiquitous Jean du Barry, who nobly "promises not to tell" if the lady will pay to him 200,000 louis. The next day deals with the events of this same eventful day, and the setting is the Versailles garden at night. A fete is on and Du Barry is to enact the part of Folly. While trying to appear the gayest of the gay, she is plotting how to get Cosse quietly away from his present dangerous surroundings. The plot thickens when the noble Jean du Barry, not waiting for his promise to grow cold on his lips, goes back on his word and tells the king that Du Barry is hiding the man for whom Louis is hunting. Charged with this accusation, Du Barry promises to make full confession if the king will spare Cosse's life.

The next act shows us a climax that is, to say the least, not joyful; the Du Barry on the way to the guillotine. Many years have passed since the days when she reigned at Versailles, the French revolution has broken forth and those that once drank deep of life's pleasures are now draining its dregs. To Du Barry's refuge in the woods Cosse brings orders from the committee of safety for her arrest. She is later shown in her cell at the Concierge, hopeful that she is to be pardoned; then, terror-stricken, before the priest who has come for her last confession. As the curtain rises on the final scene, we see a dark street with snow softly falling. Gradually the day breaks, and the mob assembles to watch the passing of the tumbrels on the way to the guillotine.

The Mme. Du Barry of history is scarcely the Mme. du Barry of Mr. Belasco's play. In the play Mr. Belasco has endeavored to create a character that should appeal to one's sympathies, a woman much more sinned against than sinning; a woman with amiability of character and courtesy of manner; a woman with more heart than vanity. The Mme. du Barry of history is the luxury-loving mistress of a licentious king; a creature given to scoldings and coarse jokes; a woman that really has no place on a pedestal.

THE ASTROLOGER

Where Ignorance Is Bliss.

An American art student, confined to the care of a friend in Paris, arrived at his destination in the evening, and, meeting with some difficulty in finding the address, was late in reaching the latter's apartments. After a long journey, being hungry as well as tired, he asked to be directed to one of the many Duval establishments of which he had so often heard. His friend accompanied him to the Duval place of the neighborhood, reaching the door just as it was about to be closed. At that hour of the night there were no substantial viands to be had, except a certain ragout au quelquechose, which the young student accepted as Hobson's choice. To his satisfaction, he found his supper very appetizing, and, with a glass of good, red wine, he enjoyed the meal heartily; the more as the charge, all told, was less than two francs. Well pleased with his first prandial experience in Paris, he expressed his gratification to his friend on the road home, asking incidentally: "By the way, what was that ragout—beef, or mutton, or what?" His feelings underwent a sudden revulsion as his friend replied: "Probably horse."—Chicago Journal.

Japanese Porcelain Repairs.

In the manner of repairs those wonderful followers of principle and truth in art, the Japanese, have a lesson to teach us. When a Japanese connoisseur breaks some precious piece of pottery or porcelain, he does not throw it away with disdain, neither does he try to deceive the casual observer into the belief that it is unbroken. Instead, he has it joined together, generally with gold lacquer, in such fashion that the fracture is boldly shown and commented on, as it were, by the frank exposition of the method by which it is made good. Curiously enough, a distinctly new and charmingly decorative effect is in most cases added by these irregular gold lines, while the sense of craftsmanship is tickled by the marvelous skill exhibited by the repairer in thus welding together the two dissimilar materials. Truth is preserved at no loss of artistic beauty; indeed once more it is made clear that the two may always walk hand in hand.—Connoisseur.

MORNING TAILOR MADES.

Cheviot and Serge Are Smart Materials For Them.

It is absurd for the average woman with a small income to wear trailing skirts of a pale shade for ordinary wear. Frenchwomen are so sensible in these matters. For walking in the morning they adopt a serge, cheviot or frieze of a medium shade, nicely made and scrupulously neat. These rough tailor mades are quite the thing for morning wear, and the stiff strappings or braidings can always be softened by the addition of a jabot of lace or a fancy collar.

For dressy occasions it is quite another matter. Gowns of pale cloth and velvet are the proper thing to wear, but great attention should be given that they remain always fresh and clean, and a long cloak will be found to protect them a great deal, particularly in riding in the street cars.

CHEVIOT TAILOR MADE.

An inner vest of embroidery is one of the features of many of the newest suit designs, and the front of the jacket is very fancy in effect.

The tailor made in the sketch is of navy blue cheviot trimmed with stitched bands of black silk. The jacket reaches a few inches below the waist line, except in front, where it is cut in two short points to show the underblouse of lace. Collar and revers are of heavy guipure lace. The sleeves flare in two points at the elbows and have long, tight fitting cuffs. The skirt is made very simply, with a stitched band trimming the bottom. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SEPARATE WAIST.

What Is Being Worn For Dressy and Ordinary Occasions.

The popularity of the flannel waist has not diminished, and it will be worn under tailor made suits all the spring. Of course the prettiest and most stylish material is white trimmed with touches of black. Pale blue and old rose blouses are also trimmed with narrow pipings of black velvet and tiny buttons of the same.

Generally broad shouldered effects are coming in, and some of the newest waists have this effect exaggerated by the addition of box plaits which are very wide on the shoulders and gradually slope in to the waist line.

For dressy wear blouses of chiffon, dotted net and lace are most elegant. Transparent black and white effects over white satin are considered especially chic, and they are trimmed with rich applications of jeweled or plain lace.

The dressy bodice shown here is very suitable for afternoon wear. It is made of black chiffon dotted in white over white satin. The inner vest is of fine tucked white mull. The waist is outlined around the shoulders and down the front with a wide band of honiton lace. The sleeves are tight fitting until just below the elbow, where they flare into a full puff headed by a band of the lace. The crush belt is of black satin, with a pearl button.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Girl WHO IS A Social Success

"SHE has to be a human chameleon," remarked the first old lady as she settled herself more comfortably in the "dowagers' corner" of the ballroom.

"Meaning the girl who is a social success?" interrogated the second old lady. "True, among society girls, as in everything else, the competition is terrible nowadays."

"Oh, I don't agree with you," said the giver of the dance, joining them at this moment. "The main qualifications for success are that a girl should be unselfish and discreet."

"I don't like that word discreet," put in the second old lady. "It sounds calculating, and calculation in a young girl"—

"Oh, my dear woman," laughed the other, "not in a society girl. She has to be, you know."

"Well, if any one knows what social success is, you do," said the second old lady. "Supposing you tell us what a girl must do to obtain it."

"Very well; I'm willing," laughed the hostess, and she began: "In the first place, as I have observed, she must be unselfish. She must devote herself to the prosy elderly women, the uninteresting old bachelors and the rich old maids, who are powers in society. She makes a great mistake, too, if she ignores the married men. They will not forgive it, and their influence is to be desired. No matter if she secretly despises women, yet she must put aside her own feelings. It is the married women and her girl friends who will give her the best times in the long end, and through them she will make the acquaintance of desirable men. Above all, she must never be guilty of the unpardonable crime of neglecting the women for the men. This will never be forgiven her, and yet it is one of the most common faults of young, inexperienced girls.

"I have said also," the hostess went on, "that she must be discreet. She must leave the fascinating tete-a-tete corners for the gay young matrons and the widows. They are not for her. She must furthermore allow her favor to shine, like the sun, on all alike. Then, too, she must not be self conscious, must not wonder what people are thinking of her, must not appear to be forever aware of her gown or her laugh or her figure. She must be an easy conversationalist and give other people a chance to show off their best points. Above all, she must not talk against time and for the purpose of filling up pauses. This is one of the most unpleasant characteristics of a young girl. She lives in deadly terror of a pause, when, if she only knew it, a pause is sometimes a very good thing and almost invariably much more desired than the silly things she says at random to fill it. Then a girl should be graceful and never be at a loss. If she is stranded during a dance, she should not lean awkwardly back in her seat looking forlorn. She should go over to join a group of matrons or girl friends. Above all, she should be careful not to make enemies. She cannot afford to, and whatever she says against another woman will recoil upon her."

"It occurs to me," remarked the second lady as the hostess glided away to welcome a late arrival, "that the successful society girl has to be a compendium of all the virtues."

"Or pretend she is," chuckled the first old lady, who was somewhat better versed in the ways of the world.

MAUD ROBINSON.

New Waists.

Aside [illegible] silk and lace, the velveteen and velutina and woolen waists are really stylish and desirable. Those made of flannel and velvet in any of the different kinds require slightly different treatment from silk and lace ones, and for these tucks and yokes seem to have the preference.

"Who—told you—that?" he gasped. She made no reply, a sudden anxiety for him banishing every other emotion. With a mighty effort, and before she could prevent him, he arose and staggered forward. The group dissolved and hurried towards him. Disregarding the physician and the woman, he leaned forward, and thrusting his face near to Holbin said with frantic energy:

"Sir, where is my niece? Where is Louise?" Holbin drew back. "Speak, you coward!" Holbin did not reply, but stood with eyes cast down, his face as pale almost as that which challenged him. The old man tore at his throat and gasped in a mighty struggle for breath. "My will!—my will!" he cried, moving feebly towards his wife. She retreated, keeping just beyond his hand. "Give—me—back—the—ah—!" A look of unutterable horror rose to his face; he wavered, plunged forward, and would have fallen, but Brodnar took him in his arms and laid him on the floor. For a moment not a sound broke the silence of the room.

"Who—will—protect—my daughter?" he whispered. Frances, his hand in hers, knelt in agony by his side.

"Have no fear of me, my father; God has raised up a defender!" Hearing this, Brodnar suddenly thrust back the group, leaving the girl alone with the dying man, to whom she whispered earnestly and rapidly. As he lay looking into her face a new light came for a brief moment to his and vanished. Brodnar, kneeling, placed his ear above the motionless heart. The moments passed.

"Dead!" he said at length, and arose. Raymond Holbin had paused at the door. He turned and exchanged glances with his mother and passed out.

Frances lay with her face upon the dead man's breast.

CHAPTER VI.

In all the throng that followed to the grave in Hollywood the remains of the wealthy and once distinguished John Brookin there was, aside from family servants, but one sincere mourner. The slender figure of his daughter Frances, supported by the strong arm of Dr. Brodnar, shook with an agony of grief. She had not looked on death since her mother died, and the passing of the saintly woman had been but as sleep prolonged into eternity. But here was the consciousness of a great wrong; the discovery of an error beyond remedy; here was the end of a tragedy in which she had been made to act a fatal part. Her rightful protector had been stricken from her.

"Courage, my child!"—she heard the doctor's voice and felt his arm press upon her hand—"courage! Save your strength for the struggle to come. Live now to defeat the enemies of your father." Her frail figure strengthened and grew steady; she no longer leaned upon his arm.

"Dust to dust, ashes to ashes." The minister's voice rang out the sad and solemn words; the clay dropped and clattered solemnly upon the coffin-box.

The prayer that followed was marked by a dramatic incident. Frances knelt by the open grave with moving lips that uttered no sound. Dr. Brodnar alone understood that her petition was no prayer, but a pledge that would never be forgotten. The widow stood opposite, veiled in deepest black, the apotheosis of grief.

It was a matter of general comment that Raymond Holbin was not present at the funeral. It was given out that a sudden indisposition had detained him at home. But the indisposition of Raymond Holbin was a fiction pure and simple. There would have been no more discreet and well-behaved mourner by the grave than he; but there was nothing to be gained in attending the funeral, and there was a matter of vital importance which must be settled in the deserted residence of the deceased.

For Holbin was a bewildered and unhappy man. Not that he feared Louise. The Brookin will and the death of the testator apparently secured his interests, even should Louise be rash enough to carry out her threats of exposure. This, however, he felt assured she would never attempt. Terror of the law had already proved itself potent to control her. In his hurried and frequent visits to the hotel he had ascertained the fact that she was for the time being completely in his power. Reaction from her fierce excitement had set in; she clung to him, helpless and penitent. That she had seen a man at midnight in the wing-room of the Brookin house and had shot him, he did not doubt that she believed. As for himself, there were times when he had thought her simply insane—the victim of an illusion; and yet the facts seemed to support her statement that she had visited the premises. Clearly his best course lay in the support of the illusion.

This, then, was the invention which Holbin carried to the ears of the miserable woman: The man she had slain was indeed the lover of the woman in that room; he had been killed instantly, and a friend had carried away the body. To save the family's name a suicide had been declared; rejected over and over, it was said, the young man had come into the garden and had shot himself. All the evidence and the surrounding circumstances pointed plainly to this theory. The man who discovered him, it was said, had found a note from the suicide upon his table, directing him where to look for his body; but, added Holbin, while the coroner had by a skillful selection of a jury from among the family's friends secured a hasty verdict in accordance with the theory of suicide, it was apparent that the police were suspicious, and it was said that some of them were quietly searching for the woman who had left the imprints of number two shoes under the window of the wing-room. Such was the story.

Louise believed it implicitly. The horror of her crime deprived her for the time of her mental powers and good judgment. She suffered herself to be guided and directed by Holbin. She was consigned to the care of an elderly negro woman, and readily accepted her room as her prison. It was not long before she was physically powerless to leave it.

Raymond Holbin's most serious apprehension during the day which witnessed the death of John Brookin grew out of the fact that by inference at least he had been charged with crime in connection with Louise. His common sense told him that something said by Frances in her last interview with her father had provoked the sudden accusation. What did Frances know of Louise and who was her informant! Gradually during the day his suspicious nature secured ascendancy over his common sense. A secret visit outside the window of the wing-room betrayed the still distinct tracks made by Louise and the fact that the ivy had been disturbed.

From the moment of these discoveries Holbin was a miserable man. It is a peculiar but a well-known idiosyncrasy of the masculine nature that whatever the man himself may bring to the marriage altar he demands that he shall meet there only immaculate purity. The realization by Holbin that fortune could be secured only by linking himself for life to Frances, who was thus proven to have compromised herself, was alone sufficient to fill him with bitterness and hatred, though it did not for a moment deter him; but by a not unnatural operation of the processes which were molding his future he had found himself strangely influenced from the hour of their first meeting by this young girl whose future was to be linked to his. Fresh from school, her mind unformed, and with but vague ideas of real life, Frances Brookin presented that charming combination of knowledge and ingenuousness which makes the girl-woman forever irresistible to men of experience. Himself accomplished and versatile, he set about the pleasant task of winning her confidence, and he might perhaps have succeeded but for over-assiduousness and the wonderful intuition of the feminine mind. The unwelcome results of his efforts were that within two weeks he had fatally alarmed her and as fatally involved himself. For the first time in his life he was genuinely in love.

It was at this time that Dr. Brodnar, hovering around his aged patient, discovered the drift of affairs, and, becoming aware of the infamy planned through the will, privately took control of Frances and revealed to her the plot of which she was to be the victim. From that moment Frances turned from Holbin as from a criminal, and Holbin was piqued to court her with a fiercer jealousy.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 9, "The Secret of Endurance"—Text, Heb. xi, 24-27; Ex. xxxiii, 9-23.

"As seeing Him who is invisible."

Moses had a great work in hand. He had been the chief actor in the insurrection of the Hebrew slaves against their Egyptian masters. After a series of marvelous natural disasters to the land a great horde had assembled in the vicinity of Mount Horeb, in the peninsula of Sinai. The skill shown in management of affairs thus far was of high order, but also small in comparison with that needed for the task ahead. This undisciplined mass of humanity must be fed, and that in a wilderness, while they had come from the most fertile land in the world. They must fight their way through hostile tribes trained to incessant war, and they had never wielded a more soldierly weapon than a shepherd's staff. They must be taught self government and formed into a nation that had never been trained to exercise authority, but only to obey.

Other men have had great tasks to perform, but who ever had one so stupendous and apparently hopeless as this?

Moses' success is due almost wholly to his grasp of a truth which few men have ever acquired so fully as he did. He undoubtedly was endowed with unusual ability in many particulars and had unusual opportunities of culture, but the secret of his greatness was his intimacy with God.

He had in some manner come to a consciousness that Yahveh, whose name he had first learned among the Kenites, was the sole existent God. He had in forty years with Jeshio and in the Sinai wilderness come to views of His nature such as no one before had ever known. He believes that God regards him personally with favor and has charged him with the work of delivering the Hebrews from slavery. He believes God has farreaching plans for hem linked with moral purposes. He ealizes his own incompetency to rule nd develop such a crude mass of men.

He earnestly craves to know the way of Jehovah. He wants to know His nature and plan. If this people are to go into Canaan, this God, whose abode had been in Horeb, must go with them or they could not go up from that place. The assurance comes to Moses, "My presence shall go, and I will give thee rest." This abiding presence of God with them would distinguish and separate Israel from all other people.

What wonder that Moses wished to see some form of God! The people could not or would not grasp the idea of Jehovah without some visible form. Hence the golden calf and the age long struggle with idol shapes of varied kinds until after the Babylonish captivity and the fulfillment of all desires in the appearance of Jesus Christ.

The secret of Moses' power and patient endurance was his attitude toward God as if he could and did see Him. God was to him the most real existence in all the world. He endured as if he saw Him, he acted as if he talked with Him face to face.

The secret is open for us also. Does Jesus seem to you as if you could see and talk openly with Him? It can be so.

The Cycle of Truth.

What a marvelous completeness there is in a Scripture record! It rounds the cycle of truth, opening with a paradise in which there was neither mourning nor crying nor travail; narrating in pages stained with blood and tears man's bitter heritage, self caused, of weariness and woe, and ending with the new heavens and earth, on the air of which no stifled groan or sigh or dirge can ever break. The pain of misunderstanding will e no more, since we shall see eye to eye and know as we are known The pain of suspense will be no more, because we shall behold the purposes of God in their ultimate and beneficent outworking. The pain of waning love will be no more, because in that happy land, as the children sing, love is kept by a Father's hand and cannot die. The pain of bereavement will be no more, because death cannot intrude into that glad city of life. No cypress tree grows there, no mourning garb is ever seen in those streets, no funeral cortege ever winds its slow length along them. —F. B. Meyer.

The Evanescent and Abiding.

Rightly to estimate the value of the evanescent and the abiding is to choose that which is not limited to time not affected by misfortunes nor stifled by untoward and uncontrollable circumstances. It is possible to those who have thus chosen in the midst of suffering from the worst afflictions known to men to rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory, for they look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen, for the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal.—Independent.

Give Away the Truth.

Do not die disgraced. If you are rich in the truth of the gospel, give it away. Do not hoard it; use it. If you have felt its gracious influence upon your own life, if it has made your past more endurable, your future more hopeful, let others share in your wealth. Give it away in the words of your lips, in the acts of your hands, the expression of your face, the spirit of your life.—Universalist Leader.

Weekday Piety.

A Sunday religion is not enough. It must be followed up with a weekday piety. Life in all its relations must be devoted to God's service. Christianity affects the entire man and must appear constantly in what one says and does.—Presbyterian.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 9—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The secret of endurance.—Heb. xi, 24-27; Ex. xxxiii, 9-23.

The importance of endurance in the Christian life cannot be overestimated. A good start is an essential element in success, but no matter how good the start, if we do not continue, if we do not endure, success is impossible. The Galatians began well, but they did not continue so, and hence Paul needed to warn them against the harmful consequences of becoming weary in well doing. In the parable of the sower the seed that fell upon stony ground sprang up quickly, but it had no power of endurance; it soon withered away and consequently produced no fruit.

The need of powers of endurance is also very great. The Christian life is not a flowery bed of ease. Temptations, discouragements, hardships, beset us upon every side. Our life is a constant warfare; hence we must be able to "endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ." It is a race, and an essential element of victory in a race is the power to endure.

The importance and need of endurance being so manifest, we may well study the secret of endurance. The topical references suggest several elements necessary to endurance in the Christian life and work.

1. Faith is a secret of endurance. This is illustrated in the life of Moses. Moses persevered in his religion at great cost and sacrifice, and faith was one of the secrets of his endurance. "By faith Moses when he came to years refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season." Faith was a principal factor in the choice of Moses. Faith leads to endurance. The man who believes firmly in God, in the future life, in the power of Christ to save, in the profitableness of a Christian life, will persevere and endure even in the face of sacrifice or hardship.

2. Consideration of the future is a secret of endurance. This was another factor in the endurance of Moses. He considered the future consequences of his actions. Had he looked simply at the present, as so many do, he would have chosen to continue as the son of Pharaoh's daughter rather than the son of God. But in the light of the future such a choice would have been suicidal. Having "respect unto the recompense of the reward" he "esteemed reproach for Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt." So will any one decide who looks faithfully to the future consequences of his actions. The wages of sin is death. The wages of enduring service for God is eternal life. These facts should be an inspiration to endurance.

3. God's presence is a secret of endurance. God promised to be with Moses in his great undertaking of leading Israel to Palestine. "Surely my presence shall be with thee." God will also be with us. What we cannot endure He will endure for us or give us the power to endure. Therefore we should be "steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord."

BIBLE READINGS.

Josh. i, 1-7; Matt. xxv, 31-46; xxviii, 19, 20; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. v, 1; vi, 1-10; II Tim. ii, 1-3; Heb. xi, 32-40; xii, 1, 2; Rev. ii, 10.

Have Patience.

To hear your murmuring and repining, it would seem that you are the most innocent soul living and that it is great injustice that you are not admitted into the celestial paradise. Remember how you have offended God, and you must acknowledge His righteous dealing with you. Confess to Him with the humility of the prodigal son, "Father, I have sinned against heaven and Thee." I know how I am indebted to Thy justice, but I have not myself the courage to discharge the debt. If it were left to me, I should deceive, I should spare, I should betray myself. But Thy merciful hand executes what I should never have had the courage to do. It corrects me in love. Grant also that I may endure with patience its salutary corrections. If a sinner has a just indignation against himself, the least he can do is to receive the correction which he has not the fortitude to choose.—Episcopal Recorder.

Our Pilot.

Our life is like the ocean, at times stormy, at others calm. As a vessel must have some one at the helm to guide it in all kinds of weather, so we need a pilot at all times to guide us lest we go astray. Those who take Christ for the pilot never drift or get shipwrecked. We must have faith in Christ and fidelity to His cause. If we steadfastly follow Him, He will guide us safely through the dangers of this world to the harbor of heaven, there to receive the reward promised to the faithful, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Call of Heaven.

It is not the ornamental but the useful life that counts most for God and man. We live in a busy, stirring time, and duties press on every side. Occasions multiply for the fullest expansion of our physical, mental and religious energies. Up and doing is the call of heaven and earth.—Presbyterian.

Whom God Loves.

The grand characteristic of the gospel of Jesus Christ is that it makes a man feel that he is a being of capacity and worth, one whom God loves and cares for, desires to redeem and save and purposes to do great things by, counting not the cost the process of His grace involves.—Evangelist.

CLEARING UP AFTER FIRE

different lines from the former structure.

"It was generally believed that the automatic sprinkler in the building worked successfully. This is not so. Those of the first floor did not work at all because there was not a sufficient amount of heat to melt the caps. These sprinklers only extend as far as the third floor."

In conclusion Chief Doane paid the greatest compliment to his firemen, as well as the firemen from North Plainfield and the city police department. He said they did nobly and that the fire was kept in the one building he considered remarkable when one realizes how hard the wind was blowing during the early part of the fire.

CITY CLEARED AWAY DEBRIS

While the firemen were still working among the ruins, yesterday morning, Street Commissioner Gavett detailed a gang of men to clear the street of debris. Two horses were pressed into service to pull the large beams and blocks of stones clear of the sidewalk and in a very short time it was free from all obstruction. Hundreds of cart loads of brick were carted away from the street and gutters, thereby allowing the water dripping from the ruins to flow away. Today, the city employes are busy cleaning off the sidewalks on West Front street and Madison avenue.

WHAT HAPPENED TO TROLLEY

Realizing the danger to firemen and sight-seers from crossed wires, Manager Charles Runyon, of the telephone company, cut the fuse on the trolley feed wire in front of the building, early yesterday morning. This made it impossible for the cars to run in that vicinity and there was no service the greater portion of the day. In the early afternoon when the wire was repaired, the hose and debris prevented the cars running past the building but the traffic was fully restored before evening.

INCIDENTS OF THE FIRE

A report was current yesterday that the double six alarm of fire was sounded during the progress of the fire. This is a mistake. There were several alarms from different boxes and this caused some confusion. Warren Engine company was ready some time before called to give assistance to the Plainfield firemen. The horses were hitched to the appartus and everything was ready for the start. When the borough alarm was given the firemen turned out very quick.

Councilman Robert Lee, who is chairman of the fire committee of the Common Council, was one of the hardest workers at the fire yesterday. In the afternoon from pure exhaustion and lack of something to eat, he dropped in the street. He was assisted by Manager C. W. Runyon, of the telephone company, and Patrolman Lunger, to Scheuer's store, where he partially recovered. He afterwards went home.

Woodhull & Martin succeeded yesterday afternoon in getting in their store and opening their safe. Here their valuable business papers were kept and the fire and water did little damage to the safe, which is a comparativley new one. A number of books, papers and the money were taken out to a safe place.

The only member of the police force injured in the rescue work when the fire was discovered, was the head of the department, Chief Kiely. He was directing and helping the removal of the post office valuables when he slipped on the wet glass in front of the building and fell heavily on his back. He was partially paralyzed and had to be taken home in a cab. This morning he was able to be at his office but is still very sore. The police were directed the remainder of the day by Sergeant Frederickson.

The rounds of the fire gong were plainly heard at North Branch yesterday morning, and at Bound Brook the blasts were so distinct the residents rushed to the depot to learn the cause. At other points along the Central the numbers were easily counted.

In the ruins at the Babcock building a few valuable articles belonging to the Masonic Hall Association were found yesterday. J. Hervey Doane has the knocker that was on the main door. Frederick Pope found the compass and square while Richard Osmun and Fred Cranston found the Bible and a few other things. John Neagle secured permission this morning for J. Hervey Doane to make a search of the ruins for some valuable lenses owned by Mr. Doane which were in the Camera Club rooms.

A serious loss was that of the records of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P. The record of every member from the organization of the lodge, and a complete history of each one was complied by Frank Putnam at a great expense of time and labor. As yet the lodge has secured no meeting place. Their trouble has been reported to the Grand Chancellor by District Deputy Grand Chancellor Jeremiah VanWinkle and he is waiting for an answer.

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

The statement is made on good authority that the trustees of the Babcock estate intend to rebuild the Babcock building as soon as a settlement can be made with the insurance men.

Work has been started at once to clear up the debris and prevent any further damage being done to the building. It is proposed to erect a temporary roof over the first floor so that Woodhull & Martin may take possession of their quarters with as little delay as possible.

REVISED ESTIMATES OF LOSS

Later information makes little or no change in the estimated loss by fire. While the figures in some of the smaller losses have been slightly changed now that more definite information has been obtained, the heavier losses are given at the same figures as yesterday.

The loss on the building will reach $150,000, covered by insurance; Woodhull & Martin's loss will be $50,000, covered by insurance; Rogers Corporation, $18,000, covered by insurance; Masonic Hall Association, $10,000, covered by insurance. members' personal property, $2,000, no insurance.

Wililam Holmes, the musical instructor, whose studio was on the fourth floor, places his loss at $700 with an insurance of $500. He lost considerable music for the chorus in the opera "Mikado" in course of production. A piano which was in the studio was entirely destroyed.

P. Ludwig Conde, the violinist, who had some property in Mr. Holmes' studio, lost a violin and music valued at $35.

In store, No. 100, which has been occupied by the W. C. T. U. the damage by water is $50, covered by insurance.

The Plymouth Brethren's meeting room No. 102 sustained $5 damage by water.

On the second floor of the annex, Thomas B. Titsworth, janitor of the building, estimates his loss by water at $200. It is covered by $500 insurance.

Charles Schermerhorn, manager of the Western Union Telegraph office, resided on the second floor but his rooms were not affected. Probably the heaviest loser of any of the annex inmates was A. V. Giles, who kept a restaurant and boarders on the third floor. Nearly all his living rooms and restaurant furnishings were destroyed or damaged to the extent of $500 on which there is no insurance.

On the third floor, E. S. Brokaw suffered a $150 loss through ruined furniture covered by $200 insurance.

Wesley Brokaw places his loss by water at $250. Half of this is for furniture and the remainder for goods stored in the basement. He had $700 insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morgan reside in the rear of the third floor but escaped all harm.

W. L. Gilbert, who has a studio on the fourth floor, found the water had done no injury.

Miss May Vincent Whitney, who has a musical studio on the fourth floor, suffered a trifling loss, due to water.

J. D. Macnab, commercial instructor at the Plainfield High School, resided on the fourth floor but suffered no loss.

Horace A. Woodward, another tenant on the fourth floor, found water all about the hallways but his rooms were not affected.

Humphrey A. Bodine and family resided on the fourth floor but did not suffer any loss.

The heaviest loser through the demolition of the Sebring building is O. M. Dunham, the haberdasher. His loss is placed at $5,000, partially covered by insurance.

B. W. Hand, who conducted a stationary store in the Sebring building, places his loss at $800. He carried only $450 insurance.

H. D. Thompson, agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Company, suffered a personal loss of $250. There were thirty-five machines and other stock in the store belonging to the company valued at $2,000, with no insurance.

For disobeying the order of Officer Lunger to desist in driving over hose on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, Edward Wolf, of the borough, was arrested, and only a previous good record saved him from a sentence in police court this morning.

DEATH OF MRS. ALLEN.

Old Resident of Somerset County Passed Away Yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Allen, wife of Elias Allen, died yesterday afternoon at her home on Somerset street. She had been ill a long time.

Mrs. Allen was born in Somerset county seventy-two years ago. She was a member of the First Baptist church. She leaves a husband, two daughters, one living in Washington Valley, and the other, Mrs. Schutt, of Brooklyn. She also leaves a brother, Surrogate H. N. Spencer, of the borough. The funeral services will be held from the late residence, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

An Extra Inducement.

Attention is called to the interesting ad. of Daley Brothers, of West Front street, which will be found in another column for the first time today. This firm recognizes the fact that judicious advertising brings good results. The concern is satisfied with a small margin of profit on the proportionately great number of sales. As an extra inducement to trade, however, the firm has established a plan of special sales.

New Masonic Headquarters.

A meeting of the Masonic Hall Association was held at H. W. Marshall's, last evening, to decide upon temporary quarters. It was left to a committee, J. F. Buckle, chairman, O. T. Waring, Henry Woodland and Peter Emmons.

Offered Its Rooms.

Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., at a meeting last evening, passed a resolution of condolence over the loss sustained by Somerset Council, of the same order, by reason of the fire. The use of its rooms and paraphernalia was tendered.

Artificial Marble.

Manufacturers are actually making marble by the same process by which nature makes it, only in a few weeks instead of a few thousand years, says the London Builder. They take a rather soft limestone and chemically permeate it with various coloring matters, which sink into the stone and are not a mere surface coloring, as in seagliola. The completed material takes a fine polish, and many of the specimens are of beautiful color and marking. Used as a veneer it is about one-third the price of nature's marble.

Setting Out Sponges.

In Florida and other suitable waters beds of sponges are now set out, and marketable sponges are grown from small cuttings, just as vegetables are raised in the same way.

Fortune in a Hat.

A hat made of diamonds valued at $2,500,000, perched on thet op being a $2,500,000, is perched on the top being a Jung Bahadur, the king of Nepaul's prime minister.

Marble Burned.

That old joke about "a fire in a stone yard" must be called in. A recent conflagration in a Philadelphia marble and granite plant caused a loss of $50,000.

CROWDS STILL GATHER TO VIEW RUINS OF THE FIRE

While Workmen Clear Away Debris and Strengthen the Walls Pending Settlement of the Loss.

IT WAS A SPECTACULAR FIRE.

TRUSTEES OF BABCOCK ESTATE WILL TAKE DEFINITE ACTION AFTER INSURANCE SETTLEMENT.

They Favor Immediate Rebuilding of the Structure—Possible Danger to Back and Eastern Walls by the High Winds—Carpenters Are Anchoring Them to Prevent Any Accidents—Other Details of the Big Fire.

The ruins of the once magnificent Babcock building, with its tall elevator shaft towering above the confused mass of charred wood, iron work, brick and stone, and surrounded by broken bare walls, continues to attract hundreds of people to the corner of West Front street and Madison avenue. In the rear stands the L to the main building, known as the annex, which defied the fire, in striking contrast to the rest. While nothing will be done towards the rebuilding of the Babcock building until a settlement has been made with the insurance companies, the debris is being cleared away and precautions taken to prevent the falling of any of the ruins. The insurance men are hard at work and expect to be able to get their affairs straightened out before many days.

From the very start, there was a general feeling that the disaster should not be allowed to force that valuable property into a state of idleness. While the trustees of the Babcock estate were retiscent about speaking before a formal conference should be held, it was plain to see that the sentiment was decidedly in favor of the immediate rebuilding of the structure. An informal discussion by several of the interested ones outlined the plan, which has already been noted in these columns, the erection of a building four stories high, utilizing as much of the present walls as possible. While definite action will not be taken until the settlement with the underwriters is complete, it can be expected that this plan will be endorsed.

The sight of the tall walls, towering above all with little or nothing to secure them, immediately gives the impression that there is still considerable danger to be feared by the possible collapse. Even before the ruins were cold, Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, carefully examined the walls, especially with a view as to any possible danger. The Front street and Madison avenue walls are, Chief Doane says, perfectly safe and there is no danger to be feared from them. A high wind or severe storm might, he says, affect the eastern and rear walls. By putting in beams where the third and fourth floors were and securely anchoring them to the walls in question, the Chief says it will be possible to eliminate all danger of their falling.

Under the direction of I. T. West, a gang of carpenters started work yesterday morning. The large show windows on the first floor were boarded up and then beams were laid across the iron girders which had supported the third floor. They will be anchored to the eastern wall to prevent any further collapse. Beams will also be used where the fourth floor formerly was to assist in holding the wall.

Another gang of men is now employed in cleaning out the tons of debris which cover the floors of the rooms below the fire which were not ruined by the flames. The city has completed its work of clearing the roadway and sidewalk of debris.

In order to provide against any possible accident by the falling of debris from the walls or upper floors, the sidewalk on West Front street, from the eastern end of the Sebring building to Madison avenue has been roped off and several policemen have been stationed there to allow no one, except with good reason, inside the ropes. This will be continued until the walls have been firmly anchored and all loose debris removed from where it is likely to fall.

The Babcock Building After the Fire.

FIRE WAS SPECTACULAR ONE

Besides being the most disastrous fire on account of the value of the property destroyed, Thursday morning's conflagration was the most spectacular Plainfield ever witnessed. It was an even grander spectacle than the destruction by fire of either of the great lumber yards on Park avenue, near the railroad. For this reason, The Daily Press has made a special effort to show a number of illustrations, picturing the building before the fire, during the progress of the conflagration, and after the flames were extinguished but before any attempt was made to clear away the debris. Those who did not happen to see the fire will get some idea of what they missed while those who were present during the exciting hours will have something to recall those scenes vividly to mind.

Everything combined to make the fire a particularly spectacular one. The Babcock building, before the fire, towered above every other block in the city. Only the church steeples were higher. Its huge bulk could be seen for miles. For size and height, there was nothing in the city to compare with it. Then the fire started in such a way as to make the most display. It started on the fifth floor, spread to the large attic and then burst through the roof. It then continued to burn downward, the walls and floors continually tumbling into the fire below and sending forth huge clouds of sparks.

A few minutes after the first alarm sounded, the roof was all ablaze and a great column of fire extended heavenward. The high wind from the northwest fanned it and carried and fiery cloud far above the city scattering sparks to the south and east for many blocks. But for the snow on the roofs of the other buildings, a host of conflagrations would have inevitably resulted. The building looked like some great chimney, pierced with many small openings out of which the smoke and flames burst.

This tower of fire continued for several hours and finally died away to be succeeded by a waving pillar of smoke which continued until the morning was nearly over.

One of the accompanying illutrations shows the Madison avenue side of the Babcock building as the firemen were beginning to make some impression on the fire. A huge bank of smoke hides the Front street side from view. The firemen are seen actively engaged in fighting the blaze, using the fire escapes and ladders to reach the points of vantage. The fire itself is hidden by volumes of smoke. The picture is taken from an upper floor of the Jackson building diagonally opposite.

Another picture is taken from the same corner, only on the sidewalk, and displays the Front street as well as the Madison avenue side. The firemen are prominently shown caring for the streams directed at the fire. Several well-known city officials, police-

GIFTS TO HOME MISSIONS

BIG YEAR FOR WOMEN'S SOCIETY OF CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

Election of Officers and Address on Work in Southwest Occupied the Meeting.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church met yesterday afternoon in the chapel in annual session, when a review of the year's work, the election of officers and an address by Miss Hayes, a missionary in New Mexico, comprised the programme for the afternoon.

The treasurer's report showed the contributions for the year to be $1,213, which is the best in the history of the society. All of the money was expended, $500 being for the salary of the teacher supported in Utah. Contributions have also been made to the work in Alaska, among the freedmen, Indians and the mountain people of the south. Five boxes were sent during the year to mission fields.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. I. C. Pierson; vice president, Mrs. William E. Honeyman, Mrs. Townsend Rushmore; treasurer, Mrs. W. M. Myers; secretary, Miss Mary W. Ketcham; secretary for literature, Mrs. H. R. Halloway; secretary for young people's work, Miss M. E. Tracy.

After the transaction of business, Miss Hayes gave a talk about her work in New Mexico. She told how anxious the people in that country, especially the children, are to be educated, and how much greater the demand is than the supply.

After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and tea was served.

BY RELIEF UNION.

Sock Social and Literary Entertainment Given Last Night.

A sock social and literary entertainment wa given in the G. A. R. rooms, last evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Veteran Relief Union. There was a very large attendance and an enjoyable programme was rendered under the direction of John R. Naylor.

The opening address was made by Charles M. Raybert and others were given by members of the Union Veteran's Union. Recitations and impersonations were given by Miss Try Mattox and Colonel A. G. Perry. Harmonica solos by H. G. Wentrick were longly encored. Refreshments were served at the close.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Lida F. Day, Mrs. Edith Pennington, Mrs. Emma Stevens and Mrs. Elizabeth Naylor.

—On and after Monday, March 10, Dr. Herring will meet patients at 212 W. Front St., over Putnam & DeGraw's.

NEW PRESIDENT SELECTED

MISS MABEL WOODRUFF WILL SERVE AS HEAD OF THE MISSION BAND.

After Other Important Business, Young Women of Trinity Church Heard An Address.

Facts concerning the life of the higher caste women and children in India formed the basis of a talk given by Mrs. Conklin, a missionary, at a meeting of the Young Woman's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church, yesterday afternoon. The address was made at the conclusion of a business session, the features of which were the selection of a president and the arrangement of appropriations for the current year.

Mrs. F. S. Cutter, who was elected president at the annual meeting in February, did not feel disposed to accept the responsibilities of the office and in her place Miss Mabel Woodruff consented to serve, after being unanimously elected. Under her administration a year full of good work is expected.

The apportionment of the funds for the current year between foreign and domestic missions was as follows: Woman's executive committee of the Board of Domestic Missions, $40; Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, $40; Student Volunteer Movement, $10; Kentucky Mountaineers, (whites), $10. Letters from Mrs. Walter E. Rowe, of Colony, Oko., and Miss Atkinson, of Fort Sill, thanking the society for contributions of comforters and jelly, were read.

Mrs. Conklin, who at one time had charge of four industrial schools in the southern part of India, told of the idle and demoralizing life led by the women of that land. At the mission schools they are taught to read, sew and cook, in all of which the women of India are in ignorance of as a rule.

RARE TREAT.

Will be Commander Wadhams' Entertainment at Y. M. C. A.

The Grand Rapids Herald says: "Commander Wadhams, of the United States Navy, brought the real gale of a sea breeze into the meeting. His talk was as interesting and fascinating as a Kipling story. He told in an inspiring manner something of life on a man-of-war, from the commanding officers to the "jackies." He put so much of his own personality into his address, and drew such vivid word pictures, and portrayed so graphically the various conditions of life in the navy that his hearers were brought up to the point of almost believing for the time being that they were on shipboard instead of in the Park church. Several times during Commander Wadhams' address he would doubtless have been interrupted by cheers had the occasion been at any other time or place."

A rare treat is in store for those who attend the entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course, Monday evening.

PRIMARIES AT WATCHUNG.

Republicans and Citizens of the Township Named Same Ticket.

A harmonious primary was held by the Republicans of North Plainfield township Thursday evening and the following ticket named without opposition: Town clerk, Henry Kliner; assessor, A. P. Voorhees; town committeeman, Benjamin Clark; constable, George Stuart; surveyors of highways, H. Texier and G. Smalley; comimssioners of appeal, J. Y. Barret, Stephen Beaching and Daniel Ackor; pound keepers, Thomas McGann and Carl Rubenstein. Appropriations for the coming year were set as follows: Roads, $2,000; poor, $400; salaries of each township commissioner, $50. Last evening the Citizens' party met at Nelson's hotel and endorsed the ticket named by the Republicans. Benjamin Clark, the nominee for township committeeman, is a Democrat, and as such was named by both parties.

Death of W. H. Angleman.

Walter H. Angleman, a former resident of this city, died at his home in Passaic, Wednesday. He was a son of the late John Angleman, of this place, and was in his forty-third year at the time of his death. The funeral services will be held from the late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and the interment will be made in Paterson.

Dan Shea Resigned.

Daniel Shea, who has been connected with the local postoffice as letter-carrier for the past seven years, resigned his position this morning. He expects to leave tomorrow for Chicago.

—Phillip Swain will lead the meeting at the East Third street chapel tomorrow evening.

BOUQUETS WERE THROWN AT BOROUGH COUNCIL

Last Meeting Before Spring Election Chiefly Devoted in Exchanging Compliments.

SOME ROUTINE BUSINESS

WAR ON DELINQUENT TAXPAYERS IS TO BE CONTINUED.

Editor Webb Wanted More Money for Making Corrections to Borough Report—Borough Officials and Committees Had Reports.

The last Borough Council meeting before the annual spring election was held last evening, with all the members present except Mr. Coddington. The session was a tame one. After transacting some routine business, Mayor Smalley and Councilmen Clark and Swackhamer exchanged compliments upon the expiration of the term of the latter two. Mr. Swackhamer retires for good, while Mr. Clark is looking forward to serving the borough another term, if the voters want him to.

Mayor Smalley started the ball rolling by saying that the last meeting always seemed to be a peculiar one in many respects, an odd one so to speak. He then referred to Mr. Swackhamer and said that while he had been absent many times, the meetings had been held and all business transacted harmoniously. He expressed his regrets that the Councilman was to retire. Personally, he expressed his hope that Mr. Clark would be elected for another term. In all events he trusted that whoever should be elected next Tuesday would fill the positions as well as those who have served the borough. The Mayor then gave a little lesson in history and told of the complexion of the Council when he was elected to office.

Mr. Clark took occasion to remark that he and Mr. Swackhamer entered the Council together, at the same time he had never had more than a passing acquaintance with him. However, he had been drawn to Mr. Swackhamer by his uniform kindness and courtesy. He said that no one would miss his more than he himself, and while he knew that the retiring member had been detained often by business he was convinced that his heart and mind were associated with the Council in its work.

Mr. Swackhamer replied to the pleasantries in a spirit of appreciation. He said he realized what an important office Mr. Clark held and all knew how well he had filled it. That he had not attended more meetings he had no excuse nor any apologies to make. He appreciated the fact that every member had tried to serve the best interests of the borough and in such a municipality he believed it best to overlook politics in its administration. He referred to the earnest work of Mayor Smalley and said that he knew that every member had nothing but the best of motives in the government of the borough.

In conclusion he regretted that he was to sever his relations with the Council, but assured all that he would not lose his interest. He then thanked the Mayor and every member for the courtesy shown and the kind words expressed.

In the routine business of the evening the report of Collector George F. Brown was presented as follows: Taxes and interest, $611.09; Board of Health, $7.73; special school, $274.89; rent of property sold for taxes, $35; fines received from the Recorder, $13; license fees from the clerk, $10; license money from County Clerk Somers, $997.50; balance last year, $253.22; total, $2,202.53; disbursements, $180; cash on hand, $2,022.53.

Mr. Clark, chairman of the street committee, presented the following report: Labor, cleaning sidewalks and crosswalks of snow, $111.55; J. W. Manhattan, laying crosswalks, $49.95; C. F. Debele, repairing Rock road, $2; J. J. Heidloff, supplies, $6.45; Boice, Runyon & Co., one barrel Portland cement, $2.50; total, $172.45.

Regarding the question of electric lights being out during the past month, for which an allowance is made by the electric light company, Mayor Smalley said that the weather had been such that it was impossible for the marshals to keep track of them all. Mr. Northrop said that he would see the company and have the bill adjusted satisfactorily.

Mr. Lee, chairman of the committee on marshals, reported that during the past month six arrests were made and

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Elizabeth is not the only city in which poor trolley service, flat wheels, etc., are imposed on the traveling public. In the Plainfield City Council, a few evenings ago, a resolution was introduced by one of the Councilmen, "to declare null and void the trolley company's franchise in view of the violation of its provisions regarding the flat wheels, storing cars on the public street at night, the inefficient fenders, the irregular headway and the unsanitary condition of the cars." The resolution was defeated, but received three votes out of the eight. Of course it is not the intention to deprive any trolley company of its franchise, but it is the intention to compel them to live up to the terms of their franchises. This they should do, this they should be made to do. In times of great blizzards, great floods or great and unusual disasters of any kind, unavoidable violations may reasonably be overlooked, but in good times all such things as dirty cars, flat wheels, irregular and inadequate service should be promptly taken notice of by city officials, and remedies should be insisted upon.—Elizabeth Journal.

Ex-Senator Thompson, of Somerset, seems to be enjoying political prosperity at home, and therefore, in a corresponding degree, it is to be supposed that Senator Reed is not enjoying political prosperity at home. Whether this is exactly the situation can only be guessed, but the persistence of the three bills presented by Hall, of Union, to consolidate Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield seems to have a bearing on the political situation in Somerset.

The Republican workers in Somerset do not want to lose the 469 Republcan votes in the borough which will go to Union county if the consolidation bills go through. The Union county Republicans sympathize with their brethren over the border, but their sorrow is mitigated by the added strength they will gain.

It is understood that Senator Reed is against these bills, but cannot stem the current which is bearing the borough out of Somerset county. Plainfield does not need Republican reinforcement, as it has nearly two to one Republican plurality now, but it will gain Senator Reed, whose interests are in the borough and the borough interests are identical with the city across the brook. The union wil raise Plainfield to over 20,000 population when it gets the 5,000 of the borough, and it will be a bigger factor in Union county politics. It will end the contest between the Senator and the ex-Senator, and will leave Thompson in peaceful possession.

It is a coutest which the people of Hudson will observe with more than passing notice. There was an issue somewhat similar here last year which has inscribed on its little tablet in the morgue, "Hudson Dismemberment."—Jersey City Journal.

New Idea for Lovers of Flowers.

The plants of many of the finest flowers which bloom in midsummer arrive only at fullest perfection if grown from seeds sown in the early spring in hot beds or window boxes, very certain and very cheap methods of propagation, and a process easily learned and consistently advocated; but there are always some people who have overlooked the details of propagation at home, and to those we offer a line of plants ready grown, and for transmission by mail during the month of May. James Vick (the only James Vick in the seed business), formerly of Rochester, N. Y., now manager of the mail order department of David Landreth & Sons, 21 and 23 South Sixth street, Philadelphia, Pa., has originated this new idea, a plan which will be of great service to thousands in the supplying of plants of many of the leading bedding and flowering sorts at twenty-five cents a dozen, or $1.50 per 100. Write for Landreth's Catalogue of Seeds and Plants. If you mention this paper, you will be given a discount of 10 percent off the catalogue prices on seeds.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepperd and son, of Chicago, are visiting Mrs. Shepperd's mother, Mrs. Charles Potter, of West Seventh street.

Thomas Casey, of Philadelphia, a former resident of this city, is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Frank Ward, of West Front street.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

None too early to think about what you'll wear this spring and M. Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, can fit you out with the best quality of the latest styles in clothing.

The economical and sensible woman can learn something to her advantage by visiting I. H. Boehm's dress goods counters. There's money saved in dealing at this reliable West Front street establishment.

An early spring is promised so now is the hour of preparation. John G. Bantle, the Watchung avenue tailor, understands how to cut cloth to make neat fitting and stylish garments. Ask his customers.

There's much in the style of expression even when it comes to conveying your thoughts on paper. The correct thing in linen writing paper can be obtained at Harper's Bazaar, Park avenue, near Fourth street.

To most folks time is money and the only way to save time is to have a reliable watch. J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, sells the right kind that can be depended upon. He also sells jewelry in great variety.

Time is fleeting, but nevertheless you can still get some first class bargains in shoes at VanArsdlae's clearance sale. In the lot are shoes for old and young, men, women and children. As to price, nothing to compete with it.

Every cut of veal, beef, lamb or pork sold over the counters of Fred Endress' market is guaranteed. So is the poultry and in fact everything in the market. Visit the sea food department and have special Lenten prices quoted.

Among the specials offered by the Gayle Hardware Company, this week are reliable oil heaters and oriental clower food, a special nourishment for house plants. There are many other things at this store which can be bought reasonable.

For the balance of the cold season, Hodge, the Y. M. C. A. druggist, is offering two winter specials. They are his compound syrup hypophospites and cod liver oil and pine cough syrup. They are prepared under Mr. Hodge's personal supervision for his patrons.

Kindly take notice that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is of great benefit to those sufferers from nasal catarrh who cannot inhale freely through the nose, but must treat themselves by spraying. Liquid Cream Balm differs in form, but not medicinally from the Cream Balm that has stood for years at the head of remedies for catarrh. It may be used in any nasal atomizer. The price, including a spraying tube, is 75 cts. Sold by druggists and mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

THEATRICAL.

Frank Daniels, with the funny things he says and the funny things he does in "Miss Simplicity" has completely won New York, and his third week at the Casino has opened in a way that leaves no room for donbt as to the strong hold the merry little comedian has taken on that big percentage of New York playgoers who like their stage wares to be made up of fun and music and pretty girls. His side-splitting curtain speech has beome a nightly feature, and the enthusiasm at the end of the first act always elicits this uproarious response from Daniels. The pretty song "Rosalie" has become one of the most frequently heard airs on the lips of the whistlers. Others of the lyrics of "Miss Simplicity" are just as popular. Mr. Daniels' friends predict that his business at the Casino will detain him on Broadway until hot weather sets in. Matinees are played only on Saturday.

F. E. Kinsman, of Sherman avenue, has returned from a business trip in New York State.

Miss Lindy, of Charleston, S. C., has returned after a visit with the Misses Leichtentritt, of Central avenue.

Councilman Robert Lee has fully recovered from his recent illness, the result of becoming exhausted while working at the fire on Front street.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

Subsidy Bill Postponed—Conference on Cuban Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—On account of the indisposition of Mr. Vest (Mo.) and Mr. Mallory (Fla.), who expected to speak on the pending ship subsidy bill, that measure was not considered by the senate yesterday.

The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill was passed, and then the senate took up the measure for the protection of the president of the United States. Mr. Bacon (Ga.) continued his speech begun on Thursday in opposition to the bill, making an extended constitutional argument against it. The senate agreed to make the bill the unfinished business at the conclusion of consideration of the ship subsidy measure.

The bill to classify the rural free delivery service and to place the carriers under the contract system held the floor in the house. By an amicable arrangement general debate will be concluded today, and the bill will be considered under the five minute rule Monday.

TO FIGHT RAILROADS.

The Minnesota Legislature Demands Lower Passenger Rates.

ST. PAUL, March 8.—Senator Daly introduced a resolution in the senate, which was unanimously adopted, which demands a decrease in passenger rates from the railroads operating in the state.

The resolution sets forth that the earnings of all roads in the state have increased beyond reason and that while freight rates have been gradually reduced there has been no reduction in passenger rates for twenty years.

It directs the railroad and warehouse committee to investigate the matter of rates and make the proper orders to have them reduced to not more than 2½ cents or less than 2 cents a mile for first class fare. A lower second class fare is also to be made. The commission is directed to report what has been done in this direction at the next session of the legislature.

No Mining Strike This Year.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—There will be no strike of the coal miners in the Pittsburg district this year. The operators of the district and the miners have concluded their conferences on the local scale by adopting the scale of last year practically in its entirety. The only changes made in the scale were technical in nature and of no general effect. The 50,000 or more miners of this district will by this agreement continue at work without conflict.

General Wood Ordered Home.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Secretary Root has ordered Governor Wood, at Havana, to come to this city at his earliest convenience for the purpose of conferring with the president and the secretary of war in regard to the necessary steps to be taken for winding up the affairs of the military government in Cuba and the establishment of the Cuban government. It is believed here that the transfer of government can be effected by May 1.

To Proceed Against Railroads.

CHICAGO, March 8.—United States District Attorney Bethea has received instruction from the department of justice at Washington to begin legal proceedings against railroads centering in Chicago whose officials testified before the interstate commerce commission to infractions of the law. It has not been decided definitely what form the proceedings will take, but it is probable that injunctions will be instituted.

A Big Rhode Island Merger.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 8.—The largest combination of commercial interests to occur in this state is announced. It calls for the merger of the United Traction, capitalized at $8,400,000; the Providence Gas company, with $5,000,000 in stock, and the Narragansett Electric Lighting company, capitalized at $2,750,000.

Kritzinger's Sentence Commuted.

BERLIN, March 8.—Extra editions of the newspapers here publish a report that Commandant Kritzinger, who was captured by General French in December last, was, after being tried by court martial, condemned to death, but that his sentence was commuted to banishment for life.

Thirteen Smallpox Cases.

MALONE, N. Y., March 8.—Thirteen mild cases of smallpox are reported here, and the town board has taken steps to quarantine the infected houses. As an additional measure of precaution against the spread of the disease the schools and churches have been ordered closed.

Pennsylvania Defeated Michigan.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—The University of Pennsylvania won the debate with the University of Michigan, held here. The contest was very close, two judges deciding in Pennsylvania's favor and one for Michigan.

A FRIGHTFUL WRECK

Fifteen Passengers Killed on Southern Pacific.

TWENTY-EIGHT SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Broken Rail Caused Disaster to Train Running at a High Rate of Speed Near Maxon Station, Tex.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 8.—A broken rail caused a frightful wreck on the Southern Pacific railroad near Maxon station, twenty-five miles west of Sanderson, yesterday. From the latest accounts received here fifteen people were killed outright, and twenty-eight were more or less injured.

The hour was 3 a. m., fifteen hours after the train had left San Antonio, showing that it was still behind time. All the passengers were asleep, and the shock that followed was the first intimation they had of the danger.

The train was going at such a rate of speed that the tender and engine landed seventy-five feet from where they left the rails. The cars behind piled up against the engine, caught fire, and all were consumed except the sleepers.

A private car owned by Thomas Ryan of Bay City, Mich., with his family aboard, was attached to the rear of the train, but it was pulled away before the fire reached it, and no one in it was injured.

All the injured in the coaches just behind the express and baggage cars were cremated. The people in the sleepers were saved with the assistance of the uninjured passengers.

The wrecked train was the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio westbound passenger and consisted of an engine, mail car, baggage car, one coach, one chair car, three tourist sleepers, one Pullman sleeper and one private car.

The mail car, the baggage car and coaches were piled together against the engine and were ablaze in a few seconds. It was impossible to move any of the coaches or the tourist cars, as they were all off the rails and were soon consumed by the flames.

So soon as it was possible to get in communication with the division headquarters relief trains with surgeons and physicians were started from El Paso, Del Rio and Sanderson, picking up along the line all the surgeons that could be found.

All the injured who were in a condition to be moved were sent to El Paso, where they are receiving careful attention.

The ill fated train left San Antonio at noon Thursday two and a half hours late, and at the time of the accident was running at a high rate of speed in order to make up time. The road at the point where the wreck occurred is in a rough country, the curves being sharp and the grades heavy. It was when rounding a curve that one train left the track.

A Pennsylvania Chautauqua.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—At a meeting held in the library building of the University of Pennsylvania an organization was effected known as the Pocono Pines Assembly and Summer school of Naomi Pines, Pa. The charter for the new Chautauqua was granted by the court of Monroe county on Friday last. Professor M. G. Brumbaugh of the University of Pennsylvania is chancellor, Rev. Charles A. Dickey of Philadelphia president of the board of trustees and W. B. Easton of East Stroudsburg secretary.

Cornell Won Debate.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 8.—The third annual debate between Cornell and Columbia universities was held at the Lyceum theater here last night and was won by Cornell. The subject under discussion was, "Resolved, That the United States should resist, by force, if need be, the colonization of South America by any European power." The judges of the contest were Professor W. H. Moore of Syracuse university, Professor W. C. Morey of Rochester university and Professor Wattes Wyckoff of Princeton.

Costly Blaze For a Cent.

SEDALIA, Mo., March 8.—Cannon's dry goods house has been burned, and the building and stock were destroyed. The stock was valued at $60,000, with $36,500 insurance. The adjoining buildings were saved, with several thousand dollars' damage. The dry goods of C. A. Guenther was damaged by water $10,000. The fire was originated by a young woman clerk in the basement searching for a lost penny and igniting cotton rolls. The total loss is $100,000.

Famous Baseball Pitcher Dead.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—James Galvin, the once famous baseball pitcher, is dead at his home in Allegheny after an illness of four months of catarrh of the stomach. Galvin, who was known throughout the country as the "Little Steam Engine," was born in St. Louis forty-seven years ago. He was in his prime as a pitcher in the eighties and had hosts of friends and admirers throughout the country.

Union Printers Win Long Strike.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Typographical Union No. 6 has won its long fight against The Sun. By the terms of a joint agreement just signed the office will be unionized. The printers at present employed in the office, it is understood, will be retained if they join the union.

Striking Miners Win Out.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., March 8.—The strike of 1,000 employees at the Natalie colliery, operated by the Shamokin Coal company, was ended yesterday in the miners being paid off and the company guaranteeing to hereafter disburse semimonthly wages regularly.

ODELL OUSTS GUDEN

Governor Appoints New Sheriff For Kings County.

MORAL UNFITNESS IS THE CAUSE.

The Deposed Official Had Also Taken a False Oath—Successor Acceptable to Woodruff and Opposed to Dady.

ALBANY, March 8.—Governor Odell has removed Charles S. Guden as sheriff of Kings county and has appointed Norman S. Dike of Brooklyn to fill the vacancy.

The removal was made on the grounds that Guden had entered into an illegal pre-election agreement with Bert Reiss and had taken a false oath of office. He is removed on the further ground of moral unfitness for office. In making the announcement Governor Odell said:

"I have removed Sheriff Guden from office and have appointed Norman S. Dike to fill the vacancy. Sheriff Guden has been removed because I find that he took a false oath of office after having entered into an illegal agreement with Bert Reiss prior to election. I also find him morally unfit to hold the office."

Speaking of the appointment of Mr. Dike, Governor Odell, before leaving for Washington in the afternoon, said:

"I have appointed Mr. Dike because I believe that he will properly perform the duties of that office. Mr. Dike was here today. I had a long conference with him. I told him that he was to conduct the office as he would his own private business. He was expected to retain no man who was not able to aid him in conducting the affairs of his office in a businesslike manner."

The governor further said that Mr. Dike was acceptable to Lieutenant Governor Woodruff and also to what is known as the independent Republicans of Kings county.

The appointment of Mr. Dike will hold until Jan. 1, 1903, the law requiring that his successor shall be elected at the next general election.

Norman S. Dike, who has been appointed to the office of sheriff of Kings county to succeed former Sheriff Guden, is a bachelor, forty years old. He is a graduate of Brown university and lives in a handsome house at 194 Columbia Heights. He is a Republican organization man, but was opposed to Dady.

Spanish Regency May Continue.

LONDON, March 8.—The Daily Mail this morning publishes a letter from its Madrid correspondent saying that all the important Spanish newspapers are discussing the possible necessity of prolonging the regency owing to the incapacity of King Alfonso to exercise the functions of a sovereign. There is talk of forming a sort of king's council, says the letter, to be composed of the queen regent, the presidents of the cortes, the archbishop of Toledo and the ex-president of the council of ministers. Another version of the story is that the queen regent is to prolong her regency for five years in order to enable the king to complete his education by travel, etc.

A California Railroad Merger.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The Southern Pacific company has filed articles of incorporation here by which it transferred all its property in California, Arizona and New Mexico to a new corporation, and hereafter its holdings in the three states will be managed by one company instead of three. The new corporation is a consolidation of the three old companies. It is known as the Southern Pacific Railroad company. Its capital stock is fixed at $159,445,000, making it the largest corporation ever organized in California.

Fugitives From Justice.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 8.—Judge Emery Speer in the United States district court declared forfeited the bonds of Benjamin D. Greene and John F. Gaynor, who, with William T. and T. H. Gaynor, Oberlin M. Carter and Michael A. Connelly, were charged with conspiracy against the government in connection with the improvements in Savannah river and Cumberland sound. In forfeiting the $40,000 bonds of each the court declared them to be fugitives from justice. Bench warrants were issued for their arrest.

Mr. Bryan's Guarded Reply.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 8.—William Jennings Bryan, who lectured here last night, was asked whom he considered a Democratic presidential possibility. He said: "No one can tell in advance what the issues will be or what will be their relative importance. It ought to be safe to predict that Democratic principles will be applied to the issues, and it ought to be that the platform should be written by those whose fidelity to those principles is not subject to suspicions."

Miss Roosevelt Will Not Go.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—It is reported on good authority that Miss Alice Roosevelt will not see King Edward of England crowned. The president has decided that for a young girl she has been too much in the public eye of late. Instead of the trip to Europe and her visit to the king of England she will go to Cuba to visit General and Mrs. Leonard Wood.

To Dynamite Ice Gorge.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 8.—Preparations are being made by the town authorities to dynamite the great ice gorge at Pelletts island, which will release an immense quantity of water extending for miles. The Erie railroad and inhabitants in the path of the flood are taking precautionary measures.

THE ETRURIA'S BREAKDOWN.

Disabled Steamer Heard From—Particulars of the Accident at Sea.

LONDON, March 8.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Horta, Azore islands, dated March 7, says the Cunard line steamer Etruria is hourly expected at that port.

About 7 o'clock of the evening of Feb. 26, continues the correspondent, a rumbling in the engine room of the Etruria, followed by a crash, announced that the propeller had gone, and it was soon discovered it had carried the rudder away with it.

The Etruria was then in latitude 40.03 north, longitude 40.36 west. She was experiencing fine weather, although not long before the weather had been boisterous. There was no excitement among the passengers when they learned of the accident. They dined and spent the evening in their usual manner.

An hour previous to losing her propeller the Etruria had exchanged good night signals with the Cunard line steamer Umbria at a distance of about forty miles and had dispatched various wireless telegraph messages from her passengers for delivery in New York. Immediately after the accident the Etruria tried, but unsuccessfully, again to call up the Umbria.

The same night the British steamer William Cliff was signaled. The William Cliff stood by the Etruria until daylight, when an arrangement was made to tow the Cunarder. On the morning of Feb. 27 the British tank steamer Ottawa, from Philadelphia Feb. 17, was sighted. The Ottawa stood by the Etruria until March 2.

Nearly two days were spent in rigging a jury rudder, during which time the Etruria was towed less than fifty miles.

Look Out For Magowan.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—All police chiefs along the railroads between Philadelphia and the Canadian border have been requested by Captain of Detectives Miller to recapture Frank A. Magowan, the former mayor of Trenton, N. J., who managed to obtain his release at Trenton Thursday and escaped after he had been arrested and held to await requisition papers from this city. Captain Miller believes an injustice was done to Philadelphia and the state when Magowan was allowed his liberty. If Magowan reaches the other side of the border, he is safe, as the Dominion authorities have refused to send him back on the charges made against him.

Cecil Rhodes Seriously Ill.

LONDON, March 8.—Telegrams received here from Cape Town represent the condition of Cecil Rhodes as most grave. Mr. Rhodes is suffering, according to these dispatches, from angina pectoris. His heart is enlarged and is encroaching on the lung space. Relief is afforded by the periodical administration of oxygen. Dr. Jameson is in constant attendance upon the patient, who has been ill for some time. He sees no one except his close personal friends.

Report on Dairy Products.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The census preliminary report on butter, cheese and condensed milk, factory product, including urban dairy products, shows the following summary for 1900, with percentages of increase since 1890: Number of establishments 9,355, increase 99 per cent; capital $36,508,015, increase 120 per cent; value of products $131,199,317, increase 109 per cent.

Bandits Capture a Priest.

PEKING, March 8.—Bandit soldiery have captured a priest at Jehol, about 100 miles northeast of Peking. Both the French and Russians are anxious to send troops to rescue this priest, but as Jehol is a rich gold mining district the court has ordered General Mai Uk Wan to hurry and release the prisoner in order to forestall the entry of foreign troops into the district.

Fort Des Moines.

OMAHA, Neb., March 8.—In accordance with orders received at the headquarters of the department of the Missouri the new fort at Des Moines will be known as Fort Des Moines to perpetuate that name. The christening is made at the direction of President Roosevelt.

paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. Paint is the main defense. Put your faith in something that will not fail you. A reliable article at a top price is cheaper than something else sold way down.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Business Checked by Flood and Storm—Wheat and Corn Advance.

NEW YORK, March 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Unsettled weather was the most unsatisfactory feature of the business situation. A sudden thaw following an exceptionally heavy snowfall produced freshets and floods. Manufacturing and transporting interests suffered severely, and consumers were urgent for shipment of delayed goods, while great quantities of merchandise became stalled in transit. Preparations for an enormous spring trade continue undiminished.

Not only is there no improvement to be recorded in the iron and steel outlook, but floods in the Pittsburg region added to the pressure by completely closing many plants and damaging much costly machinery. Supplies of coke failed to increase because the railways were badly disorganized, and the net result was a week of light output when requirements were notably heavy. Recent destruction by the elements makes an unusual demand for structural material, and on spot business buyers gladly pay premiums of $6 a ton above list prices.

All staples steadied, and some rose sharply, the net changes for the week amounting to a considerable advance. It was natural for grain to hold firm when wheat receipts at the west were 2,869,344 bushels compared with 3,747,952 last year, while arrivals of corn were but 2,001,914 bushels against 5,020,438 a year ago.

For the first time in this season cotton showed an advance over the price at the corresponding date last year, and it is significant that the higher figure failed to attract heavy selling at the south.

Commercial failures during February numbered 1,104, with liabilities of $11,302,029, against 1,024 in the same month last year, with a total indebtedness of $11,287,211. Manufacturing defaults were 238 in number and $4,915,015 in amount, compared with 212 a year ago for $4,398,741. Eight hundred traders suspended, owing $4,737,491, against 757 last year, with liabilities of $4,444,873.

Failures for the week numbered 176 in the United States against 208 last year, and 17 in Canada against 26 last year.

The Wool Market.

BOSTON, March 8.—The Commercial Bulletin says in today's report on the wool trade of the United States: The Boston wool market is dull. The inquiry from manufacturers is wholly for small lots for piecing out orders for goods to be competed. Current business in heavy weight goods does not warrant heavy buying ahead of the raw material. Prices are unchanged, but the upward tendency appears to have been temporarily checked. The receipts of wool in Boston since Jan. 1, 1902, have been 38,815,836 pounds against 21,406,859 pounds for the same period in 1901. The stock on hand in Boston Jan. 1, 1902, was 77,340,463 pounds; the total stock today is 62,072,752 pounds.

Drowned In Irish Channel Disaster.

SCRANTON, Kan., March 8.—Edwin Daingerfield, who was drowned by the sinking of the steamer Waesland, was a resident of this place for more than twenty years and was a prominent business man and politician here. About a year ago Daingerfield and his family went to their native country, England, to live. A short time ago they decided to return here. Mr. Daingerfield sent orders to his sons here to have the family residence placed in order by May 1, when they would occupy it. Daingerfield was sixty-four years of age.

Bates to Succeed Otis.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—An order issued by Lieutenant General Miles, commanding the army, directs Brigadier General J. C. Bates, commanding the department of the Missouri at Omaha, to take temporary command of the department of the lakes at Chicago on the retirement of Major General E. S. Otis on the 25th inst. This assignment is in addition to General Bates' present duty and is only temporary pending the assignment of a permanent commander of the lakes.

The President Will Tell.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—At the cabinet meeting yesterday President Roosevelt requested the members not to talk to newspaper correspondents about matters under discussion at the semiweekly meetings. It was thought best for the president himself to make public such matters as he deemed proper to be given out. Hereafter the president will do this.

Elkes Sails For Paris.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Harry D. Elkes, the middle distance racing cyclist, has accepted an offer to race in Paris and left on the Kronprinz Wilhelm today. He will endeavor to duplicate his work of two years ago, when he raced successfully in Paris. He was accompanied by his pacemaker, Henry Reimer, and expects to return to America early in June.

To Aid In Southern Education.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Announcement is made that there has been organized in this city an association to promote southern education and to be known as the general education board and that more than $1,000,000 has been placed at the disposal of the association's board of trustees.

The Cuban Postal Cases.

HAVANA, March 8.—At yesterday's hearing of the Cuban postal fraud cases counsel for Estes G. Rathbone finished their argument. The fiscal will speak again today. The cases will then be taken under consideration by the court, and a decision is expected within a week.

AGAIN IN NEW YORK.

Prince Henry Completes His Nine Days' Tour.

MAKES A VISIT TO WEST POINT.

The Cadets Make a Fine Showing and Are Complimented For Their Proficiency—Praise For Passenger Agent Boyd.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Prince Henry of Prussia has completed his tour and is once more in New York, where he will remain until Monday, when he goes to Philadelphia. He was absent from the city for nine days, during which time his special train was within the territory of thirteen states and covered a total distance of 4,358 miles. He was greatly pleased with his trip and through his aid, Captain von Muller, issued a statement expressing his satisfaction at the opportunity which came to him and his gratification at the cordiality with which he was received throughout the country.

His last day on the special train which carried him to the south, west and east rivaled in interest any of the others spent by the prince on the tour, for it began with a visit to Albany, included a run in bright sunlight down the west shore of the Hudson river and closed with a reception at the United States Military academy at West Point.

It was 2 o'clock when the special train reached West Point, and the prince was received with the military honor due his place in the naval service of his country. Colonel Mills came to the station with a number of the officers at the academy and a troop of cavalry and escorted him to the parade ground on the heights above. As the cavalry escort showed at the brow of the inclined road Knox battery fired twenty-one guns. The cadets, formed in six companies, were at once marched on the field, and the prince, with Colonel Mills and their respective staffs, inspected them.

Dress parade followed, with the prince as reviewing officer. The cadets in their handsome gray uniforms kept their lines perfectly in snow that was shoe deep, and their marching won the praise of the prince and his officers. On the second time around the cadets moved at double quick time, and once more their alignment was perfect. The prince saluted and his officers uncovered when the colors passed the reviewing stand. After the review the cadets were drawn up in close formation, and the prince, advancing to the front of the first company, addressed them.

The parade grounds were surrounded by a great crowd, and the entire review made an impressive picture. The day was bright and clear, and the view of the river and surrounding country was excellent. At the close of the review the prince visited Memorial hall, where the officers on duty at the academy were introduced to him. He greeted them all very warmly and complimented them on their work.

Leaving Memorial hall, the prince and his staff went to the riding school, where the cadets gave an exhibition of their riding.

The parting call of the prince was at the house of Colonel Mills, whom he repeatedly congratulated and thanked. He was so much interested in the post that he prolonged his stay twenty minutes beyond the time set for his departure. As the carriage, with cavalry escort, left the grounds another salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

When Weehawken was reached, Prince Henry sent for George W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania railroad, who personally directed the railroad arrangements of the tour, and thanked him. He paid high compliment to American railroads and in conclusion asked Mr. Boyd to be his guest at luncheon on Tuesday next.

On his arrival at Forty-second street the prince, in charge of Captain of Detectives Titus, with a dozen detectives, two score patrolmen and a squad of mounted police, was conducted to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Washington's Request Violated.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 8.—The exhibition of the sword presented to General Washington by Frederick the Great at the executive chamber was attended by a peculiar incident. When the will of General Washington was read after his death, it was found that he had willed his five swords to his five nephews with the proviso that they "should not be drawn from their scabbards unless in the defense of the country." The sword presented by Frederick the Great has been strictly kept in scabbard in compliance with the provisions of the will. When it was handed to Prince Henry, he drew the blade from the scabbard. Of course he did not know of the provisions of the will, but he had nevertheless innocently violated them. No mention of the occurrence was made to the prince.

A Medal For the Prince.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The American Numismatic and Archæological society has prepared a medal to commemorate the visit of Prince Henry. The original in gold will be presented to the prince. The medal is designed by Victor D. Brenner of this city, who is an instructor in die cutting and medal designing at the school of the Numismatic society. On the face of the medal is cast a likeness of Prince Henry, and around the edge is the inscription: "Issued by the American Numismatic and Archæological Society, New York, Feb. 22, 1902."

A Million Pounds to Charity.

LONDON, March 8.—James Dick, who died in Glasgow yesterday, left $1,000,000 to charities in that city.

ABOLISHED SPRING ELECTION.

The present lack of interest in the borough election of next Tuesday is only another evidence of the advisibility of passing the Holman bill, now before the State Legislature, to abolish spring elections in townships and boroughs throughout the State and elect the municipal officers at the regular November election. Because there does not happen to be any issue of special importance before the borough voters, this year, the election has fallen to the background in public interest. The recent fire in Plainfield has overshadowed it completely.

It is just as desirable that a full expression of opinion, as manifested by the ballots, should be secured in the choice of municipal officers as in the election of county and State officials. Experience shows, however, that the municipal election in North Plainfield, as well as in every other borough and township in the State, fails to uniformly bring out the general interest that is shown in the November election. The only way, therefore, that the desired result can be obtained is to consolidate the two elections.

When this subject of the consolidation of elections first came up, it was made to apply to cities only. The Meeker act was critized by many until it demonstrated that it was just what was needed and that it failed to develop the bad features which had been prophesied by its opponents. Then the question was asked why a similar law should not be passed so as to extend the movement to the boroughs and townships.

For a time it looked as if the Holman bill, which designs to bring about this desired state of affairs, was going to be held up. It has, however, been favorably reported to the Assembly and shows every indication of being passed. Those who are interested in securing a fair expression of opinion in the selection of borough and township officials can do no better than to give the bill their strongest support.

In every city in New Jersey, the newspapers are calling for the putting undergruond of the electric wires. Let the good work go on in Plainfield.

SMALLNESS IS NO EXCUSE

REV. G. M. SHOTT TALKED ON SERVICE TO THE MASTER.

Drew His Lesson From the Miracle of the Loaves and Fishes —Dr. Peters Coming.

There was a large attendance at the evangelistic meeting in the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening. After prayer by Rev. Mr. Booth, G. L. VanEmburgh and G. E. Hall, Mr. Shott read the fourteenth chapter of Matthew, selecting a part of the nineteenth verse as a text. He spoke of the miracalous multiplication of the loves and fishes, as a well attested fact; as all four of the writers of the gospels relate the occurrence.

The speaker said in part: "Men and women are in the church for the purpose of distributing the graces and sympathies of Christ to the unsaved. We talk much about organized compassion these days; the providing of clothes and tenements for the poor. But that compassion which simply provides good clothes and good houses, without doing something for the soul, is simple cruelty. There are too many nominal Christians in the churches who refrigerate rather than warm the hearts of those who come to the church for good.

"Modern men ask for miracles; they have them; when a human being is lifted up out of the gutter, and is turned from all his past inclinations and sins, it is a miracle as marvelous as would be physical resurrection from the dead. Modern men see miracles and are not moved. We can not get any more out of the meetings than we are willing to give. We must give the loaves of thought action and service to Christ for His miracalous touch. It is the service we give, which He multiplies.

"The church has lost its grip on the masses, because the laymen have lost the courage to speak to their neighbor about his soul. There are few church members who could now sit down with the unconverted and tell them how to come to Christ. These are the selfish Christians, who never give Christ any service which He can multiply. That is the reason why there are not large in gatherings as there used to be; Christians in the churches are not in a position to feed them.

"We do not nowadays give reasons for lack of service, only excuses. Five loaves and two fishes! What can be done with these? The disciples made the smallness an excuse for not giving to Jesus what they had. He demanded the food, and touched it, how it increased. Be sure you lay what you have on the altar, and let Christ multiply it. A Christian has no right to say he can do nothing. The multiplying power belongs to Christ, let the Christian give Christ the loaf or fish. The distribution inceased as the disciples pass out the food. Take what God gives you, and pass to your fellows, and God will multiply your influence for good as you try to do good. You have nothing to do with the smallness of your gifts; Christ can make them great. The multiplying was what God did; the distribution fell to the disciples' part. Today the two must go together in Christian work."

After this stirring solemn sermon the Misses Elsie Giles and Florence G. Hawkins sang very sweetly the "Homeland." The meetings have been very helpful this week, and the people turn with expentancy to the coming of Dr. Peters next week. Dr. Peters begins his services Monday night.

BOWLED ON BIRTHDAY.

Thus Did Friends of Mrs. John Hertel Celebrate the Event.

A large number of members of the Ladies' Bowling Club of the Gesang and Turn Verein attended the birthday party of Mrs. John Hertel, at Saengerbund Hall, Thursday afternoon. Bowling contests and refreshments were the feature of the affair.

Awards in the bowling matches were made as follows: First prize, a tea set, Mrs. August Melchor, of Elizabeth; second prize, a dinner set, Mrs. Loiuse Kreutzfeldt; third prize, a parlor lamp, Mrs. Carrie Giddis, of Elizabeth. On behalf of the members Mrs. Andrew Schlick presented an ingrain rug and a sofa cushion to Mrs. Hertel, in remembrance of her thirty-second birthday.

A bounteous repast was served in the dining hall of the building before the session of the organization was brought to a close.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schermerhorn, who were residents in the Babcock building, have taken up their residence at 68 Westervelt avenue.

DUNELLEN.

The dance given last evening by the Dunellen Dancing Club, was a repetition of the other delightful affairs which have been given this winter by that organization. A larger number of guests were present last evening than at any other dance this season and all enjoyed a pleasant time. Excellent music was furnished by Wietton, of Elizabeth.

The political contest in the coming spring election promises to be one of the hottest in the history of the town. The Democratic party has nominated a strong ticket and the Republicans are promising some surprise in that line. Both parties are working unusually hard.

It is probable that a number of culverts on Prospect avenue, which have been in an unsatisfactory condition for a long time, will be prepared in the near future as recommendations to that effect have been made by the Borough Council.

The annual school meeting will be held in Lincoln school March 18. An appropriation for school purposes of $3,500 has been asked for and will be voted upon in that occasion.

The Board of Education has decided to introduce elementary algebra into the eighth grade of Whittier School for the rest of the year.

The Sunday-schools of the local churches have already begun practice on music for Easter Sunday.

L. G. Cloos is improving rapidly from his recent illness and expects to be out in a short time.

The primary of the Republican party will be held this evening in the borough hall.

A number of borough women are securing kid gloves by an endless chain system.

Henry Rittenbush has been spending the past week with relatives in Brooklyn.

Prayer meeting in the Presbyterian church, last evening, was well attended.

Ernest Peters has taken a position with LaRue, an electrician in Bound Brook.

Four more snow storms are promised in this year by Weather Prophet Cole.

The Bound Brook trolleys are again running on schedule time.

Adam Dealaman is still improving from his recent illness.

NEW MARKET.

A considerable number of Democrats assembled in Hotel Nelson, Thursday evening, and nominated the following ticket to be supported at the coming spring election: Freeholder, Alexander Manning; township clerk, Abram G. Nelson; town committeeman, DeWitt Giles; justice of the peace, C. G. Rogers; constable, W. Polhemus; pound keepers, Joseph D. Field, Lewis Harris, C. T. Rogers, George Conover. In addition the regular appropriations were passed.

An auction of the farm utensils, personal goods and live stock, belonging to Ephraim Boice, will be held March 11, at his residence in Piscataway.

A meeting of the Farther Light Society will be held in the First Baptist church this afternoon.

Friendship dancing class will hold another reception on the evening of March 11.

A double barreled shot gun will be raffled off at Hotel Nelson tonight.

Miss Stella Sofield visited in Plainfield yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Owing to a little misunderstanding, the road appropriation, as recommended by the township committee to be raised at the election Tuesday, was defeated and only $1,750 was put on the ticket. The committee in its annual report made the figure $2,000. It was stated in the primary that the amount raised last year was $1,750, while it was really $2,000. The supposed increase was objected to by many so the Republican ticket will come out with a smaller appropriation than the other ticket which calls for $2,000 as asked for. Both parties will no doubt work together to remedy the error and in this way uphold the committee in its recommendation.

Nels Olsen, the smallpox patient, is reported as improving very nicely. Olsen is a resident of Dunellen, and not of Newark, as first announced. The Board of Health doesn't apprehend any danger from the spread of the dread disease, as a strict quarantine is maintained and the French farm lies in the outlying district by itself.

The borough primary to be held at Fanwood, tonight, promises to be a warm affair. But this is nothing strange, as the residents of the borough are gaining the reputation of being able to get more real politics out of less than one hundred votes than any other place in the State.

Services at the Baptist church tomorrow will be: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching service, 10:45; Baptist Young People's Union meeting, "Moses, the Secret of Endurance, 7; evening preaching at 7:45.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robison have have given up housekeeping for a while and will board with Mrs. Chas. N. Flanders, of East Front street.

The Township Committee met in the town rooms last night. Several bills were ordered paid and other routine business transacted.

John Wade, who has been quite ill for a week past, is still unable to leave his bed. Dr. Westcott is the physician in charge.

Rev. Mr. Beacom will lead the Saturday evening prayer meeting in the Methodist church tonight.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Regular services will be held in the church tomorrow. In the morning the sermon topic will be "The Supremacy of Christ." In the evening, the subject of the discourse will be "The Controversy Ended."

A covenant meeting was held in the church this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Communion will be administered tomorrow.

Riley's railroad gang has returned to South Plainfield from White Haven, Pa., where it was called to repair the tracks.

Mr. and Mrs. TenEyck, of Newark, are staying in town with Mrs. TenEyck's parents.

DEATH OF LOCAL PREACHER.

William Downs, Colored, Died This Morning From Pneumonia.

William Downs, colored, of 525 West Third street, died at an early hour this morning after a short illness, pneumonia being the cause of death. He was fifty-seven years of age and was twice married, leaving six children by his first wife and none by his second. He was employed at the Pond Machine Tool Company Works. As a local preacher and as a member of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church he was known in the colored community. The funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and the interment will be made at Pennington, N. J.

Residents Are Objecting.

Residents in the neighborhood of Grove street and Prospect place are complaining of the appearance presented by a pile of lumber on the lot at the southwest corner of those intersecting streets. The lumber has been removed from the demolished Sebring building and stored on the vacant lot which is in the residential portion of the borough.

Red Men's New Quarters.

Miantanomo and Wetumpkah Tribes, Improved Order Red Men, and Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, have leased the rooms in the Coward building, now used by the Common Council, and will take possession April 1. The rooms now occupied by the lodges have not yet been rented.

A Straight Talk.

Joseph W. Gavett will give a straight talk to men at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday at 4 o'clock. The male quartette of the First Presbyterian church will sing. There will also be a violin solo.

REALISTIC PICTURES.

"Passion Play" at the Casino Last Night—Other Moving Pictures.

The moving pictures of the great "Passion Play" at Oberammergau, which were shown last night at the Casino, gave a sense of realty to the New Testament history that will not soon be forgotten by those who were present. The photographs were clear and well-defined, and the motion of the trees waving in the summer wind and of the characters who enact the drama were perfectly reproduced. A very clear idea of the surroundings amid which the play is given, and of the way in which it is presented, may be gained from these pictures. They will be repeated both this afternoon and this evening.

A number of other interesting or amusing pictures were also presented, including President McKinley's funeral, scenes in the south African war, the calling out of the fire department for a fire, and the startling adventures of a photographer who was attempting to take pictures of an expres train.

LECTURED ON HOLY LAND.

Miss Julia Carman Gave an Illustrated Talk at Hope Chapel.

A continuation of the lecture, "A Trip to the Holy Land," was given in Hope chapel, last evening, before a large audience. The lecturer was Miss Julia Carman, assisted by Dr. M. A. Carman.

Many excellent views of the route which Miss Carman traversed were shown and fully explained in an interesting way. Those of Jerusalem and Jericho, the River Jordan and the Dead Sea were especially good. A feature of the lecture was the clear and concise description of the natives in the different cities. This included their business life, home life habits and customs and many others equally as interesting. Miss Carman will repeat her lecture within a short time.

Will Exchange Pulpits.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will exchange pulpits tomorrow evening.

More Than First Reported.

The women of the First Presbyterian church cleared $130 as a result of the valentine supper, and not $100 as recently reported.

$15 was collected in fines.

Mr. Northrop offered a resolution approving the action of drawing a warrant for $180 with which to pay the interest on the Watchung avenue bonds. Bills amounting in all to $1,645 were received and on motion of Mr. Nichols warrants were ordered drawn to pay them.

Mr. Swackhamer offered a resolution providing for the collection of delinquent taxes for 1900. In case the delinquents fail to settle, the property will be sold to satisfy the claims. This is in line with previous action of selling property every two years for taxes, when not paid. Mr. Swackhamer offered another resolution which remitted the interest on the Watchung avenue assessment of Mrs. Catherine Haines, of Jackson avenue, provided she pays the principal. This she has agreed to do.

Mr. Clark offered a resolution providing that a certain number of claims be paid after they were sworn to by those presenting them. L. B. Bodine, secretary for Warren Engine Company, notified the Council that it was the wish of the company that J. H. Schenck be appointed engineer and the Council was respectfully asked to grant the request.

The bill of Editor Webb, of The Review, for printing the annual report of the borough, was not paid, as the clerk had failed to receive it. The bill called for $37, but Mr. Webb added $5.50 to it, the extra being for additional copies and extra work in making corrections. Mr. Webb believed that he should receive the extra sum as the corrections were mistakes made by those oustide of his office. The bill was taken into consideration and the chances are that it will be paid in full.

TESTIMONY DIDN'T AGREE.

So Justice Mosher Reserved His Decision in Dickinson-Addison Case.

The hearing in the case of John Addison, charged by Mrs. Sarah Dickinson with obtaining money under false pretenses, was argued before Justice Mosher yesterday afternoon. After hearing a mass of contradictory evidence the court reserved decision until Seturday.

Counselor Swackhamer entered a general denial of the charges preferred against Addison and maintained that the real complainant was Abram King, a rival of his client in business. Mrs. Dickinson is represented by Counselor Wm. G. DeMeza.

Why He Did It.

The charge of atrocious assault against Oscar F. Pearson, preferred by August Renstrom, was dismissed in Justice Hand's court, Thursday afternoon. Pearson admitted striking the plaintiff but he declared he had first ordered him out of the house and had been met with an oath. The court upheld him.

Culvert Broken.

A large culvert at the intersection of Putnam and Woodland avenues was broken yesterday, either by a heavily loaded wagon or a trolley car. The street department had the damage repaired at once and prevented the possibility of an accident.

Chas. E. Vail, of J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store, is detained at his home by illness.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

The Coming Coronation of the King of Spain

His Heritage May Prove a House of Cards, Ready to Topple About His Head.

THERE is something pathetic, yea, almost tragic, in the thought of the youthful king of Spain assuming the reins of government on the 17th of May next. His 16 years of life have seen his nation continue the making of history which is neither gratifying to a patriotic heart nor inspiring to the hope of a brighter outlook in the future. While the preparations are going forward for the coronation next spring, industrial disturbances and political strife trouble the country, and at Barcelona and other industrial centers, strikers, restless under oppression and suffering from the general financial and industrial depression, are defying the law and boldly fighting the soldiers summoned to hold them in check. An effort will be made to impart to the coronation ceremonies something of that imposing splendor and grandeur which marked the court life of the nation in the days of its glittering wealth and world-wide despotic power, but what can hide from view the departing glory of the Spanish nation, or stop the smarting of the latest wound suffered in the loss of its largest island colonies? Alfonso XIII., with the mold of decay of the centuries about him and the heavy burdens of state resting upon his youthful and untried shoulders, has no easy or hopeful task before him, and, as we have said, the placing of the crown upon his fair young head seems pathetic to contemplate and tragic in its possibilities.

But no man knoweth what a day may bring forth. As some bright witted Yankee has said: "Mankind is sure of only two things, death and taxes." And in the case of Alfonso XIII., the present disturbances in Spain may result in an upheaval which may rob him of his throne and give to Don Carlos the opportunity for which he has been waiting for years and secure to him the kingdom which he claims as a rightful heritage. It may cost Spain a terrible and bloody civil war, a reaping of the whirlwind of internal revolution, as the result of the sowing the wind of relentless armies and the inquisition of the past centuries before she can emerge from the darkness of the past into the light and blessing of a living Christianity. But if Alfonso does lose his throne and kingdom, he has a bright side of his life to turn to.

Alfonso has had a wise and faithful and good mother, a heritage which is of priceless worth. If history's pages afford him little encouragement and inspiration for the tasks which lie before him, the mother love and care which he has felt may nerve him to endure the test of kingship and enable him to guide the ship of state through the whirlpool and rapids of present misfortune into the smoother waters of a new national life. Spain in the past has set her face steadfastly against the advance of modern civilization and the rights of the common people, but once turned towards the light, the last vestige of the spirit of the inquisition and the glory of despotic power will be swept away and a new Spain will rear itself upon the sad ruins of the old.

Over 16 years ago, six months before the present king, Alfonso XIII., was born, Alfonso XII. died, leaving his fair widow to face the heavy burdens of the restoration. Uncertainty marked the succession to the throne until the birth of the son, and the dowager queen was then declared the regent during the minority of the new king, Alfonso XIII. Marie Christine of Hapsburg-Lorraine, archduchess of Austria, was the second wife of Alfonso XII., their marriage occurring in 1879, five years after he had been restored to the throne of Spain. He had only begun to grapple with the problems of the restoration when the new queen, who was passionately in love with her husband and sought in every way to be a help to him, took her place at his side. Not only did the restored dynasty have to make terms and compacts with the revolutionary element, but it also pledged itself to guarantee the peace and prosperity of the kingdom. When in 1885 King Alfonso died, the faithful queen found a support in the strong arm of the statesman, Don Antonio Canovas del Castillo, to whom was due the restoration of political and social order.

During the term of the regency of the queen national misfortunes without and internal disorders within have made her reign anything but a peaceful and happy one. Early in her experience began the colonial wars of separation, dragging their bloody history through many years until their culmination in the war with the United States and the loss altogether by the nation of those possessions which in former years had given it such prestige and power throughout the world.

It is but natural in seeking for a brighter page of Spanish history to turn to the career of another queen, Isabella, who with King Ferdinand saw the kingdom united, the Moors driven out of Granada and the 11 years of wars in various parts of the country ending in complete triumph for the royal standards. A new era of prosperity opened for Spain. Industry and commerce flourished; the steel of Toledo, the silverwork of Valladolid, the silk of Granada, the leather of Cordova and the wool that was the peninsula's choicest product went across the seas in ships of Barcelona. When Isabella came to the throne the public revenue was less than 1,000,000 reals ($50,000), but in 1504 it had risen to 44,000,000 reals.

The Spaniards' conquest of their ancient foe, the Moors, echoed throughout the world, but the effect thereof was small as compared to the tremendous expansion which followed the return of Columbus with a new world and its untold wealth to lay at the feet of the queen, who had been willing to pawn her jewels in order to equip the daring navigator for his expedition of discovery. Wealth flowed into the Spanish treasury. Adventurers went out to America and in a few years returned millionaires. As an indication of the lavish wealth and dazzling profligacy of the period, let me mention a couple of incidents. A soldier who married the daughter of a nobleman in Barcelona gave away 12,000,000 reals in alms on his wedding day, and another returned Spaniard stood at a window in Madrid and emptied two barrels of coins into the street below amidst the eager, pushing crowd waiting to grasp the falling gold that had been drawn from the colonies in the new world.

But, as some historian has said, the downfall of Spain began with her greatness. Both the greatness and the ruin were the work of the same hands. Isabella belonged to modern history in date, but not in spirit. She had no vision of the dawning of liberty as the light of the world. Her eyes were turned towards the sunset, to which Spain has been looking ever since. During the century of her material greatness and military glory—say from the conquest of the Moors of Granada to the destruction of the Armada—Spain stood forth as the great champion of slavery for the minds and bodies of men. In the words of Burke: "She remained an old-fashioned tyrant, odious, if dreaded, in the day of her power, merely contemptible when that power passed." Of all the nations at the opening of modern history, Spain had the grandest opportunity and most signally wasted it.

There are Spanish writers who dare to defend the inquisition, yet even the devout Isabella, who permitted the awful institution to be planted among her people, did not view it with entire equanimity when she lay on her death bed. "I have caused great calamities," she said; "I have depopulated towns and provinces and kingdoms, for love of Christ and of His Holy Mother; but I have never touched a maravedi of confiscated property. I have used the money in educating and dowering the children of the condemned"—the truth of which latter plea is questioned by historians.

With Ferdinand and Isabella ends the history of Spain's Spanish kings. She was henceforth to be ruled by two foreign dynasties, the Hapsburgs of Austria and the Bourbons of France. To follow the history of Spain is to find the dark thread of successive misfortunes and gradual decline running through it all. No bright star of hope is seen to rise at any point of her career, for the persistent clinging to the despotic spirit of the past has thus far shut out the light, which if seen and followed would lead perhaps to the writing of new and brighter pages in the history of picturesque old Spain.

WILLIS S. EDSON.

Prejudice Against Insurance.

There is still a prejudice against life assurance among certain classes of religious people, on the ground that such provision betrays a lack of trust in Providence. Such assumption is the basis of a blazing pamphlet which has just reached us, in which the author argues from three texts in the Sermon on the Mount, that the principles of life assurance "comes from the father of lies—the arch fiend—who delights to get God's people off the right lines by trying to make out that God is a liar." He says: "Will God look after your family after you are dead?" (We cannot reproduce the pamphlet's variety of print.) Of course, the same argument would prove the wickedness of all investments—even of the laying in of coal against the winter. And general experience has shown that Providence does not interpose miracles to save the idle and carless from the consequences of their folly, even when those consequences have to be borne by others as well.—London Chronicle.

The "Momohiki."

The police of Tokyo, Japan, have established certain regulations for wheelmen. Riders must not remove both hands from the bars at once; must not use low-dropped handle bars; and must not indulge in trick riding in the streets. No person under 12 is permitted to ride in the streets, and the police may stop the cyclists whenever they think necessary. Lady cyclers are enjoined when riding in public to "wear the 'hakama' or the 'momohiki,' or coverings of a similar nature. The "hakama" is a skirt, and "momohiki" is Japanese for "rationals," or "bloomers." No doubt, if "momohiki"—a graceful word with just a suggestion of flippancy about it—had been adopted by us instead of "rationals" or "bloomers," momohiki would now be the universal wear of cycling girls.—Detroit Free Press.

KEEP OFF THE EARTH

During the cold and wet weather as much as possible—that is, keep as much shoe leather between the soles of your feet and Mother Earth as you can conveniently carry. It's wisest in the beginning and cheaper in the end to provide yourself with shoes having good solid soles—cold-proof and water-proof, if possible.

We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.

Well built, with broad, heavy soles and with stout uppers.

They're a very paradise of rest for weary feet, and a paradise of economy for weary purses.

TAILORS USE CAMERA.

Perfectly Fitting Clothes Assured by Photographic Measuring System Recently Invented.

You can be measured for a suit of clothes by photography now, if you care to have it done in that way.

A Wisconsin man patented the process, which promises to be a boon to tailors, relieving them of much labor, and at the same time securing a degree of accuracy in measurements that is quite out of the question when the ordinary method is employed.

All you have to do is to stand close behind a screen of a peculiar kind, while the tailor puts his own head under a black cloth and focuses a camera upon you. The screen, which, mind you, is between yourself and the camera, is simply a wooden frame with wires strung tightly across it, at equal distances and parallel, so as to form a series of squares.

SECURING A PERFECT FIT.
(Ingenious Method for Obtaining Absolutely Correct Measurements.)

Necessarily, the resulting photograph is cut up by thin black lines into a network of squares, and your measurements are indicated by the number of squares and portions of squares occupied by your body in the picture. With half a dozen such photographs taken of yourself, in different attitudes, it is a simple problem in mathematics to calculate your dimensions all ways.

To make sure that such salient points as the armpits are correctly indicated in the photograph, the inventor has devised a sort of harness that holds the clothing close to the body—thus avoiding the necessity of stripping.

It may be that before long this ingenious plan will be applied to the measuring of women for tailor-made suits and other garments. Thus, says the New York Herald, one of the difficulties of the dressmaking business will be largely done away with, and there will be fewer wrinkles in the brows of properly gowned maids and matrons.

RAREST OF MONKEYS.

As Far as the Face Is Concerned, He Resembles Man More Than Any Other Animal.

The zoological garden of Berlin just now boasts of possessing a rare monkey, the only animal of the kind in captivity in Europe. It is known as the silk ape of Kilimandscharo. C. G. Schillings, the leader of the recent German East Africa expedition.

The Kilimandscharo silk monkey, as far as the face is concerned, resembles a human being more than any other of the animal species. Eyes, face, nose and mouth betray a remarkably intelligent expression. The eyes have not the staring, insane look of the beast, but regard one with contemplative calm. The most beautiful feature of the animal is its hair. The main fur is of a darkish brown, as soft as sealskin, but the face is surrounded with a white silk beard and he has a long gray silk mane and a large and bushy white silk tail.

RAREST OF MONKEYS.
(Only One of Its Kind in Captivity in Civilized Lands.)

The specimen in the Berlin zoological garden exhibits a morose, melancholy temperament whenever he is left in his cage without a monkey for a companion. This is a difficult task for the animal keeper, as most monkeys are malicious and pugnacious and the Kilimandscharo silk monkey is of a sweet, affectionate temperament. One companion was found which died a few weeks ago and now the Berlin zoo authorities are searching high and low for one to take its place.

SILK TAILOR MADES.

Moire Jackets and Skirts to Be Ultra Fashionable.

Dresses of black moire and coat and skirt costumes of the same material are to be very smart next summer. These jacket and skirt suits are to be made on the Eton and blouse order, and they will be very dressy for visiting when combined with a rich blouse.

VISITING TOILET.

Tailor mades of taffeta and peau de sole are also to be worn and are trimmed with bands of velvet and satin, together with beautifully jeweled buttons.

Lace collars are being shown in the greatest profusion. Carefully selected an inexpensive collar may be turned into quite an elegant one for a bolero or blouse. Some cream or biscuit colored silk is all that is required, and all the unimportant parts are cut away, leaving the chief design and border applied to the silk. A collar of this type is charming laid on a border of velvet.

The visiting toilet of taffeta in the illustration is very smart. The skirt is made with a wide flounce, all laid in tiny tucks and headed by two bands of chiffon applique in a leaf pattern. The waist is composed of an underbodice of embroidered chiffon and a short Eton appliqued in narrow white silk braid and the leaf applique. The hat is of white chiffon trimmed with a black ostrich tip and a wreath of autumn leaves.

SMART LONG COATS.

Japanese and Chinese Effects Prevail—White Cloaks.

Most of the new cloaks show distinctly Japanese effects. They are very loosely fitted and have very wide cuffs and long revers extending down the entire length of the front. Many of them are made of white silk or woolen material. There is something particularly attractive about white cloth wraps, because they do duty for smart afternoon as well as evening wear. Some of them have lace instead of fur collars, which makes it possible for them to be worn later on.

AUTOMOBILE COAT.

Narrow black velvet ribbons form a most chic trimming for these automobile coats, as they are miscalled. Bands of Persian embroidery, figured white silk and lace are also considered smart. The most fashionable collar is a mixture of the aiglon and the flare and is worn open at the throat, with a fluffy lace jabot.

Coats of black peau de soie and heavily ribbed bengaline will be found very useful by those of limited incomes.

An automobile coat is the subject of the sketch. It is made of white covert coating and is trimmed with black baby velvet. The lining is a rich Persian silk. The coat has a wide collar and revers, and the cuffs come well up over the arm.

LOVE ACROSS THE LINES

BY HARRY STILLWELL EDWARDS

Copyright, 1899, by J. B. Lippincott Company. All rights reserved.

It was to this heart, consumed by a hopeless passion, that the revelation made by Louise had winged its flight like a shaft of fire. Try as he might, he could not in the face of corroborating facts convince himself that she spoke altogether falsely or labored under a complete hallucination. Yet, looking with the eyes of memory into the open, pallid face of Frances, he could not, he would not, accept the inevitable conclusion forced upon him by Louise. Such was his frame of mind on the day of the funeral, when he remained at the Brookin residence, perhaps his only opportunity to make an examination of Frances' apartments. Before the carriages had reached the cemetery he turned the latch and entered her deserted bedroom.

The appointments of this room were few, but tasteful. It abounded in the little belongings of a young girl. Today there were many evidences of a scene which had defeated good order. A jaunty hat and bright ribbons were hastily thrown aside, and the open bureau drawers revealed dainty laces and lingerie. But the eyes of the inquisitive intruder took notice of none of these things; they were riveted instantly to an object that lay beside a book upon the centertable, near which stood an armchair. That object was a slender cigar. He took it up—answered. He knew that in the Brookin household he was the only smoker—and he did not smoke slender cigars. To the mind of this man, ever open to suspicions and suggestions of evil, that strange cigar was testimony unimpeachable. It was the knife in the heart of a jealous love. With inexpressible rage and with a fierce hatred of every living thing, he placed the weed in his own case. Here, then, he reasoned, had the man described by Louise been sitting before the dawn of that fatal day; here had the little saint kneeled to place her arms about him and say farewell! Yonder was the window, straight ahead from which Louise had fired. Brave, faithful Louise! His heart warmed towards her, despite the fact that she had fired to kill him. Somewhere in that crimson carpet was the blood of her victim if her aim had been true. Was it true? He glanced back over his shoulder; the ball would have struck the wall behind him had she missed her aim. And there in the wall, a little out of line, it is true, was a small hole. Amazed, he hurriedly examined it. The shot, after all, had missed.

Then this doubt came to the active mind: Why had the man been carried away if the shot failed?

Holbin went quickly to his own room, where he secured a candle and a powerful sun glass. Holding the latter over the perforation in the plastering, he discovered a slight red stain.

"Blood!" he whispered; "she did not miss!" Opening his penknife, he carefully cut a section from the broken plaster. "Whoever the man was, he was struck in the head. Here is the hair."

For a few moments Holbin was deep in thought. Then he drew from his pocket the pistol which he had taken from Louise and examined it with the eye of an army expert. Apparently puzzled, he tried the depth of the hole in the plastering with a pencil and found that the perforation was complete. He seated himself in the armchair facing the window. If Frances had been kneeling with her back to the window, the face of the unknown man must have been fully exposed. The weapon did not have power enough to fire a bullet through the head of a man, an inch of plaster and a lath, and to carry away hair and blood—the bullet must have glanced from the side of the head. The position of the hole indicated that the right side of the man's head had been struck.

Holbin's final conclusions were that the stranger had been only stunned. His friends could not have concealed his death, for no common man would have won the privileges of the room, nor would it have been possible for Frances to have borne herself so calmly with the memory of a murder fresh in her mind. "A society man is missing from his club in Richmond today!" he said aloud. "The mystery is half solved. As for you, my lovely bride!"—he finished the sentence with a smothered oath.

CHAPTER VII.

The influences of established principles and correct associations may carry an ordinary man to success in proper channels, but the successful villain is necessarily an intellectual being. In his room Holbin gradually evolved from his discoveries the conclusion that he had an active enemy near at hand, and that a plot was thickening about him. Yet who was there in Richmond that knew enough of his history to place a finger upon the blackest spot in his life? And why the enmity? Two theories presented themselves, and only two—love for Frances Brookin and love for the Brookin wealth. Since it was clear that the girl had been too long secluded, and too recently grown to have formed many friendships in Richmond, evidently the money was the potent influence in the secret operations about him. But who had been shot, and why?

Holbin labored under the immense disadvantage of a man without intimate friends. He had gravitated rapidly during his short stay in the city towards the fast set; men classed him quickly as "sporty," and women looked on him with doubt. People who had at heart the interests of the latter looked even more coldly upon the debonair man of the world. The fact that he was the son of Mrs. John Brookin was a disadvantage, for society had never been enamoured of the successor to the gentle little lady who once presided over the Brookin mansion. Intimates he had, but friends, none. In his perplexity over the mystery into which he had been plunged Holbin turned at length to Dr. Brodnar. He had seen the doctor upon rare occasions only, and in some way he had understood that he was not favorably regarded by Mrs. Brookin; but the basis of this lady's dislikes was, as he knew, not legitimate. Dr. Brodnar, in succeeding to his father's practice some years before, had in a way inherited old Mr. Brookin, and that individual had firmly resisted his new wife's efforts to substitute her own physician for him. The doctor was a distant relative of the dead wife, one of the few links which bound the old man to a happy past; and as people grow old they dislike new family physicians.

No one is quicker to recognize a straightforward, honest man than one who is himself dishonest and tricky. Holbin estimated Brodnar as a clear-headed, blunt, impolitic fellow, beyond the comprehension of plots and counterplots—a man to be used if his confidence could be gained. He was, most likely, in a position to serve him; for it was Raymond's conclusion that the shortest way to arrive at the truth of the shooting lay in the discovery of the wounded man. And if the victim were not actually Brodnar's patient, Brodnar might easily identify him. It was a tribute to Richmond's popular physician that Holbin decided at once that the best chance for success lay in a seemingly frank and open statement of the main facts. The doubtful point was Louise. Brodnar had been present at the reading of the will when the question concerning her was asked; but, he concluded, over hastily, Brodnar could hardly know anything about her beyond the name that had been uttered. He determined, with a gambler's quick decision, to play the stake, supposing that if he did not win his loss would be small.

He entered the doctor's office upon the afternoon of the funeral and presently the door between the inner and outer offices opened. Brodnar stood upon the threshold looking at him. At once Holbin remarked a singular expression in the physician's face. Afterwards he recalled that Brodnar reached back and closed the door behind him.

"Doctor," he began, disregarding the other's stiffness and formality, "I have called to consult you on a certain matter of a private nature directly affecting the family with which we both, to some extent, are connected. Have you a few moments to spare me?" The doctor's face had darkened perceptibly and was turned aside for a moment.

"I am afraid, sir," he said, at length, "that you have made a mistake. I am not qualified to advise you in any respect. I know of nothing affecting the Brookin family—I suppose you refer to the Brookins—in which we could hae a common interest. Good evening, sir." He turned as if to reenter the room behind him. Holbin stood with an angry flush upon his face. He recognized instantly that a friendly service from the doctor was now out of the question; but service under moral compulsion might yet be had.

"Perhaps you are right," he said, seeking to adopt the other's freezing dignity. "And yet you may be mistaken—that is, over-hasty. And perhaps, doctor, you do not realize that I am not asking a personal favor at your hands."

"You will have to excuse me." Again the doctor placed his hand upon the door-knob and prepared to depart.

"I am then to understand," said Holbin, a distinct sneer in his voice, "that you Brookin people prefer that affairs touching the family honor shall be passed upon by strangers. I have come to you, sir, with a serious matter, as in duty bound. The reception met with is such that for the future I shall rely upon my own judgment." With a fine show of heat he took up his hat and cane, and with no pretense of a bow was turning away when he felt the doctor's hand laid not lightly upon his shoulder, and his stern voice:

"Explain yourself, sir."

"Unless I am much mistaken," he said, showing his white teeth slightly, "that has been the very thing you refused me permission to do."

Talked Of By Sports and Athletes

IN Torrington, Conn., the place where are made so many skates for Young America, there was a meeting of the national assembly of the League of American Wheelmen. Twenty delegates representing 12 states met to legislate for the L. A. W. and hear of the passing of their organization. Few have ever heard the result of this annual meeting. That venerable officer of the league—Secretary Bassett told the story without elaboration of the grip of official death that had fastened itself on the once great and formidable cycling body. Last year, said he, there were 24,382 members enrolled. To-day there are but 10,000. It is not dangerous to predict that when the next national assembly meets there will not be more than 1,000 members.

Time was when we used to travel many miles to these annual gatherings of the league. It was our custom to print columns of advance politics and gossip, pictures of the candidates for office and special dispatches galore about the proceedings of the meeting. No paper in the land was too small to be overlooked by the publicity department of the L. A. W.

"We must get our membership up over the 100,000 mark" was the slogan. Cycling was at its zenith of popularity. The L. A. W. wielded undisputed authority over the cyclists and had a cry "good roads" that appealed to all who pedaled bicycles and to many who drove horses over the country roads. The familiar winged-wheel device of the league—a badge on the lapels of the members—was quite as common as the insignia of well-known fraternal and insurance orders.

Well do I remember when a telegram from Boston gave me the information that the 100,000 mark had been reached and even passed. In a short time this news, so pleasing to cyclists, was flashed about the country. Then the warning note was uttered: "Beware of the professional politicians." Many of the latter had used the L. A. W. as a stepping stone for political preferment and many others were prepared to pull the wires to get "soft berths."

Friction came, the L. A. W. became the prey of factions and the politicians with magnificent ideas but tricky ways, started the organization on the decline. The state divisions fell off and the usefulness of the body was impaired. Then came the abandonment of control of racing cyclists and the growth of the National Cycling association. Cycling too ceased to be a sport and passed into the field of utilitarian economies. There was a steady decline in the L. A. W. which ultimately will leave the institution but a memory of its former greatness.

"Good Roads" H. S. Earle, the Michigan man who has retired as president, has an idea that the remaining strength of the L. A. W., may be safeguarded by making divisions of the league. The merest novice in league history might tell Mr. Earle of the futilty of trying to keep alive an institution which no longer has any definite purpose. The passing is bound to be completed before long. Once a mighty army of wheelmen, able to dictate legislation to state assemblies of solons who feared the L. A. W. politicians, there is now no politician so meek as to do the league reverence.

IN their obstinate refusal to accept the increasing popularity of three-cushion billiards, knights of the cue persist in trying to make balk line games that will be attractive. The latest scheme of play to be "invented" is the eight-square balk line, which Nat Ward, a veteran player of over 30 years' experience, claims, will revolutionize the game of billiards. Conservative veterans with whom I have discussed this eight-square game, place it in the category with the many styles of exhibition games that were played years ago as "revolutionizers" and are now scarcely ever resurrected except as illustrations of the possibilities of the game.

Take any table and draw a chalk line through the center lengthwise. Draw three other lines across the table at the second, fourth and sixth diamonds and the green surface will be divided into eight spaces. On a 5x10 table these spaces will measure 28 inches. At the points where the lines touch the rail there are eight anchors, each 3x6 inches. Rules governing this game are about the same as those governing 14-inch balk line, except that at least one object ball must be driven out of its space on every second counting play.

The game may be played with four balls, but even beginners are adjured to use three balls. In many respects the object of this style of game is no different from Mr. Rawson's eight-inch balk line game in which the shooter loses his turn, although he counts what he made, if two object balls roll into the same balk line space. The contention made for the eight-space balk line game is that it will tend to bring into the same class about 100 balk line experts whereas under the terms of ordinary balk line, but a few professionals are in the same class and a very small number of amateurs have any right to contest for a Class A championship.

The eight-space game is open to the objection that it complicates play for the spectator. For years the adherents of championships have cried for simplified play so that larger throngs will appreciate the execution of the players.

WHAT are the breeding interests of the United States coming to when a Chinese nobleman spends his money freely in stocking a farm? That is the query a well-known breeder of trotters recently put to his friends. Strangely enough the replies were all of the same nature. "The world loves a trotter and the business of breeding noble animals cannot be monopolized by white men."

Ho Yow is the Chinese consul general at San Francisco and he is reputed to be very wealthy. Among his possessions is a ranch near San Jose. Ho Yow intends to make this country his home for many years. Already he has stocked this farm with choice sires and matrons and before long may be heard from on the speedways. Those who know this celestial say that his love for the trotter and pacer is as strong as is that of C. K. G. Billings, the millionaire, who has attained the position of being one of the greatest patrons of speedways in the United States. Recently Ho Yow paid a fancy sum for Much Better (2:07), a pacer, and he is negotiating for the purchase of McKinney for which animal he has offered $23,500. Iran Alto, a well-known California stallion, too, is fancied by this Chinese, and he has made a bid of $12,500 for him.

Why should not a Chinaman devote his money and leisure to a stock farm? Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston copper king, says that years ago when a poor young man he made a mental picture of a stock farm with hundreds of acres of fine pasture land, big white barns and white picket fences. Later on when he acquired great wealth he satisfied his ambition by building just such a farm—"filling in the picture of his youth," as he said. He paid the Hamlins about $40,000 for a stallion that he fancied and annually expends a small fortune on his horses.

Ho Yow might increase his ranch holdings until he was able to send to the race tracks horses bearing the nomenclature Kwong Tsin, Gum Bok, Yot Sing, Chow Goy, etc., but it is scarcely probable that he will choose these patronomyics. However, it is almost certain that the consul is the only Chinese of distinction in the country who is devoted to the breeding of choice horses. Nearly every thoroughbred race track has a Chinese camp follower or two—some cook of former days who has found it profitable to play "stable information," but these followers of the running races never invest in horseflesh. They choose rather to make a comfortable living betting on reasonably "sure things." Unique as is the position of Ho Yow in the turf world, there is no breeder who would apply any closure or exclusion rule to him.

ATTEMPTED TWO THINGS

But the Cigarette Dropped When the Smoker Fell Asleep and a Fire Followed.

Attorney Lewis Clement had a narrow escape from being severely burned through his own carelessness at his home on Central avenue, last evening.

He had been reclining on a couch, smoking a cigarette, when he fell into a doze and allowed the lighted stub to slip from his grasp. It dropped into the inflammable material forming the covering, and in an instant it was all ablaze.

Mr. Clement awoke to his senses choking and gasping and it required some quick work to get the burning couch outdoors and prevent a conflagration. Fortunately he was not severely burned.

Dragged Hand Into Machine.

David Doyle, of East Fifth street, had his right wrist badly lacerated at the Pond Tool Works Tuesday, through an accident. The sleeve of his jumper became entangled in a gear wheel and before it could be loosened his hand was drawn in. Fortunately the machine was stopped in time to prevent the arm being crushed.

Baptismal Service.

A baptismal service will be held in Calvary Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. As a result of the recent revival meetings 142 persons will connect themselves with the church. In these meetings the pastor, Rev. Scott Wallace, was assisted by Rev. Jacob T. Turner, of Richmond, Va.

Rogers Corporation's Quarters.

Temporary quarters have been secured in the Marsh building, corner of Park avenue and Second street, by the Rogers Corporation, and its business will be conducted there until more definite arrangements are made.

Taken New Quarters.

I. V. Giles, whose restaurant on the third floor was destroyed, has taken quarters in the new Stillman building, where he is caring for as many of his former boarders as can be accommodated in the limited quarters.

F. J. Hubbard in Marsh Building.

Borough Engineer Frank J. Hubbard has secured temporary quarters in the Marsh building, corner of Park avenue and Second street.

There Are Some Simple Remedies indispensable in any family. Among these, the experience of years assures us, should be recorded Painkiller. BURNED LITTLE HOUSE.

Michael Cronin's Home at Dunellen Went Up in Flames Thursday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, March 8—A house, belonging to Michael Cronin, of Front street, which was the smallest dwelling place in the borough and one of the smallest in the State, caught fire Thursday night and bruned to the ground.

The house consisted of only one small room but was well built and the loss will probably reach $400, fully covered by insurance. The fire engine was called but could do nothing as the fire was well under way before it was discovered by Mr. Cronin, who gave the alarm.

M'GANN RESIGNS.

Warren Engine Company Will Have to Get New Horses.

Thomas McGann, who for the past nine years has furnished horses for and been the driver of Warren Engine Company, handed his resignation to the borough Councilmanic committee, last evening. He informed the Council that after April 1 his horses would not be used by the company. It is understood that Raymond Schenck desires the place. No action was taken last evening on the resignation, but will be later.

Old Crescents Won.

The old Crescent League bowling team met the Y. M C. A. bowling team on the alleys of the latter last evening and showed the youngsters that it had not forgot how to bowl a good game. Two games were rolled and the Crescents won, 629 to 621 and 663 to 623. H. C. VanEmburgh was high man for the Crescents, making scores of 162 and 167, while Denton made the highest score, 149, for the association team.

Today's Pictures.

The illustrations contained in today's issue are reproductions of photographs taken immediately after the conflagration at the Babcock building. The pictures were taken by Clayton T. Coon, of Dunellen, an employe at the Sabbath Recorder office in this city, and George N. Benbrook, of Somerville.

Repaired Water Main.

Amos Andrews, superintendent of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, had his men repair a leak in the water main on Duer street, yesterday afternoon. He says that it was caused by the fire engine pumping at that point during the recent fire.

Her Brother Killed.

Mrs. Maze Edwards, of Madison avenue, received a telegram, this morning, announcing the sudden death by accident, of her brother, Charles A. Stouch, at Willoughby, O.

Mrs. D. W. Rogers, of West Second street, has returned home after a successful operation performed on her eye at the hospital. The operation was performed a week ago by Dr. Ard.

CROWDS STILL VIEW RUINS

men and newspaper-men are scattered about the foreground inside the fire lines. Hundreds of other people stand back of the lines watching the burning building.

The Front street side is again shown, this time from a point on that thoroughfare to the east of the fire. It was taken at about the same time as the last mentioned and shows the firemen at their posts with the others scattered about the immediate neighborhood. The wreck of the Sebring building, which had been crushed by a falling wall, is hidden by a cloud of smoke. In this and the second picture mentioned, the extent of the damage to the building is pictured with much vividness.

Of equal interest is the view of the building immediately after the fire, before there had been any change to remove the wreckage from the street. The picture was taken from West Front street, just east of the building and not only shows the wreck of the front of the building but gives a glimpse of all that is now left of the three-story Sebring building, which was crushed by the falling wall. The ragged edge of the part of the wall left standing shows the place from which it fell. The supply wagon of the fire department is on the right while several prominent citizens are grouped in front of the main entrance to the building.

The cut of the building before the fire, which appeared in The Daily Press of Thursday, is republished today so that, by a comparison with the others, a full idea may be obtained of the damage wrought by the flames.

AFTERMATH OF THE BIG FIRE

George H. Fountain, the photographer, was particularly fortunate in having materials in both the Babcock and Sebring buildings. His store room and studio was on the second floor of the Babcock building while his salesroom was with B. W. Hand. His money loss is placed at $250, but a number of valuable plates representing a year's work and which cannot be replaced, were destroyed and cannot be estimated. He had nearly the complete set of negatives for "An Illustrated Plainfield" which he was about to produce.

W. D. Williams, who was in charge of the white goods department at Woodhull & Martin's store, went into the store while the Babcock building was burning and spread a quantity of oil cloth over portion of the goods on centre tables.

When it became apparent to Postmaster E. H. Bird that the postoffice was homeless, he immediately took steps to secure temporary quarters. It was a difficult matter to find a suitable store but after a deal of searching, he selected upon the building now being used. The vacant apartment is still leased to Nathan Wolfson, who formerly conducted a furniture store, and it was impossible for the agent to turn over the keys. Not daunted, Mr. Bird broke in a rear door in the name of the Government and claimed possession.

The place will be retained until word is received from Washintgon and in the meantime it will be put to rights. In order to do this the doors will be closed at 7 o'clock, this evening and hereafter at 6:30. This will give the clerks and workmen time to work unhampered.

Settled for $5,000.

The case in tort brought by Miss Edna Hart, of Cranford, against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central New Jersey Street Railway Company, for damages alleged to be due as a result of injuries received in the Westfield trolley accident, has been amicably settled. Counsellor Robert M. Clark, who represented the plaintiff, brought suit for $10,000, and half this amount was given his client in consideration of her ending the case.

Progressive Whist.

Miss Lizzie Cutter, of East Second street, gave a progressive whist party at her home last evening. There were twenty-one guests present and all had a pleasant time. Prizes were awarded at the conclusion of the play. Refreshments were served and a social time followed.

G. F. Graves to Return.

George F. Graves, formerly of Hillier & Company, of West Front street, but late of Gloucester, Mass., will return to his former position Monday morning, where he will be the manager for the laundry department at the store on West Front street.

NO INTEREST IN ELECTION

Tomorrow's Battle of the Ballots in North Plainfield is Lacking in Issues.

HAS BEEN NO CAMPAIGN.

Both Parties Have Nominated Men With Clean Records—Only Objection to Republican Ticket is Desire That Opposition Shall Have Representation.

Unique in the history of the borough, in fact peculiar in the annuals of American politics, will be the borough election tomorrow. There's any number of people "over the brook" who are unaware of the fact that an election is due so soon, and the reason why is simple. There has been no campaign and there are no issues connected with the election.

In a perfunctory sort of way the two poiltical parties have held their primaries and have named candidates. The offices to be filled are two in the Borough Council and one as commissioner of appeal. Efforts on the part of certain leaders in the majority party to stir up something to resemble a campaign have proved in vain. And now, at the eleventh hour, polite notices have been sent to a large number of Republicans informing them of the fact that an election will be held and that their ballots are requested. Those who have received these notices are the class generally denominated "the stay-at-home vote." The Democrats have done nothing to add enthusiasm to the election.

A thorough search fails to reveal anyone who can name an issue involved in the election, that is, one that concerns the policy of the municipal government. An exception might be taken to this statement by those who believe that there should be minority representation in the ordinance making body of the borough. Upon the retirement of S. S. Swackhamer, the complexion of the Council will be entirely Republican as it is in this city, and there are a number of citizens who with a non-partisan spirit believe that the best interest of the borough will be served by the election of someone to represent the "opposition." This, they contend, is a matter of principle and it makes no difference which party might be in power.

Mayor Smalley, the governor-general of the boroughites, when approached concerning a possible issue, said "Let me see—." Then he thought hard and long. It was no use, however. "National issues only," he finally said. "What do you mean, the policy in the Philippines or whether Miss Roosevelt should go to the coronation ceremonies?" he was asked. "National issues," he reiterated, as a broad smile came over his face, and he gave a chuckle expressing his amusement at the condition of the campaign.

Inquiry among the Democrats as to what issues might be advanced resulted unsatisfactorily for they have none to name. All the candidates named by the two parties are what are called politically "clean men." The Republican candidates for Council have this advantage over their opponents and that is that in each case they have been tried before in a similar capacity. Whether this question of experience will count for anything when the time for voting comes is another matter.

It is expected that a very light vote will be polled. The normal Republican majority in the borough is something like 200, but the conservative party man does not expect to see anything like this showing tomorrow. This is not due to any question of unpopularity of the candidates, but is solely because no interest is taken in the campaign. The Democratic claim is that the minority party will make a good showing and there are some in the party ranks who expect to see one of their candidates elected. They declare that some ancient factional feeling against James K. Arnold in the Republican ranks will result in his being cut, but the fact that Mayor Smalley himself nominated the Somerset street merchant is looked upon as a complete answer to this declaration.

The full tickets are: Republican—For Council, James K. Arnold and Robert Clark, Jr., for commissioner of appeal, Dr. J. H. Cooley; Democratic—For Council, F. M. Ward and John Lloyd, for commissioner of ap-

HARMONY NOW REIGNS IN FANWOOD BOROUGH

Expected Opposition at Citizen's Primary Failed to Develope and All Was Quiet.

NO OTHER TICKET NAMED

ALFRED M'KEOWN NOMINATED TO FILL OUT TERM OF MAYOR.

F. J. Palmer and C. R. Vincent Named for Borough Council—Only Fight is Over Freeholder Which is in Township as Well.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, March 10—The borough primary, held Saturday night in the Fanwood Fire House, proved to be the most harmonious one held in a long time. The expected opposition did not manifest itself and the election tomorrow promises to be a very quiet one, the only fight being between the two nominees for freeholder, John Robison, the Republican candidate, and Wm. R. Stanbery, the Democratic nominee. Neither candidate was endorsed by the primary, the ticket coming out as a citizens ticket. Several hundred tickets with each candidates names on will be out and the voters can take their choice of the nominees without scratching.

The harmony of the primary was a surprise to many as it has been customary in the past for the voters to meet in a citizen's primary, irrespective of politics, and name a ticket called the Citizens' ticket. The faction downed at this primary has always left the meeting and immediately called another primary and on election days an independent ticket would find itself in the field and often times showed such strength that it was a dangerous antagonist to the regular ticket.

The election tomorrow is for the election of a mayor for one year to fill out an unexpired term and the election of two members of the Borough Council for three years. Frank D. Warren, who has been acting mayor since the resignation of Henry L. Hall, who was obliged to doff the mayorality robe nearly a year ago on account of his health, was being urged by his friends for the nomination and it was thought by many that his name would be brought before the primary but Mr. Warren refused and Alfred McKeown was nominated without opposition.

The councilmanic honors fell to F. J. Palmer and C. R. Vincent, without a struggle. The minor officers nominated were justice of the peace, James Hunt; commissioner of appeal, Ernest C. Kieb.

The question of a public library, which has been agitated for several months past, will be settled at the election, each ticket having space for a vote for or against the library.

The present harmonious spirit in the borough may be due to the fine showing of the borough as shown in the borough's annual report which has just been printed and distributed. The report shows the thriving borough in better financial condition than it has been since it drifted away from the township. All bills have been paid and the cash on hand shows $1,055.88. Much credit is due Chas. Scheelen, the efficient collector, for the fine showing as he has been a terror to delinquents. All personal and poll taxes for the past year have been collected. With the poll tax delinquent it has been a case of pay or go to jail.

The estimated expense to run the borough for the coming year is $2,400, and the amount will no doubt be raised at the election Tuesday.

Still Vaccinating Hobos.

The police department still continues to vaccinate every prisoner, or night lodgers who comes in contact with the cells where the small-pox suspects were held. Friday four hobos were treated with virus and Saturday three more who spent the night in cells underwent the arm scraping process.

All Kinds of Baths.

The Turkish, Roman and other kinds of baths given at Dr. Cooley's well-equipped place on Somerset street, are steadily growing in popularity among Plainelders. So many find them a source of benefit and it requires less time than in going to New York.

First Play at Whist.

The regular meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will be held this evening, when the first play at whist will begin. A full attendance of members is desired.

LOCAL ATHLETES MAY WIN

POINTS NOT YET COMPUTED IN INTER-ASSOCIATION MEET AT NEWARK.

Was Held Saturday Night and Plainfield Made a Fine Showing in the Events.

Seven athletes, representing the local Y. M. C. A., made a most creditable showing at the inter-association meet held in Newark, Saturday evening. Six associations competed for honors and while the points have not yet been compiled, it is stated that Plainfield stands an excellent chance of winning. It is a positive fact that the laurels rest with the local athletes or those of the Orange association. The result will be officially announced next Saturday evening.

There were two contests, gymnastic and athletic. In the latter there were four events and the Plainfied men finished as follows: High dive, won by Walter McNaughton and Arthur Denton tied, height 5 feet 7 in.; putting the shot, Donald A. McGee, second, 35 feet 8 inches; running broad jump, Donald A. McGee, third, 36 feet 8 in.; high jump, Walter Cahoone, third, 5 feet. Others who contested were William Kleinecke and Elias Giles.

In the gymnastic events, the Plainfielders who contested were Arthur Denton, Walter Cahoone, Walter McNaughton and Fred J. Cranston. All acquitted themselves creditably but the results were not made known. The other associations which were represented at the meet are Newark, Jersey City, Orange, Montclair and New Brunswick.

OLD-FASHIONED CANDY PULL.

Given by Miss Sophie Barlow at Her Home Thursday Night.

An old-fashioned candy pull was given by Miss Sophie Barlow, of Prospect place, Thursday evening. The kitchen where the affair was held is equipped with an old-style fireplace and the room was adorned with Japanese lanterns, giving it a picturesque appearance.

Among those present were the Misses Frankie Burr, Adelaide Howard, Belle Milne, Irene Miller, May Faber, Laura Osgood and Alice A. Barlow, and Donald A. McGee, F. Roland Horn, Charles Perkins, Clinton Hall, Frank Rogers, Leslie Hallock, D. Brokaw, Thomas Minford, Dick Minford and Langdon Howard.

RHEAUME MILL PURCHASED.

Welvant Manufacturing Company Will Establish a Factory There.

The Welvant Manufacturaing Company, of Duane and Centre streets, New York, purchased today the old Rheaume mill on Fourth street, from the owner, F. A. Pope. Charles Sturtevant, of Watchung avenue, is a member of the firm which makes machinery for bookbinders, folder and specialties. The company purchased ninety-one feet frontage on Fourth street, which extends back to the railroad, comprising the large brick building. It is likely that the company will build an addition to the brick structure.

Funeral of Wm. Downs.

Funeral services over the remains of William Downs, who died at his home on West Third street, Thursday, were held from Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, yesterday afternoon. Rev. G. E. Smith officiated before a large gathering of relatives and friends. There were a number of very pretty floral tributes. Interment will be made today in the cemetery at Pennington.

Westfield School Meeting.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 10—The annual school meeting will be held Tuesday evening, March 18, at which time three trustees will be elected in place of Charles Forster, Martin Welles and H. L. Fink. At this time the usual appropriations for general expenses for the coming year will be voted upon.

Slipped in Slush.

While attempting to ride his wheel through the slush and snow on West Fourth street, yesterday afternoon, John Giffon, of West Second street, suffered a bad spill. The wheel slipped from under him and he was thrown for some distance. Beside being covered with mud, he was bruised and scratched in several places.

Substitute in Choir.

Mrs. E. H. Bird sang in Trinity Reformed church yesterday for Miss Williams, the regular alto, who is suffering with a heavy cold.

To Continue Revival.

The revival services will be continued this week at the Calvary Baptist church.

FANWOOD'S FIGHT.

Hottest Contest Over Freeholder Which is Likely to Go Either Way.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, March 10—Tomorrow the annual spring election for the election of township officers will be held in the town rooms. Township Clerk Edward L. Hand has a walk-over, having been endorsed by the Democrats. The principal fight will be between John Robison, Republican candidate for freeholder, and Wm. R. Stanbery, the Democratic nominee, and the township committeemen, Edward V. Goodman, the Republican nominee, and Clarence Lambert, the Democratic candidate.

The township is normally Republican by forty majority but a spring election always brings up some factional fight in the Republican party which materially aids the Democrats and there is never a sure thing for any candidate. The Republican ticket from present outlooks should win out but both sides are working hard to get the vote out and any little happening is likely to throw the decision either way.

GOOD COMES FROM SORROW

STRONG SERMON BY REV. DR. J. M. STIFFLER YESTERDAY MORNING.

Filled Pulpit at the First Baptist Church During Absence of the Pastor.

The pulpit at the First Baptist church was occupied yesterday by Rev. Dr. James M. Stiffler, of Croizer Theological Seminary, it being the first Sunday since the departure of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Yerkes, who is now enjoying a rest in the south. There was a large congregation present at both the morning and evening services, when powerful sermons were delivered.

At the morning service Dr. Stiffler preached from a text selected from a portion of Romans viii, 28-29: "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God." The speaker said that most of life is merry and generally laughter outweighs tears. Yet there is sorrow and one hour of grief needs more attention than a month of joy. Dr. Stiffler then went on to show that the little trials and tribulations of life all work together for good to them that love God, how they purify one's life and prepare it for the future life.

The speaker touched on the doctrine of predestination and illustrated it by telling how the sculptor takes a piece of marble and predestinates that that marble shall conform to the model. He represented Christ as the sculptor and his believers as clay, who are to be conformed into His image. Satan would fain possess God's children but God had ordained otherwise.

Dr. Stiffler said that predestination is a blessed doctrine when properly understood, a perfect joining link. He said that it was a most submissive faith that could say in severe trial and tribulation that all things work together for good, yet he believed that these tribulations and sorrows work out a life of perfect glory for God. He characterized them as God's instruments to work good to the salvation of souls.

Dr. Stiffler held the closest attention of all throughout his discourse, which proved both helpful and inspiring.

Temporary Courthouse to be Built.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, March 10.—The Union County Board of Freeholders has decided to build a temporary courthouse to cost $3,000. It will be located in the rear of the present courthouse and will contain offices for the county clerk, surrogate and sheriff. When the new court house is completed, this structure will be used as an annex to the county jail.

To Select Quarters.

Through the courtesy of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., Plainfield Lodge, No. 41, of the same order, will meet in the former's rooms in Washington Hall, this evening at 8:30 o'clock. At that time provision will be made for securing permanent quarters.

Old Glory Lost Everything.

Old Glory Council, Daughters of Liberty, has made arrangements to meet in Washington Hall every first and third Thursday. Its entire furnishings and paraphernalia in the Babcock building lodge rooms, valued at $200, were destroyed. They were not insured.

Young People's Concert.

The Baptist Young People's Union will give a concert in the Mt. Olive Baptist church, Thursday evening, March 27.

JERSEY CENTRAL'S EARNINGS

ANNUAL STATEMENT HAS JUST BEEN MADE PUBLIC.

Shows an Increase in the Earning Offset by Increased Fixed Charges.

The operations of the Central Railroad of New Jersey for the year 1901, the report of which will be submitted to the stockholders at the annual meeting to be held in Jersey City in May, have been made public in advance of the annual meeting through an application by the Reading Railroad Company to the New York Stock Exchange to list $23,000,000 of four per cent. bonds which are guaranteed by the Reading. Permission to list the bonds was granted Feb. 23.

The report for the fiscal year December 31, 1901, shows a dividend surplus of $3,223,483, or about 12 per cent. on the stock, against 9½ per cent. in 1900. Although the ratio of operating expenses in 1901 was slightly lower, yet the gains in earnings were offset by a considerable increase in fixed charges.

Reading's share in the dividend surplus amounts to $1,740,000, which is 12 per cent. on 145,000 shares owned. After deducting the interest at 4 per cent. on the $23,000,000 bonds issued in part payment for the Jersey Central shares, the Reading has $820,000 earned on its own shares, an amount equal to a little over 1 per cent. on the common.

FUNERAL OF MRS. ALLEN.

Services Conducted From Residence on Somerset Street Today.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Elias Allen were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence on Somerset street, where a large number of relatives and friends gathered to pay their respects to one dear in memory. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis conducted the services in the absence of the family's pastor, Rev. Dr. Yerkes.

Dr. Lewis read the Scripture selection, after which he made a few remarks concerning the devoted Christian life and character of the departed. He also referred tenderly to the bereaved husband, well-advanced in years, and pointed him to Christ who alone can give comfort and consolation.

During the services "Abide With Me," and "The Homeland," were sung by Morris C. VanArsdale, E. E. Runyon, Miss Grace Carroll and Miss Alice Carroll. There were many beautiful floral tributes, including a large pillow from the nine grandchildren.

The interment was in the Baptist cemetery on Plainfield aveune. The pall-bearers were L. E. Barkalew, W. H. Shotwell, John Allen, William Ackor, Stephen Beeching and John Bodine.

FOUND A FIRE.

Two Strangers Gathered in for Encouraging It Near Scott's.

John Foley, of Philadelphia, and Harry White, of Frankfort, Ky., found the remains of a fire back of the Scott Press Works, last evening. They piled wood upon it until the blaze assumed such dangerous proportions that the watchman of the factory thought it best to call the police. Both men were arrested but this morning they were released by City Judge Runyon on condition that they leave town.

Y. M. C. A. Directors Met.

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. met in monthly session in the association's parlor Thursday evening. The business transacted was purely routine. Those present included Stephen Cahoone, president, Curtis M. Thorpe, E. R. Ackerman, J. H. Case, George S. Clay, C. A. LaBoyteaux, H. M. Maxson, H. O. Newman, R. H. Radford, O. S. Rogers and John Valiant.

Lad Confirmed.

During the services at the Beth Tephilia Ishia Yental synagogue Saturday morning, Hyman Newmark, of Watchung avenue, was confirmed by Rabbi Davidson. The lad made the usual speech, which is customary on such occasions. Afterward he gave a party, at his home, to a large number of the congregatinon's members.

Nearly Everything Sold.

The auction sale of household and kitchen furniture at the residence of Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, 407 LaGrande avenue, Thursday, was a success. Nearly everything was disposed of at good prices. P. H. Latourette was the auctioneer.

Rev. Mr. Daland Preached.

Rev. W. C. Daland, of Leonardsville, N. Y. preached at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday morning.

CAMERA CLUB'S LOSS IN THE BIG FIRE

Had Best Equipped Rooms of Any Camera Club in New Jersey.

CLUB'S LOSS IS $1,000.

THEN MANY OF THE MEMBERS SUFFERED INDIVIDUAL LOSSES.

Club is Now Looking for New Quarters—Old Rooms Were Specially Made for That Organization When Building Was Built.

With the destruction of the upper part of the Babcock building the Plainfield Camera Club has temporarily been put out of business, but the fire will not result in the dissolution of the club. Already the members are hustling about for new quarters. It was thought that the top floor of the building occupied by M. C. VanArsdale, the shoe dealer, on West Front street, could be secured. The floor was leased yesterday by Gernert, the photographer, and of course the club cannot get it.

Another place in view is the Republican Headquarters over the police station. This room could be made to answer the club's purpose for a time at least. By the fire the club lost in property a sum not less than one thousand dollars, while some believe it will be more than that. J. Hervey Doane, one of the members, lost among other things, two hundred negatives, valued at least at $1 each. They cannot be duplicated. Nearly all of the members had negatives of much value in their lockers and all were destroyed.

There were two brand new poll and billiard tables, which are probably a total loss. As yet they have not been found, although a diligent search has been made. Two pianos, one valued at $400, were destroyed. There were three club cameras, all very valuable, that were burned up. It is barely possible that the lenses may be found.

All of the club's other furnishings were destroyed. A valuable picture of "The Matterhorn," which is in the Southwestren part of Switzerland, was also destroyed. This was in colors and was presented to the club by the late George H. Babcock. A number of other pictures were also lost by the fire. There is scarcely a member but what has lost something of value and a great many things will be difficult to replace.

Without doubt these quarters were the finest and most complete of any used by a similar organization in this State. Mr. Babcock was an enthsuiastic amateur photographer and when the building was being planned he gave special attention to the matter of having suitable rooms properly equipped for such an organization in the building. No expense was spared and the facilities were such as are seldom surpassed in even the most elaborate quarters of the professional expert. The dark room was a model, equipped as it was in improved fashion. Mr. Babcock, himself, was a member of the club and took great delight in its affairs. Since his death the other members have continued to enjoy the benefits which he allowed them in the use of the rooms during his life.

During late years it has been additionally attractive as a place for informal social events, and many people in this city and elsewhere have spent enjoyable evenings there.

'PHONES WORKING AGAIN.

Expected to Have Local System in Shape by Tomorrow.

Linemen of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company were busily engaged all day yesterday continuing repairing the damage done to the local system by the recent storm. There are less than thirty 'phones out of use this morning and before nightfall Manager C. W. Runyon expects to have these in working order. As soon as this is done, more attention will be given to the 'phones at Scotch Plains.

Results of Revival.

In the Calvary Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, thirty-eight persons, converted at the recent revival meetings, were baptized by Rev. Scott Wallace. At the evening service, seventy-two persons were given the right hand of fellowship.

Invited Other Lodge.

Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., has extended an invitation to Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., to meet in its rooms in Washington Hall until the lodge secures a permanent location.

SETTLING UP LOSS BY FIRE

Insurance Company's Representatives Will Hold a Conference During the Week.

MANY TO SEE THE RUINS

Woodhull & Martin's Clerks Are Taking Account of Stock—Trustees and Guardians of Babcock Estate Are All Here—Will Decide on Plans.

Something definite will be known this week about the actual losses at the Babcock building fire and the plans of the Babcock estate and other interested ones for the future. A conference of the representatives of the insurance companies, which held policies on the building and contents, has been called for some day this week when it is expected that something like a satisfactory adjustment will be made. It is known already that the building is to be rebuilt as soon as possible and that Woodhull & Martin, whose big deparment store was on the first floor of the burned building, will resume active business operations at the earliest opportunity.

The clerks of Woodhull & Martin's store began work Saturday on taking account of stock. This action was in accordance with the instructions of the insurance companies so that the losses and salvage can be more easily computed. The work is being continued today and may be completed tonight.

Definite plans for the rebuilding of the Babcock building will probably be outlined now as all the interested parties are in Plainfield. Mrs. George H. Babcock, who has an interest in the Babcock building and is one of the guardians of George L. Babcock, the heir, returned last night from Alfred, N. Y., where she has been to attend the annual meeting of the Celadon Roofing Tile Company, of which she is the vice president. She was accompanied by J. B. Clarke, of Alfred, N. Y., who is the other guardian and a trustee of the Babcock estate. The other trustees of the estate are William M. Stillman and J. A. Hubbard, of this city. It is simply a quesiton as to whether the building will be rebuilt to resemble as nearly as possible the old one or whether it will be only carried up four stories as was first thought of after the fire.

Although Sunday did not open as a pleasant day, there were hundreds of strangers who came to town to see the ruins of the fire. Cameras were very much in evidence. All day, there were people standing about looking at the wreck of the great fire. The police maintained a careful watch there all day and the ropes were kept up preventing anyone from crossing the sidewalk in front of the building. While no danger was apprehended, it was deemed advisable to take every possible precaution and huge signs of "danger" were hung prominently about.

Carpenters are at work in the ruins this morning, continuing their efforts to anchor the rear and eastern walls to prevent any possibility of their falling. The beams, which are now being put up, will serve, if so desired, to support a temporary roof which will permit the resumption of business in Woodhull & Martin's store.

Cuonsellor H. C. Suydam, of Bound Brook, who had offices on the second floor, has placed his loss at $1,100. Most of this is on his library and furniture as his papers and other valuables were found in his safe, unharmed. He was insured for $800.

Another lodge to lose heavily is Unity Lodge, K. of P. Furniture, paraphernalia and other valuables in its rooms worth $500 were destroyed. There was no insurance.

The Knights of Columbus lodge, which recently celebrated its first anniversary, lost to the extent of $1,000. The order will not suffer, however, as it was fully covered by insurance.

S. Hirsh, who conducts a tailoring establishment over Love's store on West Front street, became frightened when the fire broke out Thursday morning and quickly removed his furniture to the yard in the rear of the building. Sparks lighted on some of the upholstered work and his furniture was badly damaged as a result.

The members of the Board of Trade believe that $150 will cover its loss to furniture as a result of the fire in the

CLEANING SIDEWALKS.

Street Commissioner Gavett Still Keeps Up His Campaign.

Street Commissioner Gavett has not relaxed his efforts to keep the city sidewalks clear of slush and snow. Two gangs have been working in various parts of the city during the last week and as usual any amount of neglectful property owners have been sighted. The same walks seem to be neglected every time and as a result some residents will have greatly enlarged tax bills the coming year.

Entertained Forty.

Mr. and Mrs. John Carl, of Manson place, entertained forty friends at their home, Thursday night. Musical and other features were furnished by Harry Winters, William Stewart and Lusardi and Bowers. Refreshments were served at midnight and the party broke up at an early hour Friday morning.

—Edward Nelson, formerly ticket agent at the North Avenue station, is now assisting W. H. Sebring, the Park avenue tailor.

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It softens and liquifies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. "One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace, J. Q. Hood, Crosby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family." L. W. Randolph.

IN THE FLOODS.

Claude Cubberley Had an Exciting Time Going to Scranton Last Week.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

South Plainfield, March 10—Claude Cubberley, who left for Scranton, last week, to join the Delaware and Hudson Railroad's corps of civil engineers, had some startling experiences and some narrow escapes before he reached his destination on the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

The train on which he was a passenger managed to get to Mauch Chunk, where it was halted because of a bridge being washed away by the flood. In a few moments another bridge east of Mauch Chunk, and over which the train had just passed, was taken out, so that they could go neither forward nor backward. After being stalled at Mauch Chunk until 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the train, by taking a very roundabout way, got to Wilkes-Barre, and from there no further advance could be made. The passengers were taken to a hotel and cared for at the Railroad company's expense. However, as he had to change at this place anyhow, Mr. Cubberley went on to Scranton by another route.

He says, in a letter, that while at Mauch Chunk, the passengers of his train learned that the road at Allentown had been wiped off the map just after they had passed over it, and a huge rock, as big as two freight cars, slid from the mountain and dropped upon the track directly in front of the engine. He also says that from a high vantage point on the mountain, he saw the flood reach Mauch Chunk. The Lehigh River rose twenty-two feet and broke the bridge, carrying down debris of houses, trains and bridges. The people, who had been warned by telegraph, flocked to the mountain with their goods before the wave came.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Union county teachers and citizens generally are pleased with the reappointment of Charles J. Baxter, of Plainfield, as State school superintendent.—Rahway Union Democrat.

Plainfield is the latest place to have a disastrous fire, right in the heart of the business section. The insurance people are probably wondering when it is going to let up.—New Brunswick Home News.

It was not necessary for the Plainfield Common Council to declare its opposition to the Greater Plainfield bill now pending in the Legislature. So long as Senator Reed knows his business, which he appears to do, the measure will never be given fresh air enough to recover from asphyxiation.—Newark News.

One part of the city of Plainfield is in Union county, and another part is across the fictitious line which separates it from Somerset. A proposition to unite the two parts within the county of Union meets with grave opposition—no from any people within the limits of the city; but from the Republican politicians in Somerset, who dread the loss of the small Republican majority in what is now the Somerset end of the city. In the present Legislature the politcians are much more potent than any possible propriety.—Trenton True American.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Just to show how little some people are concerned by fires or any other disaster when it doesn't concern them personally, the following incident which came under the observation of a reporter is noted: Shortly after 7 o'clock, Thursday morning, while the air for blocks around the Babcock building was filled with smoke and flying embers, a man rushing down West Second street near Park avenue shouted to the driver of an express wagon, "Hey, where's the fire?" "Don't know," said the deliverer of packages, "I haven't had time to find out, but heard somebody said it was on Front street." The inquirer stopped short, looked amazed and then started off afresh for the scene of the monster conflagration.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

In stormy or fair weather you may depend upon it that W. W. Dunn, the Park grocer, corner of Duer street and Lincoln place, has on hand a large supply of fresh vegetables. Everything in season.

You can appreciate what's in a name when you buy a "Hawes" hat. That name is synonimous with high quality. James R. Blair, of 205 Park avenue, is the Plainfield representative for this reliable make of hat.

Trade may or may not follow the flag, but it certainly does follow honest dealing. Smalley Brothers, the North avenue butchers, have an established reputation. 'Phone your order to them and it will receive prompt attention.

Putnam & DeGraw, the popular dry goods merchants, always carry a full line of seasonable goods in dry goods as well as men's furnishings. A superior grade of umbrellas, as well as handkerchiefs for men and women, constantly on hand.

Callahan & Son, the Richmond street grocers, are offering some splendid bargains in their line this week. Space doesn't permit of lengthy quotations but a visit to the store will give them an opportunity and prove of advantage to yourself. 'Phone 972.

Joseph W. Gavett, the West Front street crockery man, is showing some decided novelties in China and cut glass. Hundreds of neat and attractive designs are shown on the counters at prices never equalled for lowness. Call and see a demonstration of the electric gas lighter.

Some shoe dealers would have you believe that all shoes are alike, but when you wear the kind that Willett & Son, of Park avenue, sell, you will find that there is a big difference. Their stock comprises the best makes at reasonable prices. Also a full line of overshoes and rubber boots.

When you buy bread, confectionery or pastry, you want it fresh and of the best materials. It has always been the aim of W. W. Warnock to supply these and he has always succeeded. The ingredients are carefully selected and the workmanship is of the best obtainable. Try his ice cream.

Emulsion of pure Norwegian cod liver oil, with yolk of fresh egg, phosphoric acid and sherry wine, is one of the very best preparations made by L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, for all lung troubles and general debility. At this season this preparation is exceedingly valuable.

The Bard of Somerset street has had another "inspiration." Here it is: "This is the druggist of Plainfield-town, who by his drinks wins great renown; to mix them well he has the knack, he doesn't leave it to a quack, and so we say to friends of ours: Drink hot chocolate at Johnny Powers'."

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Stone Square Lodge, No. 38, F. and A. M., will hold a regular communication this evening.

—Druggist R. J. Shaw has had a new awning placed in front of his store on West Front street.

—Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will hold a regular meeting tomorrow evening. A full attendance is desired.

—Miss Etta Petry, of Somerville, who has been attending a business college in this city, was graduated a few days ago.

—P. H. Latourette, the auctioneer, is now located at 33 Somerset street, North Plainfield, where he will be pleased to see his friends.

—The Loyal Temperance Legion will hold its regular meeting this week at the home of Mrs. Dudley Miller, on Orchard place.

—The annual meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will be held Friday afternoon at the church.

—An adjourned meeting of the Woman's Foreign Mission Society of the First Baptist church will be held Wednesday afternoon in the lecture room of the church.

—John H. French, of West Seventh street, has leased the house belonging to Mrs. Thickstun, corner of Central avenue and Fifth street, now occupied by Henry E. Titus. Mr. Titus will remove to 902 Madison avenue, the home of the late Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

ROAD CLAIMS BABY.

Railway Officials Lay Claim to Waif Left on a Train.

Will Be Reared and Educated at the Expense of Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf Railway Company—The Girl's Story.

From Wichita, Kan., comes the admonition that if you should forget and leave your baby on the train the child thereafter legally belongs to the railway company unless you can prove your ownership in a very forcible way.

The Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf Railway company has adopted a six-months-old baby girl left on one of their passenger trains and refuses to give it up to anyone laying claim to it, and the child now has the proud distinction of being the only baby that ever had a railroad for a parent. A man in Paris, Ill., claims that the child was given him by its mother. A woman has appeared at the children's home in Wichita and says she is its mother and wants her baby back. But the railway officials hold on tenaciously to their foundling and say they will raise it even better than any mother could do.

One of the finest wards in the Wichita children's home is set apart for Miss Okla Choctaw-Gulf, as this six-months-old foundling has been named. She has a special nurse, fine lace dresses, hoods and shoes, and, in fact, everything that money can buy. The children's home officers have been instructed to send the bill to the general offices of the Choctaw route, where the same will be honored and paid as one of the items in their expenses.

Last Friday a young woman boarded a Choctaw train at Parkerburg, Okla. She carried a large market basket, seemingly filled with bundles. The basket was placed on the seat beside her, and she left the train at Weatherford without taking the bundle along. James Grimes, 1147 North Washington avenue, Wichita, was seated behind the young woman when she arrived in and left the train. He said:

MOTHER WENT AWAY SOBBING.

"I noticed the bundle she left on the seat, but paid no attention to it until a slight sound came from the bundle. I unwrapped the bundle and found a very bright baby girl, apparently six months old. A bundle of clothing was also attached to the basket by a heavy silken cord. On removing the baby from the basket I found a note reading:

"'I was born December 12, 1901. I have no father or mother. Please take me to Wichita, Kan., to the orphans' home.'"

According to this note the baby was but two months old, but it is certainly six months and perhaps older, said the nurses at the hospital. The finding of a baby naturally created a great deal of excitement and a number of passengers wished to adopt it. The conductor seemed more anxious to have it than anyone should it prove to have been a boy, but as it was a girl he gave it over to James Allison, of Paris, Ill. The conductor then wired headquarters, and before Mr. Allison had left the cars with his charge he was notified that the company refused to give it up. The conductor then took the child in charge, and, acting upon advice from the main office, brought it to Wichita and placed it in the home.

As yet no officer of the company has taken it upon himself to act as personal sponsor for the child, and all orders emanate from the road as a corporation. Therefore it would seem that Miss Okla is to be a child of a corporation.

Two days after the child was placed in the home at Wichita a strange young woman made her appearance and demanded that the baby be turned over to her, as she was its mother. The deaconess refused to give the baby to her and she went away sobbing.

It is quite evident that the Choctaw route intends to rear the child and make her the daughter of their destinies. She is what might be called a very pretty baby and will be a brunette. Her eyes are dark, but not black. She is a thoroughly healthy youngster, and looks as if she would grow up to be a credit to their benevolence.

Eloquent Graveyard Poetry.

A peculiar epitaph is engraved on a monument in Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Tarrytown, N. Y. It reads thus: "Here lies the body of little Jane, who ran out slyly and played in the rain; she caught the measles and it struck inside, and in less than four short weeks she died."

BANKING IN MEXICO.

Capitalists From the United States Have Opened Many Institutions.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 10.—American activity in extending banking facilities here attracts notice. The new state bank of Chiapas, a remote member of the federation on the Guatemalan border, has been opened for business, with $500,000 capital.

The new bank of Orizaba, with a paid up capital of $150,000, is also a new American institution, the stock being held here in this city. Orizaba is now an important industrial center and hitherto has lacked banking accommodations.

There is talk of establishing an American bank in the famous mining city of Pachuca.

All American banks in the country are flourishing, and there is a rumor of the ultimate consolidation of these institutions, making one great American bank, commensurate with the growing importance of commercial relations with the United States.

Many new companies for business in this country have recently been organized in the United States and in England.

The German bank will establish a branch here, as Germans desire to have a bank of their own, and as they are an important factor in the commerce of the country they can easily support it.

Norfolk Strike Continues.

NORFOLK, Va., March 10.—From present indications the strike is by no means over. It is very probable that the strikers will not accept the terms of settlement named by the arbitration committee of the chamber of commerce. Neither strikers nor company agreed to accept the arbitration decision. The main objections of the strikers are that they are required to work with nonunion men, that only 85 per cent of them will be re-employed and that they must sign the surety company bond. The cars ran yesterday under military guard, and at night the guard was doubled. The riot of Saturday night was the fiercest since the strike started, and several soldiers and citizens were injured.

No Clew In Klump Case.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 10.—The mystery surrounding the sending through the mail of a poisoned headache powder to Mrs. Ada Klump of Lowell, causing her death a week ago, is seemingly no nearer a solution than on the day of the arrest of William Klump, her husband, last Thursday. The theory that some woman in the affections of Klump concocted the plot and carried it out still holds with the officers who are conducting the investigation. Klump appears worried and restless in jail and is not disposed to talk about his case. His brother visited him yesterday and advised him to tell the truth, which William said he had done and would do.

More Trouble For China.

PEKING, March 10.—Chinese officials are greatly disturbed over the conditions at Jehol (Chengte), about 100 miles northeast of Peking, where bandit soldiery have captured a priest. An official of the foreign office declares that the Russians have already dispatched 500 troops to Jehol from the Manchurian border. The trouble began over the settlement of claims of native Christians, and it resulted in rioting between the Christians and the non-Christians. Brigands took advantage of these conditions to plunder the country, and the Russian telegraphic connections were incidentally cut. The foreign office says that the captured priest is a Belgian.

Gunner Hill Shut Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10.—Joseph Hill, gunner on the United States training ship Pensacola and survivor of the Maine, has received official notification from Washington that he is ineligible for a commission in the United States navy. The notice says that he passed with credit the moral, mental and physical examinations, but that he was lacking in "professional qualifications." Hill thus meets the same fate as Gunner Morgan, whose application for a commission was adversely passed upon last year. Hill at present occupies the highest rank in the list of petty officers, and his pay as gunner would be more than that of ensign.

Collar and Cuff Factory Burned.

BENNINGTON, Vt., March 10.—The main building of the Unity Collar and Cuff company in North Bennington has been burned. The loss is about $60,000, with insurance of $40,000. Included in the loss was about $20,000 worth of goods in various stages of manufacture. In the factory about 150 persons were employed, while nearly an equal number took work home. The fire thus proves to be the worst blow North Bennington has ever had.

Notable Sale of Shorthorns.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 10.—One of the most notable sales of Shorthorns in the history of cattle breeding in the west will take place in Kansas City March 19, when the entire herd of W. R. Nelson, who is retiring from the business, will be offered. In the lot are three cows bred by Queen Victoria and cattle from the most noted herds of England and Canada and a majority of the states.

A Great Coal Run.

CINCINNATI, March 10.—The present rise in the Ohio river has started a great run of coal for the Ohio and Mississippi valleys. The rivermen say more than 8,000,000 bushels from the West Virginia mines out of the Kanawha are now on the way.

Weather Probabilities.

Increasing cloudiness; fresh north winds, shifting to east.

THE ETRURIA IN PORT

Disabled Liner Safe at the Azores.

WAITING FOR STEAMER TO ENGLAND

Breakdown Occurred Feb. 26—Passengers Praise Conduct of Captain and Crew—Story of the Accident and Long Voyage.

HORTA, Azores, March 10.—The Etruria anchored here at 6 o'clock last evening. All on board are well.

She had a comparatively uneventful passage, except for the breakdown, which occurred during the dinner hour of Feb. 26. When this occurred, the Etruria had only just finished speaking by wireless telegraphy with the Cunard line steamship Umbria. After the accident was discovered the Etruria called the Umbria wirelessly for one hour, but without success.

Upon examination it was found that the ship's propeller had broken off outside the tube and that the rudder had been carried away by the propeller. The Etruria then sent up rockets, which were seen by the British steamer William Cliff. The latter bore down and was alongside in fifty minutes after the accident. She stood by until daylight, when, after several attempts, she succeeded in passing a hawser aboard the Etruria. The tank steamer Ottawa arrived on the scene at this time. The William Cliff then attempted to tow the Etruria, while the Ottawa attempted to steer her. The hawser, however, snapped. The Ottawa stood by for two days and then left for Fayal, bearing the second officer of the Etruria, to report the disaster and obtain assistance.

In the meanwhile the crew of the Etruria had made every effort to rig a jury rudder. The first such rudder was carried away immediately an attempt was made to use it. After further efforts lasting for two days a second jury rudder was successfully adjusted and is still in position.

The passengers of the Etruria were satisfied they were in no danger, and they praise the conduct of the captain and crew of the vessel. After the accident the passengers amused themselves with the usual deck sports, and concerts were held in the first and second cabins. Only those who were anxious concerning business matters chafed at the unavoidable delay.

The Etruria was hoping to communicate with the North German Lloyd steamer Kronprinz Wilhelm by wireless telegraphy, but her mast wire broke in several places, and she was unable to repair it until the weather had improved, when it was too late. After the accident the passage of the Cunard steamer was entirely uneventful, and there occurred nothing of interest beyond the daily runs of the vessel, which ranged from sixty to a hundred knots.

The Etruria will wait here for the arrival of the royal mail steamer Elbe, which left Southampton for Horta Saturday. The Elbe will carry the Etruria's passengers to England. The Etruria will then be towed home by the two tugs which are now on their way out from Liverpool for this purpose.

Illinois Party In the South.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 10.—Governor and Mrs. Richard Yates of Illinois, accompanied by a party of eighty or more prominent officials and citizens of the state, with their families, were in Nashville thirty minutes yesterday. The party is going to the Charleston exposition and is traveling on a special train. A number of personal friends greeted the visitors here and made their short stay a pleasant one. The special left at 10 o'clock, the plans of the party being outlined in the following statement by Governor Yates: "It is our intention to make a stop of about three hours at Chattanooga and if possible to go to both Chickamauga and Lookout mountain. We will make a short stop in Atlanta and then go direct to Charleston, where we will be for two days. We will return by way of Washington, make a stop of one day and then go home."

Collieries Resume Work.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., March 10.—The local collieries of the Reading Coal and Iron company and the Union Coal company, which were closed down last week by the floods, resumed operations today, along with a number of mines operated by individual companies. Railroad sidings are again free of water and snow, and cars are being supplied to the collieries. The resumption of operations gives work to 8,000 men, who have been out of employment since the recent storms.

Paper Dealers Combine.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Forty-two of the large wholesale dealers in paper have formed an organization to be known as the Wholesale Paper Dealers' Association of the City of New York. The object of the association was stated to be the eradication of abuses in the trade and for social purposes. The combined dealers represent in capital $10,000,000.

War on Sunday Funerals.

TRENTON, N. J., March 10.—The Trenton Coachmen's union at a meeting decided not to drive at Sunday funerals. In this move they have the support of all the undertakers of the city but one. An agitation against Sunday funerals has been going on in the city for some time and has the indorsement of the clergy of the city.

Floods Again Imminent.

SARATOGA, N. Y., March 10.—There has been a heavy rainstorm in this section, which threatens to bring about another flood in the lower Adirondacks and in the upper Hudson river valley.

NEW FINANCIAL BILL

Measure to Secure a More Stable System.

BANKS TO PROTECT GOLD RESERVE.

Thus Shifting This Responsibility From the Treasury and Preventing Commercial Uncertainty.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Chairman Fowler of the house committee on banking and currency today introduced an important financial measure framed by the Republican members of the committee after conferences extending through the last two months. It brings together into one financial measure a number of propositions which have been urged separately heretofore.

Mr. Fowler explains the purposes of the bill as follows:

"The purposes of the bill are: To transfer from the government to the banks the responsibility of protecting the necessary gold reserve and the burden of furnishing gold for export, thereby saving our commerce from the destructive apprehensions growing out of raids upon the 'gold in the treasury,' which can now only be replenished by a tax imposed upon the people through the sale of bonds; to provide a currency always responsive and adequate to the demands of trade everywhere and to equalize and lower the average rate of interest in all parts of the United States; to secure for American enterprise and American capital the privileges and opportunities of engaging in international banking under national law and so lay a foundation upon which to build an American merchant marine; to remove the last vestige of doubt with regard to our standard of value.

"The measure provides for international banking, and a division of banking and currency is established under a board of control instead of a single individual in the person of the comptroller of the currency, as heretofore. The board will consist of three members, whose terms of office are for twelve years, so arranged that only one member will retire every four years.

"If the measure now introduced should become a law, it is confidently believed that the national banks will assume the current redemption in gold coin of $130,000,000 of United States notes. In consideration of the obligation assumed by the national banks they will have the right during the succeeding five years to issue gradually, as business may require, an amount of bank notes equal to 60 per cent of their paid up and unimpaired capital, provision being made also for an emergency circulation. As the notes are taken out for circulation the banks will deposit with the government a guarantee fund of 5 per cent of the amount of the notes so issued. The national banks hereafter will be required to pay interest upon the government deposits at the rate of 1 per cent per annum.

"This 5 per cent guarantee fund and the tax upon the bank notes will be used to protect the bank notes, and the excess of such taxes, with the interest on the government deposits, will be used to pay off the United States notes which the banks assume to currently redeem. It is asserted that the whole $130,000,000 of United States notes which the banks have assumed to currently redeem will be paid off in thirty years out of the taxes collected upon circulation and interest paid by the banks upon government deposits.

"The United States will be divided into clearing house districts to facilitate the current redemption of the bank notes, so that the amount of notes outstanding at any time always will be co-ordinated with the amount of trading to be done, precisely as checks and drafts reflect the amount of commercial work being carried on.

"By and with the consent of the board of control banks may have more than one place for doing business, being authorized to establish themselves in the various cities of the country.

"No bank note of a denomination less than $10 will be issued, and the secretary of the treasury shall not issue a silver certificate of a denomination greater than $5, and thereafter upon the presentation to him of 100 silver dollars or any multiple thereof and a demand for their redemption he shall exchange gold coin for the same."

The Seth Low Window Unveiled.

THE HAGUE, March 10.—At the request of the resident clergy of this city Stanford Newel, United States minister to the Netherlands, yesterday unveiled the window in the Anglican church here presented by Seth Low as an American memorial of the work accomplished by the The Hague peace conference, to which Mayor Low was a delegate from the United States. The window is in four sections and represents Christ and allegorical figures of Faith, Hope, and Charity.

Fire In a Pennsylvania Town.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 10.—The Herald block was completely destroyed by fire at an early hour yesterday morning, entailing a loss of about $75,000. The guests in the Seventh Avenue hotel, just across the street from the burning building, became panic stricken, and many of them rushed into the street only half clad. The hotel was saved, however, and the guests returned to their rooms unharmed.

Three Broke Jail.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 10.—Mitchell Mizelh, in jail on a charge of murder, and George Taylor and Isaac Woodsey, wanted for small offenses, have broken jail at Rutledge, Tenn. When the jailer went to feed the men, they overpowered him, took his pistol, locked him in a cell and departed.

MAJOR WALLER'S TRIAL.

Particulars Regarding the Charges Against American Marines.

MANILA, March 10.—Colonel James Forney of the marine corps will preside at the court martial to try Major Littleton W. T. Waller and Lieutenant John H. A. Day of the marines corps March 17 next on the charge of executing natives of the island of Samar without trial. The court martial will be composed of army officers and officers of the marine corps.

The charges specify that Major Waller and Lieutenant Day killed three native stevedores on the streets of Basey, island of Samar, without trial. These stevedores were among those who accompanied the disastrous expedition of Major Waller and a detachment of marines to the interior of Samar last December.

It is claimed these stevedores mutinied and proceeded to the foothills where they dug camotes (a variety of sweet potato), and that they later concealed and refused to turn them over to the Americans, saying that when the marines died of hunger they would have a good supply of arms and ammunition.

Sympathy is expressed for Major Waller, who at that time was suffering from mental and physical strain. Lieutenant Day apparently obeyed Major Waller's orders.

Lieutenant Howland of the Twenty-first infantry and aid on the staff of General Wheaton, who was sent to report on the state of affairs in Rizal province after the recent outbreak there, reports that the insurgents have now been dispersed and that the soldiers and constabulary are closely pursuing them. There is but a small force of insurgents in the province, and they are greatly overofficered.

Status of Cuban Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—There is something of a lull in the agitation over Cuban reciprocity, although the elements for and against concessions continue to prosecute their plans in anticipation of the struggle tomorrow night, when the fourth conference of house Republicans will be held. There have been no formal meetings, but the leaders on each side have held many informal consultations. Those who oppose the ways and means committee continued to assert that they had a list showing 108 Republican members, with some twenty-five more doubtful. If this claim could be made good, it would be decisive in the coming conference, but Chairman Payne and his associates, while giving no figures, do not concede the strength claimed by the opposition.

Lawmaking on Sunday.

PARIS, March 10.—Anxious to dispose of the budget, the chamber adopted the unusual course of sitting on Sunday and held two lengthy sessions. The chamber passed a law imposing a tax of a franc per 100 kilograms on crude petroleum. In the course of the discussion of an amendment to the naval estimates M. Aimond declared that the United States had adopted plans for the construction of armored cruisers of the same tonnage and speed as those included in the naval programme of France. The budget for 1902 was finally adopted by a vote of 398 to 64, and the chamber of deputies adjourned.

Will Preach In the Streets.

CLEVELAND, O., March 10.—Rev. Charles A. Eaton, D. D., pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, of which John D. Rockefeller is Sunday school superintendent, has announced his intention of adopting radical measures in order to create a revival of religious interest in this city and will, he states, go to the downtown streets and preach on the street corners to whosoever will stop to listen to him. Dr. Eaton is one of the most prominent clergymen of the city and formerly ministered in Toronto, Ont.

Governor Odell In Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Governor B. B. Odell of New York dined with President Roosevelt at the White House last night, remaining after the dinner until a late hour. Tonight he again will dine with the chief executive. According to the present plans of the governor, he will remain here until tomorrow morning, although he may return to Albany late tonight. His visit here, he said, is simply for recreation, and his mission is not to discuss politics.

Dead at the Throttle.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 10.—Michael Hoey, an engineer of this city, had his neck broken and skull fractured while running an Ontario and Western coal train. The supposition is that just as the train was entering the Haverstraw tunnel Hoey put his head out of the cab window to look at a hot journal. Hoey's father and mother were killed at a grade crossing here several years ago.

Baptized In the Jordan.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 10.—Word has reached here that Cornelius Van Ness, the octogenarian millionaire of Port Jervis, formerly of New York, has been baptized in the Jordan river by the Rev. William K. Hall of Newburg, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Van Ness sailed on the steamer Celtic for a trip to the orient, his desire being to gratify an ambition of years to be baptized in the Jordan.

Miss Roosevelt Goes to Havana.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, the daughter of the president, with several friends and accompanied by a maid, left here last night for a visit to General and Mrs. Leonard Wood at Havana, going by rail to Florida. Mrs. Harriet Blaine Beale and Captain Philip were also of the party. Miss Roosevelt expects to return to Washington the latter part of the month.

END OF THE SESSION.

New York Legislature Expects to Finish Work In Three Weeks.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 10.—There is now every reason to believe that the legislature will not adjourn until March 28. It is understood that a resolution will be offered that the legislature adjourn sine die on March 21, but that later it will be amended to March 28. It will be remembered that last year the session did not conclude until April 25.

The most important piece of legislation to be considered this week will be the bill providing for a fiscal agent for state charitable institutions. The bill was introduced a week ago by Senator Ellsworth and was referred to the finance committee. Senator Higgins, chairman of the finance committee, announces that a hearing will be given on the charities bill tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The success of Senator Stranahan in having his mortgage tax bill amended so as to return all moneys collected to the respective localities indicates that the bill will pass the senate in its present form.

Senator Davis, chairman of the canal committee, expects that some action may be taken on his bill appropriating $31,800,000 for the improvement of the Erie and Champlain canals. The assembly measure, which has been amended to include $5,500,000 for the Oswego canal, complicates matters and, it is believed, endangers the canal bill.

SECOND NOTE TO THE PORTE.

The Stone Affair Again Brought to Turkey's Notice.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 10.—The American legation here has presented to the porte the second note referring to the capture of Miss Ellen M. Stone.

In this note it is pointed out that as Miss Stone was captured, the ransom paid and the prisoners delivered in Turkey the brigands must be within the Turkish frontier and should therefore be captured.

The note denies that the authorities were ever required to lessen their vigilance on the frontier and asserts that only the movements of troops in the interior were interfered with.

The first note presented to the porte by the United States legation at Constantinople in the matter of Miss Stone's capture by brigands demanded the punishment of the guilty parties. The porte in replying repudiated responsibility and denied liability.

Sealing Crews on a Strike.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 10.—In the matter of the strike of the crews of the sealing fleet, numbering about 3,000 men, who demanded $4 per hundredweight for the catch instead of $3.20, the previous rate, the sealing merchants have declined to accede to any of the terms submitted by the men. The merchants intimated that the price for seals would be at least $3.20 per hundredweight, the same as last year, but declined to indicate whether any advance was likely. The authorities say that the condition of the foreign markets renders an advance improbable. Regarding the other claims by the men for better accommodations and other minor concessions, it is understood the merchants are willing to make reforms next year, but decline to alter existing conditions under threat of strike.

Big Strike Begun In Boston.

BOSTON, March 10.—The freight handlers, freight clerks and freight teamsters, representing in all some 2,000 men, struck at 7 o'clock this morning as the direct result of the action of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad in requiring its freight handlers to unload freight delivered at its houses by the R. S. Brine Transportation company, on account of which some 100 of its employees quit work Saturday. The strike is likely to spread to all other railroads and docks and to ultimately affect more than 10,000 men.

Flood Tide In Indiana.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 10.—There is great alarm here over the high water. The river stands at 39.6 feet and is still rising. It is almost certain a stage of forty-one feet will be reached. Farmers in the lowlands are trying to save their corn in crib. Several sawmills along Green river are submerged, and the loss will be large. A stage of forty-one feet will be the highest since the great flood of 1884. The crest will not be reached before tomorrow noon, and by that time the river in some places between here and Cairo will be ten miles wide.

Mission School Burned.

LEBANON, Pa., March 10.—Rev. Dr. Joseph Lemberger, treasurer of the board of commissioners for foreign missions of the Reformed Church of the United States, has been informed by cable that the school for girls at Zendia, Japan, which is maintained by the church, has been totally destroyed by fire. The school took care of seventy-five girls, all of whom were saved. The loss is estimated at $5,000, which is partially covered by insurance in a London company. The school was established about fifteen years ago.

Sugar Convention Rumors.

LONDON, March 10.—According to the correspondent in Brussels for The Standard, it is said there that the United States will approve the sugar convention and that the American minister to Belgium, Lawrence Townsend, has been ordered to conduct certain negotiations with the Belgian government in reference to this subject.

FEASTING AND SONG.

Prince Henry's Last Sunday In America a Busy One.

A VISIT TO PHILADELPHIA TODAY.

A Morning Concert at the Waldorf-Astoria—Luncheon at University Club and Dinner With Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Prince Henry of Prussia was the central figure yesterday in another round of entertainment arranged in his honor. He first listened to a concert at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, largely made up of his favorite American songs, the concert being arranged at his request. When that was over, he drove to the University club to a luncheon, which was not concluded until midafternoon. In the evening he was the guest at dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and met a large party made up of persons of social prominence.

When the prince bade farewell to the company at the Vanderbilt home, he went to the New York Yacht club for an informal reception, and the hour was late when he returned to the Waldorf-Astoria for the night. He found time between the four main events on his programme for the day to receive a delegation representing the Commercial club of St. Paul and several callers and to finally complete the arrangements for the last two days' stay in the country and his departure for home.

He had intended to be present at the religious service on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern in the morning, but the case of scarlet fever which developed there several days ago altered that plan. Instead, he remained at the hotel, arising late and breakfasting at his leisure.

It was the Arion society of Brooklyn, winner of the kaiser's prize at the singing festival in Brooklyn in 1900, that furnished the morning concert for the prince at the hotel. It had been originally arranged that they should serenade the prince aboard the Hohenzollern Saturday, but in the change of plan the serenade was abandoned.

The concert took place in the Astor gallery and began at 11:30. The prince sat in the center of the hall surrounded by the members of his suit, the American escort, Embassador von Holleben, Consul General Buenz and Consul Geissler. The chorus first sang "Pries Lied" and after that, at the request of the prince, an extended programme, which included "Old Kentucky Home" and "Dixie." The concluding number was Kreutzer's "The Lord's Own Day," and it was rendered very effectively. The prince was delighted with the serenade and, after shaking hands with the officers of the society, addressed the members briefly in German. He thanked them for what they had done for him and congratulated them on their excellent musical ability.

The Arion society presented the prince with an illuminated address and announced that during the day a cable message suitable to the occasion would be drafted and sent to the kaiser.

The luncheon at the University club was given by the committee named by President Roosevelt to arrange for the visit of the prince and escort him on his tour, and the hosts were General Corbin, Assistant Secretary of State Hill, Admiral Evans, Colonel Bingham and Commander Cowles. The party left the hotel at 12:45 o'clock, with mounted police as a special guard for the carriage of the prince. A great crowd saw the departure from the hotel and the arrival at the club, but there was no special demonstration.

The dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt in honor of Prince Henry began at 7 o'clock. The Vanderbilt home at 608 Fifth avenue was handsomely decorated and brightly lighted. Mrs. Vanderbilt received the prince and his staff and then presented her other guests. Oval shaped dining tables were placed in the dining room and conservatory, and there the dinner was served. Mrs. Vanderbilt had Prince Henry at her right and Embassador von Holleben at her left, and Mr. Vanderbilt had Admiral Evans at his right and General Corbin at his left. During dinner an orchestra played a selected programme.

Prince Henry, accompanied by his party, left for Philadelphia by special train over the Pennsylvania railroad at 8 o'clock this morning. He is to be officially received by the city, shown through Cramps' shipyard and given a lunch at the Union League club. He will return to New York at 5:30 o'clock and in the evening will give a farewell dinner to the American committee which accompanied on his trip.

Steel Trust Improvements.

PITTSBURG, March 10.—The following are the estimates of the cost of improvements to be made by the United States Steel corporation in Pittsburg, work on which has either started or will be during the present year: Armor plate mills, $3,000,000; Bessemer railroad, $1,000,000; structural mill at Homestead, $750,000; American Bridge plant, $1,500,000; Neville Island Furnace plant, $1,500,000, and other improvements, $250,000; total, $8,000,000.

Train's Unusual Experience.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 10.—The fast freight, eastbound, due here at 2 o'clock in the morning, had a rather unusual and unpleasant experience between Trenton and this city. Two dead men were picked up, one of them having been killed by the train itself, and a third time the train was stopped to search for a body which could not be found.

GAVE PLAINFIELD THE NEWS.

On every side have been heard words of praise for the accurate and complete manner in which The Daily Press has covered the great fire and the events subsequent to it. Despite the fact that Thursday's edition was increased a thousand, every paper was sold and there have been calls for half as many again. Friday's edition, with new details about the fire and a statement from Chief Doane, also met with rapid sale and four hundred extra copies found ready purchasers. Six hundred of Saturday's paper, with the excellent illustrations of the Babcock building before, during and after the fire, was hardly enough to meet the demand. Saturday's Daily Press was particularly sought after as it contained the pictures and more interesting facts about the fire and the future of the building.

The fire was the most important event that has occurred in Plainfield in a decade and there was not a person in city or borough who was not deeply interested in all the circumstances connected with the conflagration. The rebuilding of the structure is a matter of great importance to the industrial welfare of the city. As the people's paper, The Daily Press had its reporters on the ground at an early hour and gave its patrons a full and detailed account. It has since kept them fully acquainted with all that has happened there and will continue to present any additional news regarding the settlement of the losses and the rebuilding of the structure.

It is no vain boast when we say that The Daily Press has published the most complete and thoroughly accurate account of the great conflagration and has been the only local paper to give its readers some idea of the scene with the aid of illustrations. Hunderds of copies of The Daily Press are being sent out of town by Plainfielders to show their friends what Plainfield's great fire really was.

Tomorrow will be election day in the borough, but interest in the event is sorrowfully lacking. Even the little groups of politicians on the street corners are missing. If the Republicans get anywhere near their vote out, their candidates will be elected. There may be some cutting but no particular feeling has developed on either side and only the very unexpected will change the balance of voters in favor of one of the Democratic candidates.

It's really too bad that the fence, which separates the tracks at the North Avenue station, is not located in North Plainfield so Mayor Smalley could try some of his strenuous methods to secure a new and proper colored coat of paint for it. Mayor Smalley's treatment of flat-wheeled trolley cars was a lesson to all municipal officials.

The loss to the Masonic Hall Association of Plainfield by the destruction of the Babcock building is an irreparable one. While the lodge rooms were the finest in the State, they contained pictures and relics that can never be replaced.

peal, Lewis M. Bird.

James K. Arnold, of Somerset street, has been indentified with borough interests more or less since the incorporation of North Plainfield. He is fifty-two years of age and was born in New York, in the old Seventh ward. He came to this city forty years ago and his father's home was what is now the Casino, on West Seventh street. After his marriage he removed to the borough and has since resided on Manning avenue. Years ago he conducted a grocery business at the corner of Somerset and Chatham streets, but later he reinoved his business stand to its present location on Somerset street, opposite Lincoln place.

On the incorporation of the borough in 1885 he was elected a councilman and at the expiration of his term he became the borough clerk, which position he filled for five years. From 1893 until 1899 he was again in office as borough clerk. Years ago he was a member of the school board. Mr. Arnold is a Mason, Odd Fellow, Exempt Fireman, and a member of the Royal Arcanum. He is a man of influence and is held in high regard.

Robert Clark, Jr., of Jackson avenue, is a substantial business man, and is considered one of the most valuable men in the Borough Council at the present time. He was born in Newark in 1847 and is a graduate of the High School of that city. In 1888, he removed to North Plainfield township, residing on the mountainside. He took up his residence on Jackson avenue in 1898 and in the spring of the following year was elected to the Borough Council.

Mr. Clark is an expert in hat making and at the present time is vice president of Wharton & Company, of Newark, a corporation which has a wide reputation as manufacturers of high grade hats. He is a member of the official board of Trinity Reformed church and is chairman of the missionary committee of Marconnier chapel. He is a Mason, being a member of Eureka lodge, of Newark. Mr. Clark is also identified with a local building and loan association.

Fernando M. Ward, of Fairview avenue, is a member of the clerical force of the Central Railroad of New Jersey with offices in New York. He is thirty-four years of age and is well known in the borough, although he has not been active in political affairs. His father, A. A. Ward, was for many years warden of the Union county jail at Elizabeth. Mr. Ward is a graduate of a commercial college, and is a skillful penman. He has lived in the borough for the last six years, and is held in high esteem in that community.

John Lloyd, of Harrison avenue, is probably better known than his colleague on the ticket. He is employed by the Cronk Manufacturing Company and conducts that concern's branch office on North avenue. By trade he is a boss builder. He was born at Orange, N. J., in 1863, and removed to this city in 1892.

In the fall of 1901 he ran for Council in the First ward, but was defeated. Subsequently he removed to the borough. At one time he was connected with the John Gill Corps of Orange, an Independent-Republican organization. In the campaign of 1892 he exposed Democracy and cast his first Democratic vote for Grover Cleveland. He is a member of the A. O. U. W., the Heptasophs, the K. G. E., and is affiliated with the Union labor organization. He is an industrious and energetic citizen.

An Up-To-Date Move.

The up-to-date methods which predominate the Jersey Central are again shown in the placing in service a business men's fast express for Philadelphia, which leaves from the station foot of Liberty street, New York, at 6 p. m. each weekday, arriving at Reading terminal at 8 p. m. A new morning train leaves Philadelphia at 9:30 a. m., arriving in New York at 11:30 a. m. Another move is the arranging of a fast through service between Easton and Philadelphia, making the time between the points in less than two hours. The New Jersey Central has recently announced that beginning about May 1, there would be operated an hourly service between New York and Philadelphia, and that all trains would run direct to the Reading Terminal, obviating the change of cars at Wayne Junction. c

HOW RARITAN RIVER OVERFLOWS ITS BANKS

Sketch of the Floods That Have Swept Down Upon New Brunswick.

RESULTS OF BIG STORMS.

SOME IDEA OF BULK OF WATER NEEDED TO CAUSE A FRESHET.

John P. Wall Writes an Interesting History of the Subject for the New Brunswick Home News.

A timely and interesting sketch of the history of floods in the Raritan river has been written by John P. Wall, of New Brunswick, for the Home News, of that city. People in this vicinity have always been accustomed to reports of overflows in that stream following a severe rain storm, but a few have knowledge of the great devastation wrought through this agency in the past.

Lack of gravel and sand and also the deforestation and consequent small storage of its watershed is accountable for the suddenness with which the stream washes over its banks.

The minimum flow of the Raritan, as observed at the Delaware and Raritan dam, about five miles above New Brunswick at a very dry time, was 180 cubic feet per second. On rare occasions it has been known to be as low as 122 cubic feet per second. The river is bank full at 7,000 cubic feet per second discharge, and nothing less than 8,000 cubic feet is regarded as a freshet.

The rise at New Brunswick is about one foot less than at Raritan Landing. A rise of thirteen feet at the Landing is equal to a flow of 52,000 cubic feet per second, and a rise of four feet is equal to a flow of 7,500 feet, so that it is necessary to have a rise of more than four feet to cause a flood. The flood of 1882 had a rise of twelve feet at New Brunswick and about sixteen feet at Bound Brook. This is recorded as the greatest flood of the century, although the flood of 1810 is claimed by some to be its equal.

According to the Pennsylvania Gazette, published in Philadelphia, a flood during the fore part of February, 1733, carried away houses and barns near New Brunswick and the water was many feet high in the dwelling houses at Raritan Landing. At that time water was all over New Brunswick and many fowls were killed although no human lives were lost. A large store house containing 3,000 bushels of wheat alone was swept from its foundations in the same city during the latter part of the same month.

Towns along the streams were visited by floods in 1764, 1783 and 1790. A terrible storm occurred in November, 1810, and lasted for four days. Almost the entire city of New Brunswick was deluged. Every dwelling and store was flooded. In fact the water rose to a height of nearly five feet in some cellars, according to the New Brunswick Guardian and General Advertiser.

A current account in that newspaper stated that some houses were swept away as were also bridges and that flocks of sheep and cattle were lost. At Bound Brook the water was five feet higher than it was ever known to have been. In that place a building intended for manufacturing purposes was carried down the stream and wrecked against a bridge at Raritan Landing.

The flood of July 17, 1865, was the largest of the century except the ones of 1810 and 1882. From the best information obtainable it is believed that the floods of 1810 and 1882 were nearly equal, and the one of 1865 somewhat lower. Other notable floods were the ones of 1832, 1833, 1837, 1858, 1865, 1871, September 18, 1874, October 5, 1877, September 22, 1882, February 12, 1886, July 23, 1887, January 2, 1888, November 28, 1889, March 23, 1890, Janary 23, 1891, January 3, 1892, November 16, 1892, and the flood of February 6, 1896. There were numerous other overflows of the river, but none of a serious nature. The flood of March 23, 1890, lasted five days before the water reached its normal level.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

A large number of faithful Republicans assembled in the borough hall, Saturday evening, and nominated a ticket to be supported at the spring election tomorrow. The meeting was called to order by Dr. P. W. Brakeley, chairman of the last meeting. Dr. Brakeley was again elected chairman and Fred T. Dickerson secretary. The following nominations were made: Councilmen, for three years, A. N. Randolph, Fred Wilcox; for two years, Wilson Fredericks; for one year, J. Newton Apgar. $2,500 was voted for borough purposes and $100 for poor purposes.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will hold a meeting Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Harvey Giles. The Ladies' Home Missionary Society will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Thomas Bodine.

Cloward's famous reproduction of the peasants' "Passion Play" will be given in moving pictures and illustrated songs in St. John's church Thursday evening, March 13. The play will start at 8:30 and the doors will be open at 8 o'clock.

Barney Hagins, of Somerville, has secured the position of gate tender at the Washington avenue crossing, in place of Michael Gallagher, who has been transferred.

An unusually large congregation was present at both services in the Presbyterian church yesterday. The pastor preached a stirring sermon at both services.

The members of the Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club will practice this evening in preparation for a musicale they contemplate giving in the near future.

Lewis Mattox and family have moved from their house on Front street to the McGovern house on North avenue.

Rev. Father Zimmer, of Raritan, will deliver a lecture in St. John's church tomorrow evening. Admission will be free.

Those interested in baseball are beginning to plan for early practice, so as to get in shape for the summer season.

Dr. and Mrs. Runkle, of New York, spent Saturday in town making arrangements to come here next summer.

Garretson & Gray's sawmill is in active use now and large quantities of timber is being cut.

Good congregations were present at the services in the Methodist church yesterday.

Mrs. David Fisher, of Bound Brook, spent Sunday with Mrs. John Logan.

William Sumner, of New York, visited friends in town yesterday.

Harry Swackhamer entertained out-of-town friends yesterday.

James Worten, of New York, visited in town Friday.

NEW MARKET.

A business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society, of the First Baptist church, was held after prayer meeting Friday night and the following officers were elected for the semi-annual term: President, J. M. B. Pyatt; vice president, Miss Irene Day; secretary, Miss Ethel Garretson; treasurer, John Nelson.

For the past few days the roads from here to South Plainfield have been impassable on account of the mud which in some places reaches up to the wagon hubs.

Music for the reception by Friendship dancing class tomorrow will be furnished by the Misses Emma Nelson and Irene Day and Charles Meeker.

Regular services were held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday. The pastor preached at both services.

The monthly meeting of the Farther Light Society was held in the First Baptist church Saturday afternoon.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The trolley company had its usual hoodoo yesterday afternoon. Car No. 71 from Elizabeth, due at Park avenue at 1:15 o'clock, broke a king-bolt at the switch near the avenue and jumped the track. Before the wrecking crew could be summoned another car was off at Leland avenue. Passengers were obliged to change cars around the Park avenue wreck in mud about six inches deep. This caused many unpleasant things to be said about the company in general.

The subject of Rev. G. M. Shott's sermon at the Baptist church, Sunday morning, was "Measuring the Temple, the Altar and the Worshippers"; in the evening "Cleansing the Lepers." Both services were well attended, considering the weather.

Miss Sadie Reger and Miss Ella Squier, of the corps of teachers in the public school, attended the State Normal Alumni Association banquet at Hotel Marlborough, New York, Saturday.

The auction sale of the horses and wagons of John B. Anderson, Saturday afternoon, was well attended and everything brought a fair price. H. Hand, of Plainfield, was the auctioneer.

Mrs. Ann Cleaver, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks, is reported as being somewhat improved.

Miss Florence Wade led an interesting weekly meeting of the Epworth League in the Methodist church last night.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Terry, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with Mrs. Terry's mother, Mrs. James Buckley.

James McNair, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday with his friend, Richard Robison.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Notice was given at the church, yesterday, of a Farther Light's meeting, which will be held next Friday evening at the home of Mrs. David Bigley.

Miss Marjorie Voorhees, of Metuchen, spent Sunday with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Manning, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter LaTourrette removed their goods today to the Piatt homestead on Clinton avenue.

Miss Gussie Clawson, who has been ill for some time with tonsilitis, is recovering.

Richard Elliott is confined to the house by illness.

David Blackford, of Clinton avenue, is convalescent.

Atlantic City the Imperial City.

No other all the year round resort can boast of being the people's recreation ground in the same sense as can Atlantic City, and there is but one reason why this far-famed watering place is a success, and that is because everybody in Atlantic City is for Atlantic City. Its hotel men are royal entertainers not alone in the sumptuously furnished hotels and the well laden table, but for actual enlivenment of their guests there are always novel pastimes. Golf and boating and bathing are but a few of the ways of amusement, but something unique is now being arranged for Easter week in the form of a bench show. Not only have many of the entries at the late New York dog show arranged for the Atlantic City show, but many kennels which have never heretofore been exhibited will compete here. One of the big piers on the board walk will be the exhibition hall, and this together with Atlantic City's far known attractions will interest multitudes Easter week. The New Jersey Central has the finest three-hour service from New York imaginable, and if you are going to the famous resort send to General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt, 143 Liberty street, New York city, for leaflet No. 84, which shows trains and other information. c

Churches Opened Again.

The small-pox epidemic at Hackettstown is about at an end and the churches in that place held services a week ago for the first since the outbreak.

For Foreign Missions.

The offering at the Crescent Avenue church yesterday was for the foreign missionary work conducted by the denomination.

Babcock building. The members say that it would take thousands of dollars to cover the loss of the records of the hundreds of speeches made at the various meetings of the Board.

Among the members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., who lost their uniforms in the fire at the Babcock building were H. W. Marshall, B. F. Coriell, N. Y. Dungan, Asa Collier, Samuel Bingaman, R. A. Meeker, H. A. Smith. G. M. Macintrie, W. H. Cawley, Edward Nelson, W. H. Freeman, W. E. MacClymont, Caspar Bolsterli, W. R. Codington, J. E. Hillpot, Dr. J. B. Probasco, J. A. Smith and Henry Woodland. Mr. Collier was the only member who was insured.

The coolness displayed by Miss Mary Price, who occupied rooms jointly with her sister, Miss Jennie Price, on the third floor of the structure, was somewhat remarkable. Knowing that the building was afire she took ample time to dress in the best clothes she owned, even arranging her hat and lacing her shoes. Before leaving the room she gathered together a lot of valuable papers and some prized things, which she packed in a dress suit case. With this she sauntered out of the building.

Her sister, Miss Jennie Price, was not so fortunate. She escaped with only a wrapper thrown loosely over her night attire. A large quantity of material used by the latter in dressmaking was destroyed. Miss Mary Price, who conducts a summer resort at Mt. Pocono, left the city on a visit to friends yesterday.

Among the Plainfielders who were aroused at an early hour last Thursday morning by the fire at the Babcock building were Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Smith, of West Fourth street. Mrs. Smith was awakened at 3 o'clock by the smell of smoke which the wind was driving with much velocity toward her home. She aroused her husband and told him of the circumstance and he immediately detected the odor. That was one hour and twenty minutes before the alarm was sounded, and to many people it seems strange that the fire was not discovered before 4:20 o'clock.

Mr. Maltby, of the firm of Miller & Maltby, fire insurance adjusters for the insured, who have the contract to settle the loss sustained by Woodhull & Martin, is in Plainfield today working toward a settlement of the loss.

Field Secretary to Speak.

Rev. Dr. W. W. Clark, field secretary for the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed Church of America, will occupy Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck's pulpit in Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning. Dr. Clark spoke in Trinity church last spring and his sermon was greatly enjoyed by all who heard him.

What W. D. Murray Says.

William D. Murray, of this city, in speaking of Commander Wadhams says: "I consider him one of the most eloquent men I have ever heard and he is a fine story teller." Commander Wadhams will appear in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course this evening.

Somerset Without Meeting Place.

There was a joint meeting Friday evening of Benevolent and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., in the rooms of the former in Washington Hall. Somerset Council has not yet secured a new meeting place.

Making Carpets on Order.

Woodhull & Martin, while temporarily out of business, are still making carpets on order. Today they are making a handsome carpet to be laid in St. Stephens' church, Netherwood.

Another Pulpit Supply.

Another divine secured to fill the First Baptist church pulpit while Pastor Yerkes is away, is Rev. E. H. Johnson, of New York, who will preach Sunday, March 30.

Royal Arcanum Entertainment.

Congressman Suggests an Interesting Style of Getting Up Congressional Reports.

"Isn't it a pity," said a congressman the other day, according to the Washington Star, "that we haven't an official in the house and senate to act as a kind of city editor for the Congressional Record, to take the daily reports of the routine speeches and proceedings and write into them a little local color?

"To illustrate, we will imagine there is a running debate in the senate; Senator Dash has just flung a sneering taunt at Senator Blank because in the latter's state they have a playful habit of lynching people upon every provocation. Now, I would have the report in the Record so edited as to read something like this:

"'A moment of awful silence followed Senator Dash's sally, broken only by an occasional gasp in the gallery, as some listener caught his breath. Then Senator Blank took the floor to defend his fair commonwealth, towering in wrath before the shrinking, shivering senate watching him tower. Shaking a long, lean forefinger at his antagonist, Senator Blank launched forth in reply. As his voice, laden with the thunder of righteous indignation, crashed through the chamber it shook the mighty structure to the dome, detaching the loose flakes of verdigris upon the bronze goddess surmounting it until they showered in a metallic cascade upon the glass ceiling of the senate. He said: (Here follows two columns).

"Now that kind of a description would enliven the Congressional Record and put some spice into it, and would read mighty well in the rural districts."

THEY WERE ALL JOHNS.

The Unique Revenge of a Chinaman Upon a Party of Offensive Congressmen.

Representative Mercer has recently returned from a trip to the Philippines and tells the story of how a Chinaman in Luzon avenged himself upon the party of which he was a member for a fancied insult, says the Chicago Chronicle.

"You know," said Mr. Mercer, "in this country—in fact, most everywhere, we always call the Chinaman 'John.' Why we should address him as 'John' I don't know, but we do, nevertheless. Well, when our party struck Mindanao we met a well-to-do Chinaman who took exception to our calling him 'John.' He had a name—I think it was Ching Fang, but no matter—and he wanted to be called by it. He had his revenge, however. He went among the natives and told them that a party of rich and influential Americans had arrived and that we must be treated with courtesy and consideration. If they (the natives) wanted to please the Americans and make a good impression they should say whenever they saw an American: 'Hello, John,' 'Howdy, John,' 'Glad to see you, John,' and under all circumstances call the Americans 'John.'

"Sure enough," added Mr. Mercer, "as soon as we reached the heart of the village we were greeted on all sides with 'Hello, John;' 'Can we show you around the island, John?' etc. And even now all over Mindanao the American is called 'John.' Old Ching Fang certainly scored one on us."

SHARK BITES CABLE.

One of the Agencies to Which Interruption of Trans-Oceanic Messages Is Due.

An electrician of a submarine cable company a few days ago said that few persons understood to what various agencies interruptions in telegraph cables were due. He said that fish bites was one cause that often interfered with submarine cable work and sometimes prevented communication altogether until remedied, says the New York Times.

"The cables in shallow waters have been the greatest sufferers from this cause," he said, "but recently there was an interruption in the cable of the Eastern Extension Telegraph company between Sydney and Nelson, Australia. The cable was brought up from a depth of 330 fathoms and was found to contain a tooth firmly imbedded in the core of the cable. The core was protected with the usual sheathing of thick iron wires and outer covering. It was found on examination that the tooth was that of a shark."

This seemed to be a remarkable depth for a shark, but investigation showed that five varieties of sharks are known to exist at the depth of 300 fathoms and one at 500 fathoms.

Some Expensive Furs.

An expert declares that it would be less costly to cut out a garment from ten dollar bills than to cut it from furs. One silver fox skin not more than two and a half feet long recently sold in London for $3,000; A black fox skin at the Paris exposition brought $2,700; a man who has cornered the chinchilla market values his present holdings at nearly $500,000; the price of ermine, thanks to the coming coronation in England, is almost fabulous. No fewer than 120 ermine skins are required by each peer for his coronation cape and collar, and it is questioned if at any price the supply will equal the demand.

A Misnomer.

The car in which Prince Henry is to travel is named the Idler, but the programme indicates, says the Chicago Record-Herald, that he is to be kept pretty busy.

Heir to the Dutch Throne.

The next heir to the Dutch throne is the young grand duke of Saxe-Weimar, one of the richest royal personages in Europe. He is the grandson of the late Grand Duchess Sophia. Next comes Prince Albert of Prussia, the regent of Brunswick, who is also exceedingly wealthy, as in addition to his father's fortune and large estates he inherited about 80,000,000 marks from his mother, Princess Marianne of the Netherlands. Prince Albert has three sons, so there is really no prospect of a failure in the male line of the house of Orange.—Public Opinion.

Infection Carried by Books.

Experiments have shown that the bacillus of cholera will live in books 48 hours or more, that of diphtheria 28 days, that of tuberculosis 103 days. Hence it is essential to disinfect books under some circumstances. The disinfection can best be done by an exposure to steam, under pressure, for 40 minutes. No damage is done to the pages. Pasteboard and linen bindings recover their shape after pressing. Formic aldehyde and sulphur vapor are less satisfactory than steam.—N. Y. Sun.

'Twas a Soft Piece.

There is a story told of an Irishman who was arrested for throwing a piece of coal at a friend and breaking his jaw. When the case came up in court the prisoner admitted his guilt.

"You admit, then," said the judge, "that you threw the piece of coal that broke the man's jaw?"

"Yis, yer honor," was the reply; "but"—in an excusatory tone—"it war soft coal."—Minneapolis Journal.

Grocery Repartee.

"If I had an engagement with you," said the clerk, "it would be this."

And he gently placed a date with a peach.

"No," answered the pretty cashier, "it would be like this."

And she laid the date beside the canned lobsters.—Baltimore American.

As a Safeguard.

Diggs—I helped my wife put down a carpet yesterday.

Biggs—What part of the job did you do?

"Oh, I did all the work. My wife merely stood by to see that I didn't put my thoughts into words."—Chicago Daily News.

Caught Something Painful.

She—Do you believe in this theory about spreading disease by kissing?

He—Well, they say there's something in it.

"Did you ever catch anything by kissing a girl?"

"Yes, once; her father saw me at it."—Stray Stories.

Impressing the Jury.

Tenderfoot—Er—what does the judge intend to do with that shotgun?

Alkali Ike—Aw, he'll use that when he gives a charge t' jury.—Ohio State Journal.

LATE MICROBE LORE.

Bacteria Are Now Said to Be of Vegetable Growth.

European Scientists Declare That a Person's Character May Be Determined by the Acuteness of the Sense of Smell.

[Special New York Letter.]

THE time is long since past when anyone would say: "Oh, I do not believe in microbes;" also when people were frantic when they touched the strap of a street car without gloves for fear of infection from contact with the small plagues. Everybody has settled down to the knowledge that the microbe is with us, as he has always been, and—to stay, also that we are seldom injured by contact with the minute organisms. Our one comfort in the consciousness of their constant companionship is that the tribe on the whole does much more good than harm. Some varieties are never hostile to health and even those considered most deadly have their uses, if their activity is not directed into wrong channels.

Bacteria absorb their food through their outer surface, thus furnishing incontrovertible evidence that they are vegetable growths. Again, the vegetable microbes, or bacteria, may be distinguished from Protozoa by their method of reproduction. This takes place through budding or splitting, like some plants of a low order, the Algae. They have no sex. At a certain period of their growth they become elongated to nearly twice their normal length, a contraction across the body, midway between the two ends, occurs and increases until a separation takes place, when we have two distinct bacteria instead of one. This process is quickly duplicated in each of the two and is so rapid that it is easily observable through a microscope. Starting with one organism, millions may come into existence within twenty-four hours. This accounts for the quick rise of temperature usually observable in fever patients.

Ordinarily, bacteria attack only tissues already diseased, because of the law of destruction to all decaying substances in order that they may be absorbed by healthy structures. The three general divisions of bacteria, the bacilli or rod-shaped coccii, or spherical and vibrio, or corkscrew-shaped. Extremes of heat and cold which would kill a man are as nothing to them. Only sudden changes of temperature seem to affect them. If water is to be sterilized, it must be brought to the boiling point and kept there for at least fifteen minutes. Even then the spores or germ centers are not destroyed. After an hour, during which time they have had a chance to develop, the water should again be boiled for the same length of time, when it is probable that no microbe will be left alive in it. Filtering is a popular method of disinfecting drinking water because it may be accomplished quickly and with little trouble, but this process is attended with danger, for at a certain stage the pores of the filter are apt to become clogged with germs which press through the water, rendering it much more unfit for use than when placed in the filter. To be reliable a filter should be made of powdered cleerice, sponged iron or carbonized bone and a microscopical examination of the water be made frequently to ascertain whether the apparatus works properly. It has been proven that, as a rule, spring water upon its first appearance at the surface is perfectly pure. The few exceptions to this rule are found when the water has passed through infected ground. Pure water when brought in contact with the air is almost immediately fructified by some form of bacterial life.

Often, however, water below the surface becomes infected from some drain or pool where disease germs have found lodgment. In many instances the devastation wrought in whole communities by typhoid or diphtheria have been traced to such sources.

A curious discovery is said to have been made that a person's character may, to a certain extent, be determined by the acuteness of his sense of smell, and, indeed, that this forms a surer test than phrenology, physiognomy or any of the ordinary methods of character reading. An instrument, the olfactometer, has been constructed which measures the sense of smell. Upon a rod is mounted a screen of colorless metal which is pierced in the center by two horizontal inhaling tubes, the ends of which, projecting in front, fit into the nostrils of the person being tested. The opposite ends are graduated into divisions of five millimeters each. Hollow cylinders filled with some odor of known quantity and strength slide over them. The odor is more plainly discernible the further the cylinder is drawn toward the back of the instrument. At the first mark, the inhaled air has passed through five millimeters of perfumed surface before entering the nose. At the next mark, through ten millimeters, and so on. Thus one is enabled to easily determine the keenness of a person's olfactory nerves without much difficulty. It is possible to place different scents in each cylinder thus enabling the subject to inhale two distinct odors at the same time. These usually destroy each other and no sensation is experienced. The same is true in the outer atmosphere. We could hardly endure the air around us at times if different scents did not neutralize each other. Objects especially inimical to health have often an odor which overbears all others and thus give us warning of their presence.

NEW WAY OF TESTING THE OLFACTORY NERVES.

body should be kept in as perfect condition as possible in order to exclude them. To germs we are indebted for the destruction of the quantities of dead material, both animal and vegetable, which would otherwise be distributed over the surface of the earth. This is the proper mission of some of them and while confined to it they are among man's greatest benefactors. That their increase may be retarded, artificial means should be employed for the destruction of waste material upon which they thrive and which is the reason of their being. It has been found very difficult to designate with accuracy the line between Sapogena, or those germs generally regarded as harmless and the Pathogena, or disease producing germs. The former are supposed to obtain their sustenance entirely from dead and decaying substances, while the latter, man's deadliest foes, feed on diseased living tissue.

It is said that diphtheria germs are sometimes found in the throat of perfectly healthy persons, a long time after their exposure to the disease without having caused any disagreeable symptoms. The origin of bacteria has not yet been satisfactorily determined, although years of patient labor have been given to the question. The old theory generally accepted that bacteria were of spontaneous growth has been proven fallacious by Pasteur, who showed conclusively that life has always sprung from life and that these organisms are generated from those of their own kind. The theory that life was brought to our planet from some other contributes nothing toward the real solution of the original problem. There are Degenerates are said to possess a very limited sense of smell. This in normal persons is three times as acute as in criminals. In thieves, it is dull, in degenerate women much more so. A comparison is also made between people who enjoy the odor of musk and those who prefer violet and other delicate perfumes. The greater portion of our food would be tasteless were we unable to smell it. Degeneracy is further indicated by obtuseness in the sense of touch. The touchometer is a wooden stand, from the circular top of which slender horizontal rods extend. To these are pendant fine silk lines, to which are attached small bits of elder pelt covered by metal of varying weight. The subject is blindfolded and the weights allowed to touch the hand. The weight of the lightest peth consciously felt determines the subject's acuteness of touch. Psychologists divide this sense into two parts, pressure touch and temperature touch, thus giving a sixth sense. The temperature touch is easily determined by use of a graduated instrument resembling a thermometer, one end of which is immersed in hot water. Dullness of any sense at birth is said to indicate a corresponding lack of moral acuteness. All rules have their exceptions and accident and disease is more often than degeneracy the cause of dullness of the senses. In fact, disease is too often the cause of immorality, and we would do well to study microbes versus morals.

EDWARD JULIEN.

HOW TO VIEW LIFE.

Not as a Goblet to Be Drained, But Rather as a Precious Measure to Be Filled.

President Hadley, of Yale, in an address to the students, recently, used an illustration that will bear thinking about by every young man, in or out of college to-day. He spoke of the eager hopes of those before him, and of how much each expected to get out of life; but he gave them, instead, a higher thought. "We think of life," he said, "as a goblet to be drained; is it not rather a measure to be filled?"

There is the whole difference between a wasted life and the successful one in that short sentence. The world forever needs, forever values, the men who fill existence with value for themselves and others. "What do I get out of it?" is the worst and in the end the most hopeless motto a man can have. Life, if we set ourselves to drain it, is a pitifully shallow cup. It holds a few pleasures, bitter often in the after taste, a few brief joys, a little selfish ambition and happiness, but no more. All through the ages, the men, from King Solomon down, who have drained the goblet have found it unsatisfying, and have bewailed the fact.

PRESIDENT HADLEY.
(Head of Yale, Whose Advice to Young Men Is Worth Taking.)

But the measure to be filled—that, says the Wellspring, makes life a different thing. How much high achievement, pure aspiration, noble deed, unselfish fellowship, a man can put into life, and yet find room for more! The biography of every great man teaches us how much the measure may be made to hold. Lincoln's measure, Gordon's measure, Moody's measure—how deep, how satisfying they were! Such men care nothing—and why should they care?—for what they get out of life; for their whole thought is occupied with what they can get into it. Life is shallow only when we are seeking to exhaust it; it enlarges as we seek to fill it, always. A goblet to be drained—a measure to be filled—which shall he choose that life shall be? For the choice is each man's own.

THE LATEST AIRSHIP.

To Be Brought to England and the United States by Its Designer, M. Santos-Dumont.

M. Santos-Dumont, upon his reception in England by the newly-founded Aero club of Great Britain, discussed his forthcoming experiments with his new airship that is in course of building for use in 1902. It will be the seventh and largest machine he has yet employed. It will be fitted with two petrol motors of 45-horse power each, as compared with the 16-horse power motor of the

M. SANTOS-DUMONT.
(Young Brazilian Who Is Making Aerial Navigation a Success.)

previous vessel. At present he has decided to carry out his experiments upon the lines in which he has been so successful. It is his contention in connection with navigable balloons that aeroplanes should not be used. M. Santos-Dumont thinks that petrol will be the sole power employed for aerial traffic, since with a petrol motor half the motive power is derived from the air, thus minimizing the weight of fuel to be carried. Electric and other motors must carry all motive power in bulk. The outer balloon of No. 7 will be cigar-shaped as before, but it will have two inner cases instead of one. There will be no framework inside, the material being kept rigid solely by pressure. M. Dumont intends continuing his experiments with machines with a carrying capacity of one person only for the present.

PRINCE HENRY'S VISIT.

Its Significance Explained by John A. Kasson, Ex-Minister to the German Court.

John A. Kasson, the only living ex-minister to Germany, discussing the visit of Prince Henry to this country, has said:

"The visit is significant in that it marks a purpose on the part of his imperial majesty the German emperor to signalize his friendly feeling for the United States.

"There is a growing commercial rivalry between the Americans and the Germans. They are close competitors in many markets, and it is a matter of common knowledge that ill-advised utterances of hasty and irresponsible writers and speakers

HON. JOHN A. KASSON.
(Only Living Ex-Minister to the Court of Germany.)

have at times tended to sharpen this competition.

"By this visit of Emperor William's brother an epoch of courteous and amicable endeavor is inaugurated. It will be impossible hereafter to charge any animosity to the German government on account of the natural striving of the German people to excel in their commercial enterprises.

"It has become the custom of governments in Europe to mark these eras of international cordiality by such visits. The compliment intended is not only directed to the president and his administration, but to the whole people of the United States. There is no doubt that Americans, without regard to party, will receive this visit in the same amicable spirit which made its conception possible. There is such a large percentage of the citizenship of this country of German extraction that a cordial reception was assured in any circumstances; but the fact that the whole people understand the chivalric intentions of the German emperor will add to the pleasure and cordiality incident to the entertainment of Prince Henry.

"I would not like to say more than that this visit will maintain a friendly international spirit, although it will in no wise restrict the mutual competitive efforts to master the markets of the world through excellence of product."

INDIANA MAN WANTED.

First Assistant Postmaster Generalship Offered to Harry S. New by the President.

Harry S. New, of Indianapolis, a member of the executive committee of the republican national committee, has been offered the place of first assistant postmaster general, to succeed William M. Johnson, of New Jersey, who has resigned. Mr. New is a native of Indianapolis, where he has been the publisher of the Indianapolis Journal for several years. He has been a member of the Indiana state senate since 1896, and served as a captain in the Seventh army corps during the Spanish war. Mr. New's work as a member of the republican national committee during the last campaign brought him the thanks of President McKinley and the present president for his valuable services to the republican party. The tender was made when Mr. New was in Washington several days ago, and at the president's request he is thinking it over. Mr. New is now in Indianapolis and declines to discuss the matter.

Vast Cave in Montana.

Montana's latest natural wonder is a vast cave, which has just been discovered about 50 miles east of Butte. A large river with a cataract of about 100 feet was explored for a distance of several miles without finding its source or outlet. A few articles of stone and copper utensils and some bones were picked up in one of the large apartments explored.

DAINTY TRIFLES.

Art Nouveau Jewelry and Flower Neck Ruffles.

The art nouveau jewelry is charming and very low of price considering how artistic its designs are. It is particularly adapted to hatpins, muff and chain bags and to those numerous little pendants and ornaments which decorate up to date gowns. The enamels this year are particularly beautiful and form worthy settings for jewels in the old French and Italian styles. Jewels of all the different colors are now being blended together in the most successful manner.

SPANGLED BOLERO.

One of the latest neck ruffles consists of seven bunches of violets and their green leaves. Between each bunch there are tiny frillings, and there are two long accordion plaited cascades of pale lavender liberty silk.

The Louis XV. style is worn very much with decolette gowns, and a modification of this consists in having a waist made of flowered silk with a long sash fastened to it, the sash being also made of the flowered silk. This is worn with a ruffled lace or tulle skirt.

The cut shows a bolero made of black chantilly and narrow black velvet ribbon. To make this buy chantilly or black lace of a pronounced design and pick out the design here and there with silver spangles. The collar is made with a bit of the black lace bordered with a strip of silver spangled goods, which in turn is appliqued with strappings of narrow black velvet ribbon. All around the lower edge of the bolero there is also a fringe of these narrow ribbons, each ending in a tiny rhinestone ornament.

The Craze For White—Useful Tulle Hats.

The hats of the moment are inclined to be small and to be worn over the face.

Frenchwomen sometimes make the mistake of wearing their hats too far over the face, so that the best part of the expression is lost. To be becoming a hat should form some shade for the face, but should also allow the softening effect of the hair to come over the forehead.

The craze for white is also noticeable in hats. White beaver or a mixture of straw and beaver ranks first, while soft straws mingled with chenille are also making their appearance. Demi-saison hats of tulle and silk are now being offered for sale in a variety of attractive shapes. A black hat of this spring and fall description is always a useful addition to a woman's wardrobe.

Hats of ecru lace and insertion trimmed with pale blue and pink promise to be among the season's novelties.

This smart tulle hat may be carried out by any clever woman. Both brim and crown are laid in tiny tucks. The brim is bent in little ripples. The crown is encircled with a narrow velvet ribbon passed through a long buckle and knotted so as to fall over the hair in the back. Over and under the brim on the left side it is trimmed with large pink roses without foliage.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Clever Wrinkle.

Cocoanut for cakes, pies, candy, etc., is usually grated. This is not easily accomplished and takes a long time. Try it in the meat chopper. Pare off the dark rind and proceed as with the apples. A few turns of the crank and the work is done. There are no small pieces left over, no grated fingers, no trouble at all. And the flaky, snowy mass is just right for the making of all sorts of good things.

"Sit down!" Holbin was not a man easily intimidated when conscious that he held winning cards He read the bluff doctor easily, and knew that he was disturbed.

"I must preface my remarks," he began, "by the statement that I am not at liberty to give you the name of my informant in these matters."

"Are you aware, then, that you become responsible should you repeat them?"

"I am aware of no such rule," said Holbin, "at least none that applies to me in this instance; I am most directly affected, since the circumstances involve the good name of Frances Brookin, of whom by her father's will I was made a life-long protector. I shall defend her to the best of my ability, but I think some of her people ought to be willing to share the responsibility. It must not be forgotten that it is by no means settled that I shall accept the propositions of Mr. Brookin's remarkable will."

"That, I must confess, had not occurred to me," said Dr. Brodnar.

"Really? It has not occurred to you that a gentleman may not be purchased like so much merchandise?"

"Do you mean to insinuate, sir, that you did not seek to marry Frances Brookin?" Dr. Brodnar arose, and the question burst from him indignantly; but, restraining himself, he looked towards the inner door and lowered his voice, an action that did not escape his visitor's notice.

"I insinuate nothing. My mother perhaps made a request in my name, but without my knowledge or consent. I have had no chance to decline the alliance, were I so disposed. The arrangement, however, seems to me an excellent one, and I sincerely trust that nothing has happened or will happen to defeat it."

"In the name of God, man, what are you driving at?"

"A man was shot night before last upon our premises and spirited away, whether living or dead it is not known. My informant thinks he is living."

"Who told you such a thing?" The words came almost as a whisper from the astonished doctor.

"He was shot from a window while in the wing-room which opens into the garden. He was struck on the right side of his head."

"Go on!" said the physician, after a pause, and making desperate efforts to be calm. "Let us see how far this wretched informant of yours has lied."

"Lied? So upon the impulse of the moment I, too, believed. But the fame of a woman is sacred, Dr. Brodnar, and this morning I went into that room. Upon the wall in the rear, a little out of line from the window to the chair, in which, it is said, the man who was shot had been sitting, was a bullet mark. On the jagged edges of the hole in the plaster were a few hairs and traces of blood." Holbin unfolded a little package upon the table as he spoke. "Place these under a microscope and verify my statement." Again the doctor was silent; but the look he gave his visitor was so passionately threatening that Holbin paused.

"Go on!" again the command was little more than a whisper.

"There is but one thing more: upon the table I found this cigar, laid aside without having been lit."

"Have you finished?" Holbin looked up, uneasy and surprised.

"Yes."

"Now what would you have of me?"

"I wish you to find out for me the name of the man who was in that room."

"I will get you his name upon one condition."

"And that is?"

"That you will tell me the name of the woman who fired the shot."

Holbin could not, try as he might, conceal the start these words provoked.

"I do not know of any woman in the case," he said.

"I know that you do."

"Dr. Brodnar!"

"Only a woman's tracks marked the soil under that window at dawn the morning after that shot was fired. When I next saw the spot the tracks had been carefully obliterated." Brodnar was still standing and spoke rapidly, as though he feared that he could not restrain himself. Suddenly a bland smile spread over his face. "The fact is," he said, "the shot was fired at me. Does that surprise you?" Holbin's face showed that it did. "The final attack of which Mr. Brookin died," continued the doctor, "was momentarily expected. I spent the night sitting in the poor girl's room at her request, to be within call, her old nurse asleep upon the rug. You may believe this or not, Mr. Holbin, but take my suggestion, and if you doubt the explanation conceal your frame of mind. By the way, lift the lid of the box there on my table; now compare the cigar that you found with those in the box. You perceive that they are exactly alike. I am not accustomed to offer proof of my statements, but I make an exception in your favor, as you are almost a stranger. As for the pretty theory of the pistol-ball carrying blood and hair into the plastering, it evidently springs from an overheated imagination. Blood there is none; and, for the hair, you will find that in all good plaster. But to conclude the matter, Mr. Holbin: if a bullet had taken a piece of my scalp into the wall, the wound would not have healed within two days, and if you will examine my head carefully you will find that none of the scalp is missing." The doctor lowered his head and moved it accommodatingly from side to side.

"Have you any suspicion as to the name of the woman who fired this shot—at you?" asked Holbin, sarcastically.

"A very strong suspicion; with me it amounts now to a certainty. She is a woman who dwells in the Brookin house, and the only mystery left is, how the devil did she get up to the window?" This time Holbin's astonishment was genuine.

"I do not understand."

"She is a woman whose plans might have been defeated had the man who was dimly seen in that room been any other than myself. Not to be misunderstood in the matter, permit me to explain that in my opinion the woman who fired that shot was your mother!" Holbin's first impulse was to denounce the doctor, as a social duty, and take the chances of a personal encounter, but the value of the honest error into which Brodnar had fallen flashed upon him. He affected to understand that the doctor was making the statement as to himself and Mrs. Brookin in a sense not to be taken as earnest, but to be construed as a refusal to explain the mystery. At this moment, when Holbin was taking up his hat and cane to depart, the doctor's assistant within the private room threw the door wide open, and Holbin discovered a man propped in an arm-chair with his head bandaged. The man's back was turned towards the departing guest, and he saw him but one instant. Dr. Brodnar hurriedly closed the door.

"This, sir," said Holbin in a rage, "is infamous! I demand the name of that person."

"Ask your mother, sir."

"I shall have satisfaction for this, Dr. Brodnar! I shall publish these facts!" Brodnar looked upon him with inexpressible contempt. Then a grim smile came and dwelt upon his lips.

"As I understand it," he said, "you must marry to obtain a fortune. If you find satisfaction in blackening the name of some woman, indulge yourself as much as you please; but if you value your life don't venture to handle the name of Frances Brookin in public. If I have no objection to being shot at by mistake while discharging the duties of a family physician, I don't see why you should be rushing around trying to find some man who is not a family physician and who was shot with malice-aforethought. Take my advice, Mr. Holbin," and the doctor's voice lost its playful tone; "don't turn a comedy into a tragedy."

Holbin left the room without a word more. The physician stood a moment in deep thought. The smile returned to his face. "Poor devil!" he said, "his hands are tied." Notwithstanding this decision, he immediately sent a note to Frances informing her that Raymond Holbin had discovered some of the facts connected with the tragedy. He assured her that she had no reasons for apprehension, and outlined his interview with Holbin.

Measured by Music.

A learned scientist has recently shown how the velocity of the wind can be reckoned by noting the musical pitch of the sound given out when the wind blows across a stretched wire. The principal elements on which the calculation is based are the diameter of the wire and the temperature of the air. The length of the wire is immaterial, so long as it is not changed. Every variation in the wind's velocity is faithfully represented by the rising or falling of the pitch of the note sung by the wire.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Looking Ahead.

"Well, Charlie, has your wedding day been set?"

"Yes, old chap. I had my fiancee agree to be married on her birthday."

"That does have a little romantic flavor."

"That wasn't the idea. You see, I was thinking that one present would answer for both anniversaries."—Stray Stories.

CONGRESS IS CLOSE.

Very Rarely Makes Appropriations for War Claims.

Just and Unjust Suffer Alike—Famous King Case, Although Approved by Court of Claims, Still Hangs Fire.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"ALMOST 2,000 bills have been introduced and referred to my committee," says Congressman Thad Mahon, of Chambersburg, Pa. Mr. Mahon is chairman of the committee on war claims, which is regarded as one of the most important committees of the national house of representatives.

"You see there are claimants from every state in this republic," continued the congressman. "Each claimant has a bill prepared covering his case and providing for an appropriation from the federal treasury. There was a time when these bills received more prompt consideration than they do now. The bills are introduced by the various congressman, not because they expect to secure their passage; but in order to satisfy the claimants. If the congressmen were to refuse to introduce such bills, the claimants and all of their friends would be down on that man, and be busy pushing forward some one else for congress. But, although a representative thus introduces a bill, he takes no further interest in it. In the first place nearly all of these war claims originated before some congressmen were born, or while others were in their cradles. The congressmen are interested in matters more modern.

"It may surprise you, but it is a fact, that several hundred bills making claims against the government have originated since and out of the war with Spain. Small and brief as that war was it gave opportunity to quite a number of people to entertain grievances of some sort against the government, and it will be the duty of this committee to examine into the merits and demerits of all of those claims. The older claims do not require so much attention. We are familiar with them. Reports have been prepared and reprinted year after year for so many years that the older members know them all by heart."

"Some years ago, before I became chairman of this committee, a claimant received $63,000 for ice water. It was made to appear to the committee and to the house that the claimant had furnished quite a large consignment of ice to the quartermaster at Jefferson barracks, at St. Louis, Mo.; that the quartermaster did not take the ice from the barges until it had almost melted. This was in July, 1863. The claimant made out what seemed to be a good case, and the bill was passed; but it has always been called the ice water bill.

"One bill, covering a thousand or more items, introduced by Mr. Gibson, has been favorably reported. It is entitled: 'A bill for the allowance of certain claims for property taken for military purposes within the United States during the war with Spain.' That bill will undoubtedly receive consideration. It embodies the most meritorious of all of the bills introduced covering that small war period, and is divided into claims by states. For example, in this one bill there are seven claims from Alabama, and their aggregate is only $5,108. There is one claim from Delaware amounting to $635. Georgia comes forward with 36 claims, aggregating $11,397. Pennsylvanians claim a great deal, there being 51 claims in this one bill, the aggregate being $22,620."

George Fry, clerk of the committee, called attention to the bill No. 8587,

HON. THAD M MAHON.
(Chairman of the House Committee on War Claims.)

making provision for the payment of claims under what is known as the Bowman act, of 1883. This bill is an omnibus bill, like the Spanish war claims bill. The proposed beneficiaries of this bill are all residents of the southern states, and their claims against the government are for damages alleged to have been committed by federal soldiers during the civil war. Some of these claims were brought to the attention of the congress immediately after the close of that war, but a majority of them were filed within the past 25 years.

Opposed to this Bowman act claims bill is the bill making provision for reimbursement to the people of Chambersburg, Gettysburg and contiguous places, for damages sustained when Lee with his army of confederates invaded Pennsylvania in June and July, 1863. The southern congressmen for years have opposed this bill for the benefit of the Pennsylvanians, claiming that their southern claimants are as much entitled to consideration as the northern claimants. It thus happens that the money undoubtedly due to many of the claimants of the south, and to all of the Pennsylvania claimants, remains unappropriated, year after year, because of their antagonisms. As a matter of fact, however, the southern men have no right to make their fight against the Pennsylvania claimants, because all of the Pennsylvania congressmen are ready to allow the southern claims to be paid; but there are numerous other congressmen from northern states who oppose the payments of the claims of the southern people. Thus, while the Pennsylvanians are willing to be fair, the southern men are unfairly attacking them, in order to force consideration of the claims under the Bowman act. It would take upwards of $2,000,000 to pay all of the claims set forth in these two bills, for the Pennsylvanians and the southerners, and all of the just claims ought to be paid. They have been favorably reported from the court of claims. But it seems most likely that they will never be paid. If the government were an ordinary debtor, honest indebtedness could be collected in the courts. But no one claimant is big enough to prosecute the government.

MRS. FRANCES KING.
(A Victim of the Parsimoniousness of Congress.)

As an example of a favorable report on an individual bill of this character the committee clerk handed the writer a report on bill No. 2944, which says: "The committee on war claims to whom was referred this bill 'for the relief of Frances King,' beg leave to submit the following report and recommend that the said bill do pass." The report then goes on to show that the committee on war claims, of a former congress, not being fully and clearly advised of the facts in said claim, referred the same to the court of claims for a finding of facts. The claim has been returned to this committee with the following finding of fact:

"(Court of Claims. Congressional No. 7239. Henry King, v. U. S.)

"This case, being a claim for supplies or stores alleged to have been taken by or furnished to the military forces of the United States for their use during the late war for the suppression of the rebellion, the court, on a preliminary inquiry, finds that the said Henry King, the person alleged to have furnished such supplies and stores, or from whom the same are alleged to have been taken, was loyal to the government of the United States throughout said war."

"(Court of Claims. Congressional No. 7239. Frances King, Widow of Henry King, deceased, v. the United States.)

"Statement of Case.

"The claim in the above entitled case, for supplies or for stores alleged to have been taken by or furnished to the military forces of the United States for their use during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, was transmitted to the court, by the committee on war claims of the house of representatives on the 24th day of January, 1890.

"The court, on March 27, 1893, found that the person from whom supplies were taken, was loyal throughout the war. The case was brought to a hearing on its merits, on the 6th day of May, 1897. George A. King appeared for the claimant, Felix Brannigan, assistant attorney general, for the defense and protection of the interests of the United States."

Note first, that three years elapsed after the claim was referred to the court of claims, before it was found that the claimant had been loyal throughout the war. Loyalty must always be established first in such claims. Three years elapsed, the claimant being aged and growing older and feebler. Loyalty having been at last established, four years more elapsed before "the case was brought to a hearing on its merits." In the meantime the claimant died. The law's delays were too much for him, so he sleeps with his fathers, and his aged widow is still prosecuting the claim.

Three years after the court gave the case a hearing on its merits the report was transmitted to congress, on January 13, 1900, that the claim is a just one. Meantime ten years had elapsed since the bill was first introduced. And now, two more years have gone, since the court of claims reported that the claim was an honest one; but the widow has small chance of living long enough to secure the money due her.

And how many millions of dollars, or how many hundreds of thousands do you suppose that this claimant is struggling for; the great government resisting her at every step? You will undoubtedly be surprised to learn that it is only $395! at the government is unjustly withholding. Here is the official findings of fact, by the court of claims:

"There were taken from the claimant's decedent in McNairy and Hardin counties, state of Tennessee, during the war of the rebellion by the military forces of the United States for the use of the army, stores and supplies as described, which, at the time and place of taking, were reasonably worth the sum of three hundred and ninety-five dollars ($395). It does not appear that any payment has been made for any part thereof."

Your Uncle Sam has owed that money for 40 years, has not paid, and will not pay it. How would you like to have such a debtor?

JILTED BY MOONBEAM

Unhappy Love Affair Leads to Brave's Self-Destruction.

Cree Maiden Rejected Bear-Afraid-of-the-Wolf's Attentions and Then the Sioux Chief Cared to Live No More.

Red Blanket and several Cree Indians, who have been on a pilgrimage to the Bear Paw mountains, returned the other day to Havre, Mont., with the news of the tragic suicide of Bear-Afraid-of-the-Wolf, a full-blooded Sioux Indian, who killed himself with a shotgun. Indian tradition records but few instances of self-destruction, and the suicide will go into history as one of the few cases of its kind on record.

Chided by the members of his tribe, and rejected by Moonbeam, a princess of the much-despised Cree Indian nation, the ardent lover left his tribe camp. When found his body was frozen, and near by were the carcasses of his two ponies, which he killed before taking his own life that he might ride on their spirits to the happy hunting grounds.

The body was brought into camp and for longer than a week the Indians have been in a great state of excitement. According to the custom of western red men, they inflict cruel and barbarous punishment upon their bodies during the lamentation over their dead. For a week these practices have been in progress at the various Cree camps in the vicinity of Havre.

The prominence of the dead chief by birth and that of his squaw, who is a granddaughter of Sitting Bull, together with the sensational and unusual character of his taking off, has prolonged the lamentation until the Crees all through the Bear Paw mountains are very much exercised over the affair, and the medicine men who have been consulted predict the death of Bear-Afraid-of-the-Wolf as meaning that the Great Father will soon give the Cree Indians a land of their own.

The dead chief was a descendant of White Bear, the famous Sioux after whom White Bear lake, near St. Paul, was named.

Twelve years ago Bear met his wife, who is a descendant of Sitting Bull. They were married in the Judith mountains in June, 1890, with much pomp. Drifting for several years from place to place in northern Montana, Bear-Afraid-of-the-Wolf made love to many other Indian maidens, and this caused an estrangement which led to his separation from his squaw. There was but one true love for him, and that was the fair Moonbeam of a band of wandering Crees that Uncle Sam had refused to succor, and who had been ordered by an officer from Fort Assiniboine to return to the Canadian possessions from whence they came.

But Moonbeam had another lover—one of her own tribesmen. Bear was repulsed and rode out of camp a week ago with his two ponies. The searching party three days later found his frozen body, near those of his ponies, with the side of his head torn off with a charge of shot.

Flight of the Highlanders.

Richard Harding Davis relates this incident, which happened while he was acting as a correspondent during the English-Boer war: A regiment of Scotch Highlanders, noted for their bravery in action, during the heat of one battle were suddenly seen to break ranks and run in all directions. The officers as well shared in the stampede, and apparently made no attempts to urge the men under them into line. Their behaviour was a surprise to everybody on the field, and after the thing was over the colonel of the regiment was summoned before Gen. Roberts. "What the devil was the matter with your regiment?" asked "Bobs." "Well," replied the colonel, "there is not a man in the regiment afraid of a Dutchman's bullet, but we were steered into a field literally infested with wasps' nests, and you know, general, we were all in kilts and with bare legs."

New Noses for Everybody.

The latest development in surgery is the molding of noses in paraffin, which is now being practiced in Vienna. In the deformity known as saddle nose the most remarkable results are said to be obtained. The process consists in the subcutaneous injection of paraffin, which before it completely sets is molded into the desired shape. A warmed syringe is charged with the melted compound and the needle is inserted between the eyebrows, just above the root of the nose. Then the compound is injected into the subcutaneous tissues as the needle is slowly withdrawn.

GOLF.

Members of the Jersey City Golf Club are wondering these days what their fate is to be—that is, so far as playing the old Scotch game is concerned. Not long since they were informed that it would be necessary for them to give up the course this spring, as the land was desired for building purposes. Other property offered to the club has been refused, because of its undesirable location, but land adjacent to the present nine-hole course is under consideration.

Interest in golf throughout this State is bound to be stimulated this season because of the official handicap rating which is to be issued. L. H. Graham, president of the New Jersey State Golf Association, says that the list will probably be ready by the last of this month. The committeemen appointed to draw up these handicaps are L. H. Graham and Paul Wilcox. They have already started in on their labors, and requests have been sent to all clubs, asking for lists of the players, names of the captains and chairmen of the golf committees. The New Jersey handicappers are working in conjunction with the Metropolitan Golf Association handicap committee and are keeping in touch with A. H. Larkin. The latter is figuring to have the M. G. A. list out by the middle of April.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Jolly Bowlers will play a five men team from Bound Brook on the old Crescent alleys some night this week. The management of the team is arranging other games to take place in the near future.

The scores in the Y. M. C. A.-Old Crescents bowling match Friday evening were as follows:

INDOOR SPORTS.

The boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. held an athletic contest Saturday morning, the event being a running broad jump. The winner was Howard Craig, with 13 feet 6 inches.

AT THE TRAPS.

Arrangements are being made for a pigeon shoot to be held at Campbell's clubhouse in the near future.

A Place of a Million.

Aristocratic, home-like, comfortable, that tells you all about the gem of winter resorts, Lakewood. Ninety minutes from New York takes you to Lakewood where the wealth, fashion and culture of the country gathers. The hotels there are numerous and cater perfectly to everybody's wants at a reasonable cost. Thousands visit Lakewood at this season to get rid of the doleful and uncomfortable March winds which are an unknown factor in the weather there. Golf, polo, ping-pong, hockey and similar diversements entertain the Lakewood visitor, and if you are interested to know about this famous resort, send to C. M. Burt, General Passenger Agent, New Jersey Central, New York, for the Green Book on Lakewood.

Temporary Change in Choir.

E. Maxwell Honeyman will not be able to sing at the First Presbyterian church for at least six weeks, owing to a congestion of the larynx. His place in the quartette choir was taken yesterday by Morris C. VanArsdale. Mr. Honeyman left this morning for Bernardsville, where he will visit relatives.

Celebrated Banjoist Coming.

Alfred A. Farland, the celebrated banjoist, will appear at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening, April 15.

BETTER ROADS NOW.

Governor Murphy Approves Bills for Increased Appropriations—Other Measures Also Signed.

Governor Murphy has approved the measure increasing the annual appropriation for State aid for road building from $150,000 to $250,000.

Many attempts have heretofore been made to get the road appropriation increased but until this year the Legislature has been chary of the proposition. Already there is a sufficient number of applications on file to use up all the increased appropriation.

Other measures which the Governor has approved are as follows: Senate 16, enabling borough councils to change the name of the borough when sixty per cent. of the citizens petition for it; Senate 18, making it lawful for a municipality to expend not more than $50,000, to remodel the municipal buildings; Assembly bill 109, incorporating the borough of Nutley, Essex county; Assembly bill 151, empowers Monmouth county to establish a branch at Long Branch; Assembly bill 176, annexing a part of Clinton township to Newark.

Out at Last.

Peter Collins, one of Plainfield's oldest and best known characters, was taken from his home in West Fourth street to the Industrial Home, this morning, and Mrs. Jane Tobin, the other inmate of the house, was taken to the hospital this afternoon. The place has just been purchased by S. C. Baker. It was fumigated by Health Inspector Addis and Overseer of the Poor Ayres, this afternoon.

Dr. Peters Tonight.

Tonight Dr. Peters begins his series of meetings in the Park Avenue Baptist church. He is a speaker of rare eloquence and forcible speech. He never minces words, and if he sees a thing to rebuke, it is rebuked though he pinches the king in doing so. It is expected that much good will be accomplished through the meetings so auspiciously begun.

Viewed the Fire.

Chief Hodgison, of the Orange Fire Department, was the guest of Chief T. O. Doane, Saturday. The latter showed the visiting chief the scene of the recent fire in the Babcock building, and it was his opinion that the Plainfield department had done great work in fighting the fire and keeping it within the confines of the building.

Postal Line Finally Opened.

For the first time since the recent heavy storm which resulted in so much damage to telephone and telegraph wires, the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company has connection between this city and New York. In the meantime messages were telephoned to Elizabeth and from that point telegraphed to their destination.

Death of John Furby.

Following the effects of a paralytic stroke which he suffered a week ago, John Furby died Saturday at the home of Leonard Bunn, on Monroe avenue. He was sixty-seven years old and as far as known leaves no relatives. The funeral services will be held from his late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Remembered the Pastor.

A surprise party was tendered to Rev. Scott Wallace at his home Saturday evening. Twenty-five members of his church were present, many of whom made congratulatory remarks, and Mrs. A. Holmes sang a solo. There was a social time and the pastor was remembered substantially.

Located Law Offices.

H. C. Suydam and Harry C. Runyon, who had law offices on the second floor of the Babcock building, have both secured rooms in the First National Bank building. Their safes and what effects they saved were removed there this morning.

E. M. French Home.

Elston M. French, who has been at New Orleans for some time past, returned home Saturday evening. It was his intention to stay longer but urgent business in regard to settling Babcock loss claims, called him to this city.

MacClymont's New Studio.

William E. MacClymont, whose music studio was on the fourth floor of the Babcock building, has rented rooms 4 and 5 in the Codington building at Park avenue and West Second street

Temporarily Closed.

The Turkish baths at Dr. Cooley's sanitarium will be closed to men for the next few days. Notice will be given on their reopening. The women's bath will be opened as usual.

Opened Branch Store.

Foss & Jeter, the Park avenue seafood dealers, have opened a branch store at 230 Park avenue, which will be conducted in connection with the main market.

In Justice Nash's Court.

Justice Nash has issued papers in the landlord and tenant case of Lynch against Roberts, returnable March 17.

Choral Club Meeting.

The Men's Choral Club will meet, this evening, in the parlors of the Park Avenue Hotel.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

B. A. Hegeman, Sr., who has been ill for the past week, is much better today.

Charles Force, of Somerset place, is building an addition to the rear of his house.

Charles W. Burton, of Watchung avenue, who has been seriously ill, has recovered.

E. E. Anthony, of West Front street, left Saturday for Fishkill, N. Y., to be absent a few days.

Mrs. W. Gordon Burton, of Watchung avenue, is visiting her mother in Philadelphia, who is very ill.

Mrs. Manning, of Franklin place, who has been spending the winter in New York, has returned to Plainfield.

Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, went Friday to Atlantic City for rest and recuperation.

Raymond Carpenter, of New York, spent Sunday at the home of his aunt, Mrs. J. K. VanArsdale, of Grove street.

Dr. Charles G. Davis, of Park avenue, has returned home from Philadelphia where he has been practicing dentistry.

Mrs. M. A. Carman, of Franklin place, has returned from Newark where she has been visiting her daughter.

Burton Ford, of Richmond, Va., has been spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Harriot Burton Ford, of Watchung avenue.

Charles Lude, of the David Strauss' fire department, of Newark, was in town yesterday viewing the ruins of the Babcock building.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O.O.F., will meet this evening in the rooms of Queen City Lodge, in Washington Hall, beginning at 8:30.

Miss Mabel A. Woodruff and Harry S. Potter, of this city, went to New Haven, Conn., Saturday to spend Sunday with Mr. Potter's sister.

Edward Morris, who was discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital some time ago, but afterward had a relapse, has returned to his home in Metuchen.

Professor J. M. Stiffler, professor at Crozier University, who preached in the First Baptist church, yesterday morning and evening, was the guest of Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, of West Seventh street, who left Friday for a trip to Florida, were accompanied by their son, Joseph Yerkes, of Central avenue. He will remain about a week.

Choice Lamb and Fish.

Senator Foster, of Washington, and Mr. Loud, of California, live under the same hotel roof. A few weeks ago when one of his constituents had forwarded him a fine lamb, which was served on the Californian's table, he sent a choice cut over to the senator.

"Give him my compliments," quoth Mr. Loud to the waiter, "and tell the senator that this lamb never tasted anything but milk."

The days of the session flew by, and not long ago a waiter appeared at Mr. Loud's elbow one evening, bearing a cut of magnificent salmon. It was sent by Senator Foster.

"But I want to know whether this salmon came from Washington or Oregon," asserted Mr. Loud, with the bearing of a connoisseur.

Soon the waiter returned with the reply: "The senator says it is a Puget sound salmon, and it has never tasted anything but cream."

This satisfied the legislative epicure from California.—Washington Post.

Samoa's Official Chaperon.

The chaperon is becoming extinct over here, but she is an important person in Samoa. She is the constant companion of the taupou, or village guide, who is appointed to entertain strangers and show them the various sights. Each village in Samoa elects a girl for this office, and it is necessary that she should be the daughter of a chief. Her home is provided for her by the village, and she is surrounded by a court of native girls. No man who lives in the village is allowed to enter the sacred precincts, and the taupou goes nowhere without an elderly woman. If the taupou resign her office the chief can appoint another damsel of high degree.—London Chronicle.

Called His Bluff.

Clara—What did papa say when you asked him for me?

Jack—He frowned and said: "Young man, there's the door."

"Then I suppose you got out in a hurry?"

"Not me. I glanced at the door and thanked him for calling my attention to it, and replied that while it was certainly a very nice door I really had no use for it, as you were something to adore and I was willing to let it go at that."

"Then what happened?"

"My little speech hit the spot, and a moment later I had the promise of his choicest blessing."—Chicago Daily News.

Leg Broken in Fall.

As the result of a fall off the rear porch at his home, Harry Schleif, the three-year-old son of Stephen Schleif, is suffering with a broken leg. The member has been encased in a plaster cast and the physician in charge states it will be five weeks yet before it can be removed.

Unity's Special Meeting.

A special meeting of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., will be held in Trades Council Hall, tomorrow evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. It is earnestly requested that all members be present as matters of extreme importance are to be considered.

Will Resume Her Work.

Miss Price, whose dressmaking establishment was destroyed in the Babcock blaze, will meet her patrons as soon as she can secure available quarters. She lost all of her belongings but expects to have everything replaced in a very short time.

Contributions to Missions.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church contributed $30 to the Aribia Mission, which was not reported in the account of last week's meeting. This makes $130 in all that the band contributed last year to missions.

Salamagundi Party.

The members of Miss Grace Hazen's Sunday-school class will give a salamagundi party in Hope chapel. The committee in charge is arranging a programme replete with unique features.

—The Rasores will meet tomorrow morning at the residence of Mrs. Henry E. Bowen, 740 Watchung avenue. The subject will be "Italy," and the roll call will be answered with quotations from Mrs. Browning.

Attending Conference.

Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood, of the local Y. M. C. A., is in Montclair today, attending a conference of secretaries and physical directors of New Jersey associations.

Addison Held for Grand Jury.

Justice Mosher rendered his decision this morning in the case of alleged fraud against John Addison. The latter was held in $200 bail for the Grand Jury.

—Rev. Father Miller, of St. Joseph's church, will preach in St. Mary's church tonight.

Unrewarded Greatness.

"Huh!" said patient Mr. Stubbs, as he betook himself to the woodshed, out of hearing of his wife's volubility, and took up the saw to file it, "I read last evenin' about some man or other that was great because he said nothin' and sawed wood. I been doin' that for 30 years and nobody said anything about me."—Washington Times.

As It Sometimes Happens.

Ethel—I'm engaged to be married, dear.

Mabel—What? You engaged to be married? Why, only last week you wouldn't marry the best man on earth.

"Y-yes, but that was before anyone had proposed to me."—Chicago Daily News.

A Director.

"They tell me that Jim Muggins is one of the directors in a big city corporation now," said the grocer.

"Yes. I seen him las' time I was down to town," said Mr. Meddergrass. "He directs the envelopes f'r the firm."—Baltimore American.

Gratitude.

Mrs. Tunner—My dear professor, I cannot thank you enough for this absorbing course of lectures. While hearing you speak, I have actually been able to entirely forget my sick baby.—Brooklyn Life.

As to Blooms.

"O! yes," said the florist, "the night-blooming cereus is often quite harmful."

"Differs from the blooming idiot, eh? He's usually harmless."—Philadelphia Press.

MASONIC LOSSES CAN NEVER BE REPLACED

Old Gifts and Momentoes and Pictures of Old Members Were All Destroyed.

FIRST LOSS OF ANY KIND

PARAPHERNALIA USED IN 1817 HAD BEEN KEPT IN THE ROOMS.

Records For Last Fourteen Months Were Destroyed—Had the Finest Lodge Rooms of Any in the City or State.

Apropos of the Babcock fire which consumed thousands of dollars worth of tenants' property, something in relation to the Masonic Hall Association which was the heaviest loser of the fraternal orders, may not be amiss.

The organization is composed of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, and Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., Jerusalem Chapter, No. 2 4, R. A. M., and Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T. By a combination of effort and capital the association had furnished its quarters in a lavish manner until the reputation grew that they were the finest equipped in the State. A glance at the interior would have convinced the most skeptical that the truth was being told.

The first thing to catch the visitor's glance was the handsome organ presented to Jerusalem Lodge by the late Henry Lattimer. At the time it was built it was considered the best in this city and cost in the neighborhood of $2,000. The room was also furnished with a piano and handsome wall decorations, while the furniture was of the most costly material and workmanship.

While these in one sense of the word could be replaced there were many other things which money cannot buy. Principal among them were gifts of resolutions and mementoes from other lodges and pictures of old members, composing an interesting collection which had taken years to gather. Among the photographs destroyed was one of Henry A. Cannon, the oldest living member of Jerusalem Lodge, taken many years ago when the lodge was in its infancy. He now resides in Elizabeth and is ninety-two years old.

The lodge Bibles, which were used for years, paraphernalia used at the institution of Jerusalem Lodge in 1817 and the records of the association for the past fourteen months were among the other things which formed food for the flames.

All the paraphernalia used in recent years and many uniforms belonging to members were also destroyed. The loss on these, as has been stated, was $2,000 on which there was no insurance.

This was the first fire which the association suffered and it was the first time any lodge property had been lost in any way. The beginning of the association was marked by the formation of Jerusalem Lodge in 1817. It then had quarters in a building on West Front street where A. M. Griffen's place now stands. From there the lodge removed to VanDeventer's hall across the street and remained until the Babcock building was erected. It now has a total membership of 350 and is in a flourishing condition.

New quarters have been secured for the present in the old Stillman building, which were intended for that purpose when the structure was built. Just what is to be done in the way of a permanent home will be decided upon by the association within the near future.

Foreign Mission Sunday.

The annual offering for foreign missions will be received at the First Baptist church next Sunday morning, at which time Rev. Dr. Rhodes, district secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, will be present and have something to say about the work.

A. O. U. W. Meets.

Dr. Simpson's Lecture.

It is expected that Dr. M. S. Simpson's postponed lecture, which was to have been given at the Y. M. C. Hall this week, will be given about April 1.

Epworth League Rally.

An Epworth League rally will be held in Vincent chapel Friday evening, March 21.

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION.

Was Concluded at St. Mary's R. C. Church This Morning.

The service of forty hours' devotion, which commenced at St. Mary's church, Sunday morning, with high mass at 10 o'clock was concluded this morning with a solemn high mass at 9 o'clock. Father Leo, of Paterson, a Franciscon, was the celebrant. Father Egan, the pastor, acted as deacon, while his curate, Father Farley, served as sub-deacon.

WORE CALICO AND MASKS

LARGE GATHERING AT ANNUAL MASQUERADE AT SAENGERBUND HALL.

Given by Ladies' Society of the Gesang and Turn Verein—Successful Grand March.

The fifth annual masquerade and calico ball, under the auspices of the Ladies' Society, of the Gesang and Turn Verein, was held last evehing in Saengerbund Hall. Like all similar events it was a great success. The hall was crowded with merry dancers, all attired in fancy dress of many colors. A large number of the dancers were masqued, but a few did not adhere to the rule.

It was 10:30 o'clock before everything was in readiness for the grand march. At that hour, the nine women, composing the committee, appeared on the floor in costumes of yellow and black. All were dressed alike and they present an attractive appearance. They were Mrs. Henry Heartle, who led the march, Mrs. Charles Meyer, Mrs. Henry Rummel, Mrs. Herman Klinsman, Mrs. John Retzer, Mrs. Filber, Mrs. John Wirth, Mrs. Kreutzfeldt and Mrs. Henry Bergen.

The march was executed in clever fashion and those who led, as well as all others who participated, received hearty applause. After the march the whistle was sounded and the crowd was divided into sets for a square dance. Then continued the regular programme of dances for the balance of the evening.

Music was furnished by Suhr's orchestra and was very satisfactory. The dancing was continued until a late hour, when refreshments were served. The proceeds will be placed in the treasury of the Ladies' Society.

TO AID ATHLETICS.

Third Class of City High School Will Give Benefit Entertainment.

The third class of the Plainfield High School is arranging an entertainment to be given in aid of the athletic association of the institution. The affair will take place shortly after Easter and will be given in the Franklin School building.

A feature of the prorgamme will be reading of Pope's "Rape of the Lock," which will subsequently be enacted by a number of the members of the class. Those who will take part in this feature of the entertainment are the Misses Lillian Snodgrass, Jean Douglass, Frank VanDeventer, Elsie Brokaw, Jessie Stephens, Jessie Burt and Mary Dunham, and Jose Tweedy, G. L. Babcock, VanWyck Brooks, Harry Slauson, L. Koons, H. Fenno and Walter Cahoone.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CANVASS.

New Brunswick Will Find Out What Children Go to Sunday-School.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, March 11—A novel sort of a census canvass has been decided on among the churches of this city. It will be made for the purpose of ascertaining definitely how many children attend Sunday-school and how many do not, and why not.

A Sunday-school association has been formed, which embraces all the churches. The city will be divided into fifty districts and 100 canvassers will cover the municipality. In this State there are 310,000 children and of this number 225,000 do not attend any Protestant Sunday-school.

Finished His Time.

George Rittenhouse, of New street, has finished his time as an apprentice at the Pond Machine Tool Company plant and will continue to work at the same place as a machinist.

Announcement of Engagement.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Mrs. Augusta Nevius, of West Fifth street, to Daniel Herbert Pound, of West Front street.

Cars Running Again.

The trolley service about the city and borough, as well as between this city and Elizabeth, is now back to its normal condition.

—At Neuman Brothers tomorrow: Fresh tomatoes, crisp celery, Boston head lettuce, cauliflower and cucumbers.

SPRING MEETING OF CONGREGATIONALISTS

Northern New Jersey Conference Assembles at Newark Church Tomorrow Morning.

PROGRAMME PLANNED.

THERE WILL BE ADDRESSES AND A NUMBER OF REPORTS.

Those Who Will Speak at the Sessions Which Last All Day—The Plainfield Church Will be Represented.

The spring meeting of the Northern New Jersey Congregational Conference will be held in the Belleville Avenue Congregational church at Newark tomorrow. There will be a morning and afternoon session. The work of the year will be reviewed. A number of well-known clergymen will make addresses, and committees for the year will be appointed.

Reports which will be submitted will show that there are thirty-six churches in the conference, most of them being in the northern part of this State. There are about 7,000 members in all the churches, and the combined attendance of the Sunday-schools last year averaged 6,500. During the year past the combined offerings of the churches for benevolent purposes amounted to $40,000, and for home maintenance $180,000 was expended. Of the thirty-six churches in the conference five are Swedish churches, one is German and another is colored. The largest church is the First Congregational church in Jersey City, of which Rev. John L. Scudder is pastor. The congregation numbers about 1,067. The second largest is the First Congregational church at Montclair, which has 914 members. The Congregational church of this city, is included in the number.

Rev. Dr. Amory H. Bradford, pastor of the Montclair church, will make one of the principal addresses of the morning session. He will talk on "The Second Service—Its Importance, Its Improvement," and a discussion, which will be led by Rev. J. Owen Jones, of Bound Brook, who has accepted a call to Connecticut, will follow.

Rev. Howard S. Bliss, who recently resigned the pastorate of the Upper Montclair Congregational church to accept the presidency of the Syrian Protestant College, will give an illustrated lecture on the work done at that institution, which is situated at Beirut, Syria. Committees will be appointed before noon and Rev. John A. Dahlgren, of the Swedish Congregational church at Dover, will offer a prayer. A collation will be served during the noon hour, and informal speechmaking will follow.

The afternoon session will begin at 2:15 o'clock and the reports of the officers will be heard first. An address by the guest of the day, Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, pastor of the North Reformed church, Newark, will be next. He will speak on "The Sabbath of the Future," and Rev. A. W. Vernon, of East Orange, will lead an informal discussion of the subject which will follow. Anthony Comstock will talk on "Gambling versus Public Morality," and the closing exercises will follow.

Rev. John L. Scudder, of Jersey City, will act as moderator, and Rev. Dwight E. Marvin, of Asbury Park, will be vice-moderator. Rev. C. C. Collins, of Newark, is the secretary.

ELECTION IN SOMERVILLE.

Both Sides Are Confident of Winning the Fight.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 11—The election in this place is passing off very quietly today, although a good vote is being polled. The Democrats are confident their ticket will win, while the Republicans believe a majority of ballots will be cast for their candidates. The principal fight in this township is that of Former Sheriff Wyckoff and William J. Logan for freeholder.

Played With Matches.

Two young sons of George Green, of West Third street, while playing with matches yesterday morning, set fire to some lace curtains. A dangerous blaze had started and was making good headway when a neighbor saw the flames and by quick work prevented a bad fire. The only damage was to the curtains which were ruined.

Lenten Service at St. Mary's.

Rev. Father Quinn, of Jersey City, will preach at the Lenten service at St. Mary's church, this evening.

ADJUSTING FIRE LOSSES

MEETING OF INSURANCE AGENTS WILL BE HELD TOMORROW.

To Consider Woodhull & Martin's Loss—B. W. Hand Has Made Settlement.

The loss by fire suffered by Woodhull & Martin would have been adjusted yesterday had one of the insurance agents been present. There was just one agent absent. He lives in Bound Brook, and had promised to meet with the other agents, but was detained. It so happened that he represents a majority of the companies involved. The matter was adjourned until tomorrow afternoon, when a settlement will be effected.

The insurance company carrying a policy on the goods of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., has settled with the Council. The loss amounted to a little over $200 and the settlement is satisfactory.

Among the first to have his settlement on fire lost adjusted is Benjamin W. Hand, whose stationery store in the Sebring building was destroyed. The amount was passed upon yesterday by representatives of the British-American Company. W. H. Abbott is the agent holding the policy, which was for $250. The amount settled for is not stated.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., suffered a loss of $2,000 by the fire in the Babcock building. The lodge lost everything it had, including one of the most complete records of lodges in the city. It gave a detailed history of each member, when he joined, received his degrees, etc. The valuable jewels, paraphnerlia and handsome furniture were a total loss. The loss is covered by $1,450 insurance. As yet no adjustment has been effected.

VERY LIGHT VOTE.

Is Being Polled Today in Both Districts of the Borough—Interest is Lacking.

A very light vote is being polled at the borough election. In both the first and second districts the election officers are having an easy time earning their pay for there has been no sign of a rush to cast ballots at either polling place.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, representing the Republicans, and Elston M. French, representing the Democrats, were on hand later than is customary on election mornings but their services were not needed for the interest generally shown in borough elections appeared to be lacking today.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon approximately 250 votes had been cast in both districts, this number being unusually small for such a time of day in a borough election.

FORMERLY LIVED HERE.

Thos. S. Harris Died at His Home in Philadelphia.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Thomas S. Harris, a former well-known Plainfielder, which occurred at his home in Philadelphia a few days ago.

He was a son of John Harris, who at one time operated a soda water manufactory on West Second street, opposite Trinity church, for many years. His wife was Miss Susan Dunn, daughter of Theodore Dunn, another old residenter. The deceased leaves two sons, both physicians in Philadelphia and one brother, Isaac Harris, of this city.

CAPTURED AT HARTFORD.

H. Washington, Wanted on Charge of Bicycle Stealing, Arrested.

Acting under orders from Chief Kiely, the police of Hartford, Conn., arrested, last night, Horace Washington, a colored man who is wanted in this city for bicycle stealing. He left Plainfield the day, over a year ago, his case was being considered by the Grand Jury. Indictments were found against him for the thefts of wheels belonging to Goodwin Beard, Arthur Beebe and Charles B. Morse. He will be brought to this city as soon as the necessary papers can be arranged, which it is thought will take several days.

Lenten Services.

Lenten services will be held in the Church of the Holy Cross at 10 o'clock and at Grace church at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Change of Date.

A. A. Farland, the celebrated banjoist, will give a concert at Y. M. C. A. Hall April 5, instead of April 15, as advertised yesterday.

Dr. Judson to be in Charge.

Rev. Dr. Edward H. Judson, of New York, will have charge of the services at the First Baptist church, Sunday, March 30.

WORKING IN BEHALF OF AMERICA'S BIRDS

The Annual Meeting of the Audubon Society Was Held in This City Last Night.

FOLLOWED BY LECTURE

ALEX. GILBERT, OF THIS CITY, WAS RE-ELECTED TO PRESIDENCY.

The Other Officers Chosen—Report of the Executive Committee Showed One Bill Passed Through the Legislature.

A large and enthusiastic number of people assembled in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church last evening, for the annual meeting of the Audubon Society of the State of New Jersey. When the meeting was called to order by Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, the president of the society, there was not a vacant seat in the body of the place or in the gallery. After a few words of welcome to the members of the organization the president stepped aside while Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, the chairman of the executive committee, read his annual report. During the last twelve months the membership of the society has been doubled and through its efforts one important measure for the protection of birds was passed by the Legislature. In securing the passage of this act, Senator Cross, of this county, used his good offices.

The officers elected for the ensuing year include: President, Alexander Gilbert, of this city; honorary vice presidents, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Hon. C. J Baxter, Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk and Mason W. Tyler, of this city, Mrs. Sophie Bledsoe Herrick, of Bayonne, Mrs. Charles B. Yardley, of East Orange, Frank M. Chapman and Thomas L. James, of Englewood, Wilson Farrand, of Newark, John Gifford and Rev. Dr. Henry VanDyke, of Princeton. James M. Green, of Trenton, Hon. John W. Griggs, of Paterson, George Pfeiffer, Jr., of Camden, Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, of Trenton, and Austin Scott, of New Brunswick; secretary and treasurer, Miss Julia Scribner, of this city; executive committee, Rev. A. C. Nickerson, chairman, the Misses Caroline Haviland, Anna Haviland, Mary A. Mellick and Florence Tweedy, and Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead, Mrs. David Hall Rowland, Charles F. Abbott, Henry M. Maxson, Austin C. Apgar, Andrew J. Gavett, Charles A. Shriner, William M. Stillman and Waldron D. W. Miller.

At the conclusion of the business session, A. Radclyffe Dugmore, of East Orange, gave an illustrated talk on birds. He is well read on bird lore and his address proved unusually interesting to those belonging to the society. For some time past he has devoted many leisure hours to cultivating the acquaintance of birds, whose habitations are within a radius of some fifteen miles of his home, and in doing so he was enabled to get many excellent pictures of these creatures. These photographs he produced with the stereopticon.

Mr. Dugmore described the methods of nest builders and the instinct shown by the little creatures in making their homes. He also showed some views illustrating how he had succeeded in taming various birds, and these were most remarkable.

Col. Gilmore at Elizabeth.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, March 11—Col. Quincy O'M. Gilmore, commander of the Second New Jersey Regiment, has taken apartments in the former home of Foster M. Voorhees, on Union avenue. The Colonel is military instructor of the Rahway Reformatory, and his residence in this city will make it more convenient in this respect.

Only Chicken-Pox.

Health Inspector Addis discovered a case of chicken-pox in this city a few days ago. At first it was thought to be something worse. It seems now reasonably certain that there will be no smallpox as a result of the case found in the West End and the victim of which died at the isolation hospital.

No Longer on the Force.

John Adlemann, who was appointed a marshal by the Borough Council some months ago, has severed his connection with the police force.

Endeavor Election.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will be held Friday evening.

'PHONES ALL RIGHT.

Local Telephone Service Has Been Completely Repaired.

All the city telephones which were damaged by the recent heavy storms have now been placed in perfect working order. There are still a number in South Plainfield which are being repaired. The damage suffered by the local exchange was the heaviest in its history. At one time but fifty 'phones, out of the 700 comprising the service, were working.

IRVING SCHOOL'S ART WORKS

PURCHASED WITH FUNDS RAISED IN ENTERTAINMENT.

Pictures Now Assigned to the Different Class Rooms—Other Works of Art.

The pupils in the Irving public school are getting much enjoyment from the art works purchased by the money raised at their entertainment in the holidays. When they arrived, they were placed on exhibition in the assembly hall and made the room quite an art gallery. The subjects are as follows:

Miss Watson's room, sixth grade, colored photograph of Jungfrau Mountain, Switzerland; Miss Corey's room, fifth grade, colored photograph of Lauterbrunnen Valley, Switzerland; Miss Hughes' room, fourth grade, colored photograph of Niagara Falls; Miss Stillman's room, fourth grade, "The Little Mother," by Feruzzi; Miss Lee's room, third grade B, "Coming from the Hills;" Miss Clark's room, third grade A, "In the Country" by LeRolle Miss Brown's room, second grade B, "Ploughing," by Rosa Bonheur Miss Egan's room, second grade A, "Good Bye," by Elsley; Miss Woods' room, first grade C, "Madonna," by Sichel; Miss Filmer's room, first grade B, "Saved," by Sperling; Miss Griswold's room, first grade A, "The Nursery," by Waterlow; Miss Davies' room, kindergarten, "Innocence," by Bougerau.

Pictures not yet assigned: "Landscape with Cattle," by Van Marcke; "Arabs on the March," by Schreyer; "The Avenue of Beaux Harnais," by Hobbema; "The Gleaners," by Millet.

Large plaster casts of three of Lucca della Robia's panels from his singing gallery in Florence have been bought to be placed on the walls of the assembly Hall, as follows: "The Singing Boys," "The Zither Players," and "The Tambourine Players." There are already two of his panels in the Assembly Hall, "The Cymbal Players" and "The Trumpeters."

LUKEWARM CHRISTIANS

Rev. Madison C. Peters Directed His Remarks Particularly to Professing Christians.

The second week of the evangelistic services at the Park Avenue Baptist church commenced last evening. Rev. Madison C. Peters, the eloquent and forcible divine of Brooklyn, conducted the services and delivered an excellent and helpful address. His subject was "Lukewarm Christianity" and his remarks were directed principally to those professing Christianity who do not live up to the tents of their faith.

At some length he dwelt upon the "blacksliding Christians." Many persons, said he, join the church and become exceedingly enthusiastic in its work for a time. Then their ardor to help in the work becomes cool and finally they give up altogether. This he claimed was due to the fact that they cease praying. A true Christian, he declared never stands still. One professing the faith either makes a glorious advance or an ignominous retreat.

LOSING INTEREST.

Retail Clerks' Association Will Withdraw From State Association.

At a meeting of the Retail Clerks Association, held last evening, A. C. Hoagland was elected president and H. P. Greenwood, vice president, temporarily. At the next meeting this month the members will decide whether to continue the association or not, as most of the clerks have taken but little interest in it. In the meantime the officers will have the local association withdraw from the State association.

Tickets for "Jane."

Tickets for the amateur theatricals to be given by the pupils of the Leal's School, at the Casino, April 3, are on sale at the pharmacies of L. W. Randolph and Armstrong and at Estil's store. The play to be rendered is "Jane." Saturday morning at 9 o'clock the sale of reserved seats will begin at Armstrong's pharmacy.

Miss Theodora Frank, of New York, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. I. H. Boehm, of Somerset street.

HOPE CHAPEL'S BOYS IN MINSTREL SHOW

That Long Talked-Of Performance Will be Given This and Tomorrow Evenings.

THOSE WHO TAKE PART.

THE ENTIRE HOUSE HAS ALREADY BEEN SOLD FOR THIS EVENING.

Will Consist of the Customary Three Parts, Introduction, Olio and a Sketch—Was Arranged Under Direction of W. N. Runyon.

After weeks of careful preparation and earnest effort, the Young Men's Association, of Hope chapel, will present its amateur minstrel troupe to the public this evening. It has been the aim of everyone connected with the enterprise to make it the best affair of its kind ever presented in Plainfield and from advance reports their expectations will be realized. So much interest has already been taken in it that the entire supply of tickets for tonight's performance has been sold and it was found necessary to make it a two night entertainment.

The affair as arranged by City Judge William N. Runyon, who has conducted all rehearsals, will consist of the customary three parts, opening, olio and closing sketch. The first part will be made up of songs and choruses, funny sayings and jokes by the end men and some intricate manoeuvres by the latter. Those appearing in this part will be as follows: Interlocutor, John H. Cose; bones, Fred H. Dixon and Matthew Sweeney; tambos, George B. Cose and Thomas Muir; chorus, Frank Mague, Arthur Sherman, Bertram Sherman, Augustus Feiring, Alexander Muir, Benjamin Evans, Percy Hand, David B. Martin, George Whitly, John Slorah, Claude Roseberry, Irving De Hart, James Montross, Arthur Fritts, Charles Montross, Charles L. Smith, John Gray, Sherman Thompson and George McComb. The soloists will be Messrs. Cose, Feiring, Muir, Sweeney and Dixon.

The olio will consist of vaudeville acts by the association members as follows: "Southern Pastimes" introducing dancing specialty, Firstbrook, Bowers and Lusardi; chin balancing, Alex. Bond; slack wire walking and baton twirling, Frank Shepherd; "Rollicking Ragtime Ripples," Arthur and Bertram Sherman; comedy acrobats, Pope, Hansen and Hickey; banjo, mandolin and ocarina solos, Joseph Loughead.

A mirth provoking sketch entitled, "The Nigger Night School," will conclude the performance. The artists appearing in this part will be as follows: "Dr. Solon Sloe," Thomas Muir; "Deborah White," John H. Cose; "Andy White," Matthew Sweeney; "Pete Persimmon," Bertram Firtsbrook; "Zeke Johnson," Fred H. Dixon, "Sam Snow," Charles L. D. Smith.

The entire performance will be in charge of City Judge Bunyon who will act as accompanist. He will be assisted by Alex. Muir as stage manager. The association is also indebted to W. L. Holbert, of this city, a former professional minstrel, who assisted in the coaching.

To Speak at Memorial Meeting.

Alexander Gilbert, of West Eighth street, president of the Market and Fulton National Bank, New York, will be one of the prominent speakers at a meeting to be held this week in memory of the late Frederick G. Tappan, who was president of the Gallatin National Bank, of New York.

Borough Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate in the borough have been recorded at Somerville: A. I. Smalley and others to Sarah C. Chandler, $500; Peter Voorhees to Cornelius E. Gulick, $1, and William H. Bohl and wife to Daniel S. Vail, $3,800.

No Quarters for W. C. T. U.

The members of the W. C. T. U. have not yet been able to secure another place of meeting. It is reported that the old rooms may be used after the necessary repairs have been made. In the meantime the union will not meet.

F. L. Morse in Brooklyn.

Frank L. Morse, formerly assistant superintendent of the New Jersey Central, is now associated with the management of the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad.

Sunday-School Meeting.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The recent storm has taught its lesson. Telephone and electric light wires should be placed underground. Plainfield already has a system of underground conduits and is talking of extending its service. Elizabeth's City Council recently passed an ordinance requiring the laying of wires underground, and a portion of the work, we understand, has been completed. Here is a chance for Westfield to take a step forward in the same line.—Union County Standard.

Senator Strong's note of warning regarding the danger of scattering the States's surplus with a too liberal hand, has set the Solons to thinking of the future. As the Middlesex Senator truthfully said in his frank remarks in the Senate the other morning, there may come a time when New Jersey will not have the great income which the State now enjoys from corporation taxes. Other States are offering liberal inducements in the way of charter privileges, and may succeed in diverting much of the incorporation business away from this State. In that event the surplus would be needed to pay running expenses, which, of course, as population increases, are growing greater year by year.—Jersey City Journal.

OLD POINT COMFORT, RICHMOND AND WASHINGTON.

Six - Day Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The fourth of the present series of personally-conducted tours to Old Point Comfort, Richmond, and Washington via the Pennsylvania Railroad will leave New York and Philadelphia Saturday, March 22.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

John Wirth, the West Front street baker and confectioner, is making a specialty this week of fine angel cake, layer cakes and pastry. Everything fresh and delivered free of charge.

S. Scheuer & Sons, the West Front street grocers, are offering bargains every week which cannot be duplicated for quality of goods and prices. An inspection of their stock will convince anyone of the truth of this statement.

This is the season of the year when a fondness for flowers increases. Soon the fields will be filled with beautiful specimens, but if you would see a choice assortment of plants, flowers, etc., call on Mrs. Denton at her West Front street conservatory.

The recent fire in the Babcock building, which destroyed among other things many pianos, would mean a far greater loss if the pianos could not be replaced. G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street, can replace the burned instruments with handsome up-to-date ones. An inspection is invited.

Dr. R. J. Shaw is now firmly established in his new store at 207 West Front street and is already enjoying a large patronage from old and new friends. He has a complete new stock of medical toilet articles and is making a specialty of prescription compounding.

But a short time longer and the Plainfield Art Store will remove the opportunity to secure a twenty-five per cent. reduction on all framing work. A large number have secured fine frames at a reduced cost and many have returned the second and third time. Dozens of designs in framing to select from.

THEATRICAL.

An important new feature has been added to Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" at the Broadway Theatre—a great specialty by Harry Bulger and a chorus of 100 young women rendering Dave Reed, Jr.'s new song, "My Princess Zulu Lulu." This was presented for the first time last week and caused something of a sensation. This feature is in keeping with the general aspects of the entire production and can only be described in one word—immense. Although this great spectacular extravanganza has been presented 150 times and entered on its nineteenth consecutive week at the Broadway Theatre Monday evening, the attendance still holds up to capacity and thousands of dollars worth of seats are sold ahead. Only one other attraction presented on Broadway has ever made this record. The matinee performances on Wednesday and Saturday are largely attended by women and children.

Proposals for Furnishing Crushed Stone and Material for Culverts and Crosswalks:

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, at the regular adjourned meeting held February 24, 1902, notice is hereby given that the Committee on Streets and Sewers will meet at the office of the Committee, No. 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, on Thursday, March 13, 1902, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which time and place said Committee on Streets and Sewers will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone, and for furnishing material for culverts and crosswalks as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1902, the bids to state the price per ton of 2,000 lbs, for furnishing the following sizes, viz: Fine screenings, ½ inch clean stone, 1½ inch stone and 2½ inch stone, in such quantities, and delivered at such places in the City as the Street Commissioner may direct

The above must be of the very best quality of trap rock, free from weathered stone, dirt, clay or other foreign matter, and in every way acceptable to the said Street Commissioner.

The stone must be weighed on such scales as the Street Commissioner may direct, and a voucher or weigh-bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or his authorized representative.

Also for furnishing the following materials for culverts and crosswalks:

Cover stone for culverts not larger than 4 ft. by 3 ft by not less than 3½ inches in thickness, per square foot.

Curbing for side walls 16 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 ft. long, per lineal foot.

Curbing for side walls 20 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, flag edge, per lineal foot.

All to be of the best quality hard blue stone and subject to the approval of the Street Commissioner.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Committee on Streets and Sewers will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved

By order of the Common Council and the Committee on Streets and Sewers.

POSTAL BILL PASSED.

House Measure Regarding Rural Free Delivery Greatly Changed.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The bill to classify the rural free delivery service and place the carriers under the contract system, which had been debated in the house for over a week, was passed yesterday, but in a form that completely changed the purpose for which it was framed. Before it was passed the bill was altered radically by its opponents. All the provisions relating to the placing of carriers under the contract system were stricken out, and the salary system not only was continued, but the maximum salary of carriers was increased from $500 to $600 per annum.

As passed the bill classifies the rural free delivery service and fixes the compensation of employees as follows: Special agents in charge of divisions, not exceeding $2,400 per annum; special agents, four classes, graded from $1,300 to $1,600; route inspectors, four classes, from $900 to $1,200; clerks, four classes, from $900 to $1,200. The compensation of carriers is not to exceed $600. Today the postoffice appropriation bill will be considered.

For nearly two hours Mr. Vest (Mo.) addressed the senate in opposition to the pending ship subsidy bill. No member of the body has been accorded more flatteringly close attention than he received. Despite his evident feebleness he spoke with force and fire and at times became brilliantly eloquent.

Mr. Tillman (S. C.) followed with a brief speech in opposition to the bill.

The senate passed a considerable number of unobjected bills on the calendar.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Four Vetoes by Governor Odell—The Krum Bill Amended.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 11.—As soon as the assembly convened last night vetoes of four bills by Governor Odell were read. The first disapproved an extension of the open season for woodcock. The second disapproved a claim for services in connection with the Tonawanda armory.

The third veto disapproves of placing the power to purchase certain supplies in the hands of the sheriff of Erie county. The last veto disapproves the conferring upon boards of supervisors power to condemn general lands needed for highway improvement.

Assemblyman Blackwell's bill to amend the code relative to the appointment of a supreme court reporter and regulating the contract system relative to the publication of supreme court reporters was recommitted by a vote of 57 yeas to 42 nays.

The Krum foreign corporation tax bill was amended in the senate. The amendments which were adopted provide that foreign corporations of all kinds may have money on deposit in any institution in this state, and that fact will not of itself make the corporations subject to the taxes imposed under the act.

Another amendment inserts coal companies along with mining ore companies in a classified list of corporations subject to the provisions of the measure.

Illinois Day at Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 11.—Governor Richard Yates of Illinois, accompanied by sixteen colonels of his staff; Mayor Bryan of Peoria, State Auditor McCullough, over twenty leading citizens from all parts of the state and a large number of ladies formally opened their state building and celebrated Illinois day today at the exposition. There was a street parade to the exposition grounds, and Governor Yates and others spoke at the Auditorium. The weather is ideal. In the afternoon the entire party on the revenue cutter Forward visited Fort Sumter and other forts in the harbor.

Horses Lead Train For Miles.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 11.—Passengers on an Erie train out of this city for Cleveland were given an unusual sight. Shortly after leaving this city two horses appeared on the track and in spite of all that could be done to drive them off remained on the track, running in front of the train for a distance of seven miles. Whenever the train slowed up the horses also slowed their gait and increased their speed with the speed of the train. The incident is quite unheard of in railroad circles. The horses finally tired of their task and rushed off into a field.

Senator Platt at Tampa.

TAMPA, Fla., March 11.—Senator Thomas C. Platt of New York has arrived here in his private car, accompanied by Mrs. Burney and Mrs. L. T. Janeway of Washington. The party are en route to Havana. Miss Alice Roosevelt arrived several hours later. Miss Roosevelt and her party will leave for Cuba today, having passage reserved on the steamer on which Senator Platt and ladies will sail.

Weather Probabilities.

Rain; warmer; variable winds, becoming southeast and fresh.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Anxiety is still felt for Cecil Rhodes by his physicians.

A woman and her nine children were burned to death at Matane, Que.

The Eliza Davison House at Vassar, the gift of John D. Rockefeller, was opened.

Federal officials at Knoxville, Tenn., were accused of violating the civil service law.

The sons of Damad Mahmud Pasha, the sultan's brother-in-law, were sentenced by default to life imprisonment.

The E. I. Dupont de Nemours & Co.'s powder plant, five miles west of Keokuk, Ia., was badly damaged by an explosion. Two men were killed outright, and a third will die.

METHUEN CAPTURED

British Routed by Delarey With Heavy Loss.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN LONDON.

Fight Occurred In Orange River Colony — General Methuen and 77 Others Wounded—Three Officers and 38 Men Killed.

LONDON, March 11.—General Methuen was wounded and captured by the Boers under General Delarey in a battle that occurred just before dawn on March 7. His force of 1,200 men was utterly routed. Three British officers and 38 men were killed, 5 officers and 72 men were wounded, and 1 officer and 200 men are missing.

The Boers also captured four guns.

The fight occurred between Wynburg and Lichtenburg, in the Orange River Colony.

The news came like a thunderbolt to London. The extra editions of the evening papers giving an account of the disaster were eagerly bought up, and their readers hurried through the streets with anxious faces, and bitter remarks were passed on the subject of the government's declaration that the war in South Africa was over.

The news caused excitement in the mine market. Throgmorton street was thronged with South African operators eagerly inquiring for details of the British defeat and watching the effect of the announcement.

The news was received in the house of commons amid great excitement. The reading of Lord Kitchener's telegram by the war secretary, Mr. Brodrick, was listened to in deep silence, which was broken by loud Irish cheers. Instantly there were cries of "Shame, shame!" from the government benches. Then the Irish members seemed to think better of their outbreak and suddenly subsided. The subsequent eulogistic references to General Methuen were received with cheers.

KITCHENER TELLS OF BATTLE.

The text of Lord Kitchener's dispatch announcing the capture of General Methuen, dated Pretoria, March 8, is as follows: "I greatly regret to have to send you bad news of Methuen. He was moving with 900 mounted men under Major Paris and 300 infantry, four guns and a pompom from Wynburg to Lichtenburg and was to meet Grenfell, with 1,300 mounted men, at Roviraine's Fontein today. Yesterday morning early he was attacked by Delarey's force between Twebosch and Palmietknill. The Boers charged on three sides.

"Five hundred and fifty men have come in at Maribogs and Kraaipan. They were pursued by the Boers four miles from the scene of action. They report that Methuen and Paris, with the guns, baggage, etc., were captured by the Boers. Methuen when last seen was a prisoner.

"I have no details of the casualties and suggest the delaying of publication till I can send definite news. I think this sudden revival of activity on the part of Delarey is to draff off the troops pressing De Wet."

In a second dispatch, dated March 9, Lord Kitchener says:

"Paris has come in at Kraaipan with the remainder of the men. He reports that the column was moving in two parties.

"One, with the ox wagons, left Twebosch at 3 a. m. The other, with the mule wagons, started an hour later. Just before dawn the Boers attacked. Before re-enforcements could reach them the rear guard broke.

"In the meantime a large number of Boers galloped up on both flanks. These at first were checked by flank parties, but the panic and stampede of the mules had begun, and all the mule wagons, with a terrible mixture of mounted men, rushed past the ox wagons.

"All efforts to check them were unavailing. Major Paris collected forty men and occupied a position a mile in front of the ox wagons, which were then halted. After a gallant but useless defense the enemy rushed into the ox wagons, and Methuen was wounded in the thigh. Paris, being surrounded, surrendered at 10 a. m. Methuen is still in the Boer camp."

Then follows the number of the casualties, as already cabled. The killed include Lieutenants G. R. Venning and T. P. W. Nesham of the Royal artillery, who were both killed while serving their guns with case shot."

Sections of the Fourth and Thirty-eighth batteries of artillery fought with great gallantry, and 300 men composed of the Northumberland fusileers and the Lancashires showed conspicuous courage in protecting the wagons and refusing to surrender until resistance was useless.

The force under General Delarey was almost entirely dressed in British uniforms. This made it impossible for the infantry to distinguish between their own men and the enemy when the mounted troops were driven in on them. The enemy numbered 1,500 men. They had one 15 pounder and a pompom.

Delarey, Celliers, Kemp, Verusso, Tromp and other commandants were present.

General Methuen was seen by an agent of the intelligence department. He was being well cared for in his own wagon.

In a private telegram just received here Lord Kitchener adds:

"I find Methuen has a fractured thigh, but he is reported to be doing well."

Five Children Cremated.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 11.—Word is received here that the five children of Thomas Scanlon of Shinhoppen, Delaware county, have been burned to death.

WANTS WU'S SCALP.

Chinese Minister to United States Accused of Theft.

MANTCHOO CENSOR MAKES CHARGE.

Said to Have Retained Portion of Tientsin Silver Refunded by This Government For Repairs on Legation.

PEKING, March 11.—A prominent Mantchoo censor has memorialized the throne for the removal of Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister to the United States.

The censor asserts that Wu Ting Fang corruptly retained, ostensibly for repairs to the Chinese legation in Washington, $80,000 of the Tientsin silver refunded by the American government.

The policies of Germany and Great Britain in China, which Great Britain hoped had been consolidated by the signing of the Yangtse agreement a year ago, have developed an antagonism equal to that of Russia and Japan over Manchuria and seriously involving the interests of other nations.

Germany is the only power refusing to agree to the reduction of the large garrisons the European governments are maintaining at Tientsin and the restoration of the control of the native city of Tientsin to the Chinese.

The British diplomatists are trying to help the Chinese to regain the government of Tientsin, and the reason for the British action in blocking the payment of the February installment of the Chinese indemnity was to bring Germany to terms. The British believe the Germans to be using Tientsin as an inducement to the Chinese to grant her (Germany) a practical monopoly of the mines in Shangtung province.

Great Britain's share of the indemnity is a comparative trifle to her, but the British think that Germany needs her share of this indemnity to maintain her forces in China and, considering the condition of German finances and the opposition in Germany to the whole plan of the German government in the orient, that the government will be reluctant to propose parliamentary appropriations for the Chinese establishment.

The British diplomats regard the argument that the municipal government of Tientsin by Europeans is a military necessity as a subterfuge and in her role of protector of the Chinese against foreign aggression involved in the Anglo-Japanese alliance and hoping to increase her prestige among the Chinese Great Britain is helping them to regain Tientsin.

American influence is being used to this same purpose. Edwin H. Conger, the United States minister here, last night gave a banquet to a large party of Chinese princes and officials, including all the prominent members of the foreign office.

Minister Wu's Denial.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Mr. Wu said last night that he promptly informed his government as soon as the United States turned over to him the Tientsin silver fund, and the money was placed at its disposal. An acknowledgment was received by telegraph. Not a cent of the fund, Mr. Wu said, could be misappropriated, and if any portion of it were to be used for any purpose whatever this could be done only by the sanction of the Chinese government. The minister has not heard officially of the presentation of the memorial for his removal, but he treats the matter very lightly.

Financiers Taking a Rest.

NEW YORK, March 11.—J. Pierpont Morgan has left the city on a brief vacation, which he will spend at Jekyl island. This is the winter vacation season, and many prominent local financiers are out of town, among them William Rockefeller and James Stillman, who are in Florida; E. H. Harriman, who is on a tour of the Union Pacific system and will visit Mexico; and Thomas F. Ryan, whose journey to the Pacific coast was interrupted on Friday by a disastrous railroad wreck, from which he escaped uninjured.

Against Aid For Cuba.

NEW ORLEANS, March 11.—Believing that great injury to Louisiana as well as to the country at large would result from any reduction in the tariff on Cuban sugars, the New Orleans Cotton Exchange has addressed to each of the sister exchanges throughout the United States a letter requesting the official co-operation toward defeating the proposed measure now being agitated in congress.

Dinner For Governor Odell.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The president had a number of guests at dinner at the White House last night to meet Governor Odell of New York. They included Secretary Root, Attorney General Knox, Postmaster General Payne, Senators Hanna and Lodge, Representatives Wadsworth and Sherman of New York and Hon. Graeme Stewart.

A Municipal Ownership Bill.

TRENTON, N. J., March 11.—Assemblyman Leavitt has introduced in the house a bill to provide for municipal ownership of underground conduits and to provide for the renting of space in the same to telephone, telegraph and other companies. The bill authorizes cities to issue bonds to the extent of $500,000 to carry out the project.

New Declines the Office.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Mr. H. S. New of Indianapolis has declined the proffer of the office of first assistant postmaster general tendered him some days ago by President Roosevelt. Mr. New's business would not permit him to accept.

MOODY TO SUCCEED LONG.

Secretary of the Navy Goes With the President's Best Wishes.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The announcement is made that the president has accepted the resignation of John D. Long, secretary of the navy, and has appointed to that portfolio Congressman William H. Moody of Massachusetts.

Mr. Moody has accepted the place and will take hold at an early date.

In his letter of resignation Mr. Long said:

"Will you accept this as my resignation of the secretaryship of the navy, to take effect on the first day of May next or sooner, of course, if you shall at any time so wish? It has been to me a delightful service. I leave the official circle of your cabinet, in which my association with you and its members has been so happy, with high appreciation of your administration and with most cordial good wishes for its success and for you personally."

This is President Roosevelt's reply:

"It is with very sincere regret that I accept your resignation. I shall always count it a privilege not only to have served with you during the last six months, but to have served under you at the outset of President McKinley's administration.

"I have seen you in both relations, and it has never been my good fortune to be associated with any public man more single minded in his devotion to the public interest. Our relations have been not merely official, but also those of personal friendship.

"May all the good fortune you so richly deserve attend you wherever you go."

The retirement of Secretary Long has been expected for several months. Even before the death of President McKinley he was anxious to retire to private life, and he has only remained this long in President Roosevelt's cabinet in order that he might cause his chief no embarrassment by withdrawing so soon after the inauguration.

The new secretary was born in Essex county, Mass., in 1853. He was graduated from Harvard in 1876 and took up the profession of law. He was first elected to the Fifty-fourth congress and has held his seat ever since.

Mr. Moody is a bachelor. He keeps bachelor quarters in Washington, but spends most of his spare time at the Metropolitan club. He is short, stout and healthy, with an immense capacity for work and a strong, determined face.

A FIGHT OVER A JAIL.

Contesting Sheriffs In Hamilton County, N. Y., Threaten Bloodshed.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., March 11.—A battle of contesting sheriffs seems imminent at Lake Pleasant, Hamilton county, where the jail is now barricaded and guarded by armed deputies of Sheriff J. N. Locke, Democrat, with James Higgins, the crack shot of the county, in charge. The orders are to shoot any of the forces of Sheriff Frank Kathan, Republican, if they come near the jail.

Kathan was given a certificate by Judge Stover, which Locke refused to recognize, and he also declined to turn over the jail or any county property. Both sheriffs are fearless men and have a large force of armed deputies, and there is a bitter feeling among their adherents which may lead to bloodshed at any time. An attack on the jail is contemplated.

Locke's forces are quoted as saying that supreme court orders do not go in Hamilton county and defy any one to put them out of the jail.

Blondin Indicted.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 11.—The grand jury of Middlesex county has reported an indictment in four counts against Joseph Wilfred Blondin, alias Joseph Barnard, charging him with the murder of Margaret Emma Blondin, his wife, at Chelmsford during April of last year. The jurors had been called in special session to indict Blondin if such was called for by the evidence in order that he might be extradited to Massachusetts from New York city, where he is now under arrest. Now that the indictment has been found steps will be taken at once to secure the presence of the defendant in Middlesex county, where the trial on the charge of murder will be held.

A Launching at Bath.

BATH, Me., March 11.—One of the handsomest craft ever constructed in this city, the yacht Pantooset, built at the Bath Iron works for Commodore A. S. Bigelow of the Eastern Yacht club of Boston, has been successfully launched here. The yacht was christened by two Boston young women, Miss Gladys Williams and Miss Helen Harding, one cutting the cord and releasing the trigs and the other breaking the champagne over the bow. The Pantooset, when completed will c nearly $250,000. She will be the flagship of the Eastern Yacht club.

Will Not Become a Law.

BERLIN, March 11.—Professor Schmoller, the noted economist of the Berlin university, who maintains close relations with the cabinet ministers, has just concluded a course of lectures with one on the tariff bill, in which he made the following surprising statement: "I know from personal conversations that no minister thinks of letting the tariff bill become a law. The bill is only intended as a basis upon which to negotiate commercial treaties."

Germany and Venezuela Making Up.

BERLIN, March 11.—The dispute between Germany and Venezuela is nearing a settlement. The terms of this settlement are as yet a foreign office secret. They are, however, satisfactory to Germany, and Venezuela has apparently yielded without Germany's having made any direct threat or having had to do anything like sending an ultimatum.

BOSTON'S LABOR WAR.

Freight Handlers and Teamsters Fighting Two Railroads.

BOSTON, March 11.—After nearly six weeks of skirmishing the dreaded labor war between the organized teamsters, freight and express handlers of Boston and the two great railroad corporations, the New York, New Haven and Hartford and the New York Central and Hudson River railroad, the latter locally known as the Boston and Albany, has broken out.

The outlook is that unless powerful agencies are speedily invoked to compel peace the struggle will have a far-reaching effect, with great detriment also to the business interests of Boston and New England. The strike, which is a sympathetic one, already involves 8,000 men in and about Boston, every one of whom has been accustomed to handle freight and express matter.

Stopping work because of the discharge of union men who refused to handle nonunion moved freight, the various organizations now on strike are making every effort to extend their sphere of influence to affiliated bodies, while the corporations on their part are energetically trying to fill the strikers' places and to receive and dispatch goods offered them. Both met with some measure of success.

As yet the strike has not extended to the Boston and Maine system, on the north side of the city, whose freight handling men are nearly all members of the Knights of Labor organization, while those who are out are members of the American Federation of Labor.

A BATTLE IN COLOMBIA.

General Castro Worsted After a Four Days' Struggle.

PANAMA, Colombia, March 11.—The government general Castro was sent to Agua Dulce last December by the late General Alban to attack the Indian revolutionary chief, General Lorenzo.

About this same time the revolutionary general Herrera landed an expedition from Tumaco at Tonosi.

For the past five weeks the government, on account of the revolutionary fleet, has not been able to send re-enforcements of any kind to General Castro. During this time General Herrera has developed his plan of attack without molestation.

General Herrera attacked Agua Dulce with a strong force Feb. 20. General Castro resisted him for four days, but as he was probably short of ammunition he then abandoned the town. To do this he had to force his way through the Liberal lines. The government here has positive information that the revolutionists had 700 men killed or wounded during these engagements.

Big Sailing Vessel In Port.

NEW YORK, March 11.—There has just arrived in port the second largest sailing vessel in the world, the four masted steel bark Daylight, which has just completed a very stormy maiden voyage of fifty-one days from Greenock, Scotland. The Daylight is a first class steel vessel, with a gross tonnage of 3,765, about 100 tons less than the five masted bark Potosi, the largest sailing vessel in the world. The Daylight, which was built by Russell & Co. at Port Glasgow, has a carrying capacity of 7,000 tons.

Body of Missing Woman Found.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 11.—Mrs. George C. PRINCE LEAVES US.

On the Deutschland Henry of Prussia Sails For Home.

LAST DAY SPENT AT PHILADELPHIA.

A Visit to Independence Hall and Cramps' Shipyard—Returning to New York, a Farewell Dinner Is Served on Shipboard.

NEW YORK, March 11.—The visit of Prince Henry of Prussia to America is at an end.

On the Deutschland, which sailed from her Hoboken pier this afternoon, our royal guest, who has won the hearts of the people of this country wherever he has visited, departed amid a demonstration of good will and hearty sympathy which he will not soon forget.

On the Deutschland, besides the prince and his party, sailed 550 cabin and 400 steerage passengers.

Prince Henry arrived at Jersey City at 6:15 o'clock last evening, returning from his day of sightseeing at Philadelphia. He went directly to Hoboken aboard the government steamer John Bowers and boarded the steamship Deutschland.

Later the prince gave a dinner to the representatives of the United States government who have been his official hosts and guides during his visit to this country in the main dining saloon of the Deutschland and then left for Manhattan. He landed at the West Thirty-fourth street pier and went directly to the Irving Place theater, where he listened to the performance given in the language of the fatherland.

After the performance the prince returned to the Deutschland.

WELCOMED IN PHILADELPHIA.

A Hearty Reception by Mayor and Citizens.

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—Prince Henry and party left at 3:30 o'clock over the Pennsylvania railroad for New York.

Prince Henry of Prussia finished his American tour in this city and for the brief space of five hours was the guest of this municipality. His reception was most cordial and his welcome heartfelt. From the moment when the special train bearing the imperial visitor steamed into the Pennsylvania railroad station the popular demonstration was hearty and spontaneous.

Five minutes after his arrival Prince Henry stood in the mayor's reception room, which had been simply and tastefully decorated with flowers and the American and German colors. Mayor Ashbridge extended the freedom of the city to the royal visitor and presented to the prince a handsome album containing his address of welcome beautifully engrossed.

The streets through which the prince passed from the municipal building to Independence hall were thronged with cheering people, and the right hand of the royal guest was kept constantly in motion acknowledging the welcoming ovations. On the wide plaza in front of the historic old structure stands a statue of George Washington. A roar of applause greeted the action of his royal highness when he on alighting gracefully uncovered before the statue.

Accompanied by Admiral Evans and Mayor Ashbridge, the prince entered the building and proceeded to the assembly room. He was informed that it was in this room the Declaration of Independence was signed, and he displayed much interest in the colonial and revolutionary relics exhibited in the adjoining room. The prince was presented with an illustrated album containing a history of Independence hall.

In the corridor of the building ten veterans of the Franco-Prussian war stood ready to greet the prince. He shook hands with each and made inquiry of them as to their regiments and the battles in which they had participated. While these incidents were in progress 350 picked singers from the various German singing societies stood on the plaza and rendered Beethoven's "Die Ehre Gottes," accompanied by instrumental music. Prince Henry remained in Independence hall about seven minutes and from there proceeded to the plant of the Edwin S. Cramp Ship and Engine Building company.

The four mile drive from Independence hall to Cramp's shipyard, in the northeastern section of the city, was one continuous ovation for the prince and his party. The sidewalks along the entire route were filled with a holiday crowd, and all windows of factories and residences were lined with spectators. The shipyard was reached at 11:25 o'clock. Prince Henry and party were received by Charles H. Cramp, the head of the company, who introduced the royal visitor to the directors of the company.

Prince Henry was then thoroughly at home in the yard, and instead of taking only the forty-five minutes allowed by the programme to inspect the plant he consumed an hour and forty minutes in going through the place. In taking his leave of Mr. Cramp, who escorted him through the yard, the prince said, "I could stay here all night."

At the Union League Prince Henry was the honored guest at a private luncheon attended by 100 prominent citizens. The banquet room was beautifully decorated. The center of the table represented a lake in which rested an electrical and floral miniature of the emperor's yacht Meteor. The chief feature of the floral decorations was a new pink carnation named Prince Henry.

After the luncheon his royal highness was driven to the Pennsylvania railroad station, where he boarded his train at 3:20 o'clock.

OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY.

In the spring the public fancy may well turn to the thought of the Public Library. A winter like the past, that keeps many people indoors, demonstrates the need of a repository of good reading accessible to all. This is what the Plainfield Public Library is trying to be; and Miss Adams is making every effort in her power to have people know what is in the Public Library, and then to use it.

The mission of a Public Library in a community is not fulfilled by its simply having books upon its shelves. The way must be made plain for every man and woman, and every child of a reasonable age, to come and use the books or take them away. A Public Library is peculiarly an institution of the people, by the people, for the people. When a rich man gives to a community the money to buy books, or to build a house for books, this does not constitute a public library. What makes a public library is the people who frequent it.

Our library here is not a close corporation; it is not run by a few directors in a parlor; it is a concern in which every single person in Plainfield is, or should be, directly interested. It is an enterprise in which we all have stock and are engaged in common. If any of us doesn't like the way things are run, any of us has the right to say so. If anyone is disposed to invest his capital, he reaps compound interest in the gratitude of us all. It shold not be necessary for a library which is, as it were, the child of the whole community, to have to bespeak the affectionate regard and the intelligent interest of each and every citizen.

BOROUGH ELECTION.

It will be well for the residents of North Plainfield to remember that there is an election in progress in that borough today. No campaign has preceded the election and the fight itself seems singularly free from issues. The Republicans are banking on the record that they have made in the past year while the Democrats' chief plea for support is on the ground that the minority party should have some representation, even if it consists of only one member.

The ballotting so far has not been heavy and there is no evidence that the number cast will be large. The voters of the borough will do well, however, not to forget that it is their duty to visit the polls and cast a ballot, one way or the other. The polls do not close until 7 o'clock this evening. Those who have not voted already should make haste to cast their ballots without delay.

For a business enterprise which requires to be introduced to the public by long explanations and descriptions an elaborate and costly booklet may be valuable as a form of advertising, comments the Philadelphia Record. It is impossible, however, to reach everybody with such a publication without a liberal use of newspaper space to call attention to it, and even then there will be a very large proportion of the people who will never send for the booklet, and among them may be many of the particular persons it is most desirable to reach. The newspaper, on the contrary, gets into the hands of virtually everybody, and the expenditure of a sum equal to the cost of the booklets for newspaper space will accomplish more than the booklets can.

The centre of the political conflict is transferred this year from Fanwood borough to Fanwood township. It is the borough which usually furnishes more excitement in comparison with the number of its population that any municipality in the State. This year, however, the unexpected has happened, the lions have laid down with the lambs and all is peace and harmony among the "Citizens" and the "Independents." In the township a hot contest is in progress for the freeholdership which has aroused more interest among the people of Scotch Plains and the rest of the township than has any election for a long time previously.

It is interesting to note that the athletes of the local Young Men's Christian Association made a remarkably fine showing in the inter-association meet, held at Newark Saturday evening. While the points scored by the six associations that competed, have not yet been computed, it is said that the victory lies between Plainfield and Orange. The showing made by Plainfield speaks well for the careful and systematic training of the Plainfielders under the direction of Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood.

While some neighboring cities are still practically without a telephone, Plainfield's system is almost entirely in order again. But for the fact that many of the wires are underground, it would have taken weeks longer to put the local exchange in order. The lesson is a very evident one.

Since the Babcock building fire, there has been a sudden demand for office rooms and most of the vacant suites have been rented.

The tax collecting department of the city gave practical evidence yesterday that it is thoroughly in earnest in its campaign against tax delinquents.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Several representatives of the Wyoming Valley Presbyterian church, Pennsylvania, attended morning services in the Presbyterian church for the purpose of hearing Rev. N. J. Sproul preach. Their own church is at present without a pastor and they had been recommended to hear Rev. Mr. Sproul. They expressed themselves as very much pleased and it is probable will issue a call to Rev. Mr. Sproul to come to thier church which is considerably larger than the local one.

It is expected that a large vote will be polled today as interest is very high. The final issue will probbaly be in doubt until the last vote is counted as both parties expect confidently to win.

The pupils of the eighth grade of Whittier school held a debate yesterday on Lincoln and McKinley to decide which was the greater man. The McKinley debaters were awarded the victory.

The city water was shut off yesterday and may be for some time as a break has occurred in the pumps at the power house and a considerable time will have to be taken to repair them.

A meeting of the stewards of the Methodist church was held in the parsonage last evening. Routine business was transacted.

John Furby, who died in Plainfield Saturday, was well known here as he was a life long resident of this vicinity.

Ambrose James, a former resident of this place, but now of New York, was in town for a short time yesterday.

Rev. Father Zimmer, of Raritan, will deliver a lecture in St. John's church, this evening. All are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zimmerman, of Elizabeth, spent Sunday and Monday with Paul Kretzel.

Wm. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold a regular weekly meeting this evening.

George Reusch, of Cranford, spent Sunday with his brother, Paul Reusch.

Mrs. Emily Apgar is visiting relatives in Westfield for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Siriski spent Sunday with friends in Newark.

Miss Edith Wilson entertained company from New York Sunday.

Justice A. W. Warden visited in Plainfield yesterday.

Miss Martha Kretzel visited in Plainfield yesterday.

W. H. Terry visited friends in Westfield Friday.

NEW MARKET.

The dance to be given by Friendship Dancing class this evening promises to be one of the most pleasant affairs held here this winter. The dances will probably be continued until April and will be ended with a duck dance.

It is not likely that much interest will be taken in the election today as no contests were had in the primaries and not much enthusiasm has been shown so far.

The weather of the past two or three days has greatly improved the conditions of the roads between here and South Plainfield.

Regular services were held in the First Baptist church Sunday. No special services will be held this week.

Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold a regular meeting this evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The annual spring election is being held at Excelsior Hall today. Polls are open until 7 o'clock. Up to noon a light vote had been cast but this is generally the case at a spring election. Both sides are working hard to get the vote out as the "stay at homes" are an important factor in township elections.

Fanwood Council, R. A., will hold its semi-monthy meeting in its rooms this evening. Business of importance will be transacted and a full attendance of members is desired.

Mr. and Mrs. David R. Clark, of Montclair, this State, have been visiting at the home of Mr. Clark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Clark.

The work of repairing the dancing pavillion in the rear of Ivamy's Hotel, which was damaged by the blizzard of several weeks ago, is finished.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr.

The Exempt Firemen's Association held a regular meeting in its rooms last night. Routine business was transacted.

A number from town attended Rev. Madison C. Peters' meeting in the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night.

Miss Florence Wade led the weekly meeting of the Epworth League in the Methodist church last night.

John Keegan, of Plainfield, has taken a position as hostler at Ivamy's Hotel.

David Hetfield, of Rahway, has been visiting friends in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The regular Tuesday evening prayer-meeting will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the lecture room of the church. After the meeting, the Christian Endeavor Society will conduct a business meeting. The officers desire a full attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorne expect to more their household furniture into the house on Chamberlain's corner, sometime this week.

Rev. James A. Cubberley attended a dinner in New York City, yesterday, of the alumni of Colgate University.

Ephriam Boice will conduct a sale of his goods, today, previous to moving.

FOR COUNCIL CHAMBER.

Entire Set of Furniture Purchased Yesterday by Smalley Brothers.

Borough Mayor Newton B. Smalley purchased an entire set of furiture in New York yesterday for the City Council chamber in the Smalley building The chairs, tables and desks will all be of quartered oak, constructed in the latest style, and will harmonize with the interior of the room. According to the agreement of lease with the city, Smalley Brothers contracted to furnish the chamber. The large vault will be placed in the chamber in the near future.

TO IMPROVE LYCEUM.

Elizabeth's Theatre is to be Improved and Renovated.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, March 11—Plans have been made to improve the Lyceum Theatre in this city. According to the arrangements these include four exits located at suitable positions, men's smoking room, a private office for the management, and changes in the balcony and gallery. The balcony will be where the gallery now is and the latter will be raised after the ceiling is lifted some twleve feet.

At Medico-Legal Dinner.

Among the medico-legal men present at the twentieth annual dinner of the Society of Medical Jurisprudence given at the Savoy, New York, Saturday evening, was Boardman Wright, of West Eighth street.

Printers Working Again.

Work was resumed yesterday at the Sabbath Recorder office, the place having been temporarily closed as a result of the recent fire. The cause of the stoppage was the burning out of the electric motor.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schermerhorn, who formerly resided in the Babcock building, and who are now stopping on Westervelt avenue, have decided not to return to their former home. They will probably remain where they are for the present.

PERSONAL.

Charles E. Vail, of Orchard place, has recovered from his recent illness which detained him at home.

Herbert Martin, of the staff of the Jersey City Journal, spent Sunday at the home of his parents on West Front street.

John S. Gibson, of Newark, secretary of the Republicaan State executive committee, has been in this city the past few days on business.

Vincent Marsh, of Hartford, Conn., has returned home after a two weeks' visit with his father, Randolph Marsh, of Plainfield avenue.

W. H. B. Drake, of Orchard place, who has been seriously ill for some time past, is now able to take short walks. His recovery is now assured.

PREPARING FOR CITY.

Putting New City Offices in Smalley Building in Condition.

The work of preparing the new quarters for the city offices is progressing favorably. The large room on the first floor of the Smalley building has been thoroughly cleaned and painted, and in the course of a short time the fixtures and furnishings will be installed. The work is also progressing in the Council chamber and that will be furnished soon. It is hoped that the big vault will be in as near April 1 as possible, and the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company who have the contract will do their best to have it in on time.

Sewage Question Delayed.

Until final action is taken in regard to the proposed consolidation of the city and borough, it is unlikely that anything will be done regarding the sewage question in the borough.

Editorial Rooms.

The editorial rooms of the Sabbath Recorder are now established in the business office of the paper in the rear of the Babcock building on Madison avenue.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

A HOME COMING.

Honorary Members Present at the Endeavor Meeting at Trinity Reformed Church Last Evening.

One of the most helpful and spiritual meetings held in sometime was that of last evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, of Trinity Reformed church. It was a "home coming" and a nmber of honorary members were present in response to postal cards received from the society. The active and honorary members joined in a season of prayer and testimony that was not only inspiring, but uplifting to all.

The service was conducted by Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, one of the honorary members, and she enlisted the support of all in making the meeting one of great benefit to all. Nearly everyone took some part in the service, either with prayer or testimony and all gave expressions of thankfulness at being present and receiving the blessings that the Master always has in store for those who serve Him. Among those who took part were several who did so for the first time, and this also proved a source of help to others.

HUFF HELD.

Then He Made Counter Charge Against Upson Who Will Have a Hearing Thursday.

The charge of assault preferred against John Huff by Arthur Upson was heard before Justice Nash yesterday afternoon. Witnesses for the State were the only ones prodnced and they told of the trouble which took place in the Cafe Rosell between the twp principals in the case. Huff's lawyer, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., offered no defense and his client was held in $200 bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Last evening, Huff appeared before Justice Hand and preferred a counter charge of assault against Upson. The latter appeared in court and gave $150 bonds for examination Thursday.

AFTER LONG ILLLNESS.

Mrs. Eliza L. Giles Died at Son's Home in Piscataway Township.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, March 11—Mrs. Eliza L. Giles, aged eighty-four years, a well-known resident of Piscataway township, died yesterday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the home of her son, DeWitt Giles, in that township. She had been ill a long time.

She was the daughter of Christian and Margaret Brokaw and the widow of Isaac Giles. She leaves three sons, Isaac and Nelson Giles, of Plainfield, and DeWitt Giles, of this place.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the late residence. Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the Baptist church, will officiate. Interment will take place in the cemetery at Bound Brook.

NEW SWITCHBOARD.

Work Started on it at Local 'Phone Exchange Yesterday.

Expert switchboard men from the main office began work, yesterday, wiring the new multiple board to be installed in the local telephone exchange. When completed it will be one of the most complete in the State and will enable the company to furnish service unexcelled. The work will require about two weeks when the subscribers' wires will be changed from the old to the new boards without any interruption of calls.

Awaiting a Hearing.

Marshal Winn arrested a stranger for drunkenness on Grandview avenue last evening. He is spending the day in the borough lockup and will be given a hearing by Recorder Dond this evening.

Will Resume Classes.

Miss May Vincent Whitney, whose studio in the Babcock annex was slightly damaged by the recent fire, will resume her classes there this week.

In Justice Nash's Court.

Justice Nash has issued papers in the contract case of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company against Mundy, returnable March 17.

TO INFORM VOTERS.

Borough School Board Will Print Clerk's and Superintendent's Reports and Distribute Them.

For the purpose of auditing and approving the report of the district clerk for the fiscal year about to close, the Borough Board of Education held a special meeting last evening. There was a good attendance and some other matters pertaining to educational work were discussed.

It was decided that the report of the district clerk, together with that of Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, should be printed and a copy of each placed in the hands of every family in the borough before the annual school meeting, Tuesday evening, March 18. This will be done in order to apprise the taxpayers of the exact condition of the schools.

Some discussion was had relative to the proposition for a new school building, and it was finally determined to do nothing until after the annual school meeting. In all likelihood a special district school meeting will subsequently be called for the purpose of considering the whole subject.

Things Worth Knowing.

There are 28 pounds of blood in the body of an average grown-up person, and at each pulsation the heart moves ten pounds. It is a curious fact that a negro has never been known to tame an elephant or any kind of wild animal. Rice, raw eggs and venison are the easiest to digest. At the other end of the scale are pork, cabbage and hard-boiled eggs, which take four hours to digest. Antiseptic preparations may be easily forced into wood by causing them to follow the lines taken by its sap, otherwise it is exceedingly difficult to fully impregnate the wood with them. Tall men, as a rule, have bodies out of proportion to their limbs; that is, smaller than they ought to be, with the natural result that they are unable to bear the same amount of fatigue as men more harmoniously proportioned. A white disc a foot across can be seen with the naked eye at a distance of 17,250 feet. Greenland is one of the very few countries where infectious diseases are unknown.—Detroit Free Press.

Queer Thing in the Tobacco Trade.

One of the anomalies of trade is found in the way smoking tobacco is packed and sold. Consumers do not know that when they buy a five-cent package containing one ounce they get more for their money than when they buy a ten-cent package of the same brand. But the latter contains only 1 2-3 ounces. The same thing is true of the better grade of tobacco, which retails for ten cents an ounce and 20 cents for 1 2-3 ounces. A Louisville dealer was asked to account for this, but could only say that it was due to the tax imposed by the Dingley law, a two-ounce package requiring a revenue stamp of greater proportionate value than the smaller package. That was all any of the retailers seemed to know of the question, and none of them seemed to think it made any difference, anyhow.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Cold Hard on Telephones.

Clear, cold, snappy days are the days we don't like," said the telephone girl, "for the people can't understand why it is impossible for us to give them good service. The weather has a lot to do with the telephone service, and when it's very cold and dry there is always a rattling sound in the receiver that you don't hear in damp weather. This is caused by induction from foreign sources, from other wires that communicate the electricity to ours. Even the ground, you know, is full of electricity, and when the weather is cold and dry it is communicated very readily."—Philadelphia Record.

Tinker's Dam.

It is only through ignorance or through willful perversity that any profanity came to be attached to this expression. When a tinker wants to flood a given object with solder he surrounds it with a little wall of common clay or any sticky material he may have at hand, which he calls (or used to call) a dam, and as this so-called dam was made of such material as could be used only once and was regularly thrown away as soon as it had performed its transient duty, it naturally became a symbol of worthlessness in the popular mind.—World's Work.

FANCIES OF FASHION

Black and White Combination Still Rules the Day.

Small Changes in Skirts and Sleeves —The All-Lace Gowns Has Lost None of Its Merited Popularity.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

FASHION is never at a standstill, although at the present moment it is inclined to be rather noncommittal. Many and varied are the rumors concerning the changes in the new skirt and sleeve, but thus far these rumors cannot be verified with any degree of authority. Judging from the models I have seen there is not the slightest hint of any radical changes in the spring fashions for 1902. The new skirt continues to fit with the same sheath-like tightness about the hips and to spread out around the feet with the same wonderful amount of fullness and fluffiness that characterized the skirt of yesterday, while the modish sleeve of the hour follows the same general outline of the one worn during midwinter, with the possible exception that the fullness below the elbow is somewhat more marked than anything yet seen. In the latest bodices the changes are not more marked. They do not pouch quite so much in front as those we have been accustomed to seeing and are fashioned in the back in such a manner as to give a most graceful and becoming length to the waist; a feature, by the way, that has been altogether lacking heretofore.

Lace continues to play a most important part in the fashions of the hour, while dainty embroideries and appliique trimmings of all kinds and descriptions are as much sought after as ever before. Floral garnitures are also much in vogue, and with soft touches of lace and ribbon intermingled form admirable trimmings on net frocks and chiffon blouses intended for evening wear. Braided trimming in silk and wool mixture is being used to ornament swell-looking tailor gowns and shows to most particular advantage when carried out in the ever-popular black and white combination.

The glory of the all-lace gown has not departed by any manner of means, in fact its popularity seems rather to wax than wane with the passing of time. Some of the new models can best be described by the word magnificent. Many have the long trailing underskirt fashioned of soft, lusterless silk, which is trimmed to the knee by what seems an almost endless number of narrow flounces of accordion-plaited chiffon, the over-drapery of fine lace being ofttimes mingled with much velvet and chenille. The mixture of lace, chiffon and velvet is certainly an ideal one and bids fair to grow rapidly in popular favor as the season advances. In the interesting matter of colors for spring wear Dame Fashion decrees much latitude. The lovely tans and browns of last season promise to be quite as popular as they were last season, while soft blues and delicate greens are in general demand for dressy gowns. There is a delightful new shade of gray—a peculiar silver tone—seen for the first time within the past week, which threatens to create a furore later on. It comes in all the new spring materials, and has the advantage of making an admirable combination with the new shade of rose-pink, also with Parma violet, ever the herald of beautiful spingtime. The all-black gown of soft clinging woolen or silken material is still to be reckoned among fashion's prime favorites, while the combination of black and white reigns supreme. This combination shows to particular advantage in the new robes of crepe de Pairs in somber black, the lace and embroidery decorations being carried out in pure white. The craze for the all-white cloth gown grows with each passing hour. For housewear this fashion has been "in" for a number of seasons, but it is only recently that modistes have advised it for street costumes.

A great many women plan their summer wardrobes during the quiet days of the Lenten period, and if one will stop to consider a moment the wisdom of this is very apparent. At this particular time all the leading shops are abounding in novelties of all kinds and descriptions, and the variety of fabrics on exhibition makes it quite possible to select just what one wants.

Lacy effects characterize many of the newest fabrics and there, too, are found charming color combinations seen for the first time this season. Each succeeding year shows something entirely new in the mixture of silk, linen and cotton, and this year it would seem as though the manufacturers had tried to excel themselves in this direction. In almost every instance there is some exquisite new finish given the material that so completely conceals and disguises the appearance of the cotton as to deceive even the most critical eye. Any of these sheer cotton fabrics, when given a foundation of soft taffeta silk and dainty trimmings of lace and ribbon, can be made a very close rival of the costly silk mousselines and grenadines and other fabrics of similar nature.

To make lovely woman still more beautiful seems to be the mission of many of the new blouses imported this season. The handsomest are made of silk mousseline and crepe de chine of an exceedingly fine quality.

BLOUSE IN POINT D'ESPRIT.

They are beautifully tucked and trimmed with lace and embroidery appliques, and are desirable in every sense of the word. For house wear the blouses made of soft oriental satin are the proper thing, while dainty to a degree and charming from every point of view are the blouses made of point d'esprit in both white and black. The black ones are usually made over a foundation of white, thus producing the ever-popular black and white combination, while those made of the white point d'esprit are mounted over a colored lining and trimmed with frills of the net and little French rosettes of ribbon matching exactly in color the silk used in the foundation.

The useful blouse of taffeta has given place this season to one made of soft woolen fabrics, ornamented with French knots and the still popular openwork stitches done in silk. For cool days in spring, after we have laid aside our heavy winter wraps, there are delightful little garments called "jacket blouses," made of velvet, in black and all the new colorings. They are cut to fit perfectly smooth in the back, while the front is laid in two broad plaits and made to very slightly pouch. Their only attempt at ornamentation, barring a double row of exquisitely carved buttons down the front, consists of a handsome collar of lace, opening over a narrow vest of white embroidered satin.

Curiously enough, there has been a perfect influx of novelties in wraps destined for early spring wear. I say they are novel because we have seen nothing at all like them before. Charming in the extreme are the models carried out in white cloth, with a collar of fur, and lining of pale gray satin. The front on the handsomest models is draped a la empire and outlined with beautifully wrought guipure or passementerie just below the bust line. The full sleeve is edged with fur, showing an inner frilling of chiffon. Other delightful wraps are made of cloth in a most lovely shade of tan and trimmed with bands of rich passementerie. Many are given a luxurious lining of blue satin; and, as if this were not dainty enough to suit madame, sometimes double frills of silk mousseline are set on the inside of the front, which show to great advantage when the wrap is worn open.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine It In Plainfield.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit and they cannot be blamed for so many in the past have been humbugged. The experience of hundreds of Plainfield residents expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says: "I had a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time, or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I was never sick much in my life and consequently never took much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid little attention to them. They, however, grew worse instead of better so I had to look about for a remedy. I read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Chickens Took Pills.

An upper Roxborough homeopathic physician recently removed from the house he had occupied for several years, and the premises were rented by another family. The newcomers had a lot of chickens, which were given the run of the large yard. It was not long before the chickens began to show symptoms of illness, and one by one they all died. The owner at first thought an epidemic of some strange disease had broken out among them, but decided that this could not be the case, inasmuch as different fowls seemed suffering from different ailments. It was not until the last one had succumbed that he discovered, in a pile of rubbish in the back yard, a lot of broken vials containing medicines in sugar-coated pellets. The mystery was then explained. The chickens had eaten these pills in quantities sufficient to produce fatal results.—Philadelphia Record.

A Good Witness.

Several days ago there was a trial in one of the courts, and a lawyer was engaged in endeavoring to shake the testimony of an old lady who was one of the principal witnesses for the plaintiffs. Finally he asked:

"Who have you talked about this case to?"

"Nobody."

"Didn't Col. Blank, the lawyer, speak to you about it?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't Mr. Smith, the plaintiff, ask you what you would testify to?"

"No."

"Do you mean to tell this jury that you have talked to nobody about it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, how did they know what you would tell?"

"They knew I'd tell the truth."—Memphis Scimitar.

Salve for the Sultan.

The personality of the sultan of Turkey is much misrepresented. He possesses a sensitive nature and his domestic affections are strong. His powers of work are exceptionally great, and he never takes stimulants except an occasional cup of coffee and a cigarette. His dress is simple—a black frock coat cut in Turkish fashion and a white waistcoat, with a gold watch chain. No great display, yet when he gives you an audience on a Friday, after the ceremony of the Selamlik, he impresses you with his picturesque dignity and placid face. He used to be one of the best pistol shots in Europe.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Why Trunks Are Trunks.

Have you ever wondered why a box in which you pack your clothes is called a trunk? If you go to the old church of Munster, in Kent, England, you will there be shown an old wooden box, of which the rounded lid is made of a portion of the trunk of a tree hollowed out. This old box is supposed to be the actual box brought to England by William the Conqueror, who kept in it the money wherewith he paid his troops. So from Normandy came the idea which ingenuity has improved upon, until the result is the traveling trunks with which we are accompanied in these days.—Stray Stories.

His Flipper.

"Dora, I wish you would be a little more polite and friendly to Mr. Pawkins when he calls. He comes of a good family, he is educated, pleasing in his address, is in excellent circumstances financially, and your father and I consider him altogether a superior young man."

"He may be all that, mamma, but shaking hands with him is like shaking hands with a fish."—Chicago Tribune.

His Objection.

"You say you object to Herbert," said the fair girl.

"I do," said the man who likes to play draw poker.

"You still say you object to his calling here?"

"I do."

"Why?"

"Because every time Herbert calls he's got me beat."—Washington Star.

TRIFLE CAUSES PANIC.

It Was Only a Baby's Shoe, Not a Terrible Mouse, That Frightened the Young Woman.

A state of panic prevailed in the home of a well-known family on one of Chicago's fashionable avenues the other evening. One of the daughters of the household was preparing to go out for the evening to a party and she was in her room donning her gown. The skirt had around the bottom some of the ruffles and other gimcracks that go to make a handsome article of dress, and as the young woman brought it up around her waist she became aware that something had attached itself to the bottom of the garment. Instantly there was a vision of a rat, and so she yelled at the top of her voice and made a break for an adjoining room where the other members of the family were gathered. Her shouts frightened all those present, and one jumped upon a chair, another ran for the door, a third sought safety in a corner and gathered her skirts about her, while still another grabbed the lamp either as a weapon of defense or a means of safety, and there was a general hubbub. The sister of the first frightened young woman heroically sought to help her out of the plight and caught hold to assist her upon a table to get her out of danger. While she was doing this the object of alarm fell to the floor. It was a child's shoe that had in some way become tangled in the ruffles or inserting.

It took that gathering of ladies about 20 minutes to calm their fears so that their hearts were beating at the normal rate.

DOG KILLS HIMSELF.

Miserable Over Prospect of Going to Pound, New York Canine Takes His Wretched Life.

One dog that the license officials of Mount Vernon, N. Y., will not collect a fee for was buried the other day. The dog is a suicide, having, according to the testimony of his owner, hanged himself when he heard that his master had been summoned to explain why he should not pay a license fee for the dog. The owner of the dog is Zurin Zubu, a native of Alsace-Lorraine.

Zubu was one of a number of dog owners arraigned before Judge Bennett for not taking out licenses for his canine pets.

"My dog has committed suicide," said Zubu.

DOG HAD HANGED HIMSELF.

"What do you mean?" exclaimed the judge, sternly.

"That is right, your honor. He committed suicide by hanging himself. I found him dead the morning after I was summoned to court," replied Zubu.

"You can go," said Judge Bennett, with a smile.

Zubu says he believes the dog actually anticipated that he was to be turned over to Poundmaster Lawler, and rather than meet that fate had hanged himself by twisting his chain into knots and jumping from a wagon in which he was fastened.

Horse Makes New Record.

A trotting horse in Bloomfield, N. J., named Tattler, has made a record. While housed in Theodore T. Maxfield's stable, in Franklin street, he succeeded in getting his right hind hoof in his mouth. After an hour's hard work by Edward O'Neill, a blacksmith, the animal was relieved from his uncomfortable position.

Oyster Bed in a Well.

Robert Douglas, a colored man of Paris, Tex., has an oyster bed in his well. Two years ago he brought home an oyster which was covered with little oyster shells, and one of his children threw it into the well. Now the bottom of the well is an oyster bed, and often the well bucket is found covered with young oysters.

DRESSES FOR YOUNG GIRLS.

Attractive Gowns of Crepe de Chene, Chiffon and Muslin.

Pretty dresses are being designed for young girls. Many of them are suitable for evening wear now and for hot afternoon wear during the coming summer with the addition of a guimpe. Girlish gowns of crepe de chine inserted with lace are worn over satin slips, and net gowns are lined with chiffon and made very handsome with many frills. Vertical stripes of lace appear on many skirts, and each stripe is finished with a fussy bow and may be a flower, which rests on the tiny frills at the bottom of the gown.

Simple white mousseline de sole and white organdie may be made most attractive by the skillful arrangement of narrow lace insertions and tucks. Many of the more elaborate models are all laid in alternate stripes of lace insertions and tucks. Fine shirrings laid in lines are considered newer than tucks, but can only be worn by a very slender figure. Yellow insertion and narrow black chantilly stripes are also considered very smart on white muslin.

A gown of mull or French muslin is here shown. It would be most suitable for a young girl. The waist is made of alternate tucks and insertions, with a full bolero of all over lace and elbow sleeves of the same terminating in wide ruffles. The skirt is plain almost down to the knees, where it is laid in narrow tucks and insertions and finished at the bottom with two ruffles of the dress material.

SALE BARGAINS.

Odds and Ends of Lace Which Are Useful.

At this time of the year one may pick up very good bargains at the sales. Good lace is never a bad investment, especially lace and sequined robes, which may easily be made up over a lining of pale colored chiffon by the woman with clever fingers.

Lace collars are especially useful. For the amateur dressmaker a lace collar covers a multitude of sins. The cut of waist across the shoulders does not so much matter if there is a wide lace collar to cover it. The tendency toward Irish crochet and Irish lace of every description, both fine and coarse, is one of the noticeable features of fashion.

Perhaps the best bargains at the sales are the hats, and it pays to buy a silk or felt hat, as it can be worn late in the spring.

A very dainty little dress is shown in the illustration. It is made of red dotted chiffon over silk of the same shade, and it is trimmed with narrow insertions of yellow lace banded by narrow black velvet ribbon. The waist is made decollete, with three narrow ruffles for the sleeve caps and a soft puffing of the dotted tulle around the decolletage. There is considerable fullness in the way of a blouse at the waist line, and the lace is laid on in a plaid design. The skirt is plain around the hips, with a gored flounce covered with tiny ruffles and headed by the same plaided design of the insertion. The girdle is of black panne.

LOVE ACROSS THE LINES

CHAPTER VIII.

Leaving the physician's office, Holbin made his way through the streets, where excited crowds were discussing the approaching conflict. He went to his room. It is true he had gained no profitable information concerning the unknown, yet—and the thought consoled him to some extent—he had made two important discoveries: Brodnar was his enemy, and the shooting had really occurred. But who was the man, and why should Brodnar seek to shield him? For the first time then it dawned upon Holbin that Brodnar was the friend who came to the rescue of the wounded man and bore him away. Everything corroborated Louise, and if Louise spoke from a clear memory, then Frances had been observed tenderly parting from the man she loved. This mental conclusion filled him with rage, despite the fact that he did not and could not believe the girl guilty of serious error. Common sense told him also that Brodnar would not have been a party to a scandal and the protector of a guilty participant. It was a bad hour that Holbin gave to his dilemma in the privacy of his own room. In his doubt and distress he thought often of his mother, who had Richmond society at her finger ends, and whose clear, incisive mind could pierce the mystery if it could be pierced. But he hesitated at this stage. There were other secrets besides that which baffled him, and he was not prepared to admit the presence of Louise in Richmond.

But why not Frances? No explanations were necessary there; and she was young and, of course, easily frightened. He went at once to her room, and upon the plea of urgent necessity forced his way in. He found her with her cheeks wet with tears and instantly full of resentment. She remained standing while he was in the room.

"I have a matter of great importance, Frances, to discuss with you in private, and much as I dislike to be guilty of intrusion there seems to be no help for it." She had regained her calmness by a desperate effort.

"THIS, SIR," SAID HOLBIN, IN A RAGE, "IS INFAMOUS!"

"To you, Mr. Holbin, I am always Miss Brookin, and there cannot possibly be any subject in which we are jointly interested so important as to necessitate immediate discussion."

"I am sorry if I shall appear abrupt," he said, "but there is a subject, and there is no time to waste. Night before last a man sat in this chair, you kneeled in front of him, and some one fired through the window, wounding him in the head. The ball glanced into the plastering back there, and the man was carried away by Dr. Brodnar, who is now treating him in his rooms. I demand the name of that man and your reasons for admitting him into this house."

"Mr. Holbin!"

Frances, although forewarned, w[illegible] but a girl, and could not keep the te[illegible] tale blood from her face.

"Do not attempt to deceive me. Give me the name and your reasons."

"By what right do you demand this, sir?" Her voice steadied as she looked him fearlessly in the eyes.

"By the right which your father's will confers. For if you take one course under that will, this property is his widow's, my mother's; and if you take the other—"

"In the meantime," she said, coldly, "I have several years in which to decide, and during those years neither you nor your mother can drive me from this house."

"Drive you, Frances!"

"Miss Brookin!"

"Come, this is folly! I am, whether willing or unwilling, the present head of this family, or at least this household. All Richmond will hold me responsible for everything that happens here contrary to propriety, and I must insist that you explain this most remarkable occurrence. Do not force me to ask assistance of the police, and thus make the matter public." The girl did not flinch.

"I am not afraid that you will do that, Mr. Holbin; you have too much at stake. Dr. Brodnar, besides, has told you that he was in this room, and Richmond will want to know why, if there is anything wrong afoot, you do not hold him responsible. No one has been in this room—until now—except by my consent, and if any crime has been committed, the criminals are probably better known to you than anyone else. I am totally in the dark; I have no idea why anyone, especially a woman, should attempt to shoot a friend of mine here."

"A woman! Who told you a woman did it?"

"My own eyes. I saw her tracks; and now, sir, who told you? Was it the woman?"

Holbin laughed silently.

"You play that as though it were trump," he said. "Perhaps no woman's tracks have ever been there but yours. It is your garden."

"Only, I saw them before I made any tracks there," she said, quietly.

"I don't question your honesty, Miss Brookin, but others might; and if people were disposed to judge you kindly they would simply suggest that you had a powerful motive." To this she disdained a reply. She had picked up Brodnar's letter from the table and moved away, seeing which he said persistently: "You will please answer my question. I dislike greatly to annoy you, but my duty is imperative. Your secret will be safe with me; and I must protect the name of my future wife—that you will admit."

"Your wife? Have you supposed for a moment, sir, that I shall ever become your wife?" Frances came back and stood before him. "Why, Mr. Holbin, there is not wealth enough in Virginia to bring about that!"

"Miss Brookin"—and Holbin sank his voice to the most courteous of tones, and met her glances without embarrassment—"why is it that you dislike me?"

"I have not given the matter a thought, sir. I simply accept the fact." He was silent a moment, his eyes cast down.

"You hate my mother," he said, sadly and bitterly, "and I am included; I understand that. But admitting that you have cause to hate her—and I do not—you have none to hate me. Consider the injustice. Let me say now—I did not expect ever to say it, but a man is no man who will not defend himself—let me say now that, so far from having cause to hate me, if profound respect, if sympathy for your loneliness, if genuine affection and the tenderest love count for anything with a woman, you have more than sufficient cause to think well of me." Frances looked upon him with amazement, touched in spite of her resolution. He was not slow to perceive this. "My mother," he continued, "is not from the world's standpoint a lovable woman, but she is—my mother; and I am her son. She is self-willed; but she is just. Shall I admit it to you? She has made my life unhappy; she has been the cause of my living abroad—"

"Who was Louise, then? And why should the mention of her name—have killed my father?" She covered her face with her hands, and gave way gently to her tears. He waited a few moments until she regained her composure.

"There are turned down pages in the lives of all men, Miss Brookin—and in the lives of some women. Another time I shall tell you the history of Louise, and let you judge me if you will. But I swear to you now as though I stood in the presence of God, that I did not lead her off by means of a mock marriage—I did not! You may not understand it, but there are times when the man is not alone to blame in these matters. He is involved through his chivalry; and in trying to protect a woman he sometimes ruins both the woman and himself. I have sinned, but if you knew how I suffered you would pity, not blame me. Complete reparation was impossible—but I have done my best; and to-day my life is as free from [redacted] scenes in her own life rose before her as he had spoken. She turned to him, generous and impulsive.

"Forgive me if I have misjudged you." The words surprised and alarmed her. He was not slow to see his opportunity and take advantage of it.

"If you misjudged me, it was natural; for never was a man more unfortunately situated to achieve the dearest wish of his heart than I am." [illegible] and again.

BREAD AND BUTTER STATE.

The New Name Gained for Minnesota by Its Dairy Products and Flour.

Minnesota has heretofore been known as the Gopher state. Now it is beginning to be called the Bread and Butter state. The reason of the change becomes clear when it is said that last year its mills turned out 26,630,000 barrels of flour and there were churned in the state 50,000,000 pounds of butter.

In the product of spring wheat, Minnesota stands at the head of the states of the country and its flour mills are noted not only throughout the northwest, but in foreign countries as well. The extensive development of its dairy interests is comparatively recent.

The combination of wheat and flour with milk and butter is more clearly marked in Minnesota than in any other state. New York and Illinois are important dairy states, but the value of the wheat crop in New York is less than one-third the value of its oat crop, wheat being now one of the minor agricultural products of New York, once the chief wheat state.

Illinois raises a fair amount of wheat, but the corn crop, which is of very much more importance, yields in a year eight dollars to every dollar received from the products of wheat.

A CHAFING DISH DUEL.

Two Experts Cook and Eat Against Each Other with Most Distressing Result.

"The queerest duel I ever heard of was recently fought by two friends of mine," said a clubman lately, reports the Galveston News. "The weapons were chafing dishes, and the result nearly proved fatal to both combatants. They both pride themselves on their knowledge of culinary art, and their arguments had become very wearying to the other members of the club. In order to put a stop to it we succeeded, by various innuendoes carried back and forth, in having one of the fellows challenge the other to combat. It was agreed that six dishes should be prepared by each and eaten by the cook in our presence. The six concoctions selected were lobster a la Newburg, Welsh rarebit, rum omelette, tripe and oysters, chicken livers saute and stewed terrapin. They started gayly enough and in high spirits. The contest, it was agreed, should not exceed two hours. Long before the time was up both were pale and haggard, but they stuck it out to the bitter end, and both are now in the hands of their physicians. If that doesn't cure them of the chafing dish habit I don't know what will."

ORNAMENTATION OF CARS.

Simplicity of Decoration Schemes and Smooth Surfaces Is Now the Rule in Fine Coaches.

To the traveler to day one of the significant changes in the construction of parlor and sleeping cars is the simplicity of their decoration schemes. Where intricate carvings, inlaid work, and delicate traceries once ornamented panels, doors, seats, and the sloping roofs of the cars, as formed by the bottoms of the upper berths, everything is now made as plain and polished as is possible. No unevenness of carving leaves room for dust and dirt. With the bringing out of the grain of the wood the builder is satisfied.

"Ten years ago, says the Chicago Tribune, the car-builders were in the era of extravagance," said an old Pullman conductor. "Then the Pullman and Wagner companies were competing for favor, and spending money for decorations that never were of comfort to passengers. These ornamentations simply caught dust and dirt, and made cleaning almost impossible.

"With the merging of the two companies this extravagance ended. The newer cars now put the upper berth more nearly upright when it is closed in, and it is just a little higher, giving more room to the lower berth passengers. Nearly everybody riding in one of these new cars remarks its cleanliness and sensible design."

COURTING IN BROOKLYN.

Young Man Calls on Young Lady at 10:30 p. m. and Is Arrested Because So Late.

Brooklyn has long been known as nothing if not a city of rest. Gothamites allege that no one ever goes there except to sleep. That the allegation possesses something of truth was shown recently when a young man, innocent of the town's habits, attempted at 10:30 p. m. to call on an object of his devotion and got himself arrested for his indiscretion. The young lady in the case was "not at home at such an hour" explained the maid, who responded to the pull of the bell; and then, acting on the theory that the caller was a burglar, or he would not have called at such an hour, she followed and had him arrested. The magistrate lectured the prisoner on the evils of late calling and then discharged him, a wiser young man.

Big Lump of Gold.

A piece of virgin gold weighing 82.18 ounces troy was put in the melting pot of the United States assay office at Helena, Mont., recently, negotiations for its preservation in nugget form having failed because of the impossibility of an exact assay.

Fish Diseases.

The diseases of fishes are now being carefully and scientifically studied by a scientist under the direction of the government fish commission. Already he has found cures for several fish epidemics which prevail in hatching stations.

TRIAL BY BATTLE.

A Peculiar Right That Was Claimed in England Less Than a Century Ago.

The Dymoke claim of the king's championship reminds one of the antiquity of the office, which was established by the conqueror after the battle of Hastings, when the dignity was conferred on Robert de Marmion, lord of Fontenoay, says the London Chronicle.

But the championship is closely interwoven with the trial by combat. How many Britons, we wonder, are aware that trial by combat formed an essential part of British jurisprudence until the beginning of the reign of George IV., or how it ended?

At that time, there being a charge of murder against a certain Abraham Thornton, the gentleman was advised by his counsel to claim his right of "trial by battle." Accordingly, when brought before the court of king's bench, he flung down his gage.

A solemn argument was afterward held on the case, when the judges were unanimous that he was entitled to wage his battle. The nearest male relative of the deceased, a lad of 16, being manifestly unable to meet Thornton in combat, declined any further proceedings.

The public feeling was so much outraged that the attorney general of the day immediately introduced a bill for abolishing the right of appeal in all criminal cases; a bill which, however, did not pass without opposition.

AN ENTERPRISING EDITOR.

How a Kentucky Journalist Proved Himself to Be a Napoleon of Finance.

Senator Deboe, of Kentucky, tells an interesting story concerning an enterprising editor who ran a paper down in Hardin county, of that state, says the Washington Post.

"The State Fair association," said the senator, "offered a prize of $10 in gold for each of the best samples of corn, oats, and tobacco. This offer gave the editor an idea. He advertised that he would give a year's subscription—worth $2—for the best samples of corn, oats and tobacco that were brought to him within a certain time. The country people jumped at the opportunity to get a year's reading matter on such easy terms. Every farmer in Hardin county brought his contribution, and when all the samples had been deposited the wise editor had a barnful of stuff. On a certain day the corn, oats and tobacco were spread upon tables which ran along three sides of the courthouse square, and after a very prolonged examination the prize was duly awarded. Then the editor picked out the finest ears of corn, the heaviest heads of oats, and the best twists of tobacco, and sent these selections to the state fair. He got the $30 in gold, and besides that he sold enough stuff to the hotel proprietor to pay his board for six months.

RECORD STAMP YEAR.

The Present One Will Be Memorable for the Many New Issues in Several Nations.

The year 1902 will be a memorable one to philatelists, and will beat all previous records. They have already started with the new Edward VII. stamps. A few months will see the new Spanish postal issue, which will be printed after the coronation of Alfonso XIII., in May. America is printing fresh stamps in honor of Mr. Roosevelt, and Germany announces an important new stamp for the coming spring. Switzerland is planning a stamp. Russia will celebrate the second centenary of the building of St. Petersburg by a fresh issue. Finally it is hoped by all ardent philatelists that a limited number of new stamps will be printed this year in honor of the coronation, says the London News. A collector protests against the statement that the philatelists "hope for" a limited number of stamps printed in honor of the coronation. Special and unnecessary issues are, he says, detested by the serious collector, a fact which raises our opinion of the fraternity considerably. He says: "It is one of the charms of specializing in the stamps of Great Britain that this country has been kept singularly free from limited issues, which are supposed to possess a fictitious value"

Names of Congresses.

A congress is officially known by its number; the present is the Fifty-seventh. It is becoming a common practice to designate them as the "first Crisp," the "third Reed," or the "second Henderson," which would be the every-day designation of this one. Occassionally a congress is nicknamed for some distinguishing accomplishment, or for some fault alleged against it by the opposition, as the "billion dollar congress" of 12 years ago. The practice of nicknaming a legislative body has many examples in English parliamentary history. The list includes the "Lack-Learning" parliament, the "Long," which became the "Rump," and was followed by "Barebones'" parliament among others.

What It Costs a Society Girl.

Society in New York is becoming more expensive every season. Twenty years ago a girl could pay off her social obligations by a dainty tea or dance at her home. Now the proper thing is a dance at Sherry's or Delmonico's. The cost of the ballroom alone is $300. Then there are music, flowers and refreshments. So for a trifle of $1,000 a girl can manage to repay obligations she has sustained during a winter's frivolity.

HUNTING IN AFRICA.

The Sport Is Full of Exciting Situations and Incidents.

Native in Pursuit of an Ostrich Is Stalked by Lions—Escapes by Accidental Discharge of Gun and Unusual Garb.

For the first time in nearly 11 years William F. Fagin, of Chicago, has written to a member of his family. Fagin has been a wanderer on the face of the earth for the last ten years and has lived and worked in every continent except Europe and North America.

He came into his money the day he became 21, and immediately made tracks for parts unknown. Reports of him have always come accidentally from those who have happened to meet him. He has written but one letter since he left home, and that was received within a fortnight by his married sister, Mrs. J. B. Thomas, of Boulder, Col.

It begins without preface or explanation, as if he had been a regular correspondent, and is as follows:

"Damaraland, Africa, Nov. 4, 1901.—Dear Ellen: It was in the expectation of finding ostrich feathers that I visited this great thirst-land. I have myself only succeeded in killing two of the birds, though my followers have done better—and of course have brought in their kills to me. I do not think any sportsman or traveler will differ from me when I state that there is no game so difficult to stalk as is this gigantic member of the feathered tribe. Its speed is marvelous; when going at its best pace you can no more distinguish the movement of its legs than you can the spokes in the wheels of a rapidly-moving carriage. It is gifted, also, with extraordinary powers of endurance, and a four or five-mile burst seems only a 'breather.' I had some of the best greyhounds that could be procured at home. In pursuit of ostriches they were absolutely nowhere. My horses I prided myself on, but I should have deemed myself a fit subject for incarceration in a lunatic asylum should I have attempted to gallop one of these birds down.

"When in Damaraland I had in my employment a 'Bastaro' named Swartz. He was a plucky fellow, an excellent hunter and up to the wiles and trickery of every description of game. A number of gemsbok had beeen seen about the wagons at break of day; so, after providing himself with a goodly piece of biltong and drinking a cup of coffee, he proceeded to the westward in the hope of adding some fresh meat to a reduced larder. About midday he returned, looking anything but the happy darky who had so gayly departed a few hours before. Naturally I demanded an explanation—a reason for this sudden change; but a long time elapsed before I received an answer, and then his tongue was only loosened by my giving him a large 'tot' of 'Cape smoke.'

"In unusually good stalking ground he came across some gemsbok with a fine old cock ostrich in their society. Such a bird being worth £100, he resolved to do his level best to get within as short a range as possible of the prize. With the utmost care he wormed himself from one ant hill to another, till he all but considered that success was a certainty. Then he rested, to see that the powder was up in the nipple of his old muzzle-loader and to replace the old cap with a fresh one, but, while thus engaged, he chanced to look behind him, and to his horror discovered that while he had been stalking the ostrich he himself had been stalked by two lions, at the moment not 30 yards in his rear. In the excitement the gun went off, not aimed at anything, but probably the fusillade saved my henchman's life, for the lions, on hearing it, rose from their crouched position, stared at him for a few moments and then slowly retired. How he was followed so far without being attacked I can only account for by his being clothed and in such an unusual position that the lions mistook him for some unknown beast."

Strange Mixture of Terms.

Church news and gambling terms are curiously commingled in the following item, which appears in the religious column of a paper in Hutchinson, Kan.: "The Baptist church at Leoti will lose its pastor because another church has raised the ante. The Leoti people refuse to call the raise, and will stay out and draw another pastor."

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. athletes will be held Friday evening, when the subject of a baseball team will be definitely decided upon. The Leal's school team will be present and the members will express their views on the merging question.

John H. Cose, manager of the Hope baseball team, intends making a strong bid for public patronage at the coming season's games. He has sufficient funds at his disposal to erect large and commodous bleachers on the field and the diamond will be the best in the city. As for the team itself, he proposes making it invincible. Applicants for positions will be put through severe tests and only the survivors will be given places.

Great success is attending the efforts of Alex. Muir to form a baseball team from among the employes of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe works. There is a quantity of good material to select from, the only drawback being the lack of a pitcher. Several men have applied for the position but no choice has as yet been made. Mr. Muir will manage the team and he will be assisted by William Symons, a one time member of the strong P. A. C., which represented Plainfield for several seasons a short time ago.

The St. Mary baseball team, which has now been formally organized, will begin practice games as soon as the weather moderates. Every position is filled with the exception of pitcher which is still in doubt. If Lawrence Doyle, last season's pitcher, can arrange matters, he will twirl again this season but as yet he can give no definite answer. At any rate he will pitch as often as possible and another twirler will be kept in reserve. Manager Monahan intends to make this a strong point in his team this year. The team is already equipped with nearly all the necessary paraphernalia for beginning the season and the remainder will be purchased next month. Last year's uniforms with the addition of new jerseys, caps and stockings, will be used. The field at Fourth street and Darrow avenue will be retained for games and, with the money made at the coming fair, the ground will be thoroughly gone over and put in shape.

HALED TO STATION.

Then a Friend Saved Albert Atkinson From Going to Jail for Delinquent Taxes.

Constable William R. Mattox made his first arrest yesterday of a delinquent taxpayer, Albert Atkinson, of West Fourth street. The later owed taxes amounting to $5.04, but the interest and costs ran it up to over $7.

Mattox went to Atkinson's house yesterday and, when the latter said he could not pay, took him to the North Avenue station, where two tickets were purchased to take the delinquent to Elizabeth. A few minutes before train time, John Lynch, a hackman, came forward and loaned Atkinson the necessary money, thus paying the debt. The constable is determined to carry out his part of the programme and will arrest all delinquents who do not pay up.

New Netherwood Residence.

James Stewart, of Leland avenue, has been granted a permit by Building Inspector Doane to erect a house at the corner of Belvidere and LaGrande avenues. The structure will cost $5,000 and will be built on the lines of a colonial dwelling. Fred Bowe will do the carpentry work while Mr. Stewart himself will attend to the masonry.

Clergymen Entertained.

The regular meeting of the Plainfield Ministers' Association was held yesterday at the home of Rev. L. E. Howard, of Madison avenue. A paper was read by Rev. George W. Gardner, of Grace M. E. church. His subject was "Islam" and its founder. After the presentation of the paper there was a social time and supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Wadsworth and daughier, Miss Wadsworth, have returned from a stay in New York to their home in West Eighth street.

Mrs. James Martin, of the West End, has been detained at her home with heart trouble, but with skillful treatment by her physician, Dr. Brakeley, she is recovering.

LIFE IN NAVY.

Graphically Pictured at Y. M. C. A. Hall by Commander Wadhams, of the U. S. Navy.

Commander Wadhams, U. S. Navy, appeared at the Y. M. C. A., last evening, in a regular Star Course entertainment. He was to have appeared two weeks ago, but a severe storm detained him. Commander Wadhams is an excellent speaker and he gave a fair idea of life in the navy.

He compared the old days in the navy with the present with the heavy mammoth fighting ships of today. He said that a few years ago the United States stood nineteenth in the list of naval powers. Today she stands fourth, with fair prospects of getting higher.

The speaker described the work of discharging the small and big guns on such a warship as the Oregon, and he gave his audience a good idea of the weight and velocity of the projectiles thrown by the thirteen inch guns. In his story Commander Wadhams said that the church pennant was the only thing allowed to float above the American colors on a warship, and this was allowed only on Sundays. He told of the famous commanders of the navy and of their devotion to duty.

DIDN'T LIKE IT.

Mary Donnelley Gave Her Idea of Judge's Sentence—A Month More.

Charles and Mary Donnelly, father and daughter, both drunk, were arrested at DeLago's boarding house on North avenue by Patrolman Totten, last night at midnight. With the assistance of Patrloman Gamo, they were escorted ot police headquarters.

This morning both were given thirty days by City Judge Runyon, which they declared was unjust. Mary became so impudent and abusive as she was being led to her cell that she was called back and had another month added to her time.

Gave Him Birthday Party.

In honor of the sixty-first birthday of Borough Recorder Thomas Doud, of Duer street, his son-in-law, James R. Blair, of the same thoroughfare, gave a dinner party last evening. Those present included the recorder and his wife, his son-in-law, H. C. McVoy, and wife, of Sandford avenue, and his sons, William and John Doud. Although past the three-score mark the guest of honor is hearty and vigorous.

New Rector in Charge.

Rev. William Vincent Dawson assumed charge of St. Stephen's parish, Netherwood, yesterday. He will officiate for the first time here at the regular Lenten service tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Why He Wanted to Sell Out.

"I notice," said the man who had called in answer to an advertisement, "you state that you wish to sell out this business and can give good reason for doing so. May I ask what is your reason?"

"Certainly," answered the other man. "The reason why I want to sell out this business is that I'm not making any money at it."—Chicago Tribune.

A Month of Sundays.

As each day of the week is observed as Sunday by some nation, a month of Sundays is just an ordinary month. The first day of the week is our Christian Sunday; Monday is the sacred day of the Persians; Wednesday of the Assyrians; Thursday of the Egyptians; Friday of the Turks, and Saturday is the Sabbath of the Jews.—N. STEP TOWARD CONSOLIDATION

Assembly Passed Greater Plainfield Bills at Yesterday Morning's Session.

UP TO THE SENATE NOW.

All Three Bills Were Passed by Large Votes—Assemblyman Newcorn Spoke in Their Favor—Are Considered by the Senate Next — The Votes.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 12—The three bills, intended to make Greater Plainfield a reality, were passed by the Assembly, yesterday morning. They will next come before the Senate for consideration.

Previous to the vote on the blil, Assemblyman Newcorn, of Plainfield, made a strong argument in favor of their passage, representing that it was the desire of Union county and Plainfield that the two municipalities be united. Assemblyman Hoagland, of Somerset county, did not make any objection.

House bill No. 153, the general act to facilitate the consolidation, was passed by a vote of fifty to two. House bill No. 154, providing for the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield, with a referendum provision, was passed by a vote of forty-seven to seven. House bill No. 155, providing for the annexation of North Plainfield to Union county, went through with a vote of forty-two to eight.

A number of other bills were passed in both House and Senate and the Senate confirmed the appointments recently presented by Governor Murphy. It was decided to favor adjournment March 27 if possible.

CELLAR DIGGERS.

Borough Organization Pledged to Dig Cellar for Desired Fire Headquarters.

A meeting of the Cellar Diggers Club, a civic organization in North Plainfield, was held in the usual place, Stahl's store, Monday evening, and the report of John Carney was read and discussed. Owing to the absence of Recorder Doud, the chairman of the association, who was celebrating his sixty-first birthday, no definite action was taken on the report, which was made up of facts and figures concerning the feasibility of erecting a new fire headquarters.

There are thirty members in the organization at the present time, but this number is not considered sufficient to dig the cellar of the proposed structure, and civic revival meetings are planned to argument the membership.

FOUND ACCOUNT BOOK.

W. E. MacClymont Made a Remarkable Find in Ruins of the Fire.

While hunting in the rubbish of the Babcock building ruins for a trace of his effects, William E. MacClymont, who had rooms in the structure, found the remains of an account book yesterday. The book contained his accounts for this year and last year as well. That portion of the volume containing the debits and credits for last year was totally destroyed, but that have entries for the current year was intact. Mr. MacClymont considers himself very fortunate inasmuch as all of last year's accounts were settled.

Heavy Loss.

The loss sustained by the Plainfield Camera Club will be adjusted this week by the agent, W. H. Abbot. The loss will go over $1,000, but it is doubtful if the club will receive the full amount. There are many things lost that money cannot replace.

To be Bookkeeper.

Thomas R. Mead, formerly of the firm of Baker & Mead, grocers, Scotch Plains, has accepted a position as bookkeeper with J. A. Smith & Bro., grocers, and will enter on his duties Monday.

Western Visitors.

John and Daniel Allen, of Delavan, Ill., are visiting relatives in the borough for a time. They came to Plainfield to attend the funeral of a relative, Mrs. Allen.

Canal Now Open.

The Delaware and Raritan Canal was opened this week to navigation, thus permitting the many boats that have been held all winter to go on carrying freight.

SIGNS OF LIFE AT JERSEY COAST RESORTS

Evidences of an Early Opening of Active Season at Asbury Park This Year.

COTTAGES RENTING FAST

FIVE HOTELS WILL OPEN IN TWO WEEKS TO CATCH EARLY TRADE.

Season Will Probably Begin in May—Other Resorts Are Feeling the Boom Which is Already Noticeable at the Park.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, March 12—Signs of a business revival in Asbury Park, and preparations for the coming season, are growing more pronounced every day, and all indications point to an early opening in May. Many of the most desirable cottages have already been rented. There has been a vast amount of improvement in the hotel district, where several popular hostleries have undergone alterations and enlargement during the winter. While there is little hope of a new board walk this year, there is every reason to believe that the beach will be purchased or transferred to the city next fall. Bills to legalize the proposed purchase have been introduced in the present Legislature, and will no doubt become law without opposition.

Other legislation affected through the exertions of the City Council will bring to the baby parade and lake carnival a premanent appropriation, which cannot fail to insure the success of these midsummer features. For several years Asbury Park has been reaching out for spring visitors, and it is a well-known fact that its winter hotels this year were crowded during the holidays. To meet the increasing demand for rooms in the months of April and May five hotels will open their doors within the next two weeks. These houses are adapted to winter business, and through recent improvement may be regarded as luxuriously appointed.

The range of amusement in the seaside city extends from the parlor dance to the fashionable function. On the beach the sun parlors are kept open, and women attendants are employed during the spring months. The parlors are warm and attractive, and are liberally patronized.

At Allenhurst seven new cottages are being erected. The Allenhurst Inn will not be rebuilt until next fall. Proprietor Quinn, of New York, who bought the old inn which was burned last summer, recently stated in conversation that he would erect a new hotel on the old site next year that would eclipse any establishment of the kind to be found anywhere on the Jersey coast.

The golf links at Deal are being put in order and many Sunday players are noticed on the field. The clubhouse is kept open all the year around, and it is a popular centre for winter visitors who are registered at the Asbury Park hotels.

Signs of a general awakening on the coast are visible everywhere, and the first few warm days will witness a general influx of cottage residents both in Asbury Park and its suburbs.

AGAIN ON THE LIST.

High Schoool Pupils May Enter Vassar on Certificate.

Acknowledgement of the high standard of the Plainfield High School has been made by the authorities at Vassar College, the famous institution for young women. As is the rule with all colleges, Vassar has permitted graduates of certain schools and acadamies to enter without any formal examination, the certificate being the only requirement.

Beginning with the first of the year all certificate privileges were withdrawn. But now comes the welcome news to Principal Travell from the secretary of Vassar that all graduates of the local High School certified to by him will be admitted to the freshman class. This privilege will not expire for three years. This privilege has been again granted to only a limited number of high and preparatory schools.

Next Star Course Programme.

The entertainment to be provided by the Mendelssohn Quartette Company, in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course Monday evening, will consist of selections by the male quartette, solos by Helen Faye, soprano, and impersonations by Marguerite Smith, who is said to be the queen of child impersonators.

MINSTRELS AT HOPE CHAPEL

Opening Performance of Minstrel Show Last Night Made a Great Hit.

GIVEN AGAIN TONIGHT.

Cracked Funny Jokes, Sang Good Songs and Did Remarkable Stunts Before an Audience That Packed the Room—Those Who Took Part.

Sparkling with flashes of wit and satire the initial production of the Hope chapel Young Men's Association minstrel show, last evening, delighted a large audience. Fully 750 people were present and the Sunday-school room of the chapel, where the performance was given, was crowded to the very doors. Many were turned away before the entertainment commenced, but they will have the opportunity of witnessing the second exhibition this evening.

Brightness was the feature of the affair throughout. Bursts of laughter, long and hearty, met the funny sayings and songs of the end men in the first part of the show, and the funny stunts of those participating in the piece entitled "The Nigger Night School," which was classified on the programme as "a sad little melodrama in one act." A good lot of specialties appeared in the olio.

As for the hits of the end men, they were aimed at almost everybody. The local police force came in for some good natured jabs, Patrolman McCarthy receiving the worst punishment. "Carrie Nation" Higgins, "Jim" Saunders, George Lunger and "Bill" Mattox were the other officers "touched up." "Farmer Orator" Martine, the local trolley company and the Central Railroad formed the basis of some enjoyable humor.

When the curtain went up the entire company, twenty-seven in the chorus and four end men, sang "Dixie" with spirit. City Judge William N. Runyon, the originator, coach and manager of the affair, acted as accompanist and directed the performance throughout. This was followed by an opening chorus entitled "The Y. M. A.," composed and set to music by Judge Runyon. "The Sousa Girl," was the grand overture preceding "a few gentle knocks" by "Bones" Fred Dixon, who provoked much applause by his sallies of humor. A few letters expressing inability to attend the affair were particularly good. One was from the city editor of The Daily Press, who stated that he was busy writing an editorial on the "little white fence."

After the applause had subsided, "Tambo" George Cose rendered "Everybody Has a Whistle Like Me," with good expression. "Some sinnipipious sayings" were given by "Bones" Matthew Sweeney, certain local merchants being the butt of his jokes. Augustus Feiring sang "Sometimes, Dear Heart" in has usual style. Then came "Tambo" Thomas Muir to the fore with some "cheerful chatter," which was bright indeed. He followed this up with a topical song, entitled "If I Had Only Been Born a Millionaire." The laughter and applause he caused was flattering indeed. In full the song, which was the joint composition of Wm. N. Runyon and the singer is as follows:

IF I ONLY HAD BEEN BORN A MILLIONAIRE.

Listen while I sing to you of the many things I'd do,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
Of the change I'd bring about, turning Plainfield inside out,
If I only had been born a millionaire:
I would furnish much surprise and the folks would rub their eyes,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
I would set so fast a pace that you'd never know the place,
If I only had been born a millionaire.

Chorus: (by entire company.)

Me, Oh my, he'd be very, very fly,
If he only had been born a millionaire;
He would throw an awful bluff, he'd be very hot stuff;
If he only had been born a millionaire.

I would soon provide a place for the folks who love to race,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
With their cutters and their sleighs, they could all indulge their craze
If I only had been born a millionaire.
They would suffer no restraint and no crank could make complaint,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
For I'd buy up all the streets, line the gutters down with seats,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
I would make an awful fight with the borough to unite,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
Trenton soon would legislate so we might consolidate,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
With the town and borough one, very soon you'd see some fun,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
For I'd make the welkin ring and I'd crown Newt. Smalley king
If I only had been born a millionaire.

I would help Policeman Nick work his merry Christmas trick,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
I'd present him many a gift, just to give his Nibs a lift,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
I would fill his sock with doe from the top down to the toe,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
He need never draw his pay, he'd have Christmas every day,
If I only had been born a millionaire.

You can bet your life I'd go for the Plainfield Trolley Co.,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
I'd give them an awful shock, for I'd buy up all their stock,
If I only had been born a millionaire.
I would take each rotten car with it's flat wheel and its jar,
If I only had been born a millionaire,
And I'd break it up for sure into kindling for the poor,
If I only had been born a millionaire.

"Tambo" George Cose gave "a little heart-to-heart talk," being a collection of witty sayings provoking plenty of enjoyment. "Every Race Has a Flag But the Coon" was sung as the curtain was rung down, and end men being assisted by the chorus and little Marvin Carter, a colored lad who waved the American banner as his flag.

In the second part of the entertainment Tony Lusardi, Ira C. Bowers and B. Collins Firstbrook gave an appetizing little skit entitled "High Life in Coontown," which was well done. The first two performers gave some buck and wing shuffles. A remarkable exhibition was given by Frank Shepherd on the slack wire. While on the wire he twirled a baton and did other tricks to the wonderment of the audience.

"Rollicking Rag Time Ripples" was the label on the sketch in which Arthur and Bert Sherman executed in breezy fashion. A comic acrobatic performance was given by Bert Hansen, William Hickey, Frank Shepherd and Clarence Pope. Some exciting features made this attractive. As a finale to the second part Joseph Loughead gave a "musical tragedy" entitle "A Poor, Innocent Banjo Tickled to Death." This proved a good climax to the olio.

The one act play, "The Nigger Night School," was worth the price of admission in itself. It was a roaring farce, filled with numerous local hits. The caste was: "Dr. Solon Sloe," professor of science and philosophy, Thomas Muir; "Andy White," a precocious child with a steady run of hard luck, Matthew Sweeney; 'Zeke Johnson," a tall, willowy youth with a great ambition to learn, Fred Dixon; "Sam Snow" head of his class every few minutes, Charles Smith; "Pete Persimmons," a little ray of sunshine, B. Collins Firstbrook, and "Deborah White," Andy's mother, a lovely lady with a mildewed temper, John Cose. The lack of discipline in the school cropped out continually in a way that was most laughable. One of the features of this play, as indeed the entire affair, was the costuming of the participants.

Those in the show were: Wm. N. Runyon, director, Ira C. Bowers, George B. Cose, John H. Cose, Irving B. DeHart, Frederick J. Dixon, John L. Duckworth, Benjamin W. Evans, Augustus Feiring, Bertram C. Firstbrook, Walter Foster, Arthur B. Fritts, John A. Gray, Albert Greib, Percy E. Hand, Bert Hansen, Will Hickey, Lendrum Jennings, Joseph Loughead, Tony Lusardi, George A. McComb, Frank M. Mague, William E. Mague, Alfred B. Marsh, David B. Martin, James F. Montross, Alexander Muir, Thomas Muir, Clarence Pope, William S. Porter, Claude J. Roseberry, Frank Shepherd, Arthur M. Sherman, Bert B. Sherman, John B. Slorah, Charles L. D. Smith, Matthew Thompson, George T. Whitley.

The ushers were Frederick J. Wharton, George Firstbrook, James Slorah, and Adam Angerbauer.

INJURED BY TORPEDO.

Elmer Miller Cut by Flying Fragments of a Railroad Torpedo Last Evening.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 12—Elmer Miller, of 20 Elmer street, met with a peculiar accident, last evening at 7:30 o'clock, while boarding a trolley car for Elizabeth.

There was a railroad torpedo on the trolley tracks and just as Miller was getting on the car the torpedo exploded. The fragments struck Miller's hand, cutting it severely. He was also stunned considerably.

He was assisted to the Westfield Pharmacy, where temporary aid was given until Dr. Sinclair could be summoned and dress his wounds. This is the second accident Miller has had on the trolley within a few months.

COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE

Settle Definitely if Any City Employes Failed to Do Their Duty at Fire.

PEOPLE BEEN TALKING.

Fire and Police Committees of Council Will Hold a Joint Meeting Tomorrow Evening to See If There is Any Truth in the Current Rumors.

Owing to the criticism regarding the tardiness in the discovery of the fire in the Babcock building, the operation of the fire hydrants, the low pressure and the various acts of certain employes of the city, as well as the Plainfield Water Supply Company, the fire and police committees from the Common Council have decided to have an investigation made for the purpose of determining if anyone was to blame and, if so, what course is to be pursued. These two committees will meet tomorrow evening, when an investigation will be started.

It has been intimated by some that the police should have discovered the fire earlier in the night, especially when so many persons living blocks away were awakened by the smell of smoke, while others, including milkmen making their rounds, saw the smoke before an alarm was sent in. This matter will be investigated and the blame, if any, placed where it belongs.

B. R. Waldron, the milkman, says that when at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, he saw the smoke and not seeing a policeman about ran to headquarters, where several policemen were congregated. He informed them of the fire and one of the number pulled box 12 at the corner of Front and Somerset streets. This, it was afterwards learned was done after box 41, near the electric light station, was pulled by Mr. Bennett, who was on duty there and was one of those who discovered the fire.

Another matter for investigation will be that regarding the use of the fire hydrants. It has been said by Superintendent Amos Andrews, of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, and corroborated by Chief Doane, of the fire department, that the hydrants were not opened full and for this reason the full pressure was not obtained. There seems to be proof that Mr. Andrews opened the hydrants later in the morning and then the full pressure was furnished.

It order to satisfy those concerned it will be ascertained whether the hydrants were opened full or not, and if not why not. If there is any blame attached to the water company the Council wants to know it, and if the firemen are to blame proper measures are to be taken to see that such a condition of things does not occur again. It has been said that the firemen who manned the hydrants were not fully acquainted with their workings and for this reason did not know what the trouble was. If this is true the Council will no doubt urge that proper drills be given the men so that they may become proficient in their work.

Exchanged Property.

Lawyer Charles L. Moffett has traded some vacant lots in the West End for the property at the corner of Lincoln place and Duer street. The latter property includes that occupied by W. W. Dunn, the grocer, and the new residence on Lincoln place adjoining. Mr. Moffett made the change with C. E. Gulick.

Without Quarters.

The Loyal Temperance Legion met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, on Orchard place. There was a full attendance and a very interesting meeting was held. Until the W. C. T. U.'s place of meeting is decided upon this organization will meet at a private residence.

Regular Schedule Resumed.

Though the service of the New Jersey Central was considerably impaired by reason of the recent floods, through extraordinary exertions the lines have been put into shape, and on Thursday, March 6, trains on the main line began their regular schedules.

Rectified Difficulty.

The maze of trolley wires at the corner of Front and Somerset streets sagged very low yesterday and threatened to fall. The repair gang was called out and put up an entire set of new braces.

SPRING ELECTIONS IN BOROUGHS AND TOWNS

Plainfield's Neighbors Selected Local Officers at Elections Held Yesterday.

FEW EXCITING CONTESTS

BUT IN MOST CASES THERE WAS VERY LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN.

Dunellen Went Republican—Democrats Won in New Market and Somerville—Scudder Defeated at Westfield—The Vote.

The spring elections were held in the boroughs and townships of the State, yesterday. With few exceptions, there was comparatively little interest taken. A few hot contests developed, and there were some surpises.

SURPRISE IN DUNELLEN

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, March 12—There was a Republican victory at the election held here yesterday. The Democrats fully expected to win from the start and in some respects the result is a surprise. Both parties worked very hard all day. There were 276 votes cast and two rejected. The result is as follows:

Councilmen, three years, A. N. Randolph, Rep., 148; F. K. Wilcox, Rep., 139; W. J. Winges, Dem., 133; C. D. Boice, Dem., 121; for two years, W. S. Fredericks, Rep., 142; W. N. Apgar, Dem., 128; for one year, J. N. Apgar, Rep., 142; P. C. Ising, Dem., 107.

Samuel Luckey was re-elected commissioner of appeal on both tickets. For borough purposes $2,500 was voted and $150 for support of poor.

ELECTION AT WESTFIELD

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 12—The election yesterday resulted in complete victory for the Republican ticket. It was a quiet day and very little interest was taken by the voters. The surprising feature was the election of W. W. Connoly, Republican, by a majority of five over M. M. Scudder, Democrat, for freeholder.

George Delatour, Republican, was elected town committeeman, by a majority of 53, over William Tuttle, Jr., Democrat. Charles D. Reese was on both tickets for town clerk and he received a full vote.

OVER AT PISCATAWAY.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, March 12—The Democrats succeeded in electing all of their candidates, except town clerk, at yesterday's election. The vote was one of the largest yet polled

The result is as follows:

Freeholder, Manning, Dem., 224; Ziba Osmun, Rep., 140. Town clerk, Charles Day, Rep., 190; A. B. Nelson, Dem., 174. Town committeeman, C. DeWitt Giles, Dem., 240; Calvin Boice, Rep., 125. Surveyors of highways, Frederick Holden, Dem., 188; Lewis Harris, Dem., 187; Luther Boice, Rep., 177; Albert Boice, Rep., 175. Overseer of poor, Lewis Walker, Dem., 198; J. C. Morris, Rep., 169. Commissioner of appeal, J. E. Meeker, Dem., 192; Arthur Tappen, Rep., 177. Justice of the peace, Clark T. Rogers, Dem., 192; P. J. VonMinden, Rep., 174. Poundkeepers, 1 year, Sam'l Pyatt, Rep.-Dem., 368; Geo. Conover, Dem., 192; C. T. Rogers, Dem., 192; E. Schenck, Dem., 191; Richard Garretson, Rep., 178; Peter M. Smith, Rep., 178; W. B. Smith, Rep. 178; John Dent, Rep., 176. Constable, George Schenck, Dem., 198; Samuel Pyatt, Dem., 191; W. H. Polhemus, Rep., 175; LeRoy Pierce, Rep., 161.

There were in all 370 votes cast and five rejected. One railroad ticket was found in the box. The sum of $1,200 was appropriated for the poor and $2,500 for roads. The township committee was authorized to use $5,000 of present funds of $10,000 for use on roads. This is the first time in years that the Democrats have won such a victory.

BRIDGEWATER'S SWEEP.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 12—The Democrats, of Bridgewater township, came near making it a clean sweep at yesterday's election. Their entire ticket, with the exception of overseer of the poor and two constables, was elected.

The winning candidates are as follows:

Freeholder, William J. Logan, D.;

RICH HAUL OF JEWELRY

Thieves Entered House of A. C. Vail Early Last Evening and Made Big Haul.

WAS VALUED AT $5,800.

Worked While Family Was at Dinner—Reward Offered—No Clue to Robbers—Itemized List of Articles Stolen—How They Discovered Their Loss.

What is considered to be the largest theft of jewelry ever committed in the city, occurred at the home of A. C. Vail, of West Eighth street and Madison avenue, sometime between 7:30 and 8 o'clock last evening. Ornaments, consisting of diamonds, emeralds, turquoises and rubies belonging to Mrs. Vail and her daughter, Miss Caroline Vail, were stolen from their bureaus while they were at dinner. Mr. Vail declares the value to be at least $5,800 and has offered a reward of $2,500 for the return of the jewels.

Evidence furnished by the family, with the exception of Mr. Vail, who was in New York, tends to show that the robber or robbers, climbed the veranda posts and entered by a front window. A careful examination made by the police failed to show any footprints about the house Miss Julia Finley, a domestic, was in the upper rooms at 7:30 and at that time everything was in its place. The robbery was discovered at 8 o'clock by Mrs. and Miss Vail when they went to dress.

In an itemized list furnished the police, Miss Vail places the value of the jewelry at $3,400. It is as follows:

Gold open face, enamel watch, enamel watch set with diamonds, large solitaire diamond ring, medium solitaire diamond ring, cluster solitaire diamond ring, small solitaire diamond finger ring, half loop ring set with five diamonds, half loop ring set with five small diamonds, ring with two rubies and two diamonds in center, finger ring with two small rubies and one small diamond, man's filigree ring set with diamonds, diamond sunburst brooch, small diamond crescent brooch, long diamond crescent brooch, small diamond star stick pin, diamond pins set in platinum, miniature brooch surmounted with whole pearls, Chrysanthemum shaped baroque pearl pin, set with small diamonds, gold brooch studded with olivenes and diamonds, golf bag design gold brooch with olivenes and diamonds, small pearl bow-knot enamel pin, gold wreath with one small diamond, long Warsaw gold pin white green and red enamel, old fashioned ruby ring, small locket with diamonds in front, and monogram C. L. V., baroque pearl pendant with very small diamonds, three small studs set with small stones, gold campaign button dated 1888, heart shaped brooch with one large diamond and other stones in center, two stone diamond ring, lorgnette set with diamonds, long gold chain, turquoise ring set with diamonds, ring with two diamonds and emerald in center, old fashioned diamond ring with one large stone, amethyst ring with diamond cross, gold ring with polished stone resembling agate, gold open face watch with monogram M. L. V. on back.

LIBRARY AFFAIRS.

Routine Business at Special Meeting of Library Directors.

A special meeting of the Board of Library Directors was held last evening. There were present J. Evarts Tracy, E. C. Perkins, J. B. Dumont, Alex. Gilbert, W. H. Larrabee, and W. M. Stillman.

The library committee reported a list of duplicate and other books, which on motion were ordered sold under the direction of the librarian. The library committee also recommended the publication of a list of books on travel and history, which recommendation was adopted and the list ordered printed. Bills for the General Library were ordered paid from the general fund and those of those of the Babcock from the Babcock fund. The February report of the librarian was received and ordered on file.

On Duty Again.

John Adelmann has resumed his duties as a marshal on the borough police force after a few days' absence.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Fred Firstbrook, the Liberty street grocer, has received a large consignment of California oranges and fruit. He gives double green trading stamps on Saturdays.

New acquaintances do not always wear well, neither do new shoes, but there's an exception in the case of the Waldorf shoe. Its lasting qualities are its pricipal features. Sold at the North avenue shoe store.

If you haven't time through the week call on Saturday at Willett & Son's shoe store. They have received their spring goods. Their patent leather button shoe is very swell and quite proper for this season.

In these days a merchant to properly handle his trade must have plenty of room. For this reasonn W. H. Sebring, the tailor, has established himself in new quarters on Park avenue. His line of goods are the best and he guarantees satisfaction.

When one considers the importance of getting the very best lace and embroidery, the kind that wears well and always looks well, it is easy to understand that Peck, of West Front street, has an exclusive trade in this line. His goods are the finest and always worth the price.

The Indians had a handy way of relieving one from the danger of dandruff, but it certainly was injurious to the health of the person scalped. To save the hair and cure dandruff use Glyco Balsam Hair Tonic, sold only at the Watchung Pharmacy, corner of North and Watchung avenues.

If you wish to buy a clock or watch, or any design in jewelry drop in and consult Collier, the Park avenue jeweler and optician. He has one of the finest and most complete assortments in the city and the prices are within the reach of all. Expert repairing and eyes examined free.

For fish and seafood that is just what it is represented to be, Rogers' Sea Food market is the place. Everything in the stalls is direct from the nets and carefully selected by experienced buyers. You don't run any risks and you save money by trading with the Rogers company. Orders delivered before breakfast if asked for.

THEATRICAL.

At Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, another brilliant programme is offered next week. The Great Sandow, who has proven the sensation of the year, will complete his last week at this theatre, in his beautiful poses, and wonderful feats of strength. This is positively the last opportunity to see this wondrous artist, whose fame is international. Those sterling comedians, Al Shean and Chas. T. Warren, will also offer their greatest laughing success entitled "Kidding the Captain." This sketch is guaranteed not to fade and will cure any case of the blues. Some of the other stars will include the Quaker City Quartette in "Fun in a Barber Shop," one of the best singing acts in vaudeville; also Georgia Gardner and Joseph Madden; the three Dumonds, French musical grotesques; Mark Sullivan, the celebrated mimic; Mlle. Chester and her statue dog; Eldora and Norine, the jugglers; and twenty other great acts. Noon till 11 p. m.; 50 cents.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Seely, of Woodbridge, has been visiting Plainfield relatives for a time.

Harry Dorman, of West Third street, is home from a visit with Easton relatives.

Mrs. DuBois, of Park avenue, is visiting relatives at Whitehouse for a time.

Miss Jennie Maloney, of East Fifth street, has returned from a visit with friends at Junction.

Mrs. M. A. Furman, of Englewood, has returned home after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Warnock.

Mrs. George L. Dufford, of Somerset place, has returned from a visit with relatives in Hunterdon county.

Garret Keating, of Essex street, who has been ill for the past two months with pneumonia, has so far recovered as to be able to sit up.

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It softens and liquifies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. "One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace, J. Q. Hood, Crosby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family." L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Senator Reed has introduced a bill providing that trolley companies may run freight cars, erect platforms and sidings for the freight business and have all the rights of common carriers.

The only condition prescribed is that the municipal body having charge of the public streets shall give its formal consent.

Trolley cars are a burden on the easement, but for the convenience of the traveling public every one is willing to put up with the inconvenience, but very few residents of any city will be willing to have the public streets used for freight trolley lines.

Jersey City's best and busiest thoroughfares are practically given up to trolley cars now, but with trolley freight cars, or trolley freight trains, the pressure on the streets would be insupportable.

It is true that the consent of the street and water board is required to make the trolley companies common carriers, but the street and water board of this city has been a very poor defence between corporations and the rights of the people in the past, and it will be safer not to subject that board to such a strain.—Jersey City Journal.

LITERARY.

There are very few first-class journals devoted to the advancement of the amateur photographer, that is the kind that are practical and of much help to the camera enthusiast. Those in search of such a journal will find in The Camera, a magazine published by the Camera Publishing Co., at 114-120 South Seventh street, Philadelphia, a most excellent periodical that will greatly assist the camera fiend in his work. It is well edited and filled with helpful suggestions, articles on picture-making and beautiful pictures. The subscription price is $1 a year or 10 cents a copy.

Not one person in ten thousand of those who will read Helen Keller's own story of her life, when it begins in an early issue of The Ladies' Home Journal, will have the least conception of the amount of hard work required to write the story. First of all Miss Keller puts down her ideas "in Braille," as the blind express it; that is to say, in the system of "points" raised on paper by means of a stylus and slate devised to aid the blind, these "points" being read afterward by passing the sensitive fingers over them. When all of this "Braille" work has been completed Miss Keller goes to her typewriter and uses these notes as a guide to the rewriting of the story. As soon as a page of the matter is typewritten it is, so to speak, lost to Miss Keller, who has to depend upon her faithful teacher, Miss Sullivan, to repeat it to her by spelling out each sentence by means of the hands. It is a tedious task, especially as some of the pages have to be read again and again, with changes here and there, before Miss Keller is satisfied. Then, when the proofs are sent to her, all this slow process of spelling word after word has to be gone through once more, so that each word that Helen Keller writes goes through her fingers at least five times. It will be a satisfaction to everybody to know that the publishers of The Journal have recognized in a substantial manner the extraordinary ability and patience which Miss Keller has shown in her work.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. Truitt at Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Truitt, who are occupying an apartment at the Gladstone, Philadelphia, will be at home to their friends on Thursdays during Lent. Mrs. Truitt will be remembered as Miss Mary E. Wilson, of North Plainfield.

Joseph T. Case, of East Second street, who was seriously ill with typhoid fever, is now able to sit up a little each day.

Col. Mason W. Tyler, of West Seventh street, has sufficiently recovered from his serious illness so as to be about the house.

CANAL IMPROVEMENT.

New York Assembly Bill Advanced to a Third Reading.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—The Weekes concurrent resolution, which provides for the submission to the people of a proposition to spend $37,800,000 for the improvement of the canals of the state, was debated at great length in the assembly yesterday. These amendments were offered at the close of Mr. Weekes' argument:

Mr. Phillips, that the tax for the improvement be levied on canal counties.

Mr. Stiles, that the Black River canal be included.

Mr. Barrett, that contracts be awarded to lowest bidders unless such shall be proved irresponsible.

Mr. Dickinson, that the proposition shall be decided by a majority of all electors voting next fall.

Mr. Moran, including the Seneca and Cayuga canals.

Mr. Treat, that the taxpayers and not the electors generally decide the proposition at the polls.

Mr. Kelsey, substituting the original $28,800,000 expenditure.

After an extended debate the resolution was advanced to third reading by a vote of 75 yeas to 58 nays, all of the amendments being defeated.

The assembly excise committee gave a hearing on the Bennet bill providing for the submission of the excise referendum throughout the state by election districts and the Knipp bill prohibiting the use of the saloon side door and increasing the license fee according to the class of cities. A number of liquor dealers were present.

The senate cities committee gave a hearing on the Kelsey bill, which provides that women may exercise the right of suffrage on questions of appropriations, etc., in cities of the third class. The principal speech in favor of the bill was made by Miss Harriett May Mills of Syracuse.

American Coal in Germany.

BERLIN, March 12.—August Schulze, who imported several thousand tons of Pennsylvania anthracite coal and who placed orders for this product contingent upon the likings of the consumers, says the result has been unsatisfactory, not owing to the quality of the coal, but because the German householders do not know how to burn it, their stoves not having sufficient draft for such hard coal. Herr Schulze says that English anthracite coal can be burned in smaller quantities and at a lower draft. Continuing, Herr Schulze says that in despite of these obstacles Germany must in the future depend upon the United States for her supply of anthracite, since Great Britain scarcely produces enough for her own consumption.

Blasphemer Stricken Dumb.

BALTIMORE, March 12.—John Kelly, forty-four years old, according to a statement made by his wife and supplemented by a statement written on a sheet of paper by himself and presented to Justice White of the Northern district police station in this city, was suddenly stricken dumb while cursing and blaspheming. The prisoner, when brought before the justice, laboriously made all his statements in writing. Mrs. Kelly told Lieutenant Dempsey that in the midst of his cursing and blasphemy her husband suddenly choked and trembled all over as though he had a chill. Then he tried to speak, but could only choke and groan.

The Tientsin Situation.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—It is true, as reported from Peking, that the influence of the American government has been exerted to secure the early withdrawal of foreign troops from Tientsin. Having withdrawn our own troops, our government can do nothing further in that direction than to use moral suasion with the other powers. It is stated here that this has been effective to the extent that every one of the powers has assented to the proposition to withdraw the troops, even Germany, which is now represented as halting.

Fireman Killed.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 12.—The northbound Manassas accommodation train on the Southern railway dashed into a number of coal cars standing on the main track just south of Manassas Junction. Weston Atkinson, the fireman, was killed, and Thomas B. Rowan, the engineer, was seriously injured. The train was filled with passengers, but no other persons were injured.

Sealers' Strike Ended.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 12.—The sealers' strike here is ended, and the sealing steamers have sailed for the ice floes. The terms of settlement are that the men shall get $3.50 as against $3.25 last year per hundredweight for seals. They also get free berths as against the former charge of $3 each. Governor Boyle was largely instrumental in effecting the settlement.

Two Smothered In Culm.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 12.—While at work at the separator of the Williamstown colliery Jere Murray and John Hill sank into a huge pile of the culm, which had been rendered soft by water, and were smothered. Miners dug for them, but they were dead before the rescuers reached them.

WIND, RAIN AND HAIL

A Devastating Storm Strikes Omaha, Neb.

MANY BUILDINGS TORN TO PIECES.

Notwithstanding the Widespread Destruction of Property in the City and Surrounding Country No Fatalities Are Reported.

OMAHA, Neb., March 12.—The heaviest wind, rain and hail storm in the history of the city has visited Omaha and Douglas county. It struck Omaha near Monmouth park, in the northern edge of the city, and moved northeast, the greatest severity being experienced in the neighborhood of Thirty-third and Larimore streets. Although perhaps fifty buildings were more or less damaged, nobody was seriously injured. Persons who were caught in the storm had narrow escapes, and Mrs. Amanda Geary, who lives at Thirty-third street and Grand avenue, probably escaped death by being absent from home. Her house was picked up and scattered over a square of ground, bits of the furniture being found in a neighboring field. Telephone and electric wires in the path of the storm were strewn over the streets, and a great number of poles were torn out.

Franklin school, one of the largest in the city, had to be abandoned temporarily. A large chimney was blown into the roof, which caved in and demolished the interior of several rooms. Small buildings were blown about, and several barns were torn to pieces.

The Monmouth Park Methodist Episcopal church was literally torn to pieces. Several greenhouses were wrecked by the hail. Immanuel hospital was badly damaged by a large chimney being blown through the roof.

Several nearby towns in this county report the worst storm for years. It was particularly severe at Valley and Elkhorn, and at the latter place a Union Pacific train was struck by a falling coal shoot and considerably damaged, although no one was injured. At Florence, three miles north of the city and where the city waterworks are located, the storm twisted several buildings from their foundations, but the waterworks plant was not affected.

In Central Park lightning struck several barns and was one of the elements that contributed to the havoc of the city.

Famous Dog Dead.

CHICAGO, March 12.—L'Ambassadeur, one of the finest bulldogs known to the history of canine aristocracy, was found dead last night in the box in which he had arrived from the east to compete for the honors of the annual dog show which opened here today. The dog has probably won more prizes and traveled a greater distance than any other dog that has been on the bench. He was eight years old and the property of C. J. Hopton of Newark, N. J. As the dog was being exercised only a few minutes before he was discovered dead, experts decided that he must have died of heart disease.

Meyer Wants Moody's Place.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 12.—A cablegram has been received from Hon. George Von L. Meyer, embassador to Italy, saying that he would be a candidate for congress to fill the vacancy in the Sixth district caused by the appointment of Congressman William H. Moody to the cabinet portfolio. Mr. Meyer cabled that he would be in this city within a few weeks and would personally conduct his campaign.

A Fatal Fire.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., March 12.—The upsetting of an oil stove in the farmhouse of Philip Flyte, near this city, resulted in the burning to death of Mrs. Flyte and the destruction of the house. Several other inmates of the house escaped in their nightclothes. Mrs. Woolbert, a daughter of Mrs. Flyte, was badly burned. Thirteen persons, mostly young children, were living in the house at the time of the fire.

Well Known Hotel Man Dead.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., March 12.—Caleb Jewett Hamlin, a widely known hotel man, is dead here, aged sixty-seven. He had been connected with the St. James hotel in New York the Tifft House in Buffalo, the Palmer in Chicago, the International at Niagara Falls, the Clarendon in Saratoga and the Delevan in Albany. For the past three seasons he was proprietor of the Adirondack inn at Sacandaga park.

General Funston In Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 12.—General Frederick Funston was the guest of honor at an elaborate banquet held last night in the clubhouse of the Marquette club, members of the Lincoln club also sharing in the occasion. General Funston arrived in the city at 3 o'clock in the afternoon for a stay of two days, during which time he will be the guest of various clubs and of the city as well.

Against Canal Bill.

OSWEGO, N. Y., March 12.—The Oswego county grange in session here has adopted resolutions against the proposed appropriation for improvement of state canals and requesting the legislative representatives to favor the Ambler bill providing for government purchase of the state canals.

More Pension For Hiram Cronk.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The president has approved the bill granting an increased pension to Hiram Cronk of Ava, Oneida county, N. Y., who is the last surviving soldier pensioner of the war of 1812. He is now 102 years old.

BOSTON'S LABOR WAR

Sixteen Thousand Men Are Already Idle.

LONGSHOREMEN NOW ORDERED OUT.

Steamers Compelled to Sail Without Full Cargoes — Building Trades Tied Up—An Appeal Is Made to the Civic Federation.

BOSTON, March 12.—The second day of the great strike of organized labor against the demands of railroad and steamship companies that merchandise delivered at freight depots by the R. S. Brine Transportation company be not discriminated against witnessed large additions to the ranks of the strikers. Nearly 6,000 union men were ordered out, bringing the grand total of idle men up to about 16,000, with the prospect that this number will be increased by several thousand.

One of the most important developments was the ordering out of the longshoremen at the docks of the Philadelphia and Metropolitan Steamship companies, in consequence of which steamers of those lines were compelled to depart with only partial cargoes, while their wharfs are partially filled with the freight which the men refused to handle. Other docks along Atlantic avenue are in similar condition, and business there is practically tied up.

The members of the General Teamsters' union, comprising 1,400 brick, sand, lime and cement teamsters, are also out, which virtually ties up the building trades by depriving them of material with which to work.

A strong effort has been made to induce the Boston Central Labor union, which is composed of ninety affiliated trades of all descriptions, to officially indorse the strike by ordering out all its members, and that body has the matter under consideration. The effect of such action would be to paralyze business of all kinds. The Central Labor union has thus far taken no part in the fight.

The union freight handlers and the freight clerks of the Boston and Maine railroad, which are affiliated with the Knights of Labor as well as with the Allied Freight Transportation council, were ordered out by the latter body and stopped work for a time, but finally returned and finished out the day. They questioned the right of the allied council to order them to strike.

The state board of arbitration has had before it President Cox and the strike committee of the Allied Freight Transportation council, but no way of settlement could be agreed upon. This committee also waited upon Mayor Collins, where the serious condition of affairs was discussed, and he promised his best efforts to effect an understanding between the parties at issue. Deeming the situation sufficiently grave to warrant his taking such action Mr. Collins sent a telegram to Hon. M. A. Hanna at Washington, asking that the National Civic federation, of whose executive committee Mr. Hanna is chairman, should interest itself in the matter and endeavor to effect a settlement by arbitaration.

The War In Colombia.

COLON, Colombia, March 12.—According to news received here from Barranquilla, the revolutionists recently occupied a section of the Magdalena river two miles long between Penon and Cerro. On the approach of volunteer troops from Santandar the revolutionists retired to the interior of the department. A newspaper of recent date published at Honda, on the Magdalena river, contains an account of a battle fought at Soacha, near Bogota, on Feb. 23 in which the revolutionists numbered about 2,000, while the government had 3,000 men engaged. The revolutionists lost 200 men in killed and wounded and had 400 men taken prisoners.

A Huge Tidal Wave.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—The Pacific Mail company's steamer Newport, from Central America and Mexican ports, brings details of a recent disaster between La Libertad and a point thirty miles north of Acajutla. Without a moment's warning a terrific tidal wave burst over all the length of the coast, and when the Newport sailed for San Francisco it was said that fifty-three bodies had already been recovered and buried. No possible estimate of the full loss of life could be made.

Gaynor and Green at Quebec.

QUEBEC, March 12.—Colonel John F. Gaynor and Captain B. D. Green, who are charged with complicity in the Savannah frauds, spent a quiet day at the Chateau Frontenac in this city. They do not appear to be in the least worried as to the outcome of their cases. The provincial attorney general's department, which has charge of the administration of justice in this province, has not received any instructions as to the arrest of the accused.

Extradition For Blondin.

BOSTON, March 12.—Governor Crane has signed the papers for the extradition of Joseph Blondin, the alleged wife murderer, from New York. The requisition papers will be presented to the governor of New York today. Captain Proctor of the state police will carry them to Albany.

Danish Island Sale Ratified.

COPENHAGEN, March 12.—In committee of the whole and in executive session the folkething voted by a large majority in favor of the ratification of the treaty providing for the sale of the Danish West Indian islands to the United States.

Weather Probabilities.

Cloudy; rain; fresh to brisk south winds.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

Shipping Bill Up—Hoar Opposes Popular Election of Senators.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—For several hours yesterday the senate had the ship subsidy bill under consideration. Mr. Mallory (Fla.) made an extended speech opposing the measure. He analyzed the bill carefully and held that there was no good reason for its enactment into law, saying he believed it would not accomplish the results hoped for it by its promoters. His opposition was based chiefly on the ground that it would extend the favor of the United States treasury to private individuals and corporations without a just return for the expenditure.

Prior to consideration of the subsidy measure a lively debate occurred over an effort on the part of Mr. Berry (Ark.) to ascertain when the committee on privileges and elections might be expected to report to the senate the resolution providing for the election of senators by direct vote of the people. Mr. Hoar (Mass.) indicated his vigorous opposition to such a resolution on the ground that it would subvert the fundamental principle upon which the senate was founded.

The house entered on the consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill, but as usual during general debate on an appropriation bill the members who spoke devoted themselves to everything except the bill before the house.

The feature of the day, however, was a speech by Mr. Burleson attacking Secretary Hay for declining to request the British authorities to furnish passports to go through the British lines to Rev. Hiram W. Thomas and wife, who desire to go to South Africa to distribute Boer relief funds collected in Illinois.

President's First Veto.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—President Roosevelt's first veto message to congress was directed to the senate, and the bill vetoed was one removing the charge of desertion from the naval record of John Glass.

Big Increase In New York Customs.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—General Spaulding, assistant secretary of the treasury, has received a comparative statement of the customs collections on personal baggage arriving at the port of New York during the year ended March 1. The new regulations as to the examination of baggage went into effect on March 1, 1901, and during the year just closed the collections amounted to $972,165 against $256,597 for the year ended Feb. 28, 1901.

Sittings of Cortes Suspended.

MADRID, March 12.—The suspension of the sittings of the cortes was decided upon at a cabinet council yesterday afternoon, with the object of reaching an agreement on the amendments to the bank bill during the recess. A ministerial crisis is therefore at least temporarily averted.

Bank Teller Arrested.

PORTLAND, Me., March 12.—Granville W. Leighton, teller of the National Traders' bank of this city, has been placed under arrest on the accusation of being a defaulter. The officials of the bank place the shortage at $43,000.

Wilcox Indicted For Cropsey Murder

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., March 12.—The grand jury found a true bill for murder in the first degree against James Wilcox, charged with killing Miss Ella Cropsey.

FAREWELL GREETINGS.

President and Prince Exchange Felicitous Messages.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The following exchanges took place between Prince Henry of Prussia, who sailed for Europe on the Deutschland, and President Roosevelt. The prince telegraphed from Hoboken as follows:

"On this day of my departure I beg to thank you personally, as well as the nation whose guest I have been, for all the kindness, consideration and good feeling I have met with during my visit to your interesting country. I hope that my visit may have increased the feelings of friendship between the country I represent and the United States. Bidding you farewell, let me wish you every possible success, and, pray, remember me to Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Roosevelt, who so charmingly and with so much pluck accomplished her task when launching his majesty's yacht Meteor. Once more, most hearty thanks. May we meet again."

The president's reply by wire was:

"Not only have I enjoyed your visit personally, but on behalf of my countrymen I wish to express to you the pleasure it has been to see you and the real good I think your visit has done in promoting a feeling of friendship between Germany and the United States. It is my most earnest wish that this feeling may strengthen steadily. Mrs. Roosevelt sends her warm regards, and so would Miss Roosevelt if she were not absent. Pray present my heartiest greeting to his majesty the German emperor. Again I thank you for your visit and wish you all good luck wherever you may be."

TACKLED WRONG MAN.

Three Tramps Badly Done Up by West Point Officer.

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 12.—The officers and cadets at the Military academy have for a topic of discussion the successful defeat of three would be highwaymen.

During the evening, while on his way to make an official inspection of the guard as officer of the day, Lieutenant Chauncey B. Humphrey, Third infantry, who is at the academy as instructor in the department of drawing, was held up by three tramps on the main road near the south end of the reservation. A demand for his money was made by the leader of the gang, but instead of complying the lieutenant rushed at his assailants, felling the leader and another one. Turning quickly, he overpowered the third and put them all in a heap. The officer then summoned a mounted patrol, an ambulance was called, and the trio were taken to the post prison. They were badly used up and were as docile as children.

Lieutenant Humphrey was appointed a cadet from Kansas and graduated with the class of 1898. He was a tackle on the academy football team and is an all round athlete. He has a splendid physique and is one of the largest and brawniest officers on the post. He has seen three years' service in the Philippines. The tramps were liberated in the morning and driven from the post.

A Shocking Tragedy.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 12.—Because he was unable to obtain possession of his child Lafayette Gruff, aged twenty-one years, of Gloucester cut the throat of his wife, Mary Ann Gruff, aged nineteen years, killing her instantly. He then fired a shot from a revolver at his seven-month-old child, Katie, but the bullet missed its mark and lodged in the head of Mrs. Susan Gowie, aged fifty-five years, Mrs. Gruff's aunt, with whom the young woman was temporarily residing. The tragedy was enacted at Westmont, about four miles south of this city, where Mrs. Gowie resides. Mrs. Gowie was brought to the Cooper hospital here, and her condition is critical. Gruff was arrested at Gloucester some hours after the murder.

Treasurer Meserve Acquitted.

OMAHA, Neb., March 12.—Judge Baxter in the district court here in the case of John B. Meserve, ex-state treasurer, charged with the embezzlement of state funds, called the jury before him and directed a verdict of acquittal. The point of law was made by Meserve that the interest received on deposit of state money in a South Omaha bank was not the property of the state. On this point the court made its ruling in favor of the defendant and ordered the verdict of acquittal.

The Hamburg-American Line.

BERLIN, March 12.—The directors of the Hamburg-American Steam Packet company have decided to increase the company's capital by 20,000,000 marks to pay for the steamers now under construction. Of these steamers ten aggregate 77,730 tons. When these vessels are completed, the ocean fleet of the Hamburg-American Steam Packet company will comprise 127 steamers, with a tonnage of 630,091 tons.

The Hohenzollern Sails.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The German imperial yacht Hohenzollern passed out quarantine at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, bound for home by way of Bermuda and the Azores, with the imperial standard of Germany floating from her taffrail. Her passage down the bay was marked by frequent salutes from the numerous steam craft, to which she replied with blasts from her siren.

From Riches to Pauper's Death.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 12.—Mrs. Dorothy Phillips is dead at the Home For Aged Women here. She had been an inmate for two years and was the widow of John V. Phillips, who once possessed a large fortune, which he lost in speculation. He died three years ago in the Orange county almshouse.

CUBAN RECIPROCITY

House Republicans Hold Prolonged Caucus.

MANY SPEECHES FOR AND AGAINST.

Exhaustive Argument by Long of Kansas In Favor of a Twenty Per Cent Concession—Strong Opposition Is Developed.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—About 130 members were present at the fourth conference of house Republicans called to consider the question of Cuban reciprocity. Speaker Henderson and the leaders on both sides of the controversy were in attendance. Representative Cannon (Ill.) presided, and an arrangement was made for a division of the time between the advocates and opponents of reciprocity. Representative Long (Kan.), a member of the ways and means committee, opened with an exhaustive argument in favor of the 20 per cent concession advocated by his colleagues of the ways and means committee.

He argued that the maintenance of a protective tariff was not involved in the proposition of the ways and means committee, but that the policy of reciprocity was. "The defeat of this bill," said he, "means that the Republican party has refused to follow the leadership of Blaine, of McKinley and of Roosevelt, and it would mean that reciprocity was no longer a part of the Republican faith."

He pointed out that the Republican platform of 1896 referred to the repeal of the reciprocity agreements under the McKinley law as a national calamity and demanded their renewal and extension. The original section of the Dingley bill authorizing reciprocity agreements he recalled, named sugar as one of the articles on which the president was authorized to reduce the duties, but the section was changed in the senate and sugar was stricken out. The Dingley law authorized the president to make reciprocal agreements on articles produced in this country, and President McKinley made agreements with France, Germany, Italy and Portugal that were now in force, so that he maintained that those who favored reciprocity with Cuba were not untrue to the doctrines of the Republican party because tobacco and sugar, produced in this country, were included.

He espoused reciprocity with Cuba, he said, not only because it would be helpful to Cuba, but because he believed we would get an adequate return, and in support of that belief he instanced the result of the reciprocity with Cuba under the McKinley law from Sept. 1, 1891, to Aug. 27, 1894.

Our exports to Cuba were now only $28,078,702 out of a total of $65,050,141. The witnesses before the committee on ways and means, he said, stated that with prosperity in Cuba the importations of that island would amount to $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 annually. This, he argued, was the trade that Cuba offered us in return for concessions on sugar and tobacco.

This was not charity. It was a good bargain. Mr. Long contended that in addition to self interest there was a moral obligation upon the United States to grant concessions. He declared that when the commission from Cuba was prevailed upon to accept the Platt amendment President McKinley assured them that in consideration of its acceptance he would do all in his power to secure economic concessions and said that the commission so reported to the Cuban convention. In conclusion Mr. Long said:

"If this legislation fail and no concession be made to Cuba, if the policy of President McKinley and President Roosevelt be defeated by this house, it does not mean that the beet sugar industry, by the control of this house, can prevent free sugar from Cuba. After the establishment of the republic of Cuba a treaty can provide for the annexation of Cuba, as the recent treaty did for the annexation of the Danish West Indies, and that treaty can be submitted to the senate and ratified. Annexation will come in the not far distant future, but when it does come I want it to come by the free act of the Cuban people, and when they come permanently under our flag I do not want them to feel they were the victims of forcible annexation, which President McKinley characterized as 'criminal aggression.'"

When Mr. Long finished speaking, Mr. Tayler (O.) presented a protest against the plan of the ways and means committee. The protest was drafted at the conference which the Republicans opposed to reciprocity held Sunday night. It was in the nature of a manifesto setting out the grounds on which their opposition was based, being largely an amplification of the contention that a reduction of the duty on Cuban reciprocity involved a relaxation of the protective principle.

Mr. William Alden Smith (Mich.) made a rousing speech of over an hour against reciprocity, eliciting frequent applause from his supporters. While announcing great admiration for the president, he insisted that there should be no executive interference with the legislative branch of the government. He also assailed the organization of the house for leading the party into disaster and declared amid tumultuous applause that he would decline to follow blindly when the leaders blundered.

He was followed by Mr. Cannon (Ill.).

At 11:40 Speaker Henderson moved an adjournment until next Tuesday, and Littlefield (Me.) moved to amend and strike out "Tuesday," which would have caused a sine die adjournment, but his amendment was lost by a vote of 61 to 79. Mr. Henderson's motion was then carried by a vote of 72 to 54.

TROLLEYS AS COMMON CARRIERS.

It has long been prophesied that the day would come when the trolley companies would begin the carrying of express and freight. For President Francis, Senator Reed introduced a bill in the Senate the other day which would bring about that long predicted state of affairs. The fate of the bill still remains in doubt. While it would undoubtedly meet with much favor from the larger trolley concerns, the public is very much inclined to view any such plan with suspicion.

Of course, it is not intended to open the trolley roads to free and unrestricted traffic. Provisions for that has been made in the first section of the bill, which reads as follows:

"That from and after the passage of this act all street railway companies and traction companies now or hereafter organized under the laws of this State, in addition to any other rights or privileges now or hereafter enjoyed by them, shall have and enjoy all of the rights and privileges of common carriers in general, and the right to load, unload, carry, transport any and all manner of goods, wares, merchandise or personal property, as freight or baggage, and to make proper charges therefore; and for this purpose to have, run and operate on any railway or railroad tracks, owned, operated or controlled by them, such cars or conveyances, and to have, acquire, erect, construct, own, maintain and use such appurtenances, apparatus, buildings, platforms, structures, real estate and lands as shall be reasonably convenient and fit for the full enjoyment of such rights and the proper conduct of such business; provided, nevertheless, that before any such corporation shall exercise the right or privilege of common carrier of freight or baggage in any municipality of this State it shall first obtain the formal consent thereto of the same municipal body whose consent is now or may hereafter be required by the law to authorize the laying or construction of street railway tracks in such municipality, which consent may be given by such body upon such reasonable conditions and terms as to the hours during which, the manner in which and the intervals at which, such street railway tracks in such municipality may be used for the passage of cars or conveyances carrying freight or baggage, as such municipal body shall, in its discretion, impose."

According to the Philadelphia Record a New York optician says that he had no retail trade when he began to advertise, and that now, as the result of advertising, it amounts to $60 a day—many times the cost of his newspaper space. He uses only one inch in each newspaper, "I use morning and evening papers," he says, "though I think the morning papers are the better because they are read on the way to or at business." He speaks of the quick returns. "The morning which follows the advertising sees the store thronged with customers brought by that force alone."

The members of the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel gave their initial minstrel performance. The house was filled to overflowing, for its entire seating capacity was sold out over a week ago. The audience was properly enthusiastic and discovered that Plainfield had some young but decidedly talented "burnt cork" artists among its citizens. Chief credit for the really excellent programme given is due to City Judge Runyon who has labored long and faithfully to achieve the desired results.

The members of the Councilmanic street committee could see the justice of allowing such patrons of the Plainfield Water Supply Company as desired them to have water meters installed. Any rational person would take a simiar view of the case. But somehow, the Plainfield Water Supply Company doesn't seem to be considering the justice of the city's claims.

An accident to the pumps which supply Dunellen with water has temporarily stopped the flow of water through the mains in that borough. In case of fire such a situation would prove decidedly disadvantageous.

TO GET HIGHER EDUCATION

SWARTHMORE COLLEGE OFFERS OPPORTUNITY TO PLAINFIELDERS.

Chance to Compete for Twelve Scholarships for Next Collegiate Year.

Swarthmore College, one of the best institutions of learning in Pennsylvania, offers twelve scholarships for the coming collegiate year. These scholarships are worth $150 each in the case of resident students and $75 in the case of non-residents.

The awards will be made upon the results of a competitive examination for admission to the freshman class. Pupils coming from schools holding the I. V. Williamson honor scholarships are ineligible for this contest. This offer is looked upon as a rare opportunity to any graduate of the Plainfield or North Plainfield High School, who may desire higher education but may be without the necessary means.

Wm. W. Birdsall, the president of Swarthmore College, has announced that he send a catalogue of the institution together with more detailed information concerning these prize scholarships to anyone interested in the offer. Communications should be addressed to him at Swarthmore, Pa.

NO MORE FLAT WHEEL CARS

THE STRENUOUS METHODS OF MAYOR SMALLEY HAVE REMOVED THEM.

As Result of Conference With Col. Hine, Those Objectionable Cars Will Not be Used There.

After annoying the residents of Somerset street for several months past, the flat wheel trolley car, used on that line by the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central New Jersey Street Railway Company, has been removed. The strenuous methods of Mayor Newton B. Smalley were successful in disposing of this obstacle to the peace and quietude of the boroughites.

Mayor Smalley, after patiently waiting for the trolley people to remove the car of their own accord, resolved to resort to the style of measures he generally employs when he desires to attain an end. Forthwith he telephoned Col. Hine, of Newark, who is the secretary and treasurer of the company, that the obnoxious car must be removed. Col. Hine concluded to come to Plainfield and see the aggressive chief executive of the borough who had intimated that he had some complaints to make against the service of the trolley company.

The representative of the trolley company and the Mayor met last week. As a result of the conference the flat wheel car no longer interferes with the midnight slumbers of the boroughites. Further than this the people of North Plainfield have the satisfaction of knowing that they will receive better service from the company in the future. The cars will be renovated as soon as possible and an effort will be made to run them on time.

Elected Officers.

Redwood Camp, No. 10262, Modern Woodmen of Amorica, met Monday evening and elected Anthony J. Foss as escort, James Morrison manager for one year, Adam Fischer assistant clerk, and Charles Emefald banker pro tem. At the meeting to be held Monday evening, March 24, there will be a smoker for the members and their friends.

Returned From Honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Atkinson Thayer, who have been abroad several months enjoying a honeymoon trip, have returned to Plainfield and are now stopping with Mrs. Thayer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, of Belvidere avenue. They had a delightful trip while away. For the present they will remain in Plainfield.

THE FATHERHOOD OF GOD

REV. MADISON C. PETERS CONTINUED HIS SERMONS LAST NIGHT.

At Evangelistic Service at Park Avenue Baptist Church—Took for His Subject, "Our Father."

A very large congregation was present at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening, when Rev. Madison C. Peters continued the evangelistic services which were begun a week ago. It was Dr. Peters' second appearance.

After prayer by Rev. G. M. Shott, and a solo by Roland C. Treadwell, Mr. Peters announced his text, Matthew vi:9, selecting the words "Our Father."

Said the speaker: "That word our 'Father' binds together in one brotherhood, all that dwell on the face of the earth. It stands as a protest against that selfishness which is so common to us all. That word leaves out none of the human race. The two words 'Our Father' furnish an everlasting solution of the question of the moral unity of the race. But let us emphasize the word 'Father.'

"There is no record of any prayer in the Old Testament, where God is distinctly addressed as Father. Christ gave His disciples a new thought We scarcely called God by any other name than Father. It is not strange that this revelation of Fatherhood was unknown until Christ came; for no one knew the Father save the Son.

"When we think of God, we are apt to think of Him with fear and trembling. But Christ unlocks for us the fulness of God, when he reveals Him as Our Father. It is very important that our thoughts of God be freed from error. Our character will be formed after our thought of God. We see Him as our thoughts represent Him. Our life is the outside of our idea of God.

"The word Father, suggests the dignity of human nature. Since God is your Father, you are the heir of His love. You ought to be a sharer in His glory; because God is your Father you should respect yourself and show yourself a worthy child. Our life should be the interpretation of God's word to the world. If there is anyone you can love and trust, it is your father; and whatever you can carry to an earthly father, you can carry to the Father in Heaven.

"God's love, like a true father's, is never dying. Wayward though his boy may be, he will love him still, despite every disgrace. And it all the world cast off the boy, the father will be all the world to the boy. Such is our Heavenly Father's love, as illustrated in the 'Prodigal's' welcome home."

This was a deeply impressive sermon which greatly moved the congregation. Mr. Peters announced as his subject for tonight, "The Motherhood of God." Mrs. T. A. Cuming and Miss Delia Runyon sang very sweetly a duet. After prayer by Pastor Richardson Mr. Peters pronounced the benediction.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

REPUBLICANS WON EASILY

Robert Clark, Jr., and J. K. Arnold Elected to Borough Council in Quiet Election.

MAJORITY ABOUT 200.

One of the Most Quiet and Uninteresting Elections Ever Held in North Plainfield — Conducted on Strictly Partisan Lines and Lacking in Enthusiasm.

The election in North Plainfield yesterday will pass into history as one of the most quiet and uninteresting held in the borough. It was thought that the Republicans would win, but in spite of the fact that they had a majority of 200, the vote was a light one.

Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., was re-elected for a full term, while James K. Arnold, his running mate, was also elected a Councilman. Dr. Justus H. Cooley as elected a commissioner of appeal, and the Board of Health appropriation, $550, the same on both tickets, was voted unanimously. Fernando M. Ward and John Lloyd, Democratic candidates for the Council, and Lewis M. Bird received a light vote.

Outside of the partizan contest between Republicans and Democrats there was no special fight. The Republicans, being in power, were anxious to make the governing body entirely of one complexion which they did, while the Democrats fought to secure a representation of at least one in the Council. This they failed to do.

Owing to the very few candidates running for office it did not take the election officers long to count the votes, 562 in both districts. They got through by 9 o'clock. As little interest was taken in the result there was a noticeable absence of people about the polls.

The vote is as follows:

For Councilman.

	1st Dist.	2d Dist.	Total.
Clark, R	187	196	383
Arnold, R	173	182	355
Ward, D	98	85	183
Lloyd, D	108	90	198

For Commissioner of Appeal.

	1st Dist.	2d Dist.	Total.
Cooley, R	184	190	374
Bird, D	100	83	183

Leander Hammond received one vote for Justice of the Peace, but as it has not yet been decided whether a vacancy exists or not, the one vote will probably not count.

His Sixth Birthday.

In honor of his sixth birthday Geo. Gray, Jr., of South Second street, entertained a score of his friends Monday evening. Parlor games furnished an endless amusement for the little ones. He received a number of handsome presents. Mrs. Geo. Gray was assisted by Mrs. Clarence Mundy.

Tea for Relief Association.

The Managers of the Plainfield Relief Association have sent out invitations for a tea to be given at the rooms of the Relief Association, 544 West Front street, Wednesday afternoon, March 19. Tea served from 3 until 6 o'clock. Home made cake and candy on sale.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The members of the W. C. T. U. have arranged to meet in the upper hall of the Y. M. C. A. building on Thursday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock, until their rooms in the Babcock buildings can be used. Tomorrow the regular monthly business meeting will be held.

Condition at Hospital.

There are now thirty patients at Muhlenberg Hospital, the largest number at one time in the history of the institution. All of the patients are improving, and it is believed that before long the overcrowded condition may be relieved.

Headache.

Pain in and about the eyes and many other troubles can be relieved by wearing properly fitting glasses. Their work is guaranteed. See their specialist, Thursday, at 107 East Front street. Stiles & Company, Philadelphia eye specialists.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

ROBISON WON AT FANWOOD

DEFEATED W. R. STANBERY FOR FREEHOLDER FROM TOWNSHIP.

Entire Republican Ticket Elected in the Township—No Fight in the Borough.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, March 12—The entire Republican ticket won out in the Fanwood township election, yesterday, by a majority of fifty-one, but the cutting on both sides was the worst in years, the principal fight being for the head of the ticket, that of freeholder and a member of the Township Committee. John Robison, the Republican candidate for freeholder, was elected by a majority of twenty-seven over his Democratic opponent, Wm. R. Stanbery. Edward V. Goodman, Republican candidate for Town Committee, defeated Clarence Lambert, Democratic candidate, by thirty-eight majority. The rest of the Republican ticket went through with but little scratching.

The day was an ideal election day and a large poll for a spring election was made, 250 out of a registry list of 308 were cast. All the appropriations were carried even the $2,000 for roads as both parties worked to remedy the error made in the Republican ranks.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, March 12—The borough election was a quiet affair, no fight being on for local offices. John Robison received a total of fifty votes to Wm. R. Stanbery's twenty-three, giving him a majority of twenty-seven, making a total of fifty-four in borough and township. The rest of the ticket of course went through with only an occasional scratch. The question of a public library, which has been agitated for sometime, was carried by twenty-two majority. Seventy-three ballots were cast out of a registry list of 100.

Military Show in New York.

The sixth annual military tournament will begin in Madison Square Garden, New York, Monday, March 24, and close Saturday, March 29. The coming of the soldiers to the Garden is an event important to them and the public and the Military Athletic League, under whose direction the show is given, have prepared a programme that gives promise of the best exhibition they have ever had. There will be grand reviews of troops eveey night; there will be battery and platoon drills, expert driving and gun firiing by the Field Artillery from Washington Barracks; cavalry drills, rough riding, music rides and exercises by the Second Cavalry from Fort Meyer, Virginia, infantry drills and battle exercises by the United States Marine Corps, music rides, rough riding and a splendid exhibition by Troop C, the gatling gun drill by the Second Battery, pontoon bridge building by the Twenty-second Regiment of Engineers, the signal corps in tower building and signaling by lanterns and electric lights, gymnastic drills by tne Twelfth Regiment, the United States Coast Artillery from Fort Columbus, the Naval Militia in battalion drills and landing exercises, and a special feature of interest will be a detachment of Canadian troops in Highland uniform, accompanied by their band with bagpipes, and all every evening during Soldier Show week.

Rhode Island Home.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Lewis, of West Seventh street, will leave in a short time for Rhode Island, where they will occupy a cottage during the summer. Dr. Lewis will go back and forth frequently between this city and Rhode Island.

Soldiers to Eat.

Company K's first annual dinner will be given this evening at the Hotel Plainfield. It is expected that some of the State officers of the National Guard will be present.

Teachers to Elect.

The teachers of the First Baptist church will hold their annual election of officers tomorrow evening.

MAY GOVERN MEXICO

Gen. Bernardo Reyes, President Diaz' Probable Successor.

At Present He Is Minister of War and One of the Strongest Political and Social Leaders of Our Sister Republic.

If Gen. Porfirio Diaz resigns the office of president of Mexico he will be succeeded by Gen. Bernardo Reyes, the present minister of war. If President Diaz should die suddenly while in office he would likewise be succeeded by Gen. Reyes. The accession to the presidency of Mexico, if accomplished by Gen. Reyes through the resignation of his chief, would be a comparatively peaceful event. Should he secure the office through the sudden death of the present incumbent he will do so under circumstances which will give rise to some alarms in foreign countries whose citizens are interested financially in Mexico maintaining her present political stability.

The story that President Diaz is about to resign has again gone the rounds of the press of the United States. It is a familiar story, and as it is based upon a perfectly logical outcome of the present situation in Mexico, it is readily accepted. It is not believed by those who know the president of Mexico that he is anxious to lay down the tremendous and autocratic power which he has exercised so wisely and so long. He realizes, however, that he is getting to be an old man. He also realizes that, owing to the peculiar character of his people and the autocratic form of government which prevails in Mexico under the name of a republic, that the will of the people is not expressed at the ballot box, and that a new reign cannot be inaugurated as in the greater and truer republic to the north.

If President Diaz resigns it will be because the love of his country, which is strong within him, is greater than his desire to continue to wield the scepter.

Gen. Bernardo Reyes first came into political prominence as the governor of

GEN. BERNARDO REYES.
(Mr. Diaz' Probable Successor as President of Mexico.)

the Mexican state of Nueva Leon, of which Monterey, the most thoroughly Americanized Mexican city, is the prosperous capital. There are over 2,000 Americans living in Monterey, or more than are to be found as permanent residents in the City of Mexico, although the latter is ten times as large as Monterey. Being near the northern boundary of Mexico, and in the zone of operations where American capital has found its freest outlet, the natives of Monterey are thoroughly familiar with the character and customs of the people of the United States. The latter have come to Monterey, paved the streets, put in electric light plants, built factories and planted orange groves in the suburbs, drained the city upon scientific principles, built handsome residences, extended the railroad facilities and made a specialty of entertaining tourists. The stores, the cafes, the banks, and, in fact, all of the industries of Monterey, have found their greatest profit in handling American money.

Gen. Reyes is short of stature, a typical Spanish-American in appearance, quick of action and rapid in speech. He has a magnetic personality, which especially appeals to the young men of his country, and he has long been their idol. As president of the Society of Students in the City of Mexico he has presided at many turbulent meetings, where 2,000 voices united in hailing him as the next president of the republic. Had he willed he could have turned his power to serious account in disturbing the present peaceful condition of his country, but with all his self-esteem, of which it is said he has considerable, his head has never been so turned as to lead him into such deplorable folly.

It is said that President Diaz kept himself well informed as to the doings of this governor of Nueva Leon, and that the real reason for Gen. Reyes being made minister of war and being brought to the City of Mexico was to give him a better sense of perspective and to show him that there were others as strong or stronger than himself within the government circle. He has proved an apt pupil, however, and it is believed that his association with Gen. Diaz and others of great ability, like Limonteur, the minister of finance, has brought wisdom to this fiery general and curbed his sentimental appreciation of his own merits.

He is not the same character of man, however, as President Diaz, says the Washington Star, and it is an extremely interesting possibility of the future that it may be found Mexico's stability has rested largely in the stability of the character and genius of the president who rules to-day.

VICTIM OF JEALOUSY.

Paris Husband Imprisoned in a Cage Because His Wife Loved Him All Too Fondly.

Three days and three nights locked in a cage simply because his wife loved him all too fondly, have proved too much for M. Ravelote, a citizen of Paris, and he has applied to the courts for an absolute divorce.

According to M. Ravelote's story, the jealous rage of his wife caused her to have built in a distant room of the house a steel cage strong enough to hold a desert lion. He knew nothing of this until one day the wife, the coachman and a powerful maid servant pounced upon him and dragged him to this distant cell. He was thrust into it, the door slammed and locked, and he was held a prisoner there until the woman who so innocently had excited Mme. Ravelote's jealousy had left Paris.

Even then Ravelote says that he would not have been released had his brother not chanced to call and insist upon seeing him. In the long days and nights in which he was locked up the complainant says that he was left to sleep without covering, on the bare floors of the cage, while food was passed to him through the steel bars.

In his bill of complaint Ravelote admits the sincerity of his wife's affection. He insists only that its accompanying unreasonable jealousies are intolerable to him. The storm which led to the building of the steel cage, he says, burst three months ago. One morning he remarked at breakfast in the most casual way that a young woman whom he had known as a boy was coming to Paris. In an instant, he says, crockery began to fly all about the room, doing great damage and seriously endangering his life. Peace was made only after he had promised not to see the young woman while she was in the capital. The building of the cage and his imprisonment followed.

ROUTED BY SPARROWS.

Hundreds of Hungry Birds Have a Peck at an Aged New York Farmer's Bald Head.

According to a Middletown (N. Y.) correspondent, Theodore Davis, an aged farmer of Pitt's Hollow, is suffering from an onslaught of English sparrows, which inflicted numerous wounds about his head and face.

Davis was crossing a field some distance from his house when he encountered a large flock of the birds. They arose from the ground as the farmer made his appearance and circled about his head, obstructing his vision. Then the birds began pecking at Davis, and in his efforts to escape the flock his hat fell off, exposing his bald head, which also proved a target for the ferocious little creatures.

With blood issuing from the wounds on his head and face the aged farmer finally succeeded in making his escape, and, nearly exhausted from his experience, slowly made his way home, where his wounds were dressed.

Davis says it appeared to him as though there were many hundreds of the birds about him, and they were proof against all his attacks. He believes hunger caused them to make the attack.

An American traveler visited the Niagara skating rink, in London, not long ago. He watched the performance for some time, and then he turned to his companions and host. "Wa'al," he said, "I've seen our Niagara, and now I've seen yours. Our show is very fine and imposing, but I guess your falls are more amusing."

AN ARTIFICIAL PEARL.

Produced by Placing a Ball of Wax in the Shell of a Fresh Water Mussel.

A ball of beeswax introduced into the shell of a living fresh-water mussel has resulted in producing the most remarkable artificial pearl in existence. It is about an inch and a half in length, oval in form and pink in color, and is now the property of the Smithsonian Institution, reports a Washington exchange.

The ball of wax was placed near the hinge of the bivalve, which being in a tank of fresh water, was carefully watched. The irritation of the wax caused the mollusk to protect itself by coating the foreign object with a smooth coating of pearl stuff—the same material as that which is used in lining the inner surface of its shell. In the case in question the result was an enormous pearl. Owing to pressure, however, the wax ball lost its spherical shape and become oval in form.

At the end of two years the mussel was taken out of the tank and opened and the pearl removed. The wax afterward contracted owing to dryness, which caused the pearl shell to crack. This accident, while destroying the commercial value of the pearl, made it possible to observe the thickness of the nacreous covering, which is somewhat greater than that of an ordinary sheet of letter paper. If the pearl were not flawed it would be worth an enormous sum of money, but even as it is it is priceless as a curiosity.

WHY WE RESEMBLE ROOKS.

Some Points of Similarity Between Human Beings and Feathered Bipeds.

He was standing in the rear end of a car, where all are friends in the common misery of having their toes trod on or hats crushed in, says the New York Press.

"I'm from England," he said, addressing nobody in particular and apropos of nothing, "and I want to tell you people that we all are only a lot of rooks. Say, did you ever watch a colony of rooks build their nests in the spring?"

Everybody looked reflectively away.

"Well, I'll tell you. First a rook picks up a stick and puts it in his nest, then goes away after another one. When he's gone another rook flies to his nest and steals the stick. When he gets back he puts down the second stick, for still another rook to steal, and starts out after the first stick. He doesn't find it, and when he gets back to his nest he finds the second stick gone, and he starts after that, scolding and swearing in rook fashion.

"By this time the other thieves have been robbed, too, and it only takes about three sticks to go around the community and get the whole blamed community pow-wowing. Say, ain't that human nature?"

Everybody looked reflectively away.

NOVEL CURE FOR SNAKE-BITE.

Mosquitoes Save a Man's Life by Drawing Out the Poison of a Rattler.

"Talkin' about rattlesnakes," said an Erie railroad brakeman, acording to the New York Sun, "did you ever hear how the mosquitoes saved a man's life up near Gulf Summit, in Pennsylvania, last summer?

"Well, while getting out railroad ties over back of Summit, Abe Morehouse was bitten in the leg by a rattlesnake. A doctor was at once sent for and the leg was bandaged tightly above the wound. It was expected that Morehouse would die before the doctor could come up there on his wheel, but he didn't. Just as soon as the leg was bared to put on the bandage, it was attacked by a swarm of mosquitoes, and when the doctor arrived he found the man as well as ever and lively as a cricket, but the ground was covered with dead and dying mosquitoes. They had sucked the poison from Morehouse's wound and saved his life. This was hard on the mosquitoes, but I presume Morehouse's life was worth saving."

COCOANUT PALM IS HANDSOME

Its Long, Graceful Leaves Lend a Striking Beauty to the Southern Tree.

The cocoanut is one of the handsomest palms by its long, graceful leaves. It grows luxuriantly as far north as Palm Beach, Fla., and a few specimens may be seen a little above that point. Used to line walks, they present a picturesque scene, the low branches curving gracefully overhead. The nuts and their development are very interesting to observe. As a long time is occupied in the growth of the nuts, they may be seen on the same tree in many stages, from small, acorn-like ones to the immense brown-husked fellows, all in large bunches. The flowers, too, for a new crop, may be included in the collection.

It is a matter for concern, says Meehan's Monthly, that there appears to be little or no attempt to propagate cocoanuts in Florida, even though they be for ornamental purposes only. They are far from being so plentiful as they were 15 years ago.

Queer Norwegian Relic.

A citizen of Stillwater, Wis., is the possessor of an extraordinarily rare relic from Norway—a verdict rendered by a jury of 12 in June, 1553, at Oslo Courthouse, where Christiania now stands. At the bottom of this novel verdict hang 12 strips of sheepskin, with 12 pieces of beeswax the size of a small watch, which contains upon each the seal of one of the jurors

FOR STOUT WOMEN.

Gowns Which Grace the Dignity of Matronly Avoirdupois.

When the bloom is gone from the cheek, the brightness from the eye and the elasticity from the step of a woman, then she should begin to seek a recompense for her lost treasures and turn her mind toward the rich and imposing velvets and fine jewels. True, she cannot always have them, but they are what she needs to balance the loss she has sustained. She can no longer trip the light fantastic toe, and so she must begin to grow stately, and if her increasing weight makes too lively action uncomfortable, why, she can be so stately in her well chosen costumes that her friends will think she has gained by the transformation.

It is seldom that we see a woman or the shady side of fifty who does not weigh several pounds too much for her own comfort, and it is now quite a study among the modistes to provide her with a handsome style which will not only hide the unpleasant fact, but make her appear slim and slender—that is, in comparison.

In the first place, the stout and elderly lady should wear black as much as possible, and even then the black should be confined to the smooth and rather shining surfaced goods. Satin is the best for ordinary and silk warp eudora in wool and silk for the street or fine and satin faced broadcloth. For grand occasions black velvet is by all means the best. The stout woman should have her dresses as long as the case will admit of, for the length apparently reduces the width. A skirt cut in a trained effect, fitting easily at the hips and training at the back, is of all the best and most stately. It gives the appearance of length without width.

In the illustration is a model of a gown for an elderly lady, and it is well worth consideration. The skirt is long and ample, but with no superfluous fullness at the hips. The long lines of the folds are excellently designed to conceal the too solid flesh. The corsage is a triumph. The back is made with a slender postillion, bordered with two rows of satin featherbone cord. The fronts hang straight from the shoulder with scarcely any curve at the one dart. The vest front is of lavender printed silk mull, and there is a handsome gold buckle at the soft sash.

The stock is dotted with jet and has three lines of narrow black velvet ribbon brought to a point. This breaks the wide lines of a stout neck. Over the shoulders is a wide collar of rich white lace. The sleeves are made large, but with the fullness drooping, to detract from the apparent size of the waist. This is offered to such ladies as may need something of the kind with the aphorism that a word to the wise is sufficient.

The chiffon boa, which is now expected to be one of the best things for the coming season, is also one of the things excellently well planned for the benefit of the stout woman. It is also just right for the slender one. Funny, but true! These chiffon and lace boas are made in such a variety that one is lost in trying to remember them all. Chenille and narrow ribbon are, as they were last season, also employed.

Fichus are really beautiful and can be draped in so many ways that they are very desirable. Any lady that can sew at all can make these dainty articles of adornment. There are but two shapes. One is square at all corners, and the other is cut half moon shape. Lace, fine mull, batiste, pineapple, liberty silk and, in short, all thin and soft materials are suitable.

The square ones are from two to four yards long and about half a yard wide. The half moon shape is not made quite so long; still it must be long enough to go around the shoulders and reach to the waist in front. All have ruffles of lace or of the material when it is very soft and pliable. They are draped across the bust in Marie Antoinette style and tied in the back or they may be simply brought to the front of the waist and fastened there. In fact, the way they are to be worn is not ordered, each one being her own law. These, too, are good for the stout and middle aged woman. Some very pretty fichus were of linen lawn, with self ruffles

"The wish to make you my wife, Frances: you will think it a very natural wish under the circumstances surrounding us, I am afraid, and yet, whatever may have been my mother's interest in your father's will, I knew nothing whatever of it. Why, I have been here a few weeks only. And do you suppose for one moment that I could share in any property extorted from you by such strange circumstances? I am not the heir, if you refuse to marry me, but I may help you, and I will. My dear girl, upon the day you are 21 if I am sure that you do not wish to take your property with the encumbrance of a husband, I shall in writing decline to marry you."

"Oh, Mr. Holbin!"

"For the rest—this miserable mystery—you are answered already. If I believed that you were in any way compromised, I would not admit that I love you—!"

"Please! please do not—!"

"I could not even remain in this city and doubt you. But as a man who has seen many a woman the innocent victim of mistakes and bad advice, I am bound to use every endeavor to protect your own and my mother's interests. This Dr. Brodnar—"

"He is my friend! Don't speak ill of him!"

"I speak ill of no one. But I warn you that he is absolutely unfit to advise a girl. Headstrong, opinionated, arrogant, he stakes everything upon his own judgment, and when such a man loses, he loses for others besides himself. Frankly, I have seen men by the ten thousand until one man's face anywhere indicates the moral tribe to which he belongs; and I tell you Dr. Brodnar may be true to one friend at the expense of another—"

"I cannot listen if you accuse him."

"I shall not accuse him. I shall only say that I now demand nothing of you, but I ask you as a man whose tenderest solicitude is for you to inform me of the mysterious occurrence in this room. Will you?" Frances was embarrassed; but she looked up at length with a kinder look in her face than he had yet seen.

"There is nothing I may tell you," she said, "but this: I am sorry, sincerely sorry, that I have misjudged you, and I think you are generous and kind to me."

"For that I thank you. And now again forgive me for having troubled you to-day—the matter seemed a pressing one. Will you—will you still insist on the 'Miss Brookin'? May I not sometimes say 'Frances?'"

"It matters little," she said at length. But when he was gone she reviewed her action with growing wonder. "What possessed me—what influenced me to yield so much?" she asked herself over and over. She was too young to know that a mystery was involved in that question as old as the human race.

CHAPTER IX.

The momentary happiness which his unexpected impression upon Frances brought to Holbin soon gave place to jealous rage. It was impossible for him to rest satisfied. He told himself that the war was on; that he had been wonderfully successful in his contact with the secret foe, and that victory was still possible. He went forth blindly into the city, seeking information of an unknown wounded man, but, of course, no explanation was forthcoming, for the reason that no one knew of such a man. At dark he sought the policeman whose beat was nearest the Brookin residence.

Pistol shot? Oh, yes; he had heard pistol shots every night since the war fever came on; the town was full of excitement. And the officer remembered also that recently a carriage had been twice driven furiously upon his street near daylight—the incident had impressed him because the hour was that in which the city was usually quietest. He had been under the impression that the carriage belonged to Dr. Brodnar, and he had satisfied himself with the reflection that some sudden illness had made the speed necessary. "Why," he asked, "is there anything wrong afoot?" Raymond assured him that there was not and passed on, leaving the officer convinced to the contrary.

All the facts Holbin had gathered now confirmed Louise, but he had reached the limit of his powers except in one direction. "Mammy" was the last witness, and he hesitated long because of her relation to Frances. Finally, in desperation he privately summoned her to his room. The woman stood looking curiously at him as he charged back and forth across the floor until he paused and confronted her.

"You are called mammy, I believe," he said, sternly.

"Yes, sah!" Mammy was startled and amazed.

"You are, of course, aware that you now belong to my mother, and that I have charge of all her property."

"Huccum, sah, I b'long to yo' ma? I done b'long ter ole miss, an' she gi' me 'specially to Miss Frances!" Mammy adjusted her glasses and looked at him anxiously.

"That makes no difference, woman. We recognize no will in this house that conflicts with my mother's! I want you to answer my questions now and conceal nothing, or it will be an unfortunate day for you, old as you are! Where were you night before last?" Mammy was astounded. No one ever addressed her in such a manner. She had long been a privileged character. True, since the coming of the second Mrs. Brookin she had lost much of her prestige, but she still held sway over the servants; and in the wing she reigned supreme.

"I was out to see my daughter what is hired to Dr. Brodnar, an' her husband, he b'longs ter de doctor, sah, an' tends de horses."

"When did you return?" Mammy looked critically at her questioner and waited. "Answer me!"

"Oh, I come erlong back nex' day, sah."

"At what time—at what time?"

"Long 'bout daylight, I reckon, sah."

"Where was your Miss Frances when you came?"

"Where was Miss Frances? Where you reckon Miss Frances gointer be 'bout daylight but in bed?"

"In bed, was she?"

"Yes, sah; an' sleepin' like er fed lit'len. What for you askin' me 'bout dat miss?"

"Answer my questions. Where did your daughter's husband spend the night?"

"He spen' de night wid de doctor, course—comin' an' goin' to sick folks des like 'e always do!"

"Did he have the carriage out?"

"Course he hed de kerridge out!" Holbin walked the floor, more and more disturbed. He adopted a more gentle method.

"Mammy, how long have you been with this family?"

"Ole marster—way back yonder—gi' me to ole miss when she was born; an' ole miss gi' me ter Miss Frances, sah. Been hyah always!"

"Nothing on earth could tempt you to say or do anything that would endanger your young mistress, of course."

"No, sah. Ole miss say, day she die: 'Mammy, take cyar my chile;' an' I hole 'er han' an' promise."

"Do you know that I am to marry your Miss Frances?"

"Fo' God! Who tol' you dat?"

"It was in her father's will. But you are not to speak of that—not a word, even to her. The time will come, mammy, when I shall rely upon you to help me take care of her and make her happy. Will you help me?"

"Yes, sah. You can depen' on mammy night or day. But, marster, when you goin' marry Miss Frances? She ain' nothin' but er chile now."

"I know that, and that is why I am consulting with you. I am going to tell you a secret. Will you keep it? It is to help her."

"Yes, sah! I ain' goin' tell nobody, sah."

"Do you know what happened in her room night before last, mammy, while you were away?"

"What happen dere, sah?"

"A man was shot in there and desperately wounded."

"Hush!" The woman's dismay was genuine; so was her curiosity. She leaned forward eagerly. "Who dat done shot 'im?"

"I don't know."

"Who de man got shot?"

"I don't know that. Was there nothing wrong about the room when you came back?" He saw the quick intelligence in her face; and then the African cunning and secretiveness returned.

MAMMY STAGGERED AND SANK UPON THE EDGE OF A CHAIR.

She shook her head.

"No, sah. Warn't nothin' wrong when I come." Then he played his last card.

"You know more than you will tell me; but I cannot waste any more time with you, mammy. If your mistress is arrested before morning you go back to the country for life."

"Take up my Miss Frances!" Mammy staggered and sank upon the edge of a chair.

"Yes. The man who was shot in that room is dead."

"Dead!"

"Yes. And I can do nothing. Everybody hides the facts from me."

FIDDLER STEALS GIRL.

Determined Mother Gives Chase, However, and Captures Elopers After a Hard Run.

Mountain Lake, N. J., has been the scene of wild excitement, says the Chicago American.

The cause of the trouble was an old violin in the hands of a young man, who fiddled himself into the heart of a 16-year-old girl and charmed her away from home.

When Mrs. Emma Ammond, a widow of Mountain Lake, awoke on Saturday morning she looked into the room of her daughter Tessie and discovered that the young woman was not there.

A hasty search showed that Tessie had packed some of her clothes in a bag and had evidently left the house before the break of day.

On the night previous George Goarcke, from a farm four miles away, had stood under the window in the cold for an hour and played on his violin, and the mother remembered that her daughter has seemed entranced with the music.

Half an hour afterward Mrs. Ammond drew up in front of the Goarcke house, where George, who is 21, lives with his father and mother.

The good woman demanded to know wether her daughter had followed that "fool fiddler" over there. Mrs. Goarcke said she hadn't, and if she had she wouldn't have let her in.

After this outburst, Mrs. Ammond drove over to the lake, where the men were cutting ice, and reported that she had proof that Tessie had jumped in.

Investigation showed footprints in the snow leading down to a hole. The laborers quit work, and all day they poked the hole with a long pole, while the mother sat by a fire on the bank and directed the operations.

By night all Hope township knew of the affair, and the search kept up until George Devoe, who carries the mail between Belvidere and Free Union, reported that he had seen a face at the attic window in the Gearcke house which reminded him of Tessie.

Mrs. Arnold lost no time in getting to the Goarcke farm. Just as she drove around the corner of the barn she encountered George Goarcke and Tessie, seated in a buggy and evidently preparing for flight. For four miles she pursued the runaways and just in sight of the crowd on Mountain Lake she overtook them.

Mrs. Ammond reached over and pulled her daughter into the buggy. Then she laid her over her knee, and amid jeers from the crowds she soundly spanked the girl.

HERMIT'S LOVE TALE.

Kentucky Wild Man, Caught by Hunters, Forced to Relate the Romance of His Life.

A wild man was seen in the cliffs of Devil's creek, seven miles from Campton, Ky., by some coon hunters. He wore no clothing, was covered with hair from head to foot and looked to be about 60 years old.

He at first refused to talk, but when the hunters leveled their Winchester rifles at him he said that when he was 18 years old he fell in love with a girl of 16. He was engaged to marry her, but on the very day, and within ten minutes of the time appointed for the ceremony, she dropped dead.

He then decided to hide himself from the view of man forever, and went into the woods and cliffs of Devil's creek. Since then he had never seen a human being until last night, when he was discovered by the coon hunters. He had subsisted on roots, bark, berries and game, and after he had worn all his clothing out he hardened himself to the cold by degrees, until finally it did not have any effect upon him.

BEES IN HIS PARLOR.

But Owner of the House Didn't Know It Until the Busy Insects Began to Sting Him.

For some time past bees have been annoying the family of James R. Clements, of Rochester, N. Y. Every day or so a bee would crawl out of the opening made for one of the sliding doors between the sitting-room and the parlor. Lazily poising itself, the bee would fly about the room until its career was cut short by a slap from the palm of Mr. Clements or somebody else in the house. But another bee would come forth to take the place of the slaughtered one.

It finally dawned upon Mr. Clements that he was keeping bees in his house. The discovery made no particular impression on him until the other day, when one of them stung him.

Hot water was thereupon procured and the spot whence the bees issued was deluged with it, but hot water was a failure so far as concerns the extermination of the bees. So were other devices for circumventing insect marauders in the homes of men.

While Mr. Clements was still hot upon the trail of the bees another member of the family came into contact with one of the small disturbers, and after a brief struggle, although the bee was destroyed, a couple of pieces of furniture were sacrificed and the happiness of the family was disturbed.

That night carpenters were sent for, and upon the day following there was a sound of loud hammering and ripping and tearing of wood. Mr. Clements, from another part of the house, directed the attack.

The workmen tore away a couple of partitions and then discovered that a whole swarm of bees had taken up its abode there. Many had perished, but still there was a large, active contingent, and they resisted the intrusion. But sweet were the fruits of victory.

"Honey! bushels of it!" shouted one of the carpenters, tearing into the room where Mr. Clements was sitting.

Further investigation, after the bees had been driven away, showed the presence of 30 pounds of delicious honey. It cost Mr. Clements $185 to put his house in repair.

NO BUSINESS DONE.

Life Insurance Man Meets a Bright Youngster and His Waterloo at the Same Time.

He was comparatively new at the business and had already found out that the life of an insurance agent is not all a bed of roses, but he was fully determined to make a good record in the small town he had selected for his operations. At one house his ring was answered by a comely young woman, who waited calmly for him to state his business.

"I HAVE NO HUSBAND."

"Is your husband insured, madam?" he began, in an ingratiating fashion.

"No," she responded.

"Indeed!" he answered, confident that he had found a bonanza. "Do you not think he should be insured?"

"No," with the same calmness.

This was a staggerer, but he promptly rallied.

"Why, madam, do you not think that he owes it as a sacred duty to you and his family that his life should be insured?"

"No; I do not."

"You do not! Will you please tell me why?"

"Certainly. I have no husband. Good morning." And the interview was closed.

Sad, But True.

Some people think they are entitled to a lot of praise for the things they don't do.

Final Scenes in the Long Career of President Kruger.

How the Pious Old Man Lives in the Little Town of Hilversum, Holland—His Spirit Not Crushed by Reverses.

The final scenes in the long and adventurous career of the ex-president of the South African republic, now on the point of absorption in the British dominion, are being enacted at a little town named Hilversum, in Holland. According to the latest advices, his end cannot be very far off, and one of the most remarkable men of the last century will disappear forever from the stage of human affairs. Mr. Kruger inhabits a small, two-storied house, known as Casa Cara, similar in every way to the residence of the wealthy Dutch merchants, and of the usual type of country houses in Holland. There are grounds surrounding the building in which the president spends a good portion of each day.

Hilversum is a town of about 28,000 inhabitants, and is half an hour's ride by rail from Amsterdam. It is a favorite country residence of the Dutch, being very healthful and quiet. Oom Paul rises early, according to his lifelong custom, takes a cup of black coffee the first thing in the morning, and when dressed repairs to the garden, where he remains as a rule, till half past nine. During this time he goes through his mail, which has previously been classified for him by his private secretary. He always takes with him on these occasions his two inseparable companions, a large pipe and a large old-fashioned Bible with large metal clasps.

Although he knows the sacred books almost by heart, especially those of the Old Testament, and can always quote an appropriate passage from the Bible suitable for any given emergency, yet he, nevertheless, reads his Bible every day under the shade of al arge tree in the pleasant grounds of the villa. At noon precisely, for Mr. Kruger is nothing if not methodical, he takes a cold luncheon with his party, which, as a rule, consists of his nephew, Mr. Eloff, who is also his private secretary, and Mr. Van Boschoeten, ex-chief of the Transvaal ministry; Messrs. Back van Ven and Breedel, who are in attendance on the aged ex-president. His faithful servitor, Happe, and a Belgian physician, Dr. Heymans, always accompany him. The latter has forbidden him the use of any wine or liquors, his only drink being mineral water. After luncheon Mr. Kruger takes a siesta, which lasts till four o'clock in the afternoon. He then goes for a drive in a carriage bearing the former arms and escutcheon of the Transvaal, and returns to the house by six o'clock. It pleases the old man greatly to observe the general respect which he meets with from all classes of the public, and even the children strike up the Boer national anthem, which every one knows in Holland, as he passes by. He takes supper at half past six, and retires invariably at eight p. m.

His undaunted spirit does not appear to be crushed by the reverses which have overtaken his beloved country, and from time to time he observes: "We are strong as ever we were; we can continue this fight right along, and will never admit defeat;" brave, but ill-considered expressions from the lips of this most remarkable old man whose name will undoubtedly drift down to the remotest posterity.

The Anointing of Kings.

The question as to whether King Edward should be anointed at his coronation and if so what form the ceremony would take is bringing to light some interesting stories as to the way in which the rite was formerly performed. Edward VI., the last of the former Edwards, had a difficult time, more difficult than that of Richard Crookback, who was stripped to the waist. Edward VI. lay prostrate on the altar while Archbishop Cranmer rubbed his back much in the same way as wives rubbed embrocation on the backs of rheumatic husbands. In former days the holy oil with which the king was anointed was suppposed to hedge him with divinity, so in those rough times it was natural that a king should hasten his coronation. Witches were forbidden to attend the ceremony.

Prussin Religious Service.

The Prussian prayer book enjoins that the whole of the service, including the sermon, shall not last above one hour.

In Warren township the entire Democratic ticket won, with the exception of the nominee for justice of the peace, John C. Cooper, Republican, winning that office. The straight Democratic majority was 23.

DECLARED INSANE.

John Marsh Examined by a Jury as to His Mental Condition.

For the purpose of having him formally declared insane, John Marsh, son of the late John R. Marsh, of Scotch Plains, was brought to this city, this morning, and examined by Drs. J. B. Probasco and F. W. Endicott before a twelve man jury at police headquarters. The jury gave a verdict to the effect that Marsh was mentally incapable of taking care of his property and that a guardian be appointed for him.

The action was taken for the purpose of settling the John R. Marsh estate of which the insane son is entitled to $51,000 of the personal property. Counsellor Robert M. Clark represented the estate. Marsh will be returned to the State Hospital at Morris Plains today.

NEW TRUST COMPANY.

Plainfield Trust Company Incorporated at Elizabeth This Morning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, March 12—The Plainfield Trust Company, organized to do a general banking and trust business, filed articles of incorporation in the office of the county clerk this morning. The capital stock is $100,000 divided into shares of $1,000 each. The incorporators are Orville T. Waring, of Plainfield; Henry A. McGee, Walter M. McGee, David K. Sutphen, Edwin S. Hooley, of North Plainfield; A. V. Heely, of Brooklyn; J. Donald Morrow, of Orange; E. A. Kimball and Walter C. Churchill, of Montclair. The company's offices will be located in Plainfield.

LEASED MILL.

Rogers Corporation Will Soon Occupy the Spicer & Hubbard Mill.

The Rogers Corporation, manufacturers of silverware, has leased the Spicer & Hubbard mill and work was started today fixing the place for an early occupancy. The corporation was burned out at the Babcock building. It is proposed to use the two floors at the mill and electric power will be substituted for steam. According to the plans for remodelling the mill the corporation will have a well equipped place and the insurance rates will be cheaper.

Death of Mrs. VanName.

Mrs. VanName, wife of Garrett VanName, of Park avenue, died yesterday at Huntington, L. I., where she had been living for some time past. She had been ill a long time. She leaves a husband and two married daughters, one living in Brooklyn and one on Long Island. The funeral and interment will be at Huntington.

B. W. Hand's Loss.

B. W. Hand received a check today through W. H. Abbott from the British-America Assurance Company, covering the total loss he suffered in the Babcock fire. The amount is said to be $450.

Funeral of Mrs. Stover.

The funeral services of Mrs. Geo. W. Stover will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Marconnier chapel, Oak Tree. Interment at Hillside cemetery.

SPENT MONEY; TOOK LIFE

POLISH MAN, AT NETHERWOOD FARM, SHOT HIMSELF YESTERDAY.

Had Spent Money Intended to Pay His Passage Home—Said He Was Tired of Life.

Because he spent the money intended to pay for his journey to his home in Poland, M. Marks, a Pole employed as a helper at the Netherwood Farm, on Mountain avenue, shot himself yesterday afternoon. From all appearances, he died instantly.

Marks had saved enough money to buy his return passage. So he gave up his position, Saturday and went to New York. There it is supposed he spent the money. He returned to Plainfield Monday and spent the night at the Somerset Hotel.

Late yesterday afternoon, an employe at the farm discovered his lifeless body stretched over a bed in one of the tenant houses. A thirty-eight calibre revolver on the floor, a hole in his left temple and a pool of blood told the tale. On a table lay this note: "I am tired of life and expect to end it here, M. Marks." Chief Marshall Campbell and Undertaker DeMott were notified. Subsequently Mr. DeMott notified the county physician at Millstone. The man was of fine physique. He was apparently twenty-eight years of age. It is said that he was well bred and was the master of eight languages. An effort will be made to notify his relatives.

APPEAL FOR AID.

Young Women's Club Lost Everything In the Fire—Needs New Equipment.

The Young Women's Club desires to make through these columns, an appeal to the public on account of the loss it has met with in the recent fire. The club rooms in the Babcock building were fully furnished with two book cases, well filled with books, a piano, music stand, also filled, couch, pillows, tables, chairs, desk, china closet, supplied with cups and saucers, tumblers, lemonade glasses, plates, spoons, etc., a very good stock of kitchen utensils, pictures, and a small gas stove. All these things were destroyed and as there was no insurance the club is quite without means of replacing them.

The rent of room is paid by annual subscriptions from people interested in the work, so that the matter of paying for new rooms is already settled, but the furnishing of such is quite another matter, and it is in this that the club asks assistance. All persons willing to contribute any of the above named articles or any others suitable for rooms of this kind are earnestly asked to do so. The giving of them will be heartily appreciated, and will do much good in helping the club to recover from its quite overwhelming loss.

The most important single article for the club to own is a piano which is unfortunately the most difficult to obtain. The entertainments which have done so much good and given so much pleasure in the past, seem well nigh impossible without music. It is quite certain that very good second hand instrument could be bought for $50. A small amount given by each of a large number of people would secure this at once, and the club asks contributions for this purpose from those interested in the work, who do not care to give in other ways.

The club has just passed one of its most successful winters. It numbers fifty members, all of whom are heartily interested in its work. There are classes in bookkeeping and physical culture and a course of lessons in dancing has just been finished. A class in shirt waist making and general sewing was forming at the time of the fire and will be started as soon as new quarters are secured and partly furnished.

The club feels that in appealing to the public it asks aid in a most worthy enterprise and one which will receive hearty support. All persons having articles of furniture, etc., to contribute are requested to notify the president of the club, Miss Olga Lockert, 46 Lincoln place, or Miss Viola Conklin, 825 First place. As soon as rooms are obtained such articles will be collected. All contributions of money may be sent direct to Miss Lockert or Miss Conklin and will be thankfully received.

Her Watch and Boarder Gone.

Mrs. Peter VanCleef, of Watchung avenue, complained to the police, this morning, that a boarder had suddenly gone from her home taking with him a gold watch belonging to her. She gave a description of the fellow and an effort will be made to locate him.

People Believe In It.

It has been cynically said that anything can be sold by advertising now-a-days. This is not so. Many liniments have been advertised but only one—Perry Davis' Painkiller—has stood the test of sixty years' use. Today its popularity is greater than ever and is based not upon what anybody says but upon what the remedy does. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

REV. R. SCHOONMAKER'S CASE

HIS SIDE EXPLAINED IN LETTER BY JAMES R. BLAKE.

Was Published in the New York Sun Shortly After the Trouble Occurred.

The trouble, which took place at the North Avenue station between Rev. R. D. Schoonmaker and an unknown Plainfield commuter a few days ago, was given considerable publicity in the New York newspapers. The Daily Press gave a brief but correct account of it at the time. A few days after an account of the trouble appeared in the New York Evening Sun. James R. Blake, of this city, wrote a letter to that newspaper stating the facts of the case. Those who have heard of it and are not acquainted with the true facts will be interested to read Mr. Blake's letter which is given in full here.

It is as follows:

"To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: Repeated notice of the occurrence on a Jersey Central train, wherein the Rev. Ralph Dazell Schoonmaker was unfortunately involved, demands a statement which will relieve the minds of all "Presbyterian gentlemen" of any misconception of the character of their representative in the foreign field.

"Mr. Schoonmaker entered the train with A. C. Beatty, an old friend whom he had not seen for years. Mr. Beatty requested him to hold a seat while he went forward to find his brother in another car, assuring Mr. Schoonmaker of his quick return. To inquiries Mr. Schoonmaker made the usual answer in such cases and no objection or complaint was heard except from the person comfortably seated opposite. To him Mr. Schoonmaker courteously explained the situation. After the train started and it became evident that Mr. Beatty was detained. Mr. Schoonmaker explained to the conductor who inquired and through him offered the seat to two gentlemen who were standing in the car at some distance. No lady was kept standing at any time.

"The abuse of the person opposite continued to Plainfield without active resentment from Mr. Schoonmaker. This self-restraint was mistaken for timidity and after both had left the train the unknown person struck Mr. Schoonmaker, who was encumbered with several large bundles, squarely in the face. Mr. Schoonmaker repelled this and subsequent attacks with an ability which makes his previous self-restraint all the more remarkable and cannot lower him in the opinion of any who know the nobility of his character and the self-sacrifice he is making for his fellow men.

"The criticism of 'A Presbyterian Gentleman' would in my opinion be entirely warranted had the more highly colored press reports been true, and I admit that Mr. Schoonmaker did exceed his legal right in holding a seat for anybody. Still, common courtesy acknowledges such a privilege where it does not directly inconvenience other passengers, especially ladies. The abuse of this courtesy is most reprehensible and the suggestion of such abuse in this case does Mr. Schoonmaker deep injustice.

"Mr. Beatty's self-acknowledged blame hardly enters into the discussion, but the unknown aggressor can, under the circumstances, receive little sympathy, especially in view of the cowardly method of his attack."

Nearly Tumbled Off Bridge.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, March 12.—While crossing the bridge spanning the B. and O's tracks near here, a trolley car, filled with passengers, jumped its tracks and came near tumbling over the ledge of the bridge. No damage was done beside giving the passengers a bad fright.

Settled for His Loss.

Edward Sebring has received settlement for the loss sustained on his furniture which was in his mother's building on West Front, adjoining the Babcock building. Falling walls crushed this structure. The amount of the policy was $1.200. W. A. Woodruff represented the insurance company.

Insurance Men in Conference.

The insurance agents, concerned in the settlement of the fire loss on Woodhull & Martin's stock, are holding a conference today. It is believed that the loss will be adjusted satisfactorily today.

SCORE YEARS OF SERVICE

E. E. ANTHONY RESIGNED AS SUPERINTENDENT OF SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

F. E. Smith to Fill His Place—At Trinity Reformed Sunday-School Meeting.

An important meeting of the Sunday-school teachers and officers of Trinity Reformed church was held, last evening, when several changes were made in the officers. E. E. Anthony, who has been superintendent between nineteen and twenty years, resigned on account of ill-health, and F. E. Smith, the assistant, was elected in his place. Horace J. Martin, Sr., was elected assistant superintendent.

On account of the resignations of Mrs. Archibald Derby and Miss L. Remsen as members of the library committee, Miss Sadie Searing and Miss Helen Bogert were elected in their place.

The report of H. E. Gayle, treasurer, showed the receipts for the past year to be $564 and the disbursements, $366. This leaves a balance of $196.98. A bill for $160 for library books will reduce the balance to $36.98. This bill came in after January 1.

Secretary E. H. Bird presented a verbal report, while Mrs. Scofield presented a report for the library committee. Mrs. J. M. Tier, as superintendent, reported for the primary department and Mrs. George Saums, superintendent, gave a report for the home department work. Every report was encouraging and showed progress.

A committee, consisting of Robert Clark, Jr., W. F. Oliver and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, was appointed to draft suitable resolutions regarding the retirement of E. E. Anthony after so long a service as superintendent, and they will be presented to him as a token of esteem.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

If kind expressions of sympathy could place the business of Woodhull & Martin back to where it was before the fire, such would have been done several days ago. The firm in its temporary quarters in the Schepflin building, is constantly receiving expressions of sympathy from the people of Plainfield. Everyone calling at the store has expressed his sympathy in the loss to the firm and declared his wish that business may soon be resumed.

The following suggestion from the Asbury Park Journal is pertinent in Plainfield:

"Property owners who have trees that were badly broken by the recent storm will adopt the wise policy if they trim off the spilt and broken limbs at once. This is the season of pruning, before the sap begins to run. If neglected till much later the torn and splintered limbs will bleed profusely and the vitality of the damaged trees will be still further reduced. This is the time to attend to the injured trees."

If people think that because there have been three snowfalls within thirty days, aggregating 18.4 inches, any records are being broken this winter, they are mistaken, says the New York Tribune. Even the head of the street cleaning department who had the job of getting rid of the 20.9 inches of snow that fell in the blizzard of 1888, did not have so much to worry him as did the man who superintended the shovelling of snow in 1893. In that year a total of seventy-seven inches fell—thirty-two of it in February and 20.3 in January. One of the February storms of that year only lacked 3.1 inches of the blizzard's record, and it fell within twenty-one hours.

The February of the following year—1894—was even worse. Before the twenty-eight days of that month had passed the streets had been encumbered with 37.9 inches. In one storm, which continued four days, twenty-one inches fell, and in another, on February 25 and 26, the amount of fall was 15.2 inches. The total fall for the year 1894 was fifty-six inches. In the "blizzard year" of 1888 only 47.9 inches fell. Last year Nagle had an easy time of it. Only 9.2 inches of snow was deposited in the entire year. Since January 1 this year thirty-one inches has come down. Of this 9.4 fell in January and 13.4 in February. The remainder fell last Wednesday. In November and December of last year 1.7 inches was the snowfall, making the total for the season 32.7 inches.

WARREN WILL LEAVE CENTRAL

Vice President C. H. Warren Has Tendered His Resignation and it Was Accepted.

WENTZ MAY GO TOO.

Said to be Result of Differences With President Baer—To Move Offices From New York to Philadelphia—Mr. Warren Has Been With Central for Five Years.

Authoritative announcement has just been made that Vice President Charles H. Warren, of the New Jersey Central, has resigned and will go to Europe for rest and recreation about the middle of April. When Mr. Warren came from the Great Northern Railroad to the New Jersey Central as assistant to the president, his term was for five years. This term will expire June 1 next, at which time his resignation takes effect.

Mr. Warren has been the actual working head of the New Jersey Central during the past five years. He completely reorganized the operating department and made many radical changes in the traffic deaprtment. His resignation has been accepted with words of regret. In view of the retirement of Mr. Warren, it is rumored that another official, General Superintendent W. W. Wentz, Jr., who came with Mr. Warren, will also retire from the road in a short time. Mr. Wentz is now in the south for his health.

The directors of the New Jersey Central have under consideration the removal of the executive offices from New York to Philadelphia. It is the purpose of President George F. Baer to combine the offices as the clerical forces of the New Jersey Central and the Philadelphia & Reading, as far as possible, for convenience as well as economy. It is believed that the change will be made this spring. It is reported that Mr. Warren's resignation is due to differences with President Baer about the removal of the offices. Mr. Baer has had to make a trip to New York every Tuesday to map out the work for the week. Besides taking a great deal of time this arrangement has been unsatisfactory, and it has been his desire to change the offices.

Mr. Warren, it is said, has opposed this and it was not until last Saturday, when matters of a most important nature had to be left undone because of the impossibility of getting at papers in New York, that Mr. Baer decided the offices should be removed despite Mr. Warren's protest. There is now no doubt but what the change will be made and it is said unofficially that First Vice President Voorhees, of the Reading, will assume the duties heretofore performed by Mr. Warren.

LOTS OF BUSINESS.

Constant Additions to Force at Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works.

Business at the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe works, which has been exceptionally brisk for some time past, continues to reach even greater proportions. The day employes are now working until 10 o'clock five evenings in the week and more men are being added daily. Last week ten new men were taken on and as soon as the improvements to the plant are completed, a much larger force will be added.

Hearing Adjourned.

The hearing in the contract case brought by Mrs. Anna Shaffer against Henry Moskowitz, which was sent for yesterday in Justice Mattison's court, has been adjourned until Friday afternoon, March 21.

To Choose Delegate.

The Journeyman Barber's Local Union will meet this evening to elect a delegate to attend the State convention to be held soon at Newark. A full attendance of members is desired.

Good Citizenship Talk.

F. H. Andrews will speak to the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church Monday evening on the subject of temperance and good citizenship.

Candidate Mustered In.

At the meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Monday evening, one candidate from Westfield was mustered into membership.

Three Candidates.

Freedom Castle, K. G. E., initiated three candidates at its meeting Tuesday evening.

Somerville Engine Company Wants to Have Horse to Rent Out.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 13—At the recent meeting of the Borad of Town Commissioners the Somerville Engine Company asked the privilege of being allowed to keep a horse and a man to care for same, it being the intention of the company to do carting to defray the expense. Heretofore, horses from a livery have been used when a fire alarm was sounded.

Should this request be granted by the committee to whom it was referred, three of the town's four fire companies will be in the carting business. This seems to be a favorite means of supporting a horse.

GOD'S LOVE LIKE A MOTHER'S

SUBJECT OF SERMON BY REV. MADISON C. PETERS LAST NIGHT.

Continuation of Evangelistic Services at the Park Avenue Baptist Church.

Interest in the evangelistic services at the Park Avenue Baptist church increases as the evenings of meetings pass. A large congregation was present again last night to hear Rev. Madison C. Peters, who made his first appearance at the services Monday evening.

A short service of praise preceded the regular meeting, and the singing was heartily joined into by the congregation. This part of the service was led by Rev. Mr. Richardson, the pastor. After prayers were offered Rev. Mr. Peters commenced his evening's address.

He selected for his text, Isaiah lxvi, 13: "As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you; and ye shall be comforted in Jerusalem." He declared that as God is the Father so is He the Mother of man. His sympathy and love for His children is as a mother's. It is undying love, such as a mother has for her child, not matter how wayward he may be.

Particularly in this connection he drew many illustrations of the great love a mother has for her child and likened this precious quality to that of God. A father, said he, may forget his child, but a mother never can.

So it is with God, who has the love of a mother for His children. He wants His child to come to Him.

To receive the fullness of God's love one must desire it. Before closing the speaker dwelt upon the accepted time for one seeking the Lord. He pictured the error in putting off this all essential duty until it is too late.

CUT HIS NOSE.

Harold Burk Injured in Collision With a Carriage Yesterday.

Harold Burk, the young son of Frank Burk, of East Front street, met with a painful accident, yesterday afternoon, while playing on East Second street.

Not noticing the approach of a vehicle he attempted to run across the thoroughfare when he collided with the turnout, which belonged to Mr. Peddie, of Westfield, and was driven by a colored man named Chas. R. Jones. The lad fell in front of a rear wheel and the bridge of his nose was cut by the step of the vehicle.

After being removed to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ross, of East Second street, a physician dressed his wound.

Meeting in New Quarters.

The April meeting of the Common Council will be held in the Council's new rooms in the Smalley building on North avenue. The rooms are now nearly ready for occupancy and the new furniture will be placed in the same within a short time.

To Get New Rooms.

J. Hervey Doane, Frank T. Ostrom and H. H. Coward comprise the committee appointed to secure new rooms for the Plainfield Camera Club. Several rooms are being considered and a selection will probably be made very soon.

To Open Bids.

The Councilmanic street committee will meet this evening and open bids for furnishing crushed stone to the city. The Council authorized recently the advertising for bids and many of them have been received.

Sunday-School Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the officers and teachers of the First Baptist church Sunday-school will be held this evening, when officers for the ensuing year will be chosen.

Evensong at St. Stephen's.

Evensong will be held at St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rev. W. V. Dawson, the new rector, will officiate.

HOW PLAINFIELD HAS SUFFERED FROM FIRE

Comparison of Last Week's Blaze With Those Which Have Occurred Previously.

HAD GREATEST LOSS.

LAST THURSDAY'S CONFLAGRATION WAS A RECORD BREAKER.

Will Take Some Time to Figure Up the Entire Loss to All the Interested Parties—About Fires of the Past.

According to all authentic records the conflagration at the Babcock building was the most destructive fire in the history of the Plainfield department. The loss at Thursday morning's blaze was greater by many thousand of dollars than any other recorded.

As yet it is impossible to get at the exact amount of the entire loss by the recent fire and it is likewise impossible to ascertain the total amount of insurance. Some insurance men claim that it will not reach the figures quoted at present so far as the loss is concerned. It is generally believed that the total loss will be $250,000, but a number of the insurance people are inclined to discount this figure.

The records of the fires in the past are far from complete, but some reliable information is at hand. One of the first big blazes was in 1868. This swept away a number of business buildings on the east side of West Front street near Park avenue. The loss was approximately $20,000. At that time Theodore French was chief of the fire department. Two years later, in 1870, the Schepflin block, at the corner of West Front and Grove streets, was devastated by flames. It is estimated that the loss was not less than $80,000. The amount of insurance on the structure and contents is unknown. Jeremiah VanWinkle was chief and T. O. Doane second assistant at that time.

Another big fire was that which destroyed all the buildings from what is now Campbell's store to Compton's alley on West Front street. It occurred in 1871. The amount of damage is not recorded. T. O. Doane was then first assistant, while William H. Voorhees was chief of the department. In the A. D. Cook & Brother lumber yard fire on Park avenue, in 1885, flames ate up $60,000 worth of property, while there was $50,000 insurance. In 1891, $40,000 was the amount of loss at the Boice, Runyon & Co., lumber yard fire. Only a few years ago, in 1898, the A. D. Thompson building on North avenue was destroyed and loss of $35,000 was entailed. As can be seen none of these conflagrations have approached anything like the loss incurred by the destructive fire of Thursday morning.

CENTURY IN JAPAN.

Considered by Foreign Missionary Society of First Baptist Church.

At the adjourned quarterly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, held yesterday afternoon in a Bible class room of the First Baptist church, the literary programme was in charge of Miss Laura Runyon.

The subject, "A Century in Japan" was considered in two papers, one of which, "The Peaceful Conquest of Japan by Commodore Perry" was prepared by Mrs. H. Cairns and read by her daughter, Miss Cairns. The other, "The Educational, Medical and Evangelistic Work in Japan" was given by Miss Margaret Case.

No Case Against Reinhart.

The twelve Princeton students who were arrested three weeks ago for painting the Trenton battle monument and numerous dwellings were arraigned Monday to plead to indictments to malicious mischief handed down by the Grand Jury. Among the six who pleaded not guilty was Frank O. Reinhart, of this city. The six cases were nolle pressed and discharged. The other six pleaded non vult, and were held in $1,500 bail each on fifteen indictments.

Loss on Building.

The fire loss on the Babcock building will probably be settled a week from Friday when the thirty-four companies carrying the risk will meet for that purpose. Tapscott & Hardingham are the local agents.

Young Women to Meet.

The annual meeting of the Young Woman's Mission Society of the First Baptist church will be held tomorrow afternoon. A full attendance is desired.

BOTH HOUSES PASSED BILLS

Busy Session of State Legislature Yesterday When Many Measures Were Considered.

SUNSET ELECTION LAW.

Has Been Introduced by Senator McCarter—Atlantic City Charter Bill Passed—Lots of Other Measures Went Through—Adjourned Until Monday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 13—Both houses of the State Legislature were in session all day yesterday and a large batch of bills of more or less importance was passed. A number of other measures were introduced. Of these, one of the most important was Senator Mc Carter's bill providing for the closing of the polls on election day at 5 o'clock. Of equal interest was the expected measure to provide new primary laws. The latter bill empowers the Governor to appoint a commission to draft a new primary law. The two houses then adjourned until Monday.

The Senate passed the Atlantic City Charter bill after Senator Lee had explained that the objectionable features in reference to Sunday liquor selling had been eliminated.

The most extended debate of the present session of the Legislature occurred in the House on Assemblyman Williams's bill to appropriate $250,000 for the location of a State Normal School in Essex county. Mr. Williams made an eloquent plea for the bill. Mr. Horner, the Republican leader, opposed the passage of the bill and suggested the whole matter be referred to a committee to make a complete investigation of the subject. Mr. Williams would not consent to refer it and the roll was called on final passage. The bill was defeated. Mr. Williams changed his vote from aye to nay, and will again bring up the matter.

Mr. Schumann, Democrat, Hudson, introduced a constitutional amendment empowering the Legislature to divide the State into Senatorial districts on the basis of population to take the place of the present system of electing one senator from each county.

During the morning session the House passed these bills: Providing for the purchase of land at Bordentown for an industrial school for colored boys; permitting Jersey City to erect more school-houses; empowering local boards of health to license dogs; permitting Jersey City to establish free medical dispensaries.

The House had a long session in the afternoon lasting until 7 o'clock. A large batch of bills was passed.

Mr. Holman's bill to abolish spring elections in townships, boroughs and towns was opposed by Mr. Horner, the Republican leader, as not being demanded by public sentiment. The bill was defeated eighteen to twenty-one.

Among the bills passed during the afternoon were:

Requiring non-residents to pay a fifty-cent gunning license; providing for two additional prosecutor's detectives in Hudson county; providing for a woman labor inspector; the Newark Firemen's pension bill; limiting the speed of motor vehicles to twenty miles an hour; providing for free public baths in Jersey City; allowing Jersey City to build a hospital; amending the Martin tax act by requiring the purchaser of property at a tax sale to give the owner within six months of the sale a notice to redeem the property; prohibiting printing on the American flag; the Newark and Trenton police pension bill; authorizing the construction of a speedway in Essex county; appropriating $100,000 for a New Jersey exhibit at the St Louis Exposition; establishing a State board for the licensing of stationary engineers; providing for an additional assistant inspector-general of the National Guard.

Mr. Tennant introduced a resolution for the appointment of a commission by the Governor to examine and report upon a system of jurisprudence for the State.

Mr. Bacheller introduced a bill authorizing Hudson and Essex counties to acquire bridges across Newark Bay owned by the Plank Road Company.

The Senate had a lively debate during the afternoon on Senator Reed's

PLANS TO CONTINUE OLD RIVER TUNNELS

New York and New Jersey Railroad Co. Has Completed Its Organization.

CONNECT WITH TROLLEY

WILL RUN CARS OF ITS OWN AS THE TROLLEY CARS ARE TOO LARGE.

Plans Made for the New Jersey Terminal of the Tunnels in Jersey City—Other Plans of the Company.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, March 13—Organization of the New York & New Jersey Railroad Company has been effected and a board of officers has been chosen. This line is to complete for trolley purposes the old Hudson river tunnel between the foot of Fifteenth street, this city, and Morton street, New York.

It is the intention of the corporation to finish the work on the tunnels under the North river which were begun by the Hudson Tunnel Railway Company and abandoned after what is known as the "North Tunnel" was completed for a distance of 3,920 feet and the "South Tunnel" for a distance of some 60 feet.

The New Jersey terminal will be in the block of this city bounded by Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Henderson and Provost streets, while the New York terminal will be the west half of the block bounded by Christopher, Tenth, Greenwich and Hudson streets.

Connection will be made at grade at these terminals with the cars of the Metropolitan Street Railway and the cars of the North Jersey Street Railway Company and the Jersey City, Hoboken and Paterson Street Railway Company.

The N. Y. and N. J. Company will complete first the "North Tunnel," 1,580 feet of which remain to be built. The cars will be of special construction, since the ordinary street cars are too large to be operated in the tunnel. The tunnel cars will have the roof overhang cut off, but they will be of standard guage.

The North Jersey Street Railway Co.'s cars and the cars of the Jersey City, Hoboken and Paterson Street Railway Company will approach the Jersey City end of the tunnel, via Grove street, and then run over to the foot of Fifteenth street, where the passengers will be transferred to the trolley cars of the tunnel.

The North Jersey and the White Line cars will not run through the tunnel because these cars are too high and large for the bore. Later on a larger tunnel capable of accommodating the trolley cars of New Jersey and New York will probably be built, and then through traffic, without change, will be possible.

CHILD-LORE.

Special Field of Miss Marguerite Smith, a Clever Entertainer.

The Mendelssohn Quartette Company, that will appear in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course Monday night, is supplemented this season by Miss Marguerite Smith, of the "Famous Smith Sisters." In her special field of childlore she stands alone, the acknowledged queen of this realm. The interpretation of the wondrous and quaint thoughts and quainter speeches of childhood is the unique invention for Miss Smith's wonderful genius, and, in this, she stands without a challenge for rivalry. The children themselves were her teacher, their untrammeled ways her school, and she is the faithful mirror of them all.

With a charming stage presence, expressive face, a voice which has in it the subtle magnetism which in the orator is called eloquence, she is capable of the stronger dramatic roles, but the demands of her audiences for her own specialty are so insistent, that she confines herself to the children whom Riley and Field have made so much beloved.

In the rich setting which the inspiring music of the Mendelssohns gives, Miss Smith's readings and impersonations form a brilliant of exceptional purity and merit.

Lenten Services.

Rev. C. L. Cooder will make an address at the services at Grace Episcopal church at 8 o'clock this evening. There will also be special preaching at the services at the Church of the Holy Cross, the hour there being 7:45. Rev. Harris C. Rush, the new rector at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will officiate.

INVESTIGATING RECORD.

Meanwhile Chas. Johnson, Colored, is Locked Up in Jail.

Charged with a serious offense, Charles Johnson, a negro, is locked up in the borough jail, while Recorder Thomas Doud is investigating his police court record. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by Chief Marshal William Campbell and was given a hearing last evening.

It appears that the man has answered to the same charge before. In the city police court sentence was suspended when he was given a hearing several months ago for the offense. At another time he was brought before the authorities at New Brunswick. Recorder Doud will dispose of the case this evening.
